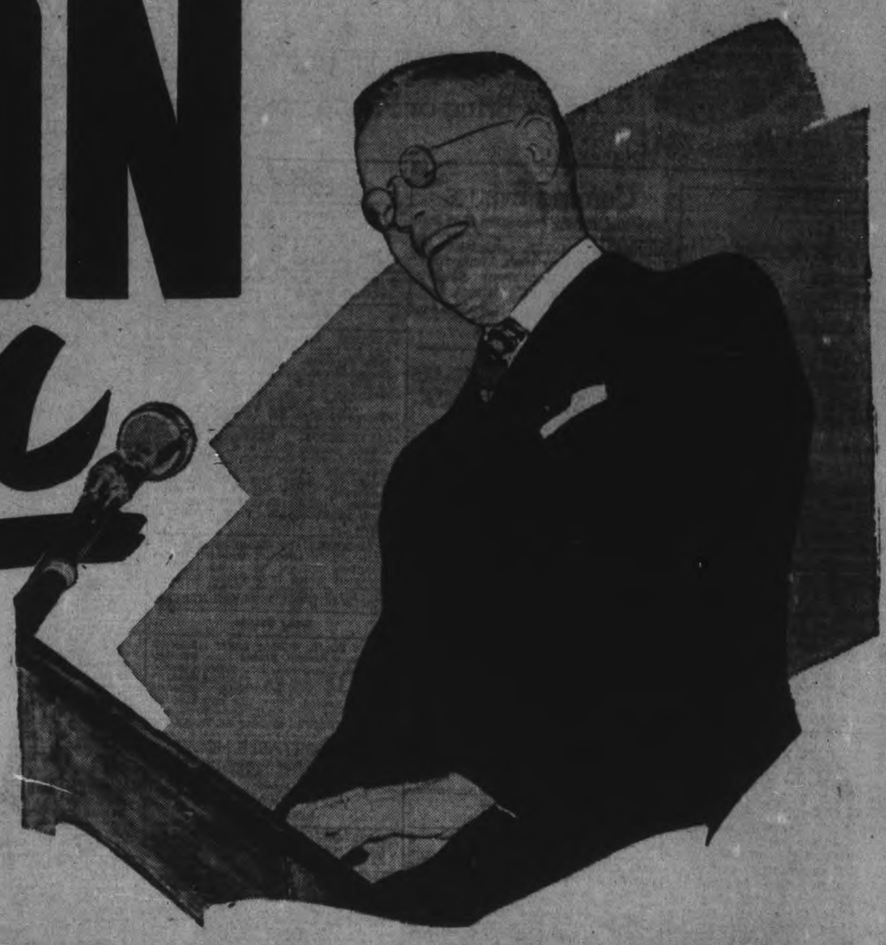
London's luxury hotels are giving reduced rates to soldiers who marry on short leave and dozens of rooms are being used as honeymoon suites.

MANION the Man



"I say this to Canada. Now is the time to think, to plan, to work, to fight as a united Country. Only in true Unity can we win in the great trial that lies ahead of us. I pledge myself to serve without fear or favour, without thought of political prestige or power in the great cause of Canadian freedom and progress!"

R. J. Manion

In three short weeks many thousands of Canadians have seen and heard Doctor Manion. Enthusiasm has grown into a veritable avalanche of praise For here is a MAN worthy of leading a truly National Government.

Born in Canada 58 years ago, Doctor Manion made his own way through life. He gained his experience in the "school of hard knocks"—then graduated from Toronto, Glasgow, and Edinburgh as a brilliant surgeon—a gold medallist.

In 1917—twenty-three years ago—he was elected to Parliament. As Minister of Soldiers Civil Re-establishment, as Post-Master General, as Minister of Railways and Canals he served his Country with distinction. His vigour, his executive capacity coupled with the ability to choose the right man for the right job, gained for him the respect and recognition of leaders both in Parliament and in the business life of Canada.

"My Hon. Friend brings to the two positions which he now holds personal attainments and professional achievements of a high order, a wide and quite exceptional parliamentary experience and, also, in other ways, a long and intimate association with the public life of our country."

Here is what Doctor Manion said when addressing 16,000 voters in Toronto Monday night last—the largest gathering ever assembled in Canada for a political meeting:

"The greatest man Canada ever had in public life was Sir John A. MacDonald. I hope I may claim to possess some of his combination of qualities which would enable me to lead Canada as he did. Canada was formed by the union of great men, Conservatives like MacDonald, Cartier, Tupper, McGee; Liberals like Brown and Mowat. I am leading the National Conservative Party today in accordance with the best traditions of that Party. I am placing Country first and Party second. I am serving our Nation and our Empire. I am rising in a time of emergency above petty political ambitions. Our Party will emerge united and unashamed!"

A Progressive Policy for War and Peace, National Government Stands for . . .

A united and aggressive War effort, in tune with the realities of the situation.

A full mobilization of Canada's material resources, with War materials produced and purchased in Canada as far as possible.

Total elimination of political preferment, patronage and favoritism in appointments and in the awarding of War and all other contracts.

Stamping out of profiteering, extravagance and exploitation of all kinds.

Full co-operation with Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and our Allies in a vigorous, comprehensive Commonwealth air training plan to defeat our enemies.

Co-ordination of the work of all War Boards.

A Minister of Youth Welfare. "There must be no more boys wandering over the country like vagabonds."

A labor man as Minister of Labor.

A Livestock Board made up of Livestock men.

Marketing Boards in co-operation with the provinces and expansion of distributing agencies overseas.

Canadian Farm Loan Board to function properly.

Abolition of the $2.50 radio license fee—a "nuisance tax".

"National Government — or Liberal Party — Which Does Canada Want?"

"Either the people of Canada want a Government composed of the best of Canada's manpower; or they want a straight Liberal party administration which will continue to obstruct the national effort with indecision, delay, incompetence, trickery, patronage and favoritism.

"I will get the best brains and ability in Canada to assist in the direction of a National Government.

"I will set up a War Council within the Cabinet charged with the responsibility of winning the War.

"I am against conscription. I am against railway amalgamation. I am campaigning for a National Government for one reason only—that a Nation at War needs a National Government!"

Cabinet Timber Aplenty

SPEAKERS at election times are given to the making of statements more or less extravagant. They must attract attention if they are to be effective. So, superlatives are part of their stock-in-trade. But between superlatives and absurdities there is quite a gulf.

Among the absurdities which have been given currency by the Liberal speakers, the Prime Minister among them, since the campaign opened is the insinuation that Dr. Manion, if returned to power on March 26, will not be able to form a cabinet of capable men.

Now, it is quite legitimate for the government orators, in their campaign speeches, to belittle the abilities of the leader of the opposition and his lieutenants. They may say if they will, that the King government is the best government the country can get and that no government which Dr. Manion may form can approach it in ability, experience or efficiency. But to say, as has been said repeatedly, that Dr. Manion can not form a government at all, or that if he does form one it will have to be composed of nonentities, is simply talking nonsense.

The King government has men of ability in it. No one questions that. But it does not contain all the ability, all the administrative experience, all the patriotism in the country.

After all, there are only sixteen men in the government, and there are eleven million other people in the country. Mr. King pays the people of Canada outside his cabinet but a poor compliment when he suggests that they are barren and bankrupt and incapable of rising to a great occasion.

Dr. Manion apparently thinks much more highly of them, for he is confident of finding somewhere in their ranks plenty of good cabinet timber. Perhaps he might find some of it among those Liberals whose abilities Mr. King has not yet recognized.

CHAPTER XXVII

The months rolled on swiftly. Janis found her work with Mary Black congenial and at times thrilling. Between pictures Mary continued her smart dinner parties at Bridgecliff and, not only did Janis assist in arranging them, but she also was always included as one of the guests.

Stephen was usually expected, and, even if too busy to dine with the company, generally put in an appearance some time later in the evening. Janis found herself anticipating his entrance, chided herself for it, and was low-spirited when he paid courteous attention to the attractive girls and women who flocked around him.

Roul Smith was persistent, and sent Janis dozens of orchids, gardenias and camellias until she was moved to invent a sort of preventive in the way of a very jealous husband hanging around in the background. Roul, however, came back at her with: 'But you let Steve Black trail you around."

What Will the Future Bring?

She thought she extricated herself from this rather nicely by explaining that Dr. Black was Mary's escort, that she never went out with him alone. Then she wondered if he had taken Mary out quite as often to operas, concerts, lectures and motion-picture premieres before she came to live with them. She wondered if Mary had formerly refused so many invitations to go out with the scores of men who longed to be seen with her. It seemed almost as if many times she accompanied her secretary and Stephen in the capacity of chaperon.

Was this done at Stephen's request? In order to prevent gossip?

Janis pulled herself up short for allowing her thoughts to stray in this wrong direction. She assured herself firmly that Stephen Black's interest was purely platonic. But Roul Smith had started an annoying train of thought. Were people discussing her probable position in this home, would it reflect discredit upon Stephen?

She seriously considered going away somewhere, but she knew of no place where she could be certain of the same kind of security she had here, and security was precious just now. It wasn't herself she was thinking of so much, either.

So Janis remained at Bridgecliff, sheltered by Mary's deep affection and her brother's judicious medical eyes, which so often rested on Janis with a sweet gentle devotion that tore at her heartstrings while simultaneously making them sing.

She was nearly as happy as she had ever been in her life, but she knew it could not continue for long. Within a short while she would be leaving this home. Where she would go, what she would do, she did not know, dared not ask herself too often.

In December Janis daughter was born in the hospital. She was named Mary Jane after Mary Black, who now insisted that mother and child be brought to Bridgecliff. A nurse was obtained for Mary Jane, and within a few weeks Janis was to resume her position as Mary Black's secretary. This was far more than Janis had dared to expect, and she was overcome with relief and gratitude.

Happiness Rules Her

But Janis and her baby daughter had scarcely settled into the routine of daily living out in Bridgecliff when Mary announced that she was leaving for Nebraska on location. The running of the house in her absence, her mail, all other details would be turned over to Janis. Stephen was to stay at his club in town because, he carefully explained, he had several critical hospital cases and must be within call. But Janis was not deceived. It was only to shield her from possible criticism that he was remaining away from the home he loved. Even a houseful of servants could not properly chaperon them in the eyes of gossip columnists, so eager to print anything about the famous Mary or her family.

After a week of living at Bridgecliff under these conditions, amusing herself by watching her plump little daughter's rapid development, attending to the absent Mary's correspondence and reveling in the beauty of the gardens, Janis felt nearly happy. She particularly loved the varicolored Winter roses hanging from trellis and arbor, fluanting their exquisite heads from bushes and small stiff trees by the swimming pool. She cut great armfuls of them herself, despite the gardener's apprehensive supervision. She filled the house with them, making the rooms fragrant and cheery to match the contentment in her heart.

The sun was warm and bright these days, and Mary Jane was thriving under it hours at a stretch, attended by her faithful middle-aged nurse, Nettie Briggs, whom Janis had been fortunate to acquire. With the care of the baby in such efficient hands it was not difficult for Janis to grow rapidly strong again, both in mind and body.

She had heard nothing from Rock since his unsatisfactory telegram of so long ago. She often wondered what had become of him, and was annoyed by the conviction that, for the babys sake, she should get in touch with him. If a man knew he was actually a father, wouldn't it change his viewpoint? But New York City was a big place. Furthermore, she had no money to waste on trailing a man who didn't wish to be trailed. She was putting money in the bank now, as assurance against Mary Jane's future. She might not be able to remain here at Brdigecliff forever. Mary Black, upon her return, might find it disturbing on occasion to have an infant in this home; even in a forty-room house a crying child could be heard. And Mary Jane cried far less than most babies, being blessed as she was with a sunny disposition.

Stephen Comes

One afternoon Janis was sitting beneath a huge pepper tree on the terrace beside a playing fountain. The weather was hot. Today the thermometer registered 90, a record even for a California December. She was trying to ponder this matter of her future, a little weary after going through an unusually heavy stack of Mary's fan mail.

She started at the sound of familiar footsteps behind her. Unconsciously, her face took on lively animation and her cheeks high color as she turned her head.

"Oh, it's you, Dr. Black! This is nice! Sit down and tell me how the patients are progressing."

"Why not talk about pleasant things," he said, dropping beside her on the stone bench. His eyes swept swiftly over her. There was a mixture of worship, humility, a shade of longing in their grey depths. "My—you're looking fit," he said gravely. "Fit—and lovely."

She tore her gaze from his, transferred it to her locked hands in the lap of her pink dimity dress. Her bosom rose and fell in trepidation.

He busied himself with lighting a cigar, asked levity, "How's Mary Jane?"

"Are you really asking? You haven't been around in so long, I thought you'd forgotten us."

That night came to her mind when he had seen her on the patio with Roul Smith, as it had so many times since, when she couldn't find courage to mention it.

"There's something, doctor, I've wanted to speak about it for weeks. One night, when there was a dinner party, Roul Smith——"

"I know. You gave him what he deserved. I enjoyed it thoroughly." He laughed as if he were really amused.

"Then you saw——"

"Yes, I saw the whole incident. But I hope you don't think I was doing a bit of spying. I happend to——"

"Of course." She was beaming now. "You don't know how relieved I am I didn't want you to think—think that I——" For some inexplicable reason she could not go on.

He crossed one long blue-clad leg over the other. She thought irrelevantly, "Whyq is it blue serge is becoming to most men?"

He said slowly: "I've never thought anything but good about you, Janis. You have all the virtues a good woman should—and any more. I shall always trust you. To me, you're something special—brave and honest and ——"

Dark Shadows Again

He tossed his cigar to the ground. "Oh, my dear, how long must this sort of thing continue?" The question seemed wrung from the depths of his soul.

"You mean—mean my husband?" came from her unsteadily.

"Yes." He laid an arm across the back of the bench, leaned expectantly toward her.

"I—I don't know—Stephen," she told him, her eyes downcast, her face working pitifully.

"But—does it have to be this way—can't we do something about it? When a man goes away—you've heard nothing in months——" He got up, began pacing the flagstones, hands deep in coat pockets.

Janis' heart was out of control. She studied his strong profile, the high forehead, his resolute boyish chin, his brown hair, heavy and straight, the broad line of his fine physique and knew that she loved him, that she would always love him.

"Stephen" She jumped up beside him, laid a hand gently on his arm. "Stephen, dear—I——"

"Good afternoon!" came a voice from behind. Something froze within Janis. Her hand fell limply to her side. She knew without looking whose voice she had heard.

She wheeled tautly. She gave one look at Rock Conover's sardonically handsome face and faintly ejaculated, "Why—you!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

GETTING OFF CHEAPLY

SOME HANDS are of such a borderline nature that you hate to pass them, especially in third-hand position, yet fear you may get into trouble if you bid them. This is true especially of those containing two suits, but barely enough honor strength to justify bidding at all. Your prime purpose with these should generally be to show your partner both suits, hoping one will fit him, but to do it the cheapest possible way, forcing the bidding a bit other than necessary. To do this, you should be willing to forego any effort to present an exact picture as to the length of the suits.

1. ♠AQ832 ♥KQ432 ♦32 ♣32
2. ♠AQ432 ♥KJ9432 ♦2 ♣2
3. ♠AQ832 ♥32 ♦KQ832 ♣432
4. ♠AQ832 ♥432 ♦KQ83 ♣32
5. ♠432 ♥AQ832 ♦32 ♣KQ32
6. ♠32 ♥AQ832 ♦432 ♣KQ32

If you open such doubtful hands, as you are most likely to do in third or fourth-hand positions, after your partner has passed, and will sometimes do against weak opponents in the first two positions, your job is easy if you have "touching" suits, such as spades and hearts, hearts and diamonds or diamonds and clubs. Bid the higher-ranking one first, even if it is one card shorter, so that when you show the other at two, your partner may choose without getting you to three.

There is also no difficulty if you have spades and clubs; bid the clubs first and then, if your partner answers with diamonds or hearts, bid your spades.

With two such suits which are neither adjoining nor farthest apart, your problem is harder, unless you know what many experts have learned. Since your partner's most frequent response will be in your shortest suit, open with the suit immediately below it. Thus, on Nos. 1 and 2 bid 1-Spade; on No. 3, 1-Diamond; on No. 4, 1-Spade; on No. 5, 1-Club; on No. 6, 1-Heart. You will gain by that choice much oftener than you will lose.

This Senator, who asked that his name be withheld, said that Cromwell, soon after resigning, probably would announce his candidacy for the Democratic Senatorial nomination in New Jersey.

New Air Motor Is World's Most Efficient

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP).—Development of the world's most efficient aircraft engine, which produces a horsepower for approximately every pound of its weight, was announced today by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, of Paterson, N.J., one of the United States' pioneer airplane motor manufacturers.

Just licensed by the United States Government, the engine is rated at 1,200 horsepower for take-off.

The significance of the announcement lies in the fact that engineers the world over have been striving for years to fashion motors of extremely light weight for both commercial and military use.

Each time a bombing plane leaves on a mission in Europe, its pilots must estimate its flying time in terms of weight, gasoline consumption, distance to the objective, and bomb load.

Arthur Nutt of the Wright organization said the rating of the new engine is 100 horsepower more than is developed by any other United States-manufactured air cooled engine of nine-cylinder construction. The efficiency of the engine was disclosed by the fact that Europe has no air-cooled motor of equal horsepower, and no other American-made aircraft engine can compare with it for horsepower-per-pound.

The new engine, with cylinders finished to an accuracy of two-millionths of an inch, has been installed in a number of military planes. The first commercial application will be in a fleet of 21-passenger transports now being built for a mid-western airline.

British Fighter Falls In Flames On Dutch Soil

AMSTERDAM, March 25—(AP).—A Royal Air Force pursuit plane crashed in flames on Netherlands soil yesterday after an aerial battle between German and British fliers above the German frontier.

The plane fell in a marsh about a mile west of Lobith, where the Rhine enters Holland. Netherlands soldiers, because of the nature of the terrain, were unable to reach the wreckage immediately.

It was presumed, however, that all members of the crew were killed.

Witnesses said the battle started when four British planes, flying rather low, were attacked by six or seven German craft. They were uncertain whether the fighting began over German or Netherlands territory.

The British planes quickly climbed to about 20,000 feet and three of them streaked off in a northwesterly direction and disappeared.

Accounts differ as to how many German planes attacked the lone British plane which was brought down. Two German craft, however, were seen to drop a smoke curtain, and a big Nazi plane was believed to have scored a direct hit with a small cannon.

A communique, issued later by the Government press service, said the fight took place "over German territory near the Netherlands border between a British plane and one or more German planes."

"The British plane apparently tried to make a forced landing," the communique said, "and came down in inundated land on Netherlands territory near Kruisdijk (about a mile northwest of Lobith). The plane imbedded itself deeply, making recovery of the wreckage difficult. It is believed the crew perished as they were not seen to use parachutes."

Mrs. Seaton Is Hostess To Millbrook W.M.S.

MILLBROOK, March 25—(ENS).—Mrs. Z. Seaton was hostess for the March meeting of the W.M.S. of Grace Presbyterian Church, which met at her home, Tupper Street, on Wednesday at 3 p.m., the chair being taken by Mrs. Seaton, in the absence, through injury following a fall in her own home, of the president, Mrs. A. Raeburn Gibson.

Opening with a hymn, Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke read the lesson, and the minister, Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson, closed this period with prayer.

Mr. Gibson also gave the talk on "The Meaning of Easter," the deeply spiritual message, including the method by which Easter Sunday is annually determined, and since the secretary, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, was unable to be at the meeting owing to the heavy snowstorm and the blocking of roads from the country, the usual business section was dispensed with, and the gathering closed with a hymn, and prayer by the minister.

Holy Week Service.

The attendance on Wednesday was particularly good in view of the day's continuous and heavy storm, and the blocked state of the roads, the minister, Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson, presiding. Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A., led in the prayers, and the address on "The Compass of the Cross," was given by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D. Mrs. Gordon Muspratt presided at the organ.

MILLBROOK, March 25—(ENS).—A number of citizens gathered at the Town Hall on Wednesday at 8 p.m., to do honor to Lloyd Peel, enlisted in the Lindsay battery, and now home on his final fourteen days' leave. The chair was taken by Percy Stinson, who spoke appreciatively of Lloyd's prompt offering of himself for service, when war broke out, giving up his job of drawing His Majesty's mail to and from the daily trains.

After the guest of honor had been seated on the platform, an address was read by P. I. Bentley, and the presentation of a handsome gold wrist watch was made by Maurice Finn. Taken by surprise, Lloyd made suitable acknowledgment.

Major L. J. Stuart spoke briefly, paying tribute not only to the boys who have enlisted in this present world struggle, but also to those who, like himself, had served in the first World War.

British Labor Shies Off Chamberlain

Deny Party Sounded On Joining Coalition Cabinet

LONDON, March 26—(CP). — The political correspondent of the Daily Herald, Britain's principal Labor newspaper, today discredited reports that Prime Minister Chamberlain recently discussed a possible Coalition Government with Labor Party leaders.

He wrote:

"Persistent rumors that Mr. Chamberlain has approached the Labor opposition with an invitation to join a reconstructed government of national unity yesterday brought to a head widespread speculation regarding proposals for strengthening the Ministry.

"These rumors (published yesterday by the London Star) bear little relation to the facts.

"I can state with authority that the Prime Minister has not put any such proposal before the Labor Party leaders.

"Nor is there so far any reliable indication that he desires or intends to do so.

"If he does, it will be found, although the Opposition is as determined as ever to play its part in the war, that there has been little if any lessening of the unanimous feeling in the Labor Party's ranks against participation in a government led by Chamberlain.

"Moreover, Labor leaders who cannot lightly dismiss any serious proposals for association with the Government, if they are made, must, in considering them, always have in mind the fact that such an arrangement would bring strong opposition from large sections of the Canadian Troops In England Vote "In Absentia"

Members of the Canadian Active Service Force now on duty in England are also having their chance to vote in the Federal election. Ballots are being sent in from each unit to make known the troops' verdict in the general election. Each ballot received is "clocked" as shown here before being placed in a box of the voter's district for shipment to Canada.

5 Million Votes Expected Across Canada

OTTAWA, March 26 — (CP). — Quiet came to the hustings today after seven weeks of strenuous oratory and perhaps 5,000,000 civilian voters trooped to the polls in a war-time general election to name 244 members to parliament for five years. Polls opened at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., local time.

The vote will determine whether Canada's war effort will be continued by the Liberal Government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, seeking re-election, or be undertaken by a promised National Government led by Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader.

Of the 669 candidates in the field, 239 are Liberal supporters of the Prime Minister, four times leader of the Government at Ottawa and for 20 years party leader. Dr. Manion, leading his party for the first time in an election, has 212 followers.

One contest was suddenly called off last night when Willie Poisson,

Belgians Build Nazi Tank Cars Under Pressure

BRUSSELS, Mar. 26 — (AP). — Two Belgian firms were reported today to have accepted orders to build 1,000 tank cars for Germany under pressure by the Belgian Government, anxious to protect its neutrality.

Railway construction circles said the two firms at first refused the orders, despite their liberal terms, because of fears that Great Britain and France would strike back by placing the forms on their black lists. British and French orders normally far outnumber those from the Reich.

A Foreign Office spokesman said that the government had approved the transaction, since under existing trade pacts France and Great Britain have agreed to apply no sanctions if trade with Germany in certain products is maintained at prewar levels.

It was reported, but not confirmed, that Germany's refusal to ship coke to Belgium this winter was connected with the Belgian manufacturers' reluctance to fill the German order for tank cars.

Latest U.S. Model Warplanes Open To Allies

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) —The United States army and navy stood aside today to give Britain and France virtually unhindered access to the latest models of American warplanes. Officials emphasized that no secret military devices would be supplied with the planes.

The two services formally agreed yesterday on the new export policy, acting on the belief that United States national defence would best be served by the consequent expansion of the aircraft industry and by the rigorous testing which American-developed ships will receive in Europe's aerial war. Barring congressional interference, officials said that the new policy forecast these immediate results:—

1. Release to the Allies of some 600 planes now under construction for the army or navy.

2. Acceleration in the placing of an expected $1,000,000,000 in Franco-British aircraft orders.

Secretary of War Harry Woodring is expected to submit a detailed exposition of the new army-

Nazi Coal Rolls Through Brenner Pass

BRUSSELS, Mar. 26—(CP-Havas) —The Berlin correspondent of the Vingtieme Siecle reported to-day that German coal trains have started rolling through the Brenner Pass into Italy, with Nazi trade experts predicting that 9,000,000 tons will be delivered by next October.

According to the despatch, the coal is shipped by waterway to Mannheim, on the Rhine, where it is transferred to railway gondolas. The agreement under which Britain recently released Italian colliers subject to contraband control stipulated that Italy was to attempt no deliveries of German coal by sea.

"According to experts," the newspaper's correspondent said, "9,000,000 tons will be delivered by October and an average of one carload will pass the frontier every 20 seconds. Such a solution will cost the Germans millions, but in a total war money does not seem to matter to the Reich's leaders."

Maurentia Goes Through Panama

CRISTOBAL, C.Z., March 26 — (AP).—The liner Mauretania, bent on a secret war mission, went through the Panama Canal to the Pacific Ocean today, beginning passage through the waterway at 9.45 a.m., EST.

The 35,739-ton Mauretania reached here last night, dark except for her running lights, after a voyage from New York where she left last Wednesday under sealed orders.

Last Thursday the 31,235-ton Queen Mary followed the Mauretania out of New York, also on a secret mission. Both ships were believed to be heading for Australia to serve as troop ships. The Queen Mary, because of her size, would be unable to pass through the canal.

West China's Food Bins Overflow While Jap-Held East Is Starving

SHANGHAI, March 26—(AP). — The cumulative effects of nearly three years of war and one of the worst floods in North China history are claiming a heavy toll in starvation and suffering throughout Japanese-controlled China.

Two successive bumper crops in West and Southwest China have piled up more food than can be eaten or stored in areas under Chiang Kai-Shek's control, but the surplus cannot help the hungry in East China because transport and distribution facilities are lacking. Chiang's government, moreover, forbids commerce between "free" and Japanese-occupied China.

Natural and man-made factors have contributed to the present situation. The war has devastated and partly depopulated large areas, have curtailed production, as a gesture of non-co-operation with the invaders and as a protest against being paid in the Japanese army's fiat currency.

Hopei Province, in which Peiping and Tientsin are situated, is suffering from floods which not only destroyed last summer's wheat but also prevented winter planting. War and flood have so reduced live stock supplies that donkey, camel and even dog meat are sold in Peiping markets.

Crops in neighboring Shantung Province were scorched in the sun of a rainless summer. Shansi, to the west, also suffered from drought and produced only 50 per cent. of its normal yield.

Powerful Rome Press Lauds British Army As Greater Machine Than In Days Of 1914

ROME, March 26—(CP-Havas). —The authoritative Fascist newspaper Popolo Di Roma paid tribute today to the present and potential future strength of the British army.

It said "The power of the British army in the intial period of the conflict is undoubtedly a great deal stronger than it was in 1914.

"Furthermore we do not intend to deceive ourselves by saying that its maximum numerical strength, including troops coming from the Dominions, will reach a war footing only after four years, as was the case in 1914.

"It clearly appears that the British army has evolved in the sense of a quality army, extensively supplied with arms and mechanical means, reinforced by vast industrial machinery and by the enormous raw material resources at its disposal."

County Roads All Blocked Election Day

Roads Are "Plugged" Survey Reveals Highways Alone Open

Every county and township road in all Otonabee Township is "plugged tight" today, according to Ambrose Doris, township road superintendent. His statement gave indication that scarcely a road in all the county will be open to traffic during the voting period, for Otonabee township is noted in this district for having the best winter-kept roads. The fact that they are all completely closed leads to the belief that all county voters will have a difficult, indeed an almost impossible, task reaching polls today.

Ploughs Out All Day

"We had the ploughs out all day yesterday, and two hours after we had opened roads they were as completely filled as though we had not been at work," Mr. Doris declared this morning. Today not a plough will be put to work and voting will be next to impossible for the great majority of country dwellers. "There's no use taking the ploughs out today in view of our experience of the past few days," Mr. Doris declared. "It's all right up until about 11 o'clock in the morning and then a wind comes up and blows the whole thing back in."

Progress Is Slow

County ploughs have been working overtime in a vain attempt to open roads on voting day, declared Miss Jennie Batten, Peterborough county clerk. "But we're making very slow progress indeed," she admitted. She said that only a very few roads in all the county are open —that even the Warsaw road, one

French Riflemen Pick Off 3 Propagandists

PARIS, March 26—(AP).—French sharpshooters killed three German troopers who hoisted an anti-British poster in a small boat near the German shore of the Rhine, French military sources reported today.

The incident, described as occurring yesterday, was said to have touched off an exchange of machine-gun fire from both sides of the river, along which propaganda from loudspeakers has been heard more than rifle fire.

The French military also reported that one of their advance posts south of the Warndt Forest had repulsed a German attack and that artillery on both sides was active west of the Saar River and in the Vosges Mountains.

German airplanes continued scouting over Eastern and Northern France while the French made reconnaissance flights deep into Germany.

The high command's morning communique said merely:

"One of our outposts repelled a local attack in the region south of the Warndt Forest. Aviation activity continued during the night."

Break In Weather Comes Late To Aid Farm Vote

TORONTO, March 26 — (CP). — Generally light voting in some snowbound sections was indicated today as citizens of Canada exercised their Dominion franchise in thousands of polling booths. For the most part, however, balloting was "average to heavy" in urban sections.

Snow - blocked secondary roads throughout Eastern Canada and rain on the Pacific coast lessened the volume in morning voting. Hundreds of would-be voters were forced to remain indoors because of 10-foot drifts that obliterated roads, defied efforts of government plows to open lanes, and prevented traffic of any kind.

Whitby Area Hard Hit.

Last night's snowless blizzard caused by high winds which drifted snow over highways, railroad tracks and roads seriously interfered with transportation schedules in the Toronto district. Most main roads were open today, but sideroads still were impassable.

Two trains were snowbound for seven hours each within 30 miles of Toronto during the night, their passengers finally arriving here early this morning. Bus schedules were running four hours behind on the average. One bus caught in a drift 13 miles north of Whitby, which is 25 miles east of here, was stalled for nine hours.

Highlights of Storm.

Some of the highlights of the storm picture:

Dufferin County: The worst storm in two years marooned scores of cars and isolated Orangeville and other points from the outside world.

London: A snowplow was derailed on the C.N.R. right-of-way and the regular train was unable to reach Wingham. Western Ontario voting will be cut by 50 per cent.

Orillia: The heaviest winter blizzard in living memory swept across this district. Hundreds of cars and trucks marooned. A bus with its full quota of passengers stuck in drift nearly five hours.

Lindsay: Trains held up by snowdrifts and not released for hours. Sideroads sealed tight by huge drifts.

Trains Stuck

In some ridings it is expected the snowbound roads will deprive 65

Thyssen Moves Into France

BERNE, Switzerland, March 26— (AP).—Fritz Thyssen, German steel magnate who backed Hitler in the days of Nazi ascendancy, but who came to Switzerland last November because he opposed the war and blamed the Nazis for it, has gone to France, it was learned to-day.

When he established a residence at Locarno, Switzerland, last November Thyssen said that he was "still German" although "no longer a Nazi." He added he and his wife intended to live in Switzerland indefinitely.

It was reported a strict rule of silence, imposed on all political refugees here, was too much for Thyssen and that when his patience broke he departed for Paris, leaving no forwarding address.

Officials of the German legation in Berne said that they were "not surprised" to hear of Thyssen's departure and declared that he "certainly can never return to the Reich."

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO — (CP). — While rural voters attempted to dig their way to the polls through snowdrifts, early morning balloting in Toronto indicated the probability of a record vote in the urban areas. Manitoba reported a substantial early vote. Saskatchewan balloting was "fairly good" up to noon and the volume was low in Alberta. Vancouver reported a "very heavy" poll with an exceptionally heavy vote in Vancouver Centre where Pensions Minister Mackenzie seeks re-election.

Out For War!

Paris, Mar. 26 (CP-Havas). — PREMIER Paul Reynaud told told the French nation in a broadcast to-night that "the Government's duty is clear—to make war."

Hitler expected divisions of opinion in France, the new Premier said, and a succession of ministerial crises, but that did not materialize.

"Our decisions will be virile and our acts prompt," he declared.

Reynaud charged that Hitler and Russia had conspired to conquer Europe and to do away with French liberty.

"The enemy has failed to deliver a telling blow against us at the outset," he said. "This situation may change, but France, which in the past has found herself often invaded by surprise and without warning, this time is neither surprised nor unwarned nor invaded."

Aberhart With 23 Lacks But 6 For Majority

EDMONTON, March 26—(CP).— Social Credit advanced to within six seats of a majority in the next Alberta Legislature today with the electio nof Hon. D. B. Mullen, Minister of Agriculture, in Camrose.

The minister's victory over C. A. Ronning, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader, increased the number of Social Crediters elected to 23. There were 57 seats at stake in last Thursday's provincial election.

Fifty-six supporters of Premier Aberhart were elected in 1935, but the total had been reduced to 47 at dissolution.

In addition to the 23 elected, Social Crediters were leading in 14 other seats where counting has not been completed.

Independents, the coalition of Liberals, Conservatives and others opposed to Social Credit, have been declared elected for 15 seats and are leading in four. In the other riding a Laborite is leading.

CALGARY, Mar. 26 — (CP). — Premier Aberhart in a prepared statement issued here last night charged newspapers outside of Alberta were stating the result of the provincial election still was "in the balance" in "an attempt evidently to influence the Federal vote" today.

The Premier's statement follows:

I am told that the newspapers outside of Alberta are representing the provincial election as still being in the balance with the possibility of Social Credit being defeated. I am rather surprised that such misleading last-minute tactics should be employed in an attempt evidently to influence the Federal vote. The people of Canada should know that the people of Alberta have once given us a mandate to carry out the policies of democratic reform which we have been pursuing consistently for the last four years.

Two Organizations Battle Snowbanks To Get Voters Out

With country roads packed deep with heavy snow, political organizations in the rural sections of West Peterborough have been battling desperately today to get the voters to the polls but a chekup made by The Examiner at noon indicated that they could only hope for a partial success.

Except on a few of the main roads travel by automobile is almost impossible, the reports stated, and sleighs were being used to get the voters out to the trunk roads. "We can get some of the men that way" one worker told The Examiner, "but it is impossible to get the women out. They simply refuse to come."

Unable To Use Sleighs

That is the case in South Monaghan where Albert Armstrong, Bailieboro merchant, stated at noon that the side roads were so badly blocked that sleighs could not get through.

"The vote here up to noon has been very light," he said. "The only persons who have turned up off some of the roads walked to the polls. That was the only way they could get in as the roads could not be navigated even with sleighs."

The south western end of North Monaghan township also reported blocked roads and it was predicted that farmers living any distance away from the provincial highway would have trouble in registering their votes. Even in the urban section of the township roads are

10 Million Cash Donated By U.S. To Wars

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26 — (AP). —The wars of Europe and Asia already have called forth United States donations of $10,000,000 or more for the relief of distressed civilian populations.

A State Department summary of contributions under the Neutrality Act showed to-day that more than $5,000,000 in money and goods has been collected privately in the first half year of the European struggle. As much or more has gone to China since the outbreak of hostilities with Japan.

The Department reported that cash aid to European belligerents totalled $4,841,358. Other gifts were valued at $754,890.

The tabulation, however, omits the United States Red Cross — the organization which leads in funds raised. The Red Cross was unable to present its figures in time for inclusion.

This aid was solely for the belligerent countries mentioned in the neutrality proclamation— Germany, France, Poland, and the British Empire.

No Allied Ships Sunk For Week; 8 Neutrals Lost; Nazis Dock Theirs

LONDON, March 26—(CP). — A week without Allied merchant shipping losses was announced by the Admiralty today amid reports Germany has summoned home outboard ships to avoid Britain's newly-tightened patrol of sea lanes to Scandinavia.

The week ending Sunday midnight was the first without Allied merchant ship losses since the war started, though eight neutral vessels were sunk and two German cargo boats were sent down by the Royal Navy.

Informed sources declared that squadrons of British destroyers and submarines, attempting to choke off Swedish iron ore shipments to Germany, had made passage impossible through the Skagerrak, the arm of the North Sea which leads to the Baltic.

As a result Berlin was reported to have ordered all outbound vessels to return to port. The Skagerrak has been thickly mined by the Germans, but ore boats have been able to reach Germany by hugging the shore.

In winter Swedish ore must be shipped through Narvik, Norway, down the Atlantic coast. Some ships go through the Skagerrak to Baltic ports and some are reported to be risking mine fields and British submarines to sneak down the Swedish coast headed for Hamburg.

In summer the Skagerrak route is not so important to Germany, for as soon as the Gulf of Bothnia is ice-free Swedish ore can be shipped direct from Sweden without leaving

US To Check Tips Scores Of Red Agents Active

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP).—Chairman Martin Dies (Dem.-Texas) said today the House of representatives committee on un-American activities would inquire immediately into reports that Russia had hundreds of agents in the United States to obtain military and industrial secrets.

"We propose to summon witnesses as fast as we can locate them to find out about these reports of espionage by the Soviet Union," Dies said.

"We want to ask one important Communist about the subject matter of radiograms he sent to Moscow recently."

Dies made these statements, to reporters while secret service men wre searching for a communist who used the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt" on his communist party membership booklet.

James H. Dolsen, who said he was a Pittsburgh communist, testified yesterday that he had written the president's name in the booklet at the request of another communist who wanted to be "protected" by a false name.

Dolsen said he tried to dissuade the other man from selecting that name because "Franklin D. Roosevelt never was a communist and never would be."

of the most important of all the county's thoroughfares, is completely blocked.

Almost incredible was the finding that nearly every road in the county was blocked on election day—the day most necessary of any 24-hour period in the past five years for open thoroughfares. Particularly did it seem incredible because of the lateness of the season, and after a winter what at almost no time from beginning to end had roads been blocked at all. Certainly no such general blocking had been experienced during all the winter months.

Trains Held Up

Snow barriers in deep cuts west of Lindsay, and especially in the Stouffville-Uxbridge district held up the evening train from Toronto, by way of Lindsay, until 4 o'clock this morning in its arrival here eight hours behind schedule.

David E. Bell, local agent of the C.N.R., told the Examiner this morning that the wind and snow of the last few days had blown some of the deepest drifts the system has been hampered with in years in the Central Ontario district and beyond it. The Toronto-Belleville passenger train last night, by way of Peterborough, was held at Stouffville for hours by a succession of obstructions. Deep drifts in the Goodwood area called out a plow from Lindsay, and after boring its way through to the west side of the troubled tracks, the plow was derailed, prolonging the delay.

Winter in retreat before the March sun and winds flung traffic impediments in all directions, tossing barriers of snow across railways, highways and filling in township sideroads. The advance of Spring was checked and brought to a standstill all through Central Ontario, first by the snowing and blowing of last Wednesday and Thursday, and finally by the persistent gales during the week-end.

Two other branches of the C.N.R. out of Lindsay were stalled with deep snow last night. The morning train to Haliburton did not reach its destination until seven o'clock, and there was more snow trouble on the Coboconk line. Mr. Bell said they were all cleared this morning. The train from Belleville arrived almost on time. Snow was packed on its pilot indicating that it had been through heavy drifts on the way to Peterborough.

The C.P.R. morning train from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon was halted near Lindsay about noon Monday, and an auxiliary crew from Havelock was rushed to help shovel it out of a drift.

Blocked In Cavan.

J. O. Ball of Whittington's garage, five miles west of the city, said this morning that Monday's winds had levelled the whole countryside on the Cavan-North Monaghan boundary with snow that blew across the fields into the county and township roads.

"There is no road open from here to Mount Pleasant," Mr. Ball told Examiner this morning; and there was no likelihood of plowing and shovelling operations getting under way today. "I don't think the people over on this side of the township will cast many votes. Their nearest poll is at Mount Pleasant, and you can't get through. At least there wasn't a sign of relief this morning. It is just one great big job, and it can't be done all at once. Hundreds of people in this part of Durham are going to be disfranchised by the weather, and many of them will not even try to get to the polls."

Mr. Ball said that Torrance Lillico had arranged for team service from Scott's Corners to the old "town hall" poll in North Monaghan in Peterborough riding. A bobsleigh and team was the only means of getting along the road east from the corner, unless some of the younger people could make the trip on skiis.

Milk Reaching City.

G. A. Gillespie of Silverwood's told the Examiner that supplies of milk and cream were reaching the Aylmer Street plant on time.

"The farmers manage to get out to the main roads, like to the Lindsay highway along the fourth line of Smith, and we pick up their cans with trucks," Mr. Gillespie said. "We go as far as Fowler's Corners. Others come out to Jackson Park, and then through North Monaghan they drive out to the Peterborough-Port Hope highway. I don't think any of them have missed connection since the snow started to cause trouble last week."

Mr. Gillespie said that farmers along the Ida-Springville road and on the concession lines north of it managed to get their milk out to the highway each morning.

Rural Mails Tied Up.

Some of the rural mail racks in the Post Office were bulging this morning with letters and newspapers that had not been lifted for three or four days. At any rate there were copies of Saturday newspapers in some of the pigeonholes, indicating that sections of Otonabee, Smith, and Douro have been cut off from the outside world since the hook-up of wind and snow spoiled an otherwise perfect winter.

Ross Smith of Lakehurst got through with his mail into Harvey Township. He nonchalantly mentioned to-day having "got stuck" a couple of times. He said the Lakefield-Buckhorn road was opened last night, ending an all-day job of plowing.

"They started at 8 o'clock on Monday morning and it was dark by the time they got to Buckhorn," Mr. Smith said. "That took all day to do ten miles. In many a stretch the road is just as wide as the plow, because they had to take the wings off to get through. And the drifts looked in spots to be just about as deep as the height of the plow.

"It was blowing just as hard in the country on Friday afternoon as any time since the drifting started."

Eight neutral vessels, including six of Danish registry, were sunk in the week which ended Sunday at midnight, the Admiralty reported, observing that Germany's efforts apparently had been concentrated upon unarmed neutrals.

None of the ships sunk was in convoy, it said.

Sinking of two German merchantmen by British submarines during the week raised German losses by capture and destruction to more than 300,000 tons, or about seven and one-half per cent. of her prewar tonnage, the Admiralty said.

The low value of the Chinese dollar and the interruption of normal trade as a result of Japanese restrictions have made food import impossible. Chinese profiteering and Japanese transport taxes have aggravated the shortage.

In the rice-eating Yangtse Valley the price of a 133-pound bag if rice rose from five to 60 Chinese dollars (the Chinese dollar is worth about seven cents) on the 240-mile journey from Wuhu, rice centre, past several Japanese tax barriers to Shanghai.

The rice crop in the lower Yangtse area was abundant last year, but the Japanese allowed only small quantities to reach Shanghai. Part of the crop was diverted to Japan.

Living costs in Shanghai today are 325 per cent. above 1936 levels, while the Chinese dollar purchasing power has declined 30 per cent.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112

He Pays Up

Kinmundy, Ill., Mar. 26 (CP).

A PASSENGER who rode a Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad passenger train three times between Kinmundy and Salem, Ill., paid his $1.08 fare after worrying about it for 20 years. He explained that there was no ticket agent where he boarded the train and the conductor didn't get around to collect. Railroad officials thumbed through old time-tables and found that the fare for the 10-mile trip at that time was 36 cents.

Germans Charge Allies Fly Over Neutrals

BERLIN, March 26—(CP-Havas).—Allied airplanes flying over Germany were charged today by the Reich high command with having violated the territory of the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Switzerland.

German fliers were credited with having shot down a French plane during an air battle over the Western front. The high command communique follows:

"No important event on the Western front. In the Saarbrucken region an air battle occurred between Messerschmidt pursuit planes and French Morane pursuit ships. An enemy plane was shot down during this battle.

"On the night of March 24-25, German aviation undertook a series of reconnaissance flights toward North and West France. These flights were crowned with success and did not meet enemy defence.

"Enemy planes at the same time flew toward North and Western Germany and on this occasion violated, either going or returning, the sovereignty of the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Switzerland."

heavy with snow but the vote was turning out very well this morning, with an average of around 50 per poll at noon, which the party organizations seemed to think was satisfactory under the circumstances.

Keene Section Open

In Otonabee the biggest proportion of the vote registered will be polled in the Keene sector, according to The Examiner's information at noon. Other sections are suffering from blocked roads that will cut down the total considerably. It was stated from Keene that up to noon that the village vote had come in fairly well.

P. G. Towns, Douro merchant, said at noon that the voting at the Douro polls east and west of his place had been small, but that it was expected there might be an improvement this afternoon. The main road to Warsaw was opened out this morning and that was expected to help the situation considerably. "The side roads are all in bad shape," Mr. Towns said, "and sleighs are being used to get the voters out."

Small Vote In Ennismore

Forty votes had been polled at Ennismore Parish Hall up to noon, Ambrose Crough, merchant, told The Examiner. "It looks as if that will be the big end of the vote here," Mr. Crough said. "Those who were close to the poll have got out." No cars are moving here at all and the only means of moving the voters is by sleigh. It will be even worse at the other poll at O'Reilley's School."

"I have to drive seven miles to Selwyn this morning," said Reeve Wallace Shearer of Harvey, "and had to shovel myself out several times on the way. Eight people had voted at Selwyn at 9 o'clock. Those who can get out to the main roads will cast their ballots but the problem is to get them out from the side roads."

Reeve Shearer stated that the road from Hall's Bridge north was open only four miles but that the highway from Burleigh Falls to Hall's bridge was in good shape.

The City Vote

In Peterborough the party organizations, apparently with plenty of workers and cars were on the job early but as usual here the vote did not come out very briskly before the noon hour, although some polls reported a very respectable vote this morning. One of these was the poll at Kennedy's, 552 Armour Road, where ninety votes had been cast by noon. In the south ward, the average was above 30 per poll up to 11 o'clock. And other city districts had about the same proportion.

Both political organizations agreed that there would be heavy voting this afternoon and were confident that the total would be above the average.

Douro Boy Honored

DOURO, March 26—Some 40 relatives and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hogan to honor their eldest son, Fergus who left Monday to enter the Christian Brothers Novitiate, La Salle college at Aurora. Progressive euchre, music and singing were enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served. An address expressing good wishes was read by Richard Sheehan Jr. and the presentation of a Parker pen and pencil set was made by Clare Hayes.

Fergus made a pleasant little speech expressing thanks to the donors. Mrs. Richard Sheehan and Mrs. Allen Hayes were sponsors of the affair.

SIX SURVIVORS of the Danish ships Viking and Bothal reported on arrival at an east Scottish port today that 30 men were killed when the two ships were torpedoed by German submarines in the North Sea last Thursday.

The Danish seamen said the U-boats gave them no time to launch lifeboats. Some clung to floating wreckage 48 hours before being picked up.

Comfortable Majority

The result of the election has been highly satisfactory to Social Credit, and although returns will not be known for some days, it is quite evident at this stage that the Social Credit government will be returned with a comfortable working majority in spite of the unscrupulous and desperate efforts which were made by the financial interests to defeat us.

The election has revealed definitely that when faced with defeat, reaction will unite and that the forces of progress can counteract this only by likewise uniting to assert their democratic rights.

Another fact brought out quite clearly by this election is that the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party is a diminishing factor in the great movement for reform, because C.C.F. leadership is jeopardizing the cause of reform by insisting on adhering to narrow party lines and advocating their undemocratic Socialist policies.

The people of Canada are on the march. They have seen the vision of a new order and nothing will deter them now from achieving their purpose.

Exempted

QUEBEC, March 26 — (CP). — War industries in Quebec Province have been exempted from clauses of the Industrial and Commercial Establishments' law prohibiting night work for boys under 18 years of age, women and girls, it was announced to-day.

An announcement in the Quebec Official Gazette said that as Canada is in a state of war it is "urgent that all possible facilities be granted to national industries which have the obligation of working directly or indirectly on war munitions contracts."

Election Tumult Dies To Ring Of Leaders' Pleas

(By the Canadian Press.)

Tumult of the Dominion election campaign was stilled to-day, the last speeches were over and bitter controversies died down as the political spotlight swung from the hustings to the polling booths and the voters made their decision about a War Government.

Easter blizzards blocked roads in several provinces, which probably will reduce the vote in some constituencies, but it is expected 5,000,000 civilian Canadians will exercise the democratic prerogative of the ballot.

The eight-weeks campaign concluded last night with Prime Minister Mackenzie King delivering his traditional election-eve speech before an Ottawa meeting, Conservative Leader Drew of Ontario speaking in Brantford, Ont., and four Cabinet ministers making 11th hour appeals. J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Comomnwealth Federation Leader, spoke at Winnipeg.

Mr. King urged that his Government be returned with a large majority so that the same administration which "took Canada unitedly into the war" and was familiar with every phase of the war effort, might conclude its work.

Defeat of the present Government would dislocate Canada's war effort and hearten the enemy, he said, while if victory comes to the Lib-

LINDSAY, March 26—(ENS). — The sudden death occurred on Saturday evening of one of the best known railroad men in this district in the person of Sidney Johnston. He had been ill about a week. Three Transients Held By Police

Three transients picked up by the police early this morning in the vicinity of the C.P.R. freight sheds were charged in police court with being vagrants.

One of them, a familiar figure in the local court, was William Saunders a Sault Ste. Marie Indian who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten days in jail.

The other two, Clark Ashust and Bernard Graham, mere youngsters, also pleaded guilty and had nothing to say. Magistrate Langley remanded them until Friday in order to give the police a chance to make inquiries.

Easter Meeting Of Bible Class Draws Large Attendance

The class hymn, "Come Into My Heart" opened the Easter meeting of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Church held on Monday night at the home of Mrs. A. Rosborough, Gladstone avenue, with a splendid attendance of members and friends.

The devotional session arranged by Mrs. W. K. Sloane, was built up around the Easter theme, when Miss Mabel Robinson read the appropriate scripture lesson from the 23rd Chapter of St. Luke's gospel, followed with a message in song, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

An Easter prayer was read by Mrs. Earl Eakins, and the class prayer recited by Mrs. Sloane with the communion hymn, "Break Thou the Bread of Life," as a suitable prelude to these Easter prayers.

A short business session included the roll call and a report of the visiting convener. A showing of 18 calls stood to the class credit and the gift of an Easter lily to the church was made.

A clever Irish contest, created much merriment and was won by Mesdames Oralk and Bullied. The appreciation and thanks of the King's Own class were voiced by Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. Stanbury for the kind hospitality extended by the hostess, Mrs. Rosborough, which all present endorsed in the usual way.

Miss Smith, Stewart street, will entertain the class at her home for the April meeting, when members and visitors will be very welcome.

Three Young Artists Present Delightful Recital at Lakefield

A substantial sum in aid of the Red Cross was realized at a recital given Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Lakefield, by Miss Cora Charlton, Miss Mildred Hubbell and Miss Mary McKerchar. President before a large audience, the musicale was undoubtedly a success in every way, and it is hoped will be the first in a series of such delightful entertainment in the larger homes.

Surprising development was shown by Cora Charlton, her voice having gained greatly in clarity, depth and flexibility. She did outstandingly good work in the Tschaikowski aria, and her modern English songs were delightful. The whimsical Milne songs were sung with grace and fine understanding.

Mary McKerchar and Mildred Hubbell pleased their listeners with some excellent duet work, and the former played the ever lovely Moonlight Sonata and other piano solos with fluent technique.

The complete program follows: F. Von Suppe's "Poet and Peasant," Miss McKerchar and Miss Hubbell; a song group by Miss Charlton, "Bois Epais" (Lully); Recit. "Aye, be it so" and aria, "Mighty Love" (Handel); Debussy's "Jardins sous la pluie" and Cyril Scott's "Dense Negre," Miss McKerchar; Tschaikowski's "Pauline's Romance" and Bizet's "Seguidilla" from "Carmen," Miss Charlton; "Adoration" (Felix Borowski), fragment. Clark announced the winners and Reeve Gordon Scriver presented the prizes. Following refreshments the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed to the music of Jack Marshall's Orchestra, with V. McManus as the floor manager.

Easily Trace Designs on Copper

Stunning on your desk — a letter rack and paper knife of richly etched copper. And it's fun and simple to etch them yourself—from designs printed for you.

You'll need two sheets of 18-gauge copper — one 5½ by 10 inches, the other 1¾ by 10 inches. Begin by clipping off corners of large sheet for rack. Shape smaller sheet like knife shown.

And now to prepare for the etching. Take your printed patterns and transfer the designs to the copper, using carbon paper. Then, with a fine-pointed brush, paint the background with asphaltum varnish, leaving the designs unprotected.

In a china dish, mix the acid bath — ½ pint nitric acid to which you carefully add the same amount of water. Gently slide in pieces of copper. When the designs are eaten to sufficient depth, remove copper from bath, and wipe off varnish with turpentine.

It's just as easy to make other lovely articles for gifts and home. Besides giving complete directions and patterns for the desk set, our 32-page booklet has instructions for making a wall holder for plants, a lamp shade, a fire screen, book ends, a batik scarf — many more items.

Ottawa Bride Has Bridesmaid From Peterboro

An interesting wedding took place at the Church of the Ascension in Ottawa on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, when Miss Minnie Maud Roblin, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Roblin of Ottawa, was united in marriage to Mr. Ronald George Driscoll, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Driscoll, of Overbrook. Rev. C. A. Bender officiated. The guest pews were marked with daffodils, narcissi and iris. Mrs. E. Glover of Peterborough presided at the organ, with the choir in attendance.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. W. Roblin, and was attended by Mrs. J. Mansfield of Toronto, sister of the bride, as matron-of-honor. Miss Eleanor Glover, cousin of the bride, from Peterborough, was a junior bridesmaid. Mr. R. Driscoll, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. L. Roblin, brother of the bride, and Mr. F. Leslie, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

The bride wore a Princess gown of white moire silk with short, puffed sleeves and Sweetheart neckline. She wore a tulle veil extending to the hemline of her dress which was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. At the neckline she wore a cluster of orange blossoms which belonged to the bride's grandmother, and carried a sheaf of calla lilies and freesia.

The matron-of-honor was in poudre blue silk net over blue taffeta with matching lace jacket. She wore a small hat of matching shade and carried Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. The junior bridesmaid was in shell pink taffeta made in Princess style with buttons down the back. Her hat was a model of pink flowers and she carried a Colonial nosegay of sweet peas, roses, and carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. Teague. The rooms were decorated with spring flowers and the bride's table centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. Mansfield, Miss Dorothy Mansfield, Toronto, Mrs. E. Glover and Miss Eleanor Glover of Peterborough, and Mrs. Charles Dickinson of Kemptville, Ontario.

Spring Hats Are Gay With Primroses

Easter, always the signal for the appearance of new Easter hats for the American ladies, has long been accompanied by the trembling anticipation of the American male. In the past few years, he has succumbed silently, though unwillingly, to the Eugenie Tricorne, the Baby Bonnet, the Skyscraper Crown. By this time, he has been through most of the pernicious forms of Millinery Madness, as evidenced by his female tormentors, and is ready for just about anything.

This year he has a pleasant surprise. Hats do have a definite character and personality, to be sure. But the idea of caricature or exaggeration is definitely "out." Naturally, there are some women who seem fated to choose the wrong hats . . . but at least this Spring they will have an abundance of charming and becoming styles from which to choose. Hence, the margin of error is bound to be lessened. In fact, just about every type of woman is accounted for in the Easter line-up. The hats are all different, yet alike in their purpose . . . to bring out the charm and femininity of their wearers.

The Victorian and Southern influences have cajoled some charming bonnets and tiny hats from the leading millinery designers. These are copied in every price level, but are not extreme or difficult to wear. They have a tendency to soften the face, and are charmingly naive with their feathers, bows and many types of veils. Straw, belting and satin are used for these "little" hats, as well as felt. Naturally, they are primarily for the small or youthful face.

Flower hats are enjoying continued popularity. Little toques made completely of daisies, sweet peas, pansies, and other small artificial flowers will grace the head of many a smart woman. These have an especial charm and dignity for older women, and also have the ability to flatter unsophisticated types. There are small sailors, too, made ingeniously and trimmed with velvet ribbons, veils or snoods. Colors are legion . . . ranging from white to bright reds, or "natural" flower shades.

A new and interesting trend to watch is the calot or skullcap hat, which is making an entrance this Easter. Tiny velvets, satins, straws . . . often trimmed with a solitary rose or ribbon "chou" are being featured by the more high-fashion milliners. These are worn far back on the head, and usually have a face veil to set them off. They reveal a considerable portion of the face, so are recommended primarily for those with well defined features.

All in all, the "sweet and simple" trend is in the lead for this gay Spring. There will be an abundance of white, but color is stressed and stressed again. Not just any color, but carefully chosen hues of red, violet, in a subtle range of becoming, wearable hues. Black and navy refuse to be eliminated, however, and still make some of the smartest hats.

There is another style of hat that seems slated for a large share of interest. This is the cloche . the simple, small hat that is worn casually and without fuss. Almost invariably it is a felt, with or without ribbon binding, and is effectively worn turned up or down. This year it will be seen with suits as well as coats and tailored dresses, in a variety of sizes and innumerable colors.

It's definitely a feminine Spring . . . and unless the female of the species goes out of her way to make a poor choice, her Easter hat is almost certain to be a charming and colorful one, that even her severest critic will approve!

Bolero Frock

Very new print-and-plain bolero frock worn with bright little kidskin pumps. Note their diamond shaped perforations for that open-toed look.

We Noticed

....You lucky folk who chalked up a record for egg-eating Easter morning "just for the fun of it" may find it hard to realize that in Germany there were few Easter eggs—and German children who used to make quite a ceremony out of this season of the year with Easter eggs and bunnies, were very shy of both.

....The traditional custom of egg-rolling was abandoned this year, for eggs are almost like gold in the Reich. Only seven eggs per person were rationed out in Berlin for the month.

....Some women were said to have squandered their seven eggs at once in order to have Easter parties for their children. No matter what horrors may take place in Germany and at the battle-front today, we must remember that German mothers are no different from other mothers the world over—glad to make almost any sacrifice in order to bring happiness to their children.

FASHIONS

You want your first spring costume to be young and fresh, definitely in the mood of carefree warm weather days. A bolero ensemble like this one is as important a sign of spring as the first robin. The perky little bolero is just right to slip on for a jaunt into town....it serves as a quick costume-changer over your other dresses, too. The crisp blouse makes you look as feminine as you feel. The skirt is widely flared for comfort and for chic. Wear all three pieces together or team them with other articles of your wardrobe.

Style No. 3205 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 1⅞ yards of 39-inch material for blouse; 1 yard for bolero; 1⅞ yards for skirt.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 27.

An exciting day, with swift-moving events transpiring in all departments of life, is forecast by the lunar and mutual aspects. It is probable that the adventurous and high-tensioned occurrences may be experienced in the realm of the motions, romantic attachments or love life, where tempest, jealousy, passion and violence are likely to burst all bonds of restraint and prudence. In business impetuosity, strife, and aggressiveness may prove detrimental, whereas calmness, consideration and subdued handling would be profitable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year of high-pressure experiences, with all the energies and faculties under tension and stress to a perilous degree. Romance, emotional urges and all intimate expressions are subject to distress and disturbance because of impulsive and reckless behavior. Business also suffers from want of restraint, cool judgment, and discreet management.

A child born on this day may be active, energetic, aggressive, original and sagacious, with tendencies toward jealousy and vindictiveness, unless given early discipline. It may have a softer side, social, diplomatic, and friendly.

Marks a Turning Point

British writers are paying more attention to the air raid on the Island of Sylt than anything which has happened in weeks. They regard it as important because it demonstrated that the R.A.F. was beginning to fight an aggressive war and not waiting to deal with German raiders who visited British territory.

The Isle of Sylt is the largest German island in the North Sea, nearly 23 miles long, but not much more than a half-mile in width. About seven miles off the Danish coast. Millions have been spent there in creating a great air base, and it is from the Isle of Sylt that most of the raids directed against Britain have been coming.

The trouble is in securing definite details of the amount of damage inflicted. It is in enemy territory and therefore not possible of being visited. Reports from Denmark say scores of valuable aircraft were destroyed; hangers are in ruins, railways ruined and oil tanks were left blazing. There were 1,000 bombs dropped. And every British plane except one returned unscathed.

The importance of the raid was not merely its success, but as the British writers see it there was a demonstration of the fact that Britain had at last taken the initiative. It was that feeling which was building up something like pessimism because Germany or Russia had been previously making the first move and getting away with it. The first move into Poland; the first move into Finland; the first raids on British territory and British shipping.

The raid on Isle of Sylt explains why there have been so many preliminary flights by the R.A.F. Taking pictures, becoming certain of the territory which is but seven miles removed from Denmark, and knowing the location so well that night bombing could be carried out successfully. Britain has demonstrated with what effectiveness it can strike from the air, and that was a field where only a short time ago Germany admittedly had the advantage.

Britain And Spain

Between war and elections we may have missed something in the world of bargaining and diplomacy. A good enough example is the commercial treaty and loan agreement between Great Britain and Spain. It has been signed. Franco is not barred from trading with Germany through Italy, but the terms of the agreement will make it difficult enough for Germany to secure the one thing she most wants from Spain, and that is iron ore.

During the war in Spain Hitler went to the aid of Franco, and so did Mussolini, but when it was over Franco made it clear enough he was not going to be subject to foreign domination.

Hitler and Mussolini had similar interests in joining the Spanish war. They expected it would put them in a stronger position so they could work through Franco for the domination of Gibraltar and the Mediterranean. That fond hope appears to have gone up salt creek. The new agreement is a good piece of business for Britain.

It's Different Today

A gentleman from Peterborough drove to London on Friday morning and instead of following No. 2 took the north road, No. 7. All went well until he arrived at Elginfield, 14 miles north of London, and north and south roads had been drifting more than east to west. The snow plow ahead broke down and cars were lined up behind. The way to get through—and it worked—was for the first car to get a shove from the one behind and then another would shove the second car if necessary. The report is that the side roads are badly blocked all through.

From several sections of the province we have noticed reports that farm homes are in a bad way because the various trucks from city or town have not been able to ge through. The bread truck is the one most mentioned, but we read too that in some sections the butcher makes his rounds and calls at farm homes.

A meat scarcity on account of hard going would be in a district where there was no beef ring in operation, and where there had been no pig killed and dressed. The scarcity of bread would come from the custom of many farm homes of today where no bread is baked. It all comes from the baker.

The way in which people live at present is quite different from 30 or 40 years ago. We can recall blocked roads and blocked lanes and a path which had to be dug—not swept or shovelled—from the house to the barn. Nor is it difficult to recall taking down line or field fences and driving through the field because the going was better there. The road was apt to go for a distance along the concession, then strike off through a field, and it might do that a number of times. But the sleighs went through.

Today most people depend on cars and this winter they have been out of luck a number of times unless they happen to have frontage on a highway. A car cannot drive on the road, then off it and through a field, and it cannot get over the old pitch holes as safely as a team and a bob sleigh. Years ago it would make no difference if the roads were bad; there would be bread baked on the premises and there would be meat in the cellar. The farm home could stand quite a siege of rough weather and three meals a day would appear. Possibly the country is getting more modern, but it is also doing more fussing when the roads get blocked.

Better Forget About It

As a rule any vacancies subject to appointment by a government are filled before the government goes to the country. Nothing has been done about naming three commissioners to administer affairs of our penal institutions. Administration has come under the Minister of Justice, and under him comes the Superintendent of Penitentiaries, although the present occupant of the post is listed as "acting superintendent." There are also inspectors and each prison has its warden.

The plan was to appoint three commissioners and an Ottawa despatch said the salaries would amount to $25,000 a year, and added to that would be travelling and other expenses.

We cannot see where there is any need for changing the form of penal administration. There was a campaign a few years ago for prison reform, and most of it was carried on by people who had never taken the trouble to present themselves at a warden's office after receiving permission to visit the premises. Personal visitation was sufficient to make it certain that criticism of the treatment of prisoners was not founded on fact. The sensational stories about men being kept in "holes" were simply not so because there were no such holes in which to keep them.

If the proposed change is founded on nothing better than a lot of sentimental misinformation then the proper course would be to forget permanently about naming the new commission. If the Government had been seriously impressed with the urgency of the situation the appointments would have been made long ago. It was evidently regarded as something which could wait, and it would be just as well to put it permanently in that class.

Says Wealth Is Handicap

Dr. Lawrence Whisler of New Orleans says rich youths are born with two strikes against them before they get into the game. Pampered children seem to lack a mission in life, and they would get along much better if they were more frequently ignored by their parents.

The man who gives voice to these claims is not guessing because he has plenty of records and statistics to show he is right. Those who made the best of their opportunity—

Had three or more brothers or sisters living in a rather crowded house where it was difficult enough to pay the rent—

Where the father made no more than $1,500 a year, was not able to take the family on summer vacations, had no servants and was no better off financially than when the boy was born.

Whether you agree with it all or not, it is interesting. Many parents decide the children are going to have advantages which they never had, and that is natural and probably normal.

Parents want their children to succeed but they do not want them to have to take the hard road toward success. If they can suggest a short cut they are going to do it.

As a rule the boy who has no family props set up around him and knows it will go ahead and make good. The reason is simple—he has to.

A Card Of Thanks

When election time arrives and lives for four or five weeks we always find a good supply of copy paper for a typewriter. So many people send us copies of addresses they are going to deliver over the radio, and they are nicely done on a mineograph apparatus and typed on one side only. When these sheets are cut in two they make splendid copy paper. Kind of soft and the typewriter shows up well on it.

Then there is some other individual who always writes to say he is enclosing a good deal of information which we ought to put in the paper. The world seems filled around election times with people who have a good idea of what we should print in the paper. But we never object to receiving all this material because when cut in two it is good stuff for running through the typewriter on the blank side.

In a general way we feel like inserting a little card of thanks to those who have contributed so generously to our supply of copy paper during recent weeks. There is enough on hand to run a week or so yet, after which we will have to use our own—and that costs money.

Snow Is Packed Hard

People living in a city have little idea of the manner in which roads in the country are blocked. One resident who lives not far from the city explained he had never encountered anything like it. "There is a lane out to the road and it was blocked so I could not drive the team. Then we started to dig, and when I say dig I mean just that. It was as though the snow had been packed in there with a roller. One had to cut out the block that would go on the shovel, and all over it is the same. As a rule a team of horses can break through a drifted lane or road but this last storm was different."

Our informant was certain it would affect the vote in a good many parts of the country. "People in the rural sections as a rule are keen on getting out to vote, but this year those who are some distance from a highway or a road which is much travelled are going to miss voting and it's not their fault."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Voting day is the one chance most of us have to make our mark in the world.

The election campaign was like a good many others—very promising.

All joking aside, it does not seem just right to keep on wearing the old red flannel undersuit after Easter has come and gone.

Man in Kitchener broke into a house and was found hiding in the laundry cellar. Police came and collared him right there.

THIS IS POETRY

And now that we have turned and looked
To view each Easter bonnet,
We figure till we're tired and cooked
On what they spent upon it.

The state of Maine had escaped nearly all the big snow storms of winter, but on the day before Easter they found 20 inches of snow. Possibly it is a way the Weather Man has of apologizing to the people for having overlooked them before.

Robbers at Providence worked for hours getting through concrete and steel to rob a safe in the textile plant. When the manager was notified he did not even hurry down, simply remarking the safe was no good and had not been used in ten years.

Not only do the ladies of urban residence patronize the hair dressers, but their sisters from the country. In St. Marys where everything except the highway was blocked, one beauty parlor reported that seven appointments had been cancelled because people could not get in from the country.

The New York Times, which the Examiner regards as the best paper in United States, does not share the view of startled Washington that James H. R. Cromwell, U.S. minister to Canada, did anything wrong in making an address in Toronto expressing the belief that the Allies had to win the war to save freedom from disappearing. The Times said: "There is every reason to believe that the ideas expressed are in accord with the overwhelming beliefs of the American people."

COUSIN EZRA

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra's growing weak, nor is the cause too hard to seek, the lady just next door; I fear his politics have gone, no longer is he firm and strong, can't trust him any more.

¶ For Ezra went to talk with her; 'twas politics that make him stir, he dropped in there one night; he knew the piece that he would say, with strong persuasion he would sway, until she saw the light.

¶ The dainty widow knew her stuff, she blasted Ezra sure enough, he hardly said a word; yet Ezra could not well complain, he felt his arguments were lame, his views she never heard.

¶ I thought that such would finish him, and leave some marks upon his skin, that he'd go there no more; that he'd just look at her and laugh, nor would he shovel out her path, nor hang her fly screen door.

¶ But Ezra drove a car today, and he was cheerful like and gay, long list of names he had; he helped the ladies from the car, and called for them both near and far, nor cussed when roads were bad.

¶ He'd made a date for two o'clock, the little lady mustn't walk, of that he made a note; he tucked a robe about her knees, and gave her hand a little squeeze —and then she killed his vote.

Kept On Going As Writer After Losing Sight

A WASHINGTON dispatch of last week told of the death of Tom King, who has represented The Winnipeg Free Press and other Canadian papers, at the American capital for the past 18 years. He was 75 years of age at his death. Old-time members of the Press Gallery at Ottawa and parliamentarians of the war days will mourn his death, as he was for many years the representative at the capital of the old Toronto World. The Press Gallery never had a more competent commentator on Canadian politics nor a more companionable member than Tom King.

Tom King—this was not his correct name—was an American by birth. He was a practicing lawyer at Cleveland, Ohio, recalls A. R. Ford in London Free Press, where he got into some trouble and lost his gown. He left the States, changed his name, and came to Toronto. The late Arthur Hawkes was managing editor of The Toronto World and it was to him he applied for a job. Mr. King had no newspaper experience, but Mr. Hawkes was impressed with his ability and his personality and gave him a job writing a column on American affairs. He was soon afterwards sent to Ottawa where he found himself. He at once gained the friendship, not only of his newspaper colleagues, but of the politicians of both sides at the capital. Sir Wilfrid Laurier took a particular fancy to him and, although The World was Independent Conservative, he gave Tom King his confidence. The door of the office of the Liberal chief was always open to him, although it is questionable whether he ever gave him a newspaper scoop. His column in The World was one of the ablest in any Canadian newspaper and helped to make the reputation of The World, as one of the brightest journals in the Dominion.

The World was owned by W. F. MacLean, M.P. for North York. Nominally Conservative he was far ahead of his times in his views on many subjects. He was an ardent advocate of public ownership of public utilities at a time when such views were regarded as extreme radicalism. There was a strange companionship between Tom King and his boss. Tom undoubtedly gave him many of his speeches and certainly made them over into readable English for The World. Mr. MacLean was not very faithful in his attendance at the sessions of the House. Then at some outlandish hour he would appear on the scene and unexpectedly proceed to advocate some new theory. There would be a great scurrying by the Press Gallery to find Tom and if he could not be located his fellow newspapermen would make comprehensive notes for him.

MR. KING had a delightful, even whimsical sense of humor. Just one example: Back in the early days of this century there was much alarm in British Columbia over Japanese immigration. They were entering every year by the thousands. In 1906 three thousand entered and 1907 seven thousand came. Was British Columbia to become a yellow province? The feeling was very strong on the Coast in favor of exclusion laws, but the situation was complicated by the fact that Great Britain and Japan were allies. Finally Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was sent to Japan to discuss the situation with the Japanese authorities. As a result of his visit the Japanese Government gave a written assurance that it would restrict direct emigration to Canada and regulations to that end were promulgated.

Mr. Lemieux before visiting Japan had always worn his black hair sleekly brushed back. On his return from Japan his hair was brushed pompadour style, making him look something like Admiral Togo, whose pictures at the time were frequently in the papers. Mr. Lemieux in Parliament not only defended with great skill and vigor the arrangement he had made with Japan, but on every possible occasion lauded Japan and advocated closer business connections with the Flowery Kingdom.

Tom King advanced the theory that the wily Japs had kidnapped Lemieux when he was in Japan and had sent back to Canada a Jap who looked like the minister, in order to have an advocate not only in Canada, but right in the Canadian Parliament. He got great amusement by solemnly and with great plausibility arguing his views. He almost persuaded himself. He even hinted at his theory in his column in The World. Finally Lemieux came to Tom to protest to him and to prove to him that he was really Lemieux. Shortly afterwards he dropped his pompadour hair style.

SOME 20 YEARS AGO Mr. King was taken seriously ill at Ottawa. He was sent to the Water Street Hospital for observation. All of the parliamentary doctors anxiously visited Tom and diagnosed his case. They were in agreement that he had cancer. Dr. T. H. Leggett, distinguished Ottawa surgeon, who is the Conservative candidate in Ottawa this election, was called into consultation and he agreed with his parliamentary colleagues that he had the dread disease. It was decided that an operation was necessary. Mr. King was placed on a strict diet. Finally he rebelled. He decided if he was going to die it would not be by starvation. He persuaded a kind-hearted nurse to get him a good juicy steak. After eating the steak he took a turn for the better and in a few days left the hospital. He outlived most of the doctors who diagnosed his case.

It was shortly before this that he was suddenly stricken with almost total blindness. It would have ended the career of most newspapermen. However, he carried on courageously and as competently as ever. He would listen to the debates and in handwriting two inches high would make headline notes. There would be about three words to a sheet of paper. This was as much as he could see. Then returning to his desk he would dictate to a stenographer, with the aid of these few sketchy notes, a report of an hour's speech with astounding accuracy. His blindness only seemed to add to the keenness of his mind. He kept up to date by having his typist and friends read him the papers.

• He Took One Good Swing At Them

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S appointment of James H. R. Cromwell, American sportsman and economist, as United States Minister to Canada, was regarded as setting something of a precedent. Some of the greybeards on the Gatineau and the Potomac looked with dimming eyes at this athletic young man and had their doubts. Tuesday, Mr. Cromwell dispelled some of those doubts. These old men men know better where the "youngster" stands today, remarks the London Free Press.

Speaking before the Toronto Canadian Club and the Toronto Empire Club the American Minister is quoted as having said: "If the Allies win the war I can see no threat to the peace, or the social and economic order of the neutral democracies, be they large or small....the life, the livelihood, and the very safety of this same neutral citizen may be dependent upon the outcome of the present war."

Having gone thus far, this gentleman from the other side went on to explain that he realized his "official head" was in danger over certain remarks made by him at Val d'Or, Que., in which he had stated the Allies were fighting for the perpetuation of individual liberty and freedom. He admitted this had caused some headshaking in high places but went boldly on to explain himself as a diplomat-citizen. "To me a diplomat is still a citizen," he said. "The duty of every citizen is to uphold and defend the institutions and the social and economic order upon which the government of his country is founded." To make his position perfectly clear and unequivocal, he added: "Upon this interpretation of my duties as a diplomat, I am content to risk my official head."

When a young knight jousts thus gallantly in the menacing lists of diplomacy; when he thus defies bewhiskered tradition and comes out flat-footedly for those causes which we hold to be worth fighting for, we rise to salute him. We hope he will stay with us in Canada. We trust he will not lose his official head. Should such a result transpire he will at least have had the satisfaction of knowing that, figuratively, he climbed into the ring and took one solid, if only literary, swing at Nazilam.

Kingston Thrives On Election Fights

THE WHIG-STANDARD of Kingston has been served with notice under the Libel and Slander Act, the plaintiff being Col. George Drew who has taken exception to material published in an advertisement in the Kingston paper. Of course newspapers have been served with such notices before, but on this occasion the publisher of the Whig-Standard uses his own editorial columns to write to the Colonel:

My Dear Col. Drew:—

I am in receipt of your notice under The Libel and Slander Act, in which you complain of certain statements published in an advertisement which appeared in The Kingston Whig-Standard on Wednesday last, the heading of which was "Bellboy, Page Col. Drew." I have also read your statement given to a reporter for The Toronto Globe and Mail, at Brockville. That hurt. I think you might have given it to The Whig-Standard first. Do you think it quite fair to give us all the trouble and annoyance, and then hand out to a Toronto morning paper a scoop on our own story?

Col. Drew, you do not understand us down here in Kingston. In this riding there is always a lot of shadow-boxing through newspaper columns during all election campaigns. Everybody has great fun. But never before has there been even the whisper of a complaint. Our politicians are a hardy breed. They give and they take.

This letter is written in the most friendly spirit, Col. Drew, but please do not mistake it for an apology. While we do not endorse everything that appears in our advertising columns, The Whig-Standard has nothing to apologize for, unless it is carelessness in lending its columns (for a consideration, of course) to the usual newspaper sham battle of every Kingston election. It has not been quite up to the mark this time, however. It has lacked the fine rapier thrusts of that master "penduellist," W. R. Givens, to whom Col. Kidd and other Conservative candidates have owed so much during the past 30 years.

In the present campaign some pretty hard and some pretty nasty things have been said, and you, Col. Drew, have handed out your share. The man who gives abuse, Col. Drew, should be prepared to take abuse in return. Speaking at the Arena in Toronto last Monday night, you are reported as saying:

"I do not intend to waste any time on what Mr. Rogers says. That dyspeptic little son of Mars has been a standing joke in every military camp since he blossomed forth as our new war lord last September."

According to the best authorities on the law of Libel and Slander, Col. Drew, the law recognizes in every man the right to have his reputation unassailed by false and defamatory imputations. A defamatory imputation, according to these same authorities, is stated to be one which tends to lower a man in the estimation of right-thinking men, or cause him to be shunned, or avoided, or expose him to hatred, contempt or ridicule. Would you say, Col. Drew, that in those remarks you had not tried to lower Norman Rogers in the estimation of right-thinking men, or that you had not tried to hold him up to contempt and ridicule? Have you been in every military camp in Canada since Mr. Rogers was appointed Minister of National Defence? I have heard the opposite about Mr. Rogers, Col. Drew. I have been told by high military men that Mr. Rogers was making a splendid Minister of Defence, and I have heard him highly commended for his understanding of military problems.

Election campaigns, Col. Drew, very definitely belong to "the times that try men's souls." They try editors' souls a bit harder, even, than they do those of political leaders. They also try men's tempers, their judgment and their sportsmanship. Hon. Norman Rogers has been vilified from many platforms. He has been called a liar by your leader, Hon. Dr. Manion, and accused of telling lies knowing that he was lying. He has been called names aplenty by you, too, Col. Drew, but he has taken it all in his stride. Speaking at Gananoque on Wednesday night last, Mr. Rogers merely smiled when he said he had been accused of everything except domestic infidelity. "However," he said, "we must expect these things in election campaigns."

Col. Kidd, too, has had to take some pretty rough handling in this campaign, in the advertising columns of the press, but this newspaper has yet to hear from the gallant colonel his first word of complaint, and this is his fourth election campaign. Tommy Kidd and Norman Rogers both belong to the old political school of give and take. They find it pays in the long run, and the game of darts really hurts no one.

Despite your present attitude, Col. Drew, and your lamentable lack of journalistic co-operation in giving the libel story first to a Toronto morning paper, may I close with Mae West's trite but warm-hearted invitation, "Come up and see me sometime."

Sincerely yours,
W. RUPERT DAVIES.

• An American States His Creed

(Letter to New York Times)

SIR: Our Ambassador to Great Britain, after three months' sojourn among us, has gone back to tell the British public that the American man and woman in the street cannot understand the war.

I am a "man in the street" and an American. Mine is at least a first-hand impression from one who thinks he has been misrepresented by his spokesman in England.

I believe that Hitler deliberately caused this war and is solely responsible for the suffering and loss entailed.

I believe Hitler has brought into the world an order of conduct that belonged to the Stone Age—cruelty ruffianism and brutality. He has introduced into the code of nations perfidy, treason and moral turpitude.

I believe if Hitler triumphs and the French and the English succumb to his brute force, as have the Austrians, Czechs and Poles, religion, liberty, culture will be wiped off the earth.

I believe that the Allies are fighting to stem this destructive tide, and their victory is essential for the security of small nations.

I believe that to the extent we, as a people, cherish freedom of thought, faith and speech, England and France are fighting our battles; that to withhold our sympathy and help from them would be aiding and abetting Hitler's and Stalin's nefarious work.

I believe the majority of Americans hold the same sentiments as I do. To say they have no understanding of this war is "cockeyed nonsense," to use our own Ambassador's piquant language.

H. MICHAELYAN.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

My son, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments with thee; so that thou incline thine ear unto wisdom, and apply thine heart to understanding; yea, if thou criest after knowledge, and liftest up thy voice for understanding; if thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for hid treasures; then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God.

A Bit of Nonsense

Railway Logic

The fed-up traveller who had waited some time for a train rushed after the passing porter.

"Hi!" he shouted. "What's the use of having a time-table if the trains don't run to it?"

"Well," replied the porter, "how would you know the train was late if we didn't have a time-table?"

On The Surface

A little evacuee was going upstairs with a load of toys.

"Billy," said the foster mother somewhat sharply, "are your feet clean?"

"Yes, m'm," replied Billy, "it's only my boots that are dirty."

Ringed In

"Did you participate in many engagements while you were in France?" asked the interested woman visitor.

"Only five," replied the soldier, with becoming modesty.

"And you came through them all safely?"

"Not exactly," replied the soldier, "I married the fifth."

OVERPAID

HON. SOLON LOW, the financial wizard of the Aberhart Administration, defends the $2,000 sessional Credit-controlled Legislature. He says the $2,000 is not a payment for the session only but for the year's labor representing the people.

The members of the Legislature elected on Aug. 22, 1935, were dismissed about Feb. 20, 1940. They served four years, five months. They received their four years in which payment was due. But for the last five months they took $2,000, thinking the public wouldn't question the overpayment. On the basis of Mr. Low's defence of this grab, the members at most should have drawn only $833—that is, five-twelfths of a year's pay at $2,000 a year.

Of course, it was just petty chiselling. But the Aberhartists have a-a of chiselling down to a fine point.—Lethbridge Herald.

WHY NOT EXACT?

"CAN any gentleman recommend really first-rate butler for country situation? About 14 servants kept." Times advertisement.

About 14? Why not a decent precision about it? It is these sloppy approximations that mark the degeneration of British mentality. Besides, the thing is of practical importance. I know a butler who would never on principle accept a post in an establishment of less than 15. How could he tell whether this meets his need or not? If the advertiser is uncertain let him stand his menials in a row and count them.—London Spectator.

3 Stool Pigeons Talk Fast To Escape Chair

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP).—A trio of gang hoodlums with such picturesque underworld soubriquets as Max the Jerk and Charlie the Bug swelled the chorus of Brooklyn district Attorney William O'Dwyer's "singing school" of informers yesterday in the investigation of thirty-odd slayings linked with Murder, Inc.

"I am working on more than thirty-five murders," O'Dwyer said after a day of questioning.

"I could give you front-page headlines a foot high, but I want to correlate my facts first," he added.

Behind locked doors, the three "singers"—Max (the Jerk) Golob, 30; Albert Tannenbaum, 34; and Charles (the Bug) Workman, 30—talked fast in an effort to save their skins from the electric chair, divulging what O'Dwyer noncommittally described as "impressive" new details of the wholesale operations of the $5-and-$10 slaughter syndicate.

Workman, who is held in $25,000 bail on a technical charge of vagrancy, appeared before Justice Phillip Brennan and indignantly protested against such high bail for a simple charge.

"It's an outrage," he muttered.

"It would be an outrage if he were released on bail—an outrage against justice," Assistant District Attorney Burton Turkus said. "Workman is marked for death. It would be the same as signing an execution order if he were turned loose now. The gang is waiting to put him on the spot."

Workman's air of bravado quickly vanished. He meekly acquiesced when he was returned to jail shackled to his alleged confrere, Tannenbaum. The latter's efforts to obtain a reduction of bail at the same hearing were short-circuited by a warrant charging him with first-degree murder in the slaying of Irving Ashkenas, Brooklyn taxi driver and small-fry mobster, on Sept. 5, 1936, near Loch Sheldrake in Upstate Sullivan County.

O'Dwyer said he would need two grand juries and an extra judge to sift the mass of evidence already piled up in the widening investigation. He also disclosed that an anonymous telephone threat to "bump off" one of his witnesses, Florence Nestfield, 28, had led him to double a twenty-four-hour police guard at her Brooklyn home.

Miss Nestfield had identified Max Golob and Frank (the Dasher) Abbadando as the killers who pumped eight bulets into her sweetheart, John (Spider) Murtha, in Brooklyn five years ago.

Pre-War Stuff "Down Under"

With a big army of Australians and New Zealanders already in the Near East, more men and guns are being tuned up "down under" to augment the forces "over there." Here is a warlike scene at Camp Seymour, outside Melbourne, as a machine gun company of the 28th Battalion A.I.F. headquarters get hot with their "stutter guns" at target practice.

Farm Sale Nets $2,800 In 3 Hours

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26 — (ENS). — Evidence of a firm tone in the cattle market was given at an auction sale of farm implements and stock from Roy Southworth's farm at Petherick's Corners, five miles from here.

Proceeds of the sale which attracted more than 200 from this and nearby districts, was upwards of $2,800.00. A clean sweep of nearly every item listed was made in less than three hours. Outstanding was the price received for dairy cattle. Seventeen grade holsteins brought an average price of $63.00, with the top price reaching $83.00. Farm machinery also is in demand judging from the fact that a binder 2 years old brought $171.00.

The auction was conducted by J. R. Battisby assisted by R. N. Morrison, who acted as clerk.

Shower Couple With Gifts At Centreville

CENTREVILLE, March 26 — (ENS) — A large gathering of friends and neighbors assembled on Thursday evening in the Sunday School hall to enjoy a social time and make presentations to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Muspratt, who were married recently. Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson was chairman for a delightful program.

Following the singing of "O Canada," the chairman extended a hearty welcome to all. Homer Quellette led in community singing of a number of popular songs. Allan Brown gave a violin selection and responded with an encore.

The next number was a humorous reading by Miss Jean Holden "The Bachelor's Dream,' after which she responded with an encore. Mr. Quellette gave a fine song and returned to sing an encore. Claude and Herb Scott gave a musical selection and were recalled for another. Following another violin number by Allan Brown, three presentations were made to Mr. and Mrs. Muspratt.

The first was given by the community and consisted of a studio couch, pillow and chairs. Mrs. Ronald Isbister read the address and Iva Campbell, Gerald Anderson and Dick Hutchison presented the gift.

Miss Allie Berry read the address from the choir, which gave the bride a chair and mirror, and presented by Geraldine White and Gwen Hutchison. At this presentation the choir came to the platform and sang a fine selection.

The third gift was given by Mrs. Clifford Hall's Sunday School class. It was a combined end table and magazine holder, Muriel Whittington reading the address and Margaret Larmer presenting the gift.

The groom and bride made very suitable replies and thanked their friends for kindness and generosity.

Short speeches were given by Rev. A. R. Gibson, Rev. D. A. McKenzie and Jake Isbister, Sherman Cooper, William Belch, Jay Whittington and George Berry.

Liberal candidate, died at Three Rivers, Que. The returning officer in Three Rivers constituency must fix new nomination and polling days. Mr. Poisson was opposing an Independent Liberal and National Government candidate.

Voting follows a warm campaign that started when Prime Minister King dramatically dissolved Parliament January 25, a few hours after the opening. On the hustings Liberals defended the Government's war record, attacked bitterly by Dr. Manion and his supporters.

C.C.F. Out in 96 Ridings

Only the Liberals and National Government group are large enough numerically to form a government in the event of victory today. The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is contesting 96 constituencies while the New Democracy, formerly the Social Credit group, has candidates in 28. Other candidates of varying political designations total 94.

In Quebec a new designation, born of the war, appears. In Montreal St. Henry, L. G. Gosselin is running as an anti-conscription candidate and in Rimouski J. Blanchet is independent anti-conscription. In Saskatchewan, birthplace of new political movements in the past, two Unity candidates and one National Unity candidate are entered.

Mr. King is a candidate in Prince Albert, Sask., the constituency which gave him a seat in 1926 after his defeat in North York. During the campaign the Prime Minister made a hurried trip to Prince Albert to address his constituents.

Dr. Manion runs in Fort William which returned him from 1917 to 1935 when he was defeated. He obtained a seat in London after his election to the party leadership in 1938.

Close to 6,600,000 civilians were entitled to vote, more than in any previous election. In the 1936 balloting there were 5,918,207 registered voters but only 4,452,675 went to the polls.

The number of Canadians exercising their right to vote has grown at each Dominion election. The increase has been due largely to increased population, a better informed public and the granting of the franchise to women who exercised it generally for the first time in the election of 1921.

The Vote Has Grown.

The following figures show the increase in voters since the beginning of the century: 1900, 952,496; 1904, 1,030,466; 1908, 1,173,856; 1911, 1,307,528; 1917, 1,883,329; 1921, 3,-119,306; 1925, 3,168,412; 1926, 3,278,-062; 1930, 3,992,481; 1936, 4,452,675.

To-day's contests in the 242 constituencies range from straight fights between old-line parties, with the Conservatives running under the National Government banner, to an eight-candidate battle in Montreal Verdun. Only two constituencies, Halifax and Queen's in Prince Edward Island, elect more than one member. They both return two.

Active service members started voting in England on March 14 and in Canada on March 16. They finished last Saturday night and their vote will not be added to the civilian totals for a week. Nevertheless, it is expected that returns to-night will give a fairly clear picture of final results except in ridings where only a few votes separate the leaders.

Active service electors totalled some 90,000, but no figure on the number who exercised their franchise has been made known. Their ballots will be distributed among the various electoral districts where the active service voters last were civilians. All members of the Active Service Force are entitled to vote even when under 21 years.

Straight Liberals contested 239 seats and four candidates nominated as Liberal-Progressives and unopposed by Government candidates were endorsed personally by the Prime Minister. Comox-Alberni on Vancouver Island is the only riding neglected by the Government. There the veteran Independent, A. W. Neill, has been elected since 1921, and his only opponent to-day is a C.C.F. candidate.

Miss 11 In Quebec

Conservatives, with 212 National Government candidates in the field, passed up 11 ridings in Quebec, 13 in Saskatchewan, seven in Alberta, and one in British Columbia. The C.C.F. nominated 96 candidates, five of them women, and concentrated largely on Nova Scotia, Ontario and Western Canada, with three in Montreal. The party leader, J. S. Woodsworth, who has represented Winnipeg-North Centre since 1921, fought his sixth federal campaign there.

Third largest group in the last Parliament, the federal Social Credit party endorsed the New Democracy movement of Hon. W. D. Herridge, former Canadian Minister of Washington, before the election was called. The Social Credit party tag disappeared from the federal field as 28 New Democracy standard-bearers entered the lists.

Mr. Herridge is contesting Kindersley and during the campaign hopped from one place to another by plane to address meetings.

Reduction to 669 candidates from the 892 of 1935 was due in large measure to the disappearance of the Reconstruction party, organized by Hon. H. H. Stevens in 1934 when he resigned as Trade and Commerce Minister in the Bennett Government. Lone Reconstructionist elected in 1935, Mr. Stevens returned to the Conservative fold when Dr. Manion became leader. He waged the present campaign as a National Government candidate in Kamloops.

Other women candidates are Mrs. R. B. J. Adams, Ind., Montreal-Verdun; Mrs. Nora Dymond, C.C.F., Toronto-Rosedale; Mrs. L. Lucas, C.C.F., Melville; Mrs. D. W. Neilsen, Unity, North Battleford; Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, New Democracy, Calgary West; Mrs. Mary Crawford, C.C.F., Edmonton West; Mrs. R. R. McBride, C.C.F., Macleod; and Mrs. Margaret MacNab, C.C.F., Kamloops.

All members of the cabinet at dissolution of parliament stand for re-election and about 75 per cent of the Liberal House membership seek to retain their seats.

Interesting public figures included two outstanding athletes, Sylvanus Apps of Toronto's National hockey team, and Fred Hoblitzel, former Ontario Amateur Golf champion. Apps runs as a National Government candidate in Brant and Hoblitzell as a Liberal candidate in Toronto-Eglinton.

Dr. H. A. Bruce, former Ontario Lieutenant-Governor, is a National Government candidate in Toronto-Parkdale and former Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan carries Dr. Manion's banner in Rosetown-Biggar where he opposes M. J. Coldwell, National chairman of the C.C.F.

Red Candidate In Jail

Douglas Stewart, Communist candidate in Toronto-Trinity and former editor of the banned Toronto communist newspaper, the Daily Clarion, was in the Ontario reformatory serving a six-month sentence on a charge of prejudicing recruiting when his papers were filed.

In the list of National Government candidates are 10 members of the Conservative administration of 1930-35. Besides Dr. Manion they are Hon. R. B. Hanson, York-Sunbury; C. H. Cahan, Montreal-St. Lawrence-St. George; Maurice Dupre, Quebec West and South; H. A. Stewart, Leeds; Earl Rowe, Dufferin-Simcoe; G. R. Geary, Toronto-Trinity; T. G. Murphy, Neepawa; Grote Stirling, Yale, and Mr. Stevens.

W. G. Brown, who won the Saskatoon city seat from the Liberals in a by-election last fall on a united Reform platform, is again a candidate there but illness kept him in Ottawa throughout the campaign. Mr. Brown was one of the "members for a day" introduced in the Commons Jan. 25.

Standing in the House of Commons at dissolution was: Liberals 176; Conservatives 39; Social Credit 15; Co-operative Commonwealth Federation 7; Independents 2; United Reform 1; U.F.O.-Labor 1; vacant 4. Total 245.

erals "we will thank God and go ahead to prosecute the war effort with might and main."

Mr. King votes in Ottawa East today, while Conservative Leader Manion returned to the Capital from Fort William to cast his ballot in Ottawa West. Dr. Manion issued a brief pre-election statement appealing to the electors to see that the election "is carried out in an honest and loyal manner."

Other Things Not To Forget

Mr. Woodsworth in his home constituency of Winnipeg North Centre said important social problems and democratic principles should not be forgotten in the excitement surrounding preparations for war. "The least the state can do when men are asked to risk their lives is to see that they are properly cared for."

The C.C.F. was prepared to lend every assistance during the conflict, but it also demanded that attention be paid problems of unemployment, care of the aged and assistance to youth. The funedamentals of democracy must be guarded even in war time.

"We must win the war—nothing else matters, is the slogan of the Liberals," Mr. Woodsworth said. "They are taking away, in the meantime, some of the liberties we thought we had in this country.

"In Ontario they arrested a Labor organizer. They have made it difficult to make radio talks. This trend, of course, is being resisted by some far-seeing Liberals themselves.

"Civil Liberty organizations are appearing. But could anything be more absurd than a Civil Liberty organization in a democracy—an organization to protect us against a democratic government?"

In England free speech prevailed, but in Canada "we actually prohibit publications that circulate freely in the Old Country."

"I think it a dreadful thing that in this country we have to have hundreds of men absolutely dependent on charity and living in soup kitchens," Mr. Woodsworth continued. "Most of them are anxious to work, but the Liberal Government does nothing."

Among the jobless eating in soup kitchens were veterans of the First Great War. "In Winnipeg soup kitchens there are long tables reserved for veterans of the last war, after fighting for their country these men must eat in soup kitchens."

Vital Facts Denied

At Brantford Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, charged that Mr. King has "denied every fact upon which the people have a right to decide" when they vote today.

"He not only refused those facts in parliament, but in spite of constant challenges he has refused to discuss any of them publicly," Col. Drew said. "He denied democracy in parliament. He has denied democracy throughout this election campaign as well."

The prime minister had quoted "time and again" words of his grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie. Yet no one would have been more bitter than his grandfather at Mr. Mackenzie King's action in dissolving parliament "without an accounting to the public."

"There has been only one other dissolution of parliament without an accounting to the public," Col. Drew said, "and on that occasion it was his grandfather who used these prophetic words; 'Is it the intention of the government to deprive thousands of their political rights? Are their representatives to be thus driven from their seats like soldiers by drill sergeants in a garrison town?

"These representatives have come to see the public accounts. Where are they? The treaty. What has become of it? They have come to lower the tariff. Why is it not done? Is all information to be shut out from them, though a table is furnished with a list of reports which ought to be presented'."

Col. Drew said that in a radio address last Saturday Mr. Mackenzie King admitted national government is "desirable" under some circumstances.

Leaving Road Open

"He explained that if parties are so evenly divided that work becomes difficult, that government becomes difficult, national government may become necessary. Having spent two months telling us how dangerous this form of government is, he is now at the last moment leaving the way open for him to accept to form a national government if he has a bare majority after Tuesday.

"Mr. King at last sees that national government is inevitable and that whether he retains a small majority on Tuesday or not national government will be forced by the Canadian people in a very short time."

Mr. Mackenzie King was charged with responsibility for failure to warn the Dominion of the approach of war and failure to provide adequate defences.

"In his radio address on Saturday Mr. King saw fit to attribute my criticism of the incompetence of his minister of national defence to the fact that I had ambitions to become minister of national defence," Col. Drew said.

"Mr. King is an extremely bad mind reader. My ambition has been to do everything possible to help in removing from office a man who has done so much while he has been prime minister to foster anti-British sentiment in this country."

per cent of the voters from marking their ballots. And in all rural constituencies the percentage of voting casualties runs from 10 per cent upward, depending on how far residents live from main traffic arteries. Officials in Victoria-Haliburton fear the vote will be cut in half. Not more than 60 per cent of the normal vote will be polled in Muskoka. Only about 30 or 40 per cent turnout is anticipated from the Walkerton district.

York County is buried under drifts and the vote will be exceptionally light in many sections.

For the second successive day, railway schedules were disrupted. The C.N.R. Lindsay-Haliburton train which left Lindsay at 11:55 a.m. yesterday became lodged in a heavy snowdrift south of Cameron, eight miles north of Lindsay, and was not freed until 7 o'clock last night. Another train on the Lindsay-Lorneville route was stranded several hours.

The C.P.R. Lindsay-Bobcaygeon train became stuck at noon just outside of Lindsay and an auxiliary crew from Havelock was rushed to the scene and assisted in shovelling it out.

Dufferin County, one of the worst hit sections, will record an extremely light vote. T. J. O'Flynn, president of the Shelburne Liberal Association, said he did not anticipate more than a 50 per cent vote.

Lightest Vote in Years

The Barrie district is in as serious a plight and the Simcoe County vote will be the lightest in years, it is reported. Every sideroad in the Belleville district is blocked with drifts ranging from three to six feet in height.

Horse and cutter will bring many farmers to polling centres, but in hundreds of districts dotted over the province, not even this form of transportation will be of any avail.

Sleighs are said to be of little use and snowshoes would not carry the wearers over the deep drifts. Skis are the only equipment of any value under present conditions and few rural residents possess them. Many rural inhabitants, who would under normal circumstances, travel to polling centres and fraternize with neighbors, will not even make the attempt to break the snow barrier.

Frantic efforts are being made to open up some of the sideroads, but as fast as plows gouge their way through, the wind drifts the snow back again. A considerable amount of plow equipment is needed in villages and towns and there is a shortage reported in some districts.

Motor traffic was at a standstill last night in all parts of Ontario. Portions of main provincial highways were sealed in the Barrie district. Only Highways 14 and 2 are open in the Belleville are.

navy stand when he appears tomorrow before the house of representatives military committee which is investigating foreign plane purchases here. The previous policy had been not to release any military craft for sale until a better type had been perfected. Repercussions on Capitol Hill were generally expected.

A Guarantee

A stipulation requires a guarantee that the Allies will not manufacture planes of United States design in Europe. This is to safeguard the domestic aviation industry and the employment of aircraft workers.

Among the planes to be released were said to be six of the army's latest bombers and pursuit planes heretofore denied to foreign purchasers.

Officials indicated, however, that the release of planes would not be a blanket one. The war and navy departments, they said, will decide which of the ships now being built may be bought by the Allies, and in every case the manufacturer must have a better type in prospect.

Among the army orders now being filled is one for Curtiss P-40 pursuit ships, a type recently released by the War Department. Another large order is for P-38's—a heavily-armed, two-motor Lockheed pursuit ship credited with a speed of 420 miles an hour. The P-38 was released last week, but without the secret device—reported to be a supercharger—which makes its top speed possible.

In addition, several millions of dollars were collected for Finland by various associations. They were not required to register with the State Department because Finland was not declared a belligerent.

The $10,000,000 credit for non-war material purchases granted to Finland by the Export-Import Bank also may be added to the general total. The bank recently increased this original sum by allocating $20,-000,000 more.

The exact amount sent to China for relief never has been announced. Chinese in the United States have been heavy contributors to their homeland.

The Export-Import Bank already has granted China $25,000,000 in credits and has allocated an additional $20,000,000. These credits, however, are used largely for purchase of goods such as trucks and machine tools, and cannot properly be called relief funds.

Labor Party."

The "Big Five"

"Chamberlain spent the Easter holiday considering the formation of a 'big five' war cabinet," said the political correspondent of the Daily Mail.

"Many politicians believe that this is likely to consist of the following members of the government in addition to the prime minister: Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary; Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal.

"Churchill, it is suggested, may be succeeded at the Admiralty by Lord Chatfield, who is at present minister for the co-ordination of defence.

"Churchill then, as minister without portfolio, might represent the services and war production departments in the cabinet.

"It is also thought the prime minister may appoint Sir Kingsley Wood, air minister, to a post where he can help speed up the nation's productive capacity.

"Chamberlain, it is known, has great faith in Wood's organizing abilities.

"Other changes to relieve cabinet members with departmental responsibilities of some their burden may also be made. There is still keen speculation about the prospects of an invitation to Labor leaders to join the government.

"(Maj. Clement R.) Attlee and his colleagues, however, could not take such a step without the full consent of their party, which may be asked at their Whitsuntide conference to define their attitude toward the eventuality."

Otonabee Man Lost His Home

KEENE, Mar. 26. — The brick farm home of James Woods was burned on Monday afternoon despite the efforts of 100 neighbors, who gathered from a wide radius to fight the flames.

The nearby barn and other farm buildings were saved by the volunteers.

When the alarm was spread by rural telephone the farmers fought over deeply drifted roads by horse and cutter and automobile to give assistance.

The fire is believed to have started in the attic from an overheated chimney. It was fanned by a high wind which prevented the bucket brigade from getting an early start on the house and most of the fire-fighting efforts were devoted to saving the other buildings. Furniture from the ground floor of the house was salvaged. Some insurance both on house and contents was carried.

Mr. Wood resides on Lot 15, Concession 2, Otonabee, about a mile and a half south of Villiers. Mr. Wood has another house on his second farm and the family is moving into it.

BRITISH SHIP SINKS WITH CARGO OF KRUSCHEN

Canada bound with 50,000 bottles

A grave interruption in Kruschen supplies for Canada occurred recently when a special shipment of 50,000 Kruschen Giant Packages was sent to the bottom. The balance of the supply of Kruschen Packages, sent on other ships, has been landed and distributed thinly across the country. Special concern was felt because this particular shipment was of the Giant (Free Trial) size which contains the regular package plus the free trial package offered at the regular price. Your local druggist still has a supply — but act immediately! We urge regular Kruschen users to get their packages at once to avoid disappointment. If you suffer from rheumatic pains, frequent headaches, lassitude, blotchy complexion and other ailments frequently caused by constipation, just you try Kruschen Salts.

Timely Catching

COBOURG, Ont., Mar. 26—(CP).—Frank Rouse did a nice job in catching last night and saved his son, Ray, from a nasty fall during a fire. Ray Rouse was on the roof of a two-storey house fighting a fire and his father, Frank, was on the ground. The youth slipped on the icy roof and slid over the edge. His father saw the mishap and caught him as he came down. Although both fell, neither was injured.

Snowshoes, Skiis Being Used To Deliver Bread

Delivery of bread by snowshoes and skis was reported to-day in the emergency experiences related by the men who have the job of getting Stocks' bread to consumers in a wide area of Central Ontario.

John Vowles of Madoc reported that he could not turn a wheel on Saturday, but arranged to hire two teams with which he started out on Sunday. He also took along snowshoes and tramped to the homes of some of his customers.

A telephone message from Best's Station requested that bread be sent by train to-day and some of the younger folks who are used to skiing were being sent out to get the supply at the station and deliver it to people in the neighborhood.

Worst Ever Faced.

Alderman Dutton told the Examiner that the men on the firing line agreed that the present conditions all around the countryside are the worst they ever had to face.

"We had a telephone call from Stewart's Hall in Otonabee this morning advising us not to try to get through to that point," Alderman Dutton said. "They told us to take the bread to the nearest place possible, and some of the men would take it from there, even if they had to walk. That is a sample of the wonderful co-operation which we have been getting all through the district."

"Down at Gore's Landing, Mr. Harris telephoned us that the snow was packed in like sand. Efforts were made to shovel a road, but they had to be abandoned."

Jim Dutton and Bob Beal started out on Sunday morning for Harwood. They got as far as Plainville in Hamilton Township. A county snow plow had broken down and fifteen automobiles were stalled at the store. The two Stocks men decided to return to Peterborough, and had to take the long way round by Cobourg and Port Hope. Arriving back here they motored to Hiawatha and crossed Rice Lake to Harwood.

Returned by Train.

Another Stocks man left Lindsay on Monday morning and got as far as Victoria Road, had to stay there last night, returning to Lindsay by train this morning. He reported that his truck would be snowbound for two or three days. Another truck was sent to him at Lindsay this morning.

Alderman Dutton has been directing the men to take out an extra supply of bread to provide against the possibility of dislocated deliveries in the next few days.

Bob Beal made the trip on Monday morning to Havelock and Campbellford, and returned by way of Hastings, intending to go to Roseneath. He was halted at Alderville, and had to arrange with several farmers to delived the bread by sleighs.

Similar stories of blocked roads came in from the Buckhorn-Young's Point area, from Apsley and also from Warsaw. This morning there was just a one-way track to Warsaw, opened by the county plow.

Alderman Dutton said it was a man's job to deliver bread these days, but the staff used every expedient they could think of, and received help from many persons in the district.

HIS BALLOT FIRST

E. L. Sackville's name was first on the voters' list at his poll in Ashburnham, and on his way to the office this morning he cast the first vote.

TWO LOST HATS.

Two women's hats were found Monday by employees of the Quaker Oats Company. Apparently the ladies when crossing the bridge lost their chapeaux in the high winds. The hats, a black and a tan one, may be recovered by calling at the Quaker Oats office.

CHANGE NEEDED

This one has all the earmarks of a forgery, but bystanders at Dick Raine's store on George street swear it is authentic. "How are you going to vote today," one asked a youthful customer early in the day. "I'm going to vote for Rollie Glover," came the reply. "Manion has been in power too long. We need a change."

NO CARDWELL VOTE

At two o'clock this afternoon Herb Cardwell of Wallace Point reported that there had not been any traffic over the county road to the bridge. He had given up all expectation of getting up to Stewart's Hall to vote. The distance is four miles. The Cardwell corner of Otonabee was cut off from the rest of the township. A county plow was reported to be operating in Smith, and there seemed to be no chance that it would reach the west side of Otonabee to-day.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The city council is devoting three nights this week to committee meetings in preparation for the April meeting of the council next Monday night. The finance committee, Board of Works, manufacturers, property, legal and parks are slated for Wednesday night; the legal committee is also listed for Thursday night; and the fire, water and light committee for Friday night.

TRIED TWICE BUT FAILED.

As a sample of the way in which the roads in this district are blocked the story of one man who made two attempts to reach Ennismore Monday afternoon and failed both times is interesting. He tried the first time by way of Bridgenorth and on the second occasion through Fowler's Corners. One farmer tried to get him across the lake with a team of horses but failed to make the grade.

PLENTY OF HUNTERS

Success of the Buckhorn Wolf Hunt, orginally planned for Wednesday and Thursday of this week and now shunted over by weather conditions to Monday and Tuesday of next week, seems assured. Herb Mason says he has several hunters definitely lined up to go, Charlie Kingan has another eager group, and fifteen from Buckhorn itself have been pledged by Harry Shearer. With mild weather arriving once more, and the wolves still in the district, hunters are looking for a good two-day outing.

CARS WERE STUCK.

Residents of the west end of the city found the going hard following the last snow and drifting. On Sunday morning a lady on Weller Street west of Monaghan had a taxi call for her so she might attend church. A few minutes before eleven the taxi was there but at a quarter past that hour the taxi was still on the road and stuck in a drift. Cars were having a tough time trying to get through Albertus Street, the boundary between city and township. A few managed to get down the hill but those trying to make the grade in the other direction were just out of luck.

FOR FOREIGN WORK

During this month Peterborough Y.W.C.A., annually makes some special effort to raise $150.00 for the foreign work of the association. During these war years added responsibilities are assumed by the associations, especially in those countries where the war situation and refugee problems are acute. Proceeds of the lecture by Miss Julia Matouskova of Czecho-Slovakia, on "My Country," Thursday evening, will be given to this work. Miss Matouskova was invited to join the National Y.W.C.A. staff in Canada when work in her country was curtailed. Miss Matouskova brings a wealth of experience in association work and a strong challenge to the application

F.D.R. Improves

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) —President Roosevelt, after a restful week-end, was said by his physician today to be "very much improved" but still taking precautions against the cold that has been troubling him for a fortnight.

The physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, declined to permit him to go to the White House executive offices.

CURLING NOTE

With the ice reported in fine condition at the Charlotte St. curling rink, there will be curling as usual tonight and a big turnout is expected as the season rapidly draws toward a close.

Electric REFRIGERATION Service JOHNSTON'S

Present Pageant In Lakefield United Church

LAKEFIELD, March 26 (ENS)—Special services in observance of Easter Sunday took place in Lakefield Churches on Sunday.

In St. John's Anglican Church services of the Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. were largely attended. The rector Rev. H. R. Howden preached both in the morning and evening. His text for the evening service was taken from Philippian 4, and verse 23, "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

Long before Christianity came people used the word "Grace" to describe the beauty or charm of something that gave them pleasure. Earlier than this again, the three Graces had been worshipped as goddesses of the charming and the beautiful at festivals and were considered to be responsible for the joy and beauty without which life would indeed be dull and meaningless.

The anthem "Christ Is Risen" was sung by the choir at the evening service.

Daffodils and other spring flowers decorated the church.

At St. Andrew's

Rev. J. M. Young the pastor was in charge of the service and brought the Easter message to the congregation in the text "Christ Is Risen." An appropriate duet was rendered by Mesdames T. Chaplin and A. Boyce. The beautiful hymn "We Saw Thee Not When Thou Didst Come" was rendered by the choir.

At United Church

A beautiful pageant "Sunrise in the Garden" was presented at the evening service under the auspices of the W.M.S.

The choir loft was decorated to represent a sunrise, with the sun coming up over the tomb. Dainty spring blossoms surrounded the entrance to the tomb.

Singing the hymn "In the Garden," Mrs. J. McKercher, as Christian entered the white fenced garden.

Her thoughts turn to the good spirits with which she has been blessed. She is greeted by the questioner, Mrs. G. Kelly, who brings with her the dark spirits. The Easter message is read from the Bible and the three women who visit the tomb enter to place their gifts at Christ's tomb. They were represented by Mrs. W. J. Charlton as Mary and Mesdames J. A. Porter and T. Crawford as the two who accompanied her.

Mrs. James Hendren as "Service" brought back the bright spirits. During the pageant two solos "Sunrise Tomorrow" with chorus taken by a group of junior girls, and "He leads me all the way" were sung by Mrs. C. Butcher.

Members of the W.M.S. who took part were: Spirits of Light, Joy, Miss Margaret Sanderson; Hope, Mrs. G. E. Renwick; Faith, Mrs. W. W. Yale; Truth, Mrs. P. H. Darling; Peace, Mrs. W. Leonard and Love, Mrs. C. S. Tanner; Dark Spirits, Sorrow, Mrs. F. Darling; Fear, Mrs. Rol. Bullock; Doubt, Mrs. John Hendren; Unbelief, Mrs. Alfred Dumford; Unrest, Mrs. George Spence; Indifference, Mrs. Morin.

Two suitable hymns were sung by the congregation and the anthem "Hail his Triumph" by the choir.

At the morning service there was a reception service and communion was partaken by a large congregation.

Baptist Church

Owing to the road conditions there were not many in from the country to attend the services. The pastor, Rev. W. B. Walker, gave inspiring addresses with the Easter thought being conveyed to the congregation.

Drivers Are Fined Careless Driving

Folowing traffic accidents on Saturday afternoon two drivers pleaded guilty in police court this morning to charges of careless driving and were fined by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Bert Twomey whose car was involved in a collision at Park Hill Road and Water street with another automobile driven by Walter Yale of Lakefield entered a plea of guilty when arraigned this morning and told the court he had nothing to say. Chief Constable Newhall related the details of the accident and Twomey was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Sidney Barrack pleaded guilty to a similar charge. Constable Bruce Menzies of North Monaghan said that it was a case of too much speed. Barrack's car had hit a truck on Lock street and had been damaged. The accused was fined $10 and $6 costs.

WAR—20 YEARS AGO

(By the Canadian Press.)

The Spirit Of 1940

Strongly reminiscent of the famous painting "The Spirit of '76" is this photograph of drummers of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force Service of England as they banged away on the sheepskins during a parade at their depot near London. They are members of the organization that fills jobs with the air force that ordinarily would keep men from active service.

Family Honors Millbrook Couple As Mr. and Mrs. Hall Wed 40 Years

MILLBROOK, Mar. 26 — (ENS). —The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart Hall, Bank Street, was the scene of a happy family gathering on Thursday, March 21, when the bride and groom of forty years celebrated their "ruby" wedding anniversary.

The late Rev. Mr. Steel, who served on the Fraserville circuit several years ago performed the wedding ceremony when Mr. and Mrs. Hall were married, the event which took place at the Robinson family homestead, Bensfort, being of a double character, since another sister, now Mrs. A. E. Wood of Vancouver, B.C., was married at the same time, the two couples acting as attendants each for the other.

Dinner was served at one o'clock noon for the anniversary occasion on Thursday, following the presentation to the bride and groom of a lovely silver service, from their children and grandchildren, a son-in-law, Rev. W. Franklin Bannister, M.A., B.D., of St. Paul's United Church, Bowmanville, who has recently been appointed chaplain for the Barriefield Military Camp near Kingston, reading the address, and the gifts being offered by the younger son of the family, Willis Hall. A lovely sheaf of American Beauty roses was presented to her grandmother by Glenna, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hall.

Letters, telegrams, and cards of a congratulatory character were also received, and other gifts including beautiful Easter lillies, boxes of candy, etc. The dinner table was covered with a lace cloth, the central reflector bearing a silver basket of roses, tall green tapers burning in silver holders, and the handsome wedding cake, bearing its quota of tiny candles, being other attractive features.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Edmund Dawson, and Mrs. Clifford Hall and Mrs. Willis Hall looked after the serving of the meal, which took the form of a hot fowl dinner, the guests including Rev. D. A. McKenzie, a former pastor of Centreville, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, an intimate friend, and the immediate family. Favors at each place, for the dinner, were small baskets of candy Easter eggs, and a most enjoyable social time was spent before the happy party was brought to a close, late in the afternoon.

Tanker Grounds

HALIFAX, March 26—(CP)—The 5,800-ton British tanker El Clervo, which ran aground Saturday east of Halifax harbor, remained on the sandy bottom today. The tanker, which grounded while attempting to make port in a snow squall, was said to be in no immediate danger and the crew remained aboard.

OBITUARY

MRS. HORACE MILES

Mrs. Horace Miles, 406 College street, died in Nicholls Hospital shortly before noon today after an illness that lasted for five weeks.

A widely known resident of this district, in which she had resided all her life, Mrs. Robert J. Deck died at her home at 153 Rutherford Avenue on Monday in her 78th year. She had been ailing for some time.

Mrs. Deck was formerly Sarah Ida Davidson, daughter of the late James Davidson and Laura Wood, and was born in Rawdon Township. She had lived in Peterborough since 1914, coming here after a long residence in Havelock.

Possessed of a great many very fine qualities, Mrs. Deck's outstanding attribute was her devotion to her family. She was that perfect type of wife and mother whose most earnest thought was for the welfare of her husband and children. She was also a devoted member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving besides her husband are four daughters, Mrs. Leo Doyle of Mount Pleasant (near Brantford, Mrs. W. T. Two Girls Corresponded For Eight Years Meet For The First Time In Toronto

TORONTO, March 26 — (CP). — Two young women who are intimately acquainted met for the first time here today.

They were Doris Boyce of Napanee, a student of Household Economics at Macdonald Institute, Guelph, and Ellen Airth of Peterborough, a first-year law student at Osgoode Hall. Both girls age 19 years old and for the last eight years, ever since they tried their high school entrance exams, they have exchanged letters at least once a month.

But until today, neither girl had seen the other's face. During all the years of their correspondence they had not even exchanged photographs. "We preferred to wait for just such a reunion as this," said Miss Boyce.

Both were exceptional students. In their final year of high school, Miss Airth won a $250 Kent Scholarship to Western University and Miss Boyce won the Princeps Alumnae award.

The meeting was arranged very simply. Doris, who is spending the Easter holidays in the city, arranged to go to Willard Hall where Eileen lives. They recognized each other.

"Are you Miss Boyce?" said Eileen. "Yes," answered Doris and they were at ease. They say they are going to continue their correspondence and to meet again, this time in Guelph, soon.

Newfoundland's Ex-Premier Dies At Age Of 60

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Mar. 26 — (C P Cable). — Sir Richard Anderson Squires, former Prime Minister of Newfoundland, died to-day. He was 60 years old.

He had given his time to his legal business and farming at his country estate after the defeat of his Liberal Government in 1932, two years before Newfoundland reverted to government by a commission.

Sir Richard was identified with the expansion of the colony's trade and the development of its interior during his political career. Several times he made trips to foreign countries to discuss Newfoundland's trade relationships.

In the early 1920's he undertook a program of industrial development of the interior by large Hydro-Electric and paper-mill undertakings.

During his political career, which began in 1909, he held various posts in the Government including those of Minister of Justice, Attorney-General, and Colonial Secretary. His political life began with his election to the Newfoundland Legislature for the District of Trinity.

He was Prime Minister in 1919-23 and 1928-32. In 1930 he represesented Newfoundland at the Imperial Conference in London.

Sir Richard was born at Harbor Grace, and educated at Methodist College, St. John's, and Dalhousie University, Halifax. Lady Squires, three sons, and two daughters survive.

Big Wolf Hunt Is Postponed

Once more the weatherman stepped in to interfere with a wolf hunt in this district. With sideroads blocked and a deep fall of snow over the entire district, Buckhorn hunters under command of Harry Shearer (Master of the Wolf Hunt) have decided to postpone the hunt until next Monday and Tuesday. It had been planned for Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Yesterday two farmers in the district saw two of the three wolves scarcely a mile from the village itself, according to Mr. Shearer. His only fear in postponing the hunt until next week was that the animals would leave the district with the break-up that is bound to follow the cold spell Peterborough district has endured during the past four days. However, he believed that a few days would not make any difference in all probability and expressed confidence that $45 in bounty money will fall to hunters. A large contingent from Buckhorn is promised and it will be augmented by at least half a dozen Peterborough sportsmen.

Bucko McDonald Out Of Game

TORONTO, Mar. 26 — (CP). — Manager Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs announced to-day that bouncing Bucko McDonald is suffering from a sprained ankle and will not play to-night against Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoff game. He will be replaced by Reg. Hamilton.

McDonald was told yesterday that he would line up on defence to-night with Wally Stanowski. He went through a strenuous half-hour drill, vowing to make good while playing against the club that sold him to the Leafs.

However, he suffered an ankle injury during that practice and the pain increased during the day and last night. At midnight Bucko was examined by the club physicians and his hopes shattered when the ankle was found to be sprained.

The Leafs have six defencemen, and McDonald and Hamilton have been used sparingly in recent weeks.

Samuel Hughes Dies

WINNIPEG, March 26—(CP)—Samuel Hughes, 67, former Conservative member of the Manitoba Legislature and cousin of the late Sir Sam Hughes, Canada's Defence Minister during the first Great War, died yesterday in hospital here. Born in Leskard, Ont., and educated there and at Hamilton, Ont., he came to Manitoba in 1890 and farmed at Arden and at Grand View.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ANOTHER GOOD SAMARITAN

It would appear that Charlie Elliott isn't the only Good Samaritan to soldiers on leave. In fact, when he chided an Examiner reporter for having written of his generosity in paying the bus fare of a soldier to Picton yesterday, Charlie said, "I was just taking a leaf from the book of Jack Higgins. He's the man you should write up."

Jack Higgins of the Fitzgerald Coal Company, played a similar role to Charlie's earlier in the day, looking after the bus fare of two soldiers returning to their Picton headquarters. One of the lads had spent most of his leave with Mr. and Mrs. Higgins because he had no parents or relatives with whom to visit. He had looked forward to a dreary holiday, found instead that he was a welcome guest of kindly people. When he and another youngster returned to duty yesterday, Mr. Higgins bought fares for both.

Tweed District Well Drifted

TWEED, March 26.—(ENS). —A typical March blizzard blowing almost continually since early Thursday, and whipping approximately a foot of new fallen snow during the past week, into mountainous drifts along the highways and country roads, has practically halted all traffic by car and sleigh in the Tweed district. Although all main highways are open, the rural section is completely isolated, as the continual drifting of snow has prevented the opening of the rural roads.

The villages of Bogart and Sulphide, all within a five mile radius of Tweed have been cut off from the main roadways for the past three days. Continual drifting along Highway 37 has kept the plough oh the road continuously for the past four days, with the driver on his return over a freshly ploughed stretch of road, finding it completely drifted in. Many sections of the rural roads will remain impassable until the spring thaw, as it is impossible to break through the hardened snow.

While travelling on Highway 37, automobiles going in opposite directions collided. Ambrose Whalen of Tweed and Vincent Shannon, Plainfield, skidded on an icy portion of the highway after passing through a drift and sideswiped. Damages to the fenders and the bodies of the vehicles amounted to well over $100.

Warsaw Road Is Ploughed Out

Wm. Cuffe, one of the drivers for Purity Bread, started out on his Havelock-Warsaw route around noon Monday and reached home this morning at 8 o'clock. He got through to Norwood and Havelock without any serious difficulty, but had to come back to the city to start for Warsaw. He completed that delivery, but the winds of Monday afternoon filled in the county road, and Mr. Cuffe had to put up for the night in the Dummer hamlet. The county plough got through this morning and opened the road to traffic.

Liquor Cases Are Adjourned

Inability of the crown to have a liquor analysis made in time for this morning resulted in a number of liquor cases being adjourned when they were called before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., today.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Richrdson, charged separately with illegal sale of liquor was willing to have an adjournment and by consent their case was laid over until April 3.

Two young men were charged with illegal consumption. One of them wanted his case disposed of, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $4.50 costs. The other asked for an adjournment and his case went over until April 3.

Millbrook Area Plugged Tight By Drifts

MILLBROOK, March 26—(ENS). —The promise that at least one of the large county snow-plows would be through "sometime on Monday afternoon" brought a sigh of relief to owners of stalled cars on the stretch of road between Highway 28 and the village, the worst part apparently being the vicinity of the Joe Thompson farm, and on to L. W. Smith's gateway. Another bad section was over Allen's hill near W. A. O'Brian's farm, and yet another on the hill by J. R. Thompson's farm, T. W. Belch having to use his team to draw a number of motorists over this rise, both on Saturday and Sunday.

Following the continuous and heavysnow storm all day Thursday, with the prevailing high and bitterly-cold winds of Good Friday, Saturday and Sunday, which packed the snow like iron and raised deep drifts, roads in all directions were completely blocked, with the added inconvenience of a gradually falling temperature, hovering not much above the zero mark practically all day Sunday. The small county plow broke down about halfway in from the highway on Saturday, and all attempts at repairs proved futile. Reeve W. E. Ball put in a call to County Road Engineer Miller, of Cobourg, early on Sunday, but was told the two larger plows were busy to the limit in other sections, though hope was held out that at least one would be in sometime Sunday evening, toward Millbrook, while the other was coming by the south gravel road. Many who had members of their families home for the Easter week-end, and who must return to work either Sunday or Monday, and others who had rashly made the trip to Peterborough on Saturday, or who were driving bread trucks or other necessary week-end supplies, were obliged to leave their cars, some of them damaged in the attempt to get them through the hard-packed, drifted snow, on the road and walk the rest of the journey to the village.

However, by noon Monday word came that one plow was working in toward Millbrook from the Blackstock area, and the other by the south gravel road. Many who had members of their families home for the Easter week-end, and who must be back to work by Monday, kept the Reeve's phone busy on Sunday asking for help, or at least information. Others who had rashly gone away on Good Friday, or who had made the trip to Peterborough on Saturday, were obliged to leave their cars, some of them damaged in the attempt to force them through the hard-packed drifts, on the road or in the ditch, and walk the rest of the way to the village.

Drivers of bread trucks, or trucks with milk and other necessary supplies, suffered hours of delay on Saturday trying to reach their local destination, some of them having frozen ears, and goods, and making their rounds here late in the evening, instead of in the afternoon, as usual. Some loyal Orangemen who motored to Pontypool for a special meeting on Thursday evening, were held over until Saturday, when they finally came to Cavan by train, and walked in; J. L. Byam's car was abandoned, because of the storm, near Pontypool, and is still there, awaiting the hoped-for opening of the county road, providing the larger plow gets through, even as far as Millbrook, during Monday afternoon. The ability of many electors to get out to vote on Tuesday will undoubtedly be affected by road conditions.

Bucko McDonald Gets Call For Church's Post

TORONTO, March 26.—(CP)—Time has flown since Wilfred (Bucko) McDonald was the toast of Detroit and the champion hamburger consumer of the National Hockey League.

Now the bouncing defenceman, in the uniform of Toronto Maple Leafs, is set to oppose his old Detroit teammates in a Stanley Cup playoff game—but only because of an injury to Jack Church. There is nothing to indicate he will see any more service in the cup series than this one game tonight.

Church, rookie defenceman, who starred when Toronto defeated Chicago in the first round of playoffs, will miss the opened of the best-of-three set with the Red Wings because of a hip injury. Coach Dick Irvin called on McDonald, who has seen little active service in recent weeks, to replace Church beside Wally Stanowski.

It's a dramatic opportunity for Bucko, wiser and more serious at 28, to recapture some of the playoff glory that was his when Detroit won the Stanley Cup in 1936 and 1937. Those were the days when he slapped opposition forwards into the stands and ate as many as 10 hamburgers at a sitting, to the vast delight of Detroiters. There were sounder Red Wings but McDonald signed more autographs than his teammates.

Been Sitting Out

The Red Wings slipped from the glory heights in 1937-38, and McDonald slipped too. He was sold last winter to the Maple Leafs, who had owned him originally and let him go from their old Buffalo farm club to a Detroit farm.

At training camp last fall, McDonald held his own and appeared ready for a successful season as a rushing blue-liner. He didn't maintain the pace, though, and when the stretch was reached Stanowski and Church were working together regularly, while Captain Red Horner and Bingo Kampman formed the other defence pair. McDonald sat out with Reg Hamilton, who was hampered by a groin injury.

It's almost certain the Leafs won't carry six defencemen next winter. With Church ready to return for the second contest of the Detroit round, McDonald has to produce tonight or become a highly probable candidate for relegation to the minor leagues.

The Red Wings, rivalled only by Montreal Canadiens for the frequency of their lineup changes this winter, finally have hit on a clicking combination that was hot enough to score nine goals in the three games of the preliminary round with New York Americans. The framework is composed of such dependable veterans as Tiny Thompson, Ebbie Goodfellow and Syd Howe.

BIMINI, Bahamas, March 26. — (CP). — Paul Chotteau, French marathon swimmer, began a projected 71-mile swim across the gulf stream at 7:08 a.m. EST today.

Chotteau, 245 pounds and 42 years old, hoped to complete the swim in about 36 hours, which would take him ashore at Palm Beach, Fla., tomorrow evening.

He is accompanied by the schooner Sea Breeze and two dories.

Still Eats Anything

UTICA, N.Y., March 26—(AP)—Dr. Edwin W. McQuivey, 100 years old today, still eats anything he wants and takes a drink when he fells like it. But he has cut his cigar ration from 50 a week to one after every meal. A pipe is his constant companion between cigars.

Dr. McQuivey recalls shaking hands with Abraham Lincoln when the latter stopped in Utica on the way to his presidential inauguration.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Secretary Jim Dorris recently notified the ball moguls in Toronto that the Petes expected to return to the senior diamond wars, but the club could not subsidize T.B.A. teams to come here for games this year. Locals had to pay Toronto squads $35 each to come to Peterborough in '39, and the Petes got nothing in return. They feel that they deserve a better break in the summer of 1940, if it means having only one Toronto club in the circuit. A loop like maybe Hamilton, Port Credit, Toronto Grads, Oshawa and Peterborough. There has been no answer yet, and not a great deal can be done in organization work for a week or two. It looks like the locals will lose about three ballasters, but all this will be dealt with early in April.

* * * * * *

Among O.S.A. rule changes made this year is one calling for junior "A" clubs to represent cities of over 10,000 population. Another one opens the residence rule up wide to soldiers, who shall upon demand present proof of transfer for soldiering reasons. Juveniles will just fight it out for zone titles and not an all-Ontario championship. Trophies are now up for intermediate "A" and junior "B" winners. Steel spikes may be worn in all series, if approved by the O.S.A. as to type. They can't be more than ⅝ inch high nor sharpened. Rubber-studded shoes may be worn, if preferred. A batted or thrown ball touching a person not in the game is ruled a block (except wild pitches or passed balls) and the umps must declare it, baserunners taking one base as well as the one they were going towards when the block occurred. Those are the main rules passed this year.

* * * * * *

Denting The Hemp

A checkup on the Petes' scoring averages in the round-robin puck series shows Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins tied atop the heap with 14 points each. Honey scored seven and aided seven more, whilst Bun rapped in 10 and helped on four. Their line-mate, Art Heal is next with seven, while Joe Blewett heads the second line with six. The rest are closely bunched, Don Crowe edging the defencemen with four points. Reason Starr is down so far is because he missed three games. The gang tossed the rubber into rival cages 33 times or 5½ a game, which isn't bad in playoff competition at all.

* * * * * *

These figures are just for six games, the Petes having completed their round-robin schedule and are now awaiting the final O.H.A. intermediate "A" playoff series with Kitchener or Owen Sound. The Buckaroos played and won another game—knocking off Port Colborne here 4-1—but we didn't count it since the Incos have since dropped out of competition. In that tilt, Tompkins had two goals and an assist, Heal one counter, and Coughlin a goal, J. Jopling assisting on it. None of the locals spent much time in the sin bin for penalties during the round-robin fiasco. And so they await the finals.

Puck fans here are still sizzling at the O.H.A. action in delaying round-robin games, thereby standing up the Petes for a week and in all likelihood robbing both players and fans here of a home game. What if the Petes are advised to open the finals here Friday against the Greenshirts, and there is no local ice left? With Marlboros due back in Oshawa—if that series isn't terminated sooner—on Friday 'gainst the Generals, the Buckland band would be plumb out of luck for home ice. It was a raw deal all around for the Petes simply because the O.H.A.—which let the Collingwood and Owen Sound squads both into the series when only one should have entered—likes more playoff gates and more five p.c. cuts.

Curlers concluded a successful season last eve with the annual meeting and prize presentations. As the retiring prexy, G. D. Carlisle, said: "It was a good season for competition, marked by fun and enjoyment for all the members and I do not believe there is a member of the club this year who does not take a win or a defeat with the same grace." He paid tribute to the late Al Sharpe. Various business matters were left in the hands of the new executive for the benefit of this thriving club. Officers elected are: Hon. Pres., G. D. Carlisle; president, T. A. Mackay; vice-prexy, Thos. McArthur; sec.-treas., Harry Poote; committee of management, George Cairns, E. L. Sackville, Jas. Harkness and George Green; O.C.A. delegate, Ray Best, with Maurice Cruthers as alternate; chaplain, Rev. Easton; umpire, Herb Martin. The executive will appoint the open spiel committee.

Whoops, Hoops & Oops!

Second games of the two-in-three final playoff series in the Girls' Basketball League will be staged tomorrow (Wednesday) e'en in the Y.W.C.A. At 6.45, Westclox meets St. John's in the return junior joust, the Saints copping the first nod; while at 7.45, it's "Y" Gym against Quaker Aces in the second senior struggle, the Aces being one up. Both should be nifty numbers with elimination facing two squads. St. Catharines will be here Saturday to tackle the Orfuns at seven p.m. in an L.O.B.A. playdown contest. More on it again.

* * * * * *

Annual O.B.A. session is at Welland on April 6th, and we haven't heard anyone from here planning to attend. The local club won't send any delegates, but possibly Bill Kay or Max Swanston—as former O.B.A. members—might make the trip. Otherwise, Bob Elliott of Deloro and Ken Colling of Belleville (present members in the east) will be the only delegates from Central Ontario. 'Tis noted in the nomination list this spring for the executive, Ken Colling is running again, and Bill Kay of Peterborough has also been nominated. Dunno who nominated him, and Bill just recently remarked he did not have time for the job, but he may have reconsidered. It would be nice to again have a local man on the O.B.A.

Defenders of the Allan Cup, Port Arthur Bearcats, opened the playoff season by defeating Geraldton 4-3 in a game that saw both the Miners and the Bearcats going wide open in one of the fastest struggles of the season. Both Goalie Jackie Nash, of Port Arthur, and Goalie Webb, of the Miners, played brilliantly and during the first two periods it appeared as if the Miners might take the Dominion champs. Maple Leafs Win Exhibition Game

BARTOW Fla., March 26 — The Maple Leafs utilized five hits to such good advantage Monday afternoon that they brought their grapefruit league record up to .500 with a 9-6 triumph over Indianapolis Indians. Outhit 12-5 by the American Association outfit, the Leafs didn't waste a blow and left only two runners stranded.

While Earl Caldwell, Carl Fischer and Walter Lanfranconi were being tagged fairly consistently by the enemy, Harley Boss, Eric Tipton and Red Ermisch came up with clouts that did as much damage as the even dozen Indian drives combined.

When the Leafs faced a 4-1 deficit going into the sixth, Tipton banged a single after two errors and a pair of walks had counted one run and left the sacks clogged. Before the frame closed, Ermisch doubled two more runs home with the only other hit of the frame.

Kentucky Horses Kept Idle By Cold

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 26.—Continuance of cold weather has brought uneasiness to the "hard-boots" hopeful of seeing a Kentucky-wintered horse win the Kentucky Derby May 4.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, 1-2 winterbook choice to romp home first in the $75,000 added Churchill Downs classic, wintered at Bradley's Idle Hour farm near Lexington.

A prolonged spell of inclement weather that has interfere with training schedules of "Bimey" and numerous other Derby candidates both here and in the Bluegrass, prompted one track scout to remark:

"If we don't get a break in the weather, and that right soon, you can count the 'Boots,' including Bradley and Bimelech, out of the Derby picture and start casting your peepers around for some horse which wintered in the south."

Derby nominees which have been favored this year by warmer climes include Andy K., Portanco, Rough Pass, Roman Flag, Dit, Prompt Pay, Red Dock, Gramps, Mioland, Blue Suit and Royal Crusader.

Hollywood Zoo Goes Broke, Closes

Behind his remark is a human interest story and a tale of two years of struggle to keep interest alive. Damaged heavily in the 1938 flood, the zoo never quite recovered. School children poured in pennies and nickels at benefits, but it wasn't enough. A severe blow was the death several months ago of Anna May, veteran film elephant and one of the chief attractions.

The human interest story is that of Olga Celeste, who came west in 1910 with Col. W. N. Selig, zoo founder. She remained to become its chief trainer and one of the few women who will perform with the ever-dangerous leopards.

One by one in recent weeks, she watched the population dwindle as animal after animal was sold. Finally it came to the "cats."

"I mortgaged my furniture," she says. "I borrowed from friends. I managed to get enough money to buy them myself. I didn't want anyone else to have them."

High School Play Registers Hit

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26. — (ENS).—A one-act play, "Swept Off Her Feet," highlighted the program sponsored by Third Form students before members of the High School Literary Society. Six students made up the cast which found its setting in the home of Mr. M. Holloway, wealthy vacuum cleaner manufacturer, and though humor dominated the entire performance, a well developed plot was expertly handled by a cast that included R. Peloquin, Bill Mowatt, P. MacDonald, H. Nicholson, June Burgiss and Bob Curle.

Opening the program was a chorus by the whole form followed by the selection of Dorothy Redden as critic.

Monica DeCarrol and Helen Nicholson received much well deserved applause for their vocal rendition of "In The Mood," which was put across with considerable added effect, as Miss DeCarrol wore an evening dress while Miss Nicholson was in top hat and tails. After the closing chorus "Adolph" by the form, Miss Redden gave the critic's report, labelling the program "the best of the year."

Present Prizes To Victors For Good Year

T. A. Mackay was elected president of the Peterborough Curling Club for 1940-41 at the club's annual meeting last night in the Charlotte Street clubroom. He succeeds G. D. Carlisle, who becomes honorary president. Mr. Carlisle was chairman of the well-attended meeting.

The complete slate of officers named was:

Honorary president, G. D. Carlisle; president, T. A. Mackay; vice-president, T. F. McArthur; secretary-treasurer, H. F. Foote; committee of management, George Cairns, E. L. Sackville, George Green, James Harkness; O C A representative, Ray Best; alternative, Maurice Cruthers; open bonspiel committee, to be appointed by executive (three members); chaplain, Rev. G. S. Easton; auditor, J. Robinson; umpire, Herb. Martin.

President Speaks.

In his presidential address, Mr. Carlisle briefly outlined the activity of the club of 172 members during the past successful season. He dealt with the various city and district competitions in which local curlers participated and stated it was a highly successful winter for curling and marked by fun and 100 per cent. sportsmanship by the members. The speaker thanked all who had co-operated during the 1939-40 season, and mentioned the donation of the Harry Foote Trophy for the club championship. In conclusion, Mr. Carlisle paid respect to the late Al Sharpe, who passed away last winter.

Secretary H. F. Foote gave the financial report, showing a good balance on hand, and it was confirmed by the auditor's report. The various chairmen of committees, including Ray Best and Thomas McArthur, reported and added suggestions, following which Ray Best reported on the annual Ontario Curling Association meeting, of which he was representative and is now an O.C.A. executive member.

Under the heading of "new business," several matters were threshed out, including the possible purchase of new stones, rink insulation, artificia lice, and general ice conditions.

Motions of thanks were passed to the auditors, press, those who donated prizes during the season and to the secretary for his trophy.

Following some general discussion, the meeting terminated with the presentation of trophies and prizes to the winners for the season. Following are the winners:

MARLBOROS DEFEAT THE OSHAWA GENERALS IN OVERTIME GAME

Toronto Outfit Now Leads 2 to 1 In Games

OSHAWA, Mar. 26. — Toronto's amazing Marlboros stunned a sell-out crowd of 4,500 Oshawa fans here on Monday night by surging through to a sensational 6-5 overtime to take the lead in the three-of-five series for the O.H.A. Junior A championship.

Oshawa won the first game at home, 10 to 2, but the Dukes came back on Toronto ice to record a 4-3 overtime victory. They now lead 2-1 in games. The fourth and possibly deciding game will be played at Maple Leaf Gardens on Wednesday night.

Although Marlboros jumped into a two-goal lead in the first five minutes of play, they relinquished their margin early in the second session and from then on had to wage an uphill battle to stay in the contention. Oshawa took the lead three times after tying the count, but each time the dauntless Dukes came roaring back to equalize, levelling the count at 5-5 the third time with less than two minutes of regulation time remaining.

The winning goal was sniped after 5:37 of the overtime frame when Goldham broke from an Oshawa pressure play and fed Gillespie a pass in the clear. The latter made no mistake with a sizzling drive from ten feet out that handcuffed McManus.

It was a magnificent duel between two great little hockey machines, the type of tense duel that only the breaks decide and the fact that the Dukes emerged victorious was tribute to their fighting spirit more than any laxness on Oshawa's part. The defeat was the first in two years for the Generals on their own ice. It brought back memories of that memorable series two years ago when Oshawa eliminated the then standout Marlboro team. History has a strange habit of repeating and this time the underdogs have another grand chance of coming through.

Dukes Break in Front.

Marlboros gave the partisan home crowd a sample of things to come when they broke in front with two goals, capitalizing on a penalty to Ritchie. Big Alec Davidson punched home the first and the effervescent George McNamara playing one of his greatest games, slipped in for the second. No sooner had the teams returned to full strength than Goldham was chased and an Oshawa power play made the count 2-1 while he was off, Eddolls scoring. The tally remained that way until seventeen seconds of the second period. Scotty Mair of the Dukes was finishing out a first-period penalty as the session opened and on the first rush Ritchie cut in to blaze a hot drive past Moores.

Oshawa moved ahead for the first time when Nick Knott laced a hard drive that caught Moores on the shoulder and bounced into the net while the teams labored shorthanded at the 6:52 mark. Marlboros rallied desperately toward the close of the period and Davidson's rush and passout was whipped home by Tommy Depew.

Davidson drew a penalty as the period ended, and during a power play Oshawa claimed a goal. But it was no dice, although the goal judge was replaced by Lex Chisholm of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who lives in Oshawa.

Oshawa Gets Flukey Goal.

Once again Oshawa displayed rare opportunism with Davidson still serving time as the third period got under way, the Generals scoring on the first attempt. It was a flukey goal at that, Ritchie's shot striking Goldham's skate and caroming into the Toronto net. That looked like the big break of the game, but still fighting desperately the Dukes came back to level the count at the 12:17 mark when Teddy King fought for and gained possession of the puck back of the Oshawa cage, flipped a pass out to Bobby Dew, and the latter trickled a drive past the diving McManus.

The pace seemed to be telling more on the Generals than Marlboros at this stage, but for the third time since the start of the second period, Tracy Shaw's Dominion champs broke in front again. Norm McAtee gave Roy Sawyer a relay in the clear and the right winger made no mistake. That made it 5 to 4 with less than three minutes to go, but back came the Dukes in indomitable manner. A rush engineered by George McNamara produced the tying goal at 18:27. Doug Gillespie was the marksman, but Scotty Mair and Alec Davidson had a hand in it, setting up the pay-off position for Gillespie.

Wearied a trifle now by the sizzling pace, the teams sparred cautiously as the overtime opened. Oshawa had the best chance in the early minutes when Hellyer raced in on Moores unmolested, but the diminutive netminder threw off the shot. Marlboros got their major break during a severe Oshawa ganging bee.

Cotton Jumps On Ice

Probably the most surprised and certainly the most thrilled persons in the arena at the final bell were the Marlboro players. Coach Hal Cotton was on the ice in nothing flat to cheer his youthful heroes and pandemonium reigned in the Dukes' dressing-room. Everybody was a hero and there was a new spirit in the club as the boys looked forward to Wednesday's game, which they figure will be the toughest duel of the year.

Blue Devils Are Jubilant After Victory

Fighting an uphill battle all the way Kirkland Lake Blue Devils provided plenty of thrills for the fans, when they defeated Toronto Goodyears 3-2 in Kirkland Lake to take a two-game edge in their best-of-five series for the all-Ontario senior hockey crown. The three stars of the Kirkland Lake team are shown, ABOVE, in a jubilant mood, LEFT to RIGHT: "Blink" Bellinger, Dick Kowcinak, and Johnny McCreedy.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

By The Associated Press)

LAREDO, Tex., March 26—(AP)—There's a hard job in store for Fred Haney when the time comes to reduce St. Louis Browns' pitching staff. And until he can test them against major league opposition he won't name even a limited list of players certain to be with the club when the season opens.

"The pitchers are so much alike and they are all so good against this minor league competition that it's going to be tough to decide which ones to keep," Haney explains.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — Paul Dean, who was planning to retire a few weeks ago, now has hopes of sticking with New York Giants. He tried his arm pitching to batters yesterday, then remarked, "So far, so good. My arm feels great and the ball was alive."

Still Manager Bill Terry was seen conferring with Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, and it's reported he'd like to get Fiddler McGee or Mort Cooper.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Off the records, Brooklyn's Dodgers are the leading long distance clouters of the "Grapefruit League." Six homers against Detroit yesterday—two each by Joe Vosmik and Peewee Reese—brought their total to 22 this Spring. But the teams they have played have hit 21. It's all explained by the right field fence at their Clearwater field—290 feet from the plate and low, and the wind usually blows in that direction.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—Starting a roundabout journey back to New York with today's game against the Giants, the world-champion Yankees discovered they have not yet put their regular team on the field for an exhibition game. Joe DiMaggio, Red Rolfe and Bill Dickey haven't played much and Joe Gordon has been out five days with a cold and a bruised thigh.

HAINES CITY, Fla.—The presence of Dick Bartell in the Detroit infield certainly makes it sound alive. Dick is a holler guy of the Frank Crosetti variety and the Tigers haven't had a noise-maker since Hank Greenberg turned silent.

Harringay Wins Blackout Honors

LONDON, March 26—(CP Cable).—Harringay Greyhounds emerged as winners of the "blackout" title in the English national hockey league, Repeating their success of last season, the Greyhounds took the championship with a final 2-2 draw against Harringay Racers Saturday night.

In the final league match last night, the Racers beat Wembley Lions 4-3 and became runners-up.

This season's schedule was curtailed by the war, but Canadian players who remained in London played in the series in which Earl's Court Rangers and Streatham Tigers were the remaining teams. Teams were limited to 10 men and at least four were English players.

Remember When—

Toronto Maple Leafs scored a sensational upset in a Stanley Cup game four years ago tonight when they took advantage of a misconduct penalty handed Eddie Shore of Boston Bruins to score six goals in less than 12 minutes, eliminating a four-goal lag in the round, taking the game 8-3 and the round 8-6. They went on to eliminate New York Rangers in a later series, but lost the final to Detroit Red Wings.

Sets Boat Record

Driving at an average of 97.447 miles per hour in his 732-cubic inch "Gold Cup Class" speed boat, Lou Pagcol of Los Angeles sets a new world mark in a run at Newport, Cal. This speed has been passed only by Sir Malcolm Campbell's huge unlimited class hydroplane.

Blue Devils Nip Goodyears 3-2 For Second Win

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., March 26 — (CP). — Kirkland Lake Blue Devils stood on the threshold today, confident that the way was open for them to win the Ontario Senior Amateur Hockey championship.

The fleet champions of Northern Ontario bowled over Toronto Goodyears, 3-2, here last night in the third game of their best-of-five series in Allan Cup playdowns, needing only a win here tomorrow night in the fourth game to eliminate the Toronto team. Kirkland Lake won the first game 4-3 in Toronto and the second was a 1-1 tie.

Playing manager Lex Cook himself delivered the final touch to the Blue Devils' victory, scoring the winning goal early in the third period after Herbie Mortimer had turned aside shots by Alex Duff and Johnny McCreedy.

Only for two minutes of the first period did Kirkland Lake have trouble. Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty sifted through the Blue Devils defence twice in the first two minutes, scoring both times on plays by Johnny Imlach.

Beating the defence time and again, the home team was baffled by Mortimer until Dick Kowcinak finally rammed the disc home in the second. It was in the same period that Ray Milton tied the score, offsetting the second of O'Flaherty's goals.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP).—Clydell Castleman's poor showing is the biggest disappointment of the spring to Bill Terry . . . Young Al Davis, who is not in very good repute with polite fistic society because of his candy store smackings, etc., will be given a terrific buildup by the fight-mob . . . First step was to appoint the sauve Lew Burston as his manager.

Attention, Scouts: Here is the announcement you have been waiting for! . . . Down in Dixie there's an ambitious 18-year-older who can hurl a rock 397 feet with his left arm and 227 with his right . . . His control is so good he's been barred from all the ball throwing games at the county fairs . . . He doesn't chew, but goes for a root beer or two on Saturday nights . . . He has his own uniform and a home made bat with which he socked a 400-foot homer plumb over the school house last summer . . . He'll work for $2 a week and his board and if he doesn't win four of his first five games, he'll pay his own board . . . All he asks is a chance. . . . P.S.: Larry Williams, manager of the Lawrenceville (Va.) club has the inside track.

Here are the figures: Sam Boston, one of the better Broadway handicappers, is the first out with figures on the major baseball league races . . . In the American league the Yanks are 1-3, the Red Sox 5-1, the Indians 8-1, Detroit 10-1, White Sox 12-1, Washington 30-1, Philadelphia 50-1 and St. Louis 200-1... The Cards are quoted 2-1 in the National, followed by the Reds 5-2, Cubs 6-1, Dodgers 6-1, Giants 8-1, Pirates 10-1, Bees 50-1, Phills 200-1.

Rangers Gamble On Whipping Bruins Tonight

NEW YORK, March 26—(CP).—The crops haven't prospered on New York Rangers' farms this year, so foreman Lester Patrick probably knows better than anyone that if the present Rangers aren't good enough he can't expect a Stanley Cup harvest until the farms produce again.

The Rangers weren't good enough last season, but the crops at Philadelphia were ripe for reaping and Patrick came up with Alf Pike and Kilby Macdonald, the outstanding first-year man of the National Hockey league. They were just part of the championship production last season.

Edmonton Roamers went to the Canadian junior amateur final; Philadelphia Ramblers took their portion of the International-American league and New York Rovers won the championship of the Eastern United States amateur league. Only the Roamers have survived this year ,the Ramblers finishing out of the Int-Am playoffs and the Rovers third.

Out For A Win

So it's sink or swim for the Rangers with their present personnel for a while, and the propects aren't too good for they open tonight's fourth game of the best-of-seven cup semi-final trailing Boston Bruins one game to two. The Bruins are rolling fast on the momentum of two straight victories at home.

Every ticket for the game was sold yesterday, assuring the teams of a roaring crowd of more than 15,000 who expect to see the Rangers attempt every trick to draw even. If the Blueshirts lose tonight, the series will be as good as over for the Bruins then would have two of the remaining three games at home, where even the Rangers admit the champions have an edge.

Confident the series would end in five games, the Bruins arrived from Boston last night under Coach Cooney Weiland and were sent to bed early. They were at full strength except for Mel Hill, whose broken ankle bone will keep him out for the rest of the season. Red Hamill probably will replace him with Bill (Flash) Hollett as the utility man.

Petes Score 33 Goals In Series

In their six round-robin O.H.A. intermediate "A" games—the one tilt with Port Colborne is not counted—the Petes have scored 33 goals or 5½ each contest. Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins are tied on top in scoring during this period, each compiling 14 points to stay well ahead of their teammates. Don Crowe with four leads the defencemen. Eddie Starr played only in three of the games. Following are the round-robin scorers:

Player	Goals	Assists	Points
Tompkins	7	7	14
Kingdon	10	4	14
Heal	3	4	7
Blewett	3	3	6
J. Jopling	3	2	5
Crowe	3	1	4
Coughlin	1	3	4
F. Jopling	2	1	3

Kenora Thistles Will Represent Manitoba In Hockey Playdowns

WINNIPEG, March 26—(CP).—With interprovincial junior and senior hockey playdowns in full swing in Western Canada only four teams remained in each division today.

The last provincial championship was decided last night when Kenora Thistles won the Manitoba junior title by defeating Winnipeg Elmwood Maple Leafs 7-2 at Winnipeg to sweep a best-of-five series in three games.

Thistles, representing an Ontario town but playing under jurisdiction of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association, reached the Western semi-final bracket wit hthe Thunder Bay champions, Port Arthur. The best-of-three series opening Thursday night will be played in Winnipeg.

Meanwhile Regina Abbott-Generals, Saskatchewan champions, deadlocked the other western junior semi-final at Edmonton by beating Edmonton Athletic Club, 1939 national finalists, 5-3. The Albertans won the first game 6-4 and the third in the best-of-five round will be played at Edmonton tomorrow.

Activities continue tonight on the senior front. Port Arthur Bear Cats, defending Allan Cup champions, open a best-of-five series with the Saskatchewan representatives, Moose Jaw Millers, at the Lakehead City.

The British Columbia - Alberta play-off between Trail Smoke Eaters and Calgary Stampeders resumes at Calgary beclouded by Trail's protest of Calgary's 3-0 first-game win on grounds Stampeders used an ineligible player. No decision has been announced on the protest so far.

KIPLING'S MSS.

LONDON—(CP).—Manuscripts of Rudyard Kipling were left to the British Museum by the will of his widow. The museum's legacy consists of books of bound manuscripts and a collection of the bard's works.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XXVIII

ROCK looked ugly. "So. That's the swell welcome I rate, is it?" he said sullenly as he looked at Janis and Stephen.

"How do you do, Mr. Conover," said Dr. Black coolly, without offering his hand.

"You—you surprised me, Rock. I'd no idea you were coming," put in Janis nervously.

"So I gathered. Sorry to interrupt your little conference." He shot it out sarcastically. "Perhaps your friend——"

"Dr. Black IS my friend as well as his sister," said Janis stoutly. "They've done everything for me."

Rock ignored this. "I couldn't locate you in town, but I had a hunch you'd be here. I'll take you home now, I suppose you live somewhere." He spoke with the finality of a man whose wishes are low.

"I live here at Bridgecliff," Janis slowly informed him.

Cunning and suspicion crept into Rock's face. She was a little afraid of him now. "I'm secretary to Miss Black," she added hastily.

Rock laughed hollowly. "Kind of a nifty arrangement, what! By the way, where IS Miss Black?"

Janis clenched her fists at her sides, dug her nails into her palms, shot an appealing glance at Stephen.

Stephen Aroused

Cold fury blazed on Rock's face. He chopped out: "You, Janis, and this man! I come to get my wife and find——"

"I'm staying at my club in Los Angeles, if it's of interest to you," Stephen Black told Rock, dangerously level.

"A fine alibi! It sounds pretty! When a man deliberately steals a fellow's wife—" sneered Rock, taking a menacing step toward Stephen.

"I'll give you a chance to take that back, or regret it," offered Stephen, his tolerance ebbing.

"I take back nothing."

"Please, Rock—Stephen!" frantically cried Janis.

But Stephen had something to do and he proceeded to do it. His fist shot out, and Rock Conover's sturdy figure swung back, came to rest in the middle of a bed of soft ivy, like so much rubbish.

Janis gave an exclamation of fear. She ran to the motionless Rock, knelt beside him. Stephen Black stood wordlessly by for a bare instant, saw Rock's eyelids flutter, knew he was coming around. Then without a backward glance, he walked swiftly toward the house.

"Rock—are you all right?" Janis laid a trembling hand on his cheek.

"Sure. That black-hearted scoundrel—he couldn't hurt me," he muttered. He raised himself on an elbow, glared at Janis. She saw then how deeply the marks of dissipation were etched on his handsome face. She shivered with apprehension. He would stop at nothing now. He would set out deliberately to ruin Stephen Black, if some one did not stop him. And she was the only one who could!

"Rock, listen—any man would have acted as Dr. Black did. Your accusations were so—so silly. Your imagination was working overtime. Do you think it would be easy to—to fall for——" she purposely used Rock's vernacular, "such a homely man?"

Same Old Rock.

Rock's expression slowly changed. Suddenly, the old assurance leaped into his piercing brown eyes. Janis knew he was congratulating himself upon his own good looks, counting on them again to hypnotize his own wife.

He sat up, brushed wavy brown hair back from his damp forehead, felt his jaw where Stephen's punch had landed. He locked his arms around his knees and sat there contemplating her.

"Well—I always thought you had a soft spot for that guy—but I guess if you can't stand his ugly mug, it's O. K. with me. But somehow it riled me—finding you two together."

He got to his feet, brushed dry leaves off his pearl gray trousers, pulled down his pearl gray coat. He smiled confidently. "Let's get going," he flung out breezily. "We'll go house-hunting—or maybe a swell apartment would do the trick. Want to know something? I'm leading man for Jilly Morse in her next picture, 'Wild Love'—with a salary that'll make your head swim. We're going to live, Kid—and how!"

Unexpectedly, he grabbed Janis around the waist and crushed her to him. His kiss was long and nearly brutal. She drew away finally, filled with loathing. She wondered how she could keep from showing her dislike of him. Nettie came into the garden carrying the baby.

"Hi—what the dickens. It isn't—"

"Yes—this is your daughter, Mary Jane. And Nettie—the most perfect nurse a baby ever had."

"Thank you, mam," said Nettie.

Rock held out a finger that Mary Jane immediately clutched in a tiny pink hand.

Rock laughed proudly. See! See this! She knows me! She knows her own father!"

Janis brightened somewhat. If Rock were pleased enough about the baby, he might get a new slant on life, be an altogether different man.

He chucked Mary Jane under the chin, made cooing noises, began going through the familiar antics of any admiring father. He sat on the stone bench with his daughter in his arms, going into raptures over her big brown eyes, her wisps of fine blonde hair. "She looks like her ma. She's smart. She'll get places. She got the makings of a film star."

Fancy Changes

Janis, sitting beside him, was only half listening. She was wondering where Stephen went, felt she must speak to him, tell him how sorry she was about everything.

Mary Jane began to whimper, then to cry. Rock looked startled, uncomfortable. In complete disgust he held out the now screaming bundle to Nettie.

"Take here," he said curtly. "Some disposition she's got!"

"All babies cry—they have to—it develops their lungs," Janis told him quickly. Then she kissed Mary Jane's wet cheek and let Nettie take her away.

"She's got a funny way of showing it." He stood up. "Ready to go?" he asked.

Janis remained seated. She looked up at him wonderingly. "Perhaps you'd better explain a few things, Rock—where you've been for the last long months—what you've been doing. All this is quite sudden, you know—you didn't even write."

The bitter recollection of what his unfeeling treatment had done to her morale not so long ago made her rebellious. She couldn't grant any careless request of his now too easily. But the next instant she knew she must let bygones be bygones because of Stephen. Nothing calamitous must happen to Stephen to his fine reputation. In time he would forget her, marry one of the pretty debutantes so eager to capture him.

"Why hash up the past? I intended to write—but you know how it is," Rock said, as if it were a date he'd broken instead of a woman's heart. "I've had to live up to every cent I made—I knew you'd get on somehow. And you did, didn't you?"

Janis soberly watched him hold a flaring match to a cigaret, inhale deeply, blow out a great puff of smoke.

"Gee, you're pretty! Think of it, sweetheart—from now on we'll be together — you and the baby and me."

"I'll have to get some one to take my place here, Rock. Miss Black will be home soon — then probably I can arrange to leave. And—I'd rather not go house-hunting today."

He shrugged, said: "Well, all right. Already he had either forgotten his jealousy of Stephen Black or he hadn't cared nearly as much as he had pretended. "I'll rustle round and pick out a place you can be proud of. Leave it to me!"

The Old Question

He leaned over her, gathered her pale face in his two hands, made her meet his loodshot eyes. "Love me?" he insisted.

"I'll—I'll think about it, Rock. It's been—such a long time," she told him gravely."

He kissed her cheek quickly, straightened. "I'll run along now. Be good. I'll call you."

And Rock Conover, her husband, swaggered across the terrace to his late model blue coupe parked on the drive, like a man who had harmoniously settled everything.

He waved to Janis with gay nonchalance and shot his car out of sight with the speed of a comet. A lacerating sigh escaped Janis. With a heart torn with misery, she went into the house to find Stephen.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

IT LOOKS DIFFERENT

AN ABSOLUTELY correct and sound play by your partner may look like a bad one from your side of the table. Remember, he gets a different view of the situation, sees some things which you do not, and cannot see some of the things which you do. If you feel prone to upbraid him for what he has done, just pause a bit first and see if you would not have done exactly the same in his position.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South

Pass	2 ♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

Just notice here, incidentally, that there were two chances North would answer the heart bid with spades—if either the West or East hand was held by North—against one chance he would bid diamonds.

When West led his spade 3, dummy playing low, East played the 9 and the J won. Then came the club Q to the K and A, the diamond Q to the K, the spade A and K, then four more diamonds, three more clubs and the heart A, the declarer making two overtricks.

West pointed out that, if East had played the Q on the first trick and returned a spade to the A, the K would then have been knocked out. When West later won with the diamond K, he could have cashed the thirteenth spade, holding declarer to a bare game.

Then East answered. The bidding certainly made it sound as if South had the spade A, and West therefore nothing higher than the J at best. If this was so, the Q play would have enabled declarer to get three tricks in the suit, finessing the 10 against the J, whereas holding up the Q would have limited the declarer to two tricks in the suit. East made the correct play, even though it didn't work. In other words, as the doctors say, "The operation was successful, but the patient died."

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended. Is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Needs Of Navy Are Outlined

Something of the courage and fortitude of Canada's men at sea—something of the winter hardships suffered both by those of the merchant marine and of the navy—and something of their urgent need of knitted supplies and comforts from home, was revealed this week by Commander D. W. Farmer, R.C.N., Naval Branch, Department of National Defense, Ottawa.

Speaking to a largely attended meeting of the Women's Committee of the Navy League of Canada (Ontario Division) in Toronto, Commander Farmer commended the work being undertaken for Navy men by many woman's groups in this province. And from him, the gathering, presided over by Mrs. R. C. Matthews, wife of the Honorable R. C. Matthews, heard first hand of the work of those thousands of Canadians who deserve 'our moral support and upbuilding in the face of a task of incredible danger."

"It was their intention to make up "200 ditty bags" for Ontario lads serving in the Canadian navy. Instead of that number, more than 2,000 bags (at an average value of $5 per bag) have already been filled and despatched," according to the report of E. Frank Trimble, general secretary of the Ontario Division of the Navy League.

"Within the past few weeks, many women's organizations have offered their services and are now working for the Navy League in centres throughout this province. And this year, it is hoped more than 25,000 "ditty bags" will be made up for our boys on the high seas."

Women of one Ontario town have already ordered 400 pounds of wool for the making of Navy League supplies, and dozens of other groups are interesting themselves in the league's projects.

"We need their help, to help our men at sea," officials of the Ontario League organization declared today.

The plane is expected to make the flight in 16 hours on a non-stop schedule.

Le Matin said if the trials prove satisfactory, more planes will be built and a regular service inaugurated by the summer of 1941.

8 Scattered Polls Still Missing 400 Soldier Votes

By Staff Reporter

MARMORA, March 27.—George S. White, Madoc lawyer and National Government candidate had a majority of 214 votes over Rork Ferguson, Liberal, in the civilian vote in Hastings-Peterborough riding at noon Wednesday when results had been received from 97 out of the 100 polls. At that time the count was Ferguson 5,135 and White 5,349.

The total vote in the three remaining polls is 70 and on the basis of voting yesterday when little better than a fifty per cent vote was registered there should not be more than half this number cast. The three polls are Dan Wood's residence in Lake Township, North Methuen School House and Poll 70 at Oak Lake School, north of Havelock, and C. Sabine, returning officer at Marmora is doubtful whether these three will be in before Thursday at the earliest.

Big Soldier Vote.

Another condition which might be an important factor in the final decision is the soldier vote in the riding as there was extensive recruiting throughout the eastern portion of the constituency. It is estimated that close to 400 men enlisted in the various active service units and many of these voted, which would indicate the situation will not be cleaned up until after April 2nd when the results of the soldier vote would be known.

White obtained majorities in Madoc, Marmora and Bancroft, while Havelock, Norwood and Coe Hill gave the edge to Ferguson. The latter's strength lay in his own section near Norwood where he dominated the fight, obtaining 103 votes to his opponent's 10 at Indian River. Ferguson also had the edge in the far north near Maynooth but took a beating in the southern section of Rawdon, Stirling and Bonarlaw. The village of Deloro favored White 92 to 48.

TORONTO, March 27 — (CP) — Liberals dominate Ontario's delegation to the new parliament, but the province retains its tough Conservative core.

In yesterday's general election 57 Ontario constituencies elected Liberals or Liberal-Progressives and 25 elected National Government candidates who contested the election within the framework of the Conservative party.

The net result is the National Government representation from Ontario remains the same as the Conservative representation in the last parliament, while the Liberal following is larger by one.

The Liberal net gain was achieved at the expense of Miss Agnes Macphail, U.F.O.-Labor, the first woman to sit in the Canadian Parliament. She met defeat in Grey-Bruce after nearly 20 years continuous service in Parliament.

Ontario was the scene of some of the sharpest political skirmishing of the election campaign and its verdict was awaited with especial interest because of the critical

All Cabinet Returned, Manion, Cahan Among Vanquished

(By the Canadian Press.)

As late reporting constituencies added to the Liberal total today, it appeared possible Prime Minister Mackenzie King might have a government strength of more than 180 members in the new House of Commons—by far the largest in history.

At 2:15 p.m., EST, election of 177 Liberals had been conceded. Five contests were doubtful, four in Alberta and one in Saskatchewan, and Liberal candidates were ahead in all of them.

In the high moment of his triumph, as the Far West still was contributing Liberal victors to his total, Mr. Mackenzie King asked in a speech over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national network that Canadians, "forgetting the differences of the past, join their strength together in the fight for victory, peace and freedom."

The Liberal landslide, achieving even greater proportions than that of 1935 when it returned Mr. King and his followers to power over the

Contest Is Close With Winner Holding Slight Lead

West Peterborough, which in 1935 elected the first Liberal to the Federal House since 1921, returned to its former allegiance on Tuesday when Gordon K. Fraser, National Government candidate, triumphed over R. M. Glover, Liberal nominee in one of the closest elections in local political history. With one Galway and Cavendish polls to hear from out of a total of 104 polling sub-divisions in the riding, Fraser's majority was 158 and the missing poll is to small to change the final result.

The total for 103 polls was: Fraser, 9,599; Glover, 9,441.

In his victory Fraser made probably the best showing in the rural part of the riding that a Conservative candidate has registered, with the result that his city majority of 256 was more than enough to win for him. The Manion standard-bearer not only carried the Conservative stronghold of North Monaghan with a majority of 251 and picked up the biggest lead that Lakefield has ever given a Conservative candidate, a majority of 111 in the three polls, but he carried the traditionally Liberal Township of Smith with a margin of 74 and more surprisingly still had a majority of 21 in Harvey, usually a Santa Claus vote for the Liberal cause. Douro, Ennismore and Otonabee remained true to their Liberal traditions and piled up substantial Glover majorities, but at that Fraser cut down the Otonabee margin below the mark set by the Liberal organization. South Monaghan went Fraser 162 to 149.

Blocked roads prevented many rural voters from getting to the polls, but at that the percentage polled was larger than most workers figured would be possible.

Large City Vote.

In the city the rival political organizations, well supplied with workers and cars, toiled feverishly all day and succeeded in polling a very substantial vote. The city results surprised both sides. In Ash-

Manion Holidays Uncertain; Waits Army Vote

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—The view was expressed in Conservative circles here today that no action would be taken to organize the party's parliamentary forces following yesterday's stunning defeat until such time as Hon. R. J. Manion, National Government leader had an opportunity to think over the situation and make recommendations to his followers.

Dr. Manion said last night he planned taking a holiday after his strenuous campaign but there is a possibility, before he leaves, he will consult with his lieutenants in the party who fought by his side during the contest whether steps be taken immediately to have a seat made available by which he could again enter parliament. He suffered personal defeat in Fort William yesterday so he will not be in the House of Commons next session unless some of his successful followers resign in his favor.

Quebec Liberals Set Pace In Majorities

(By the Canadian Press.)

On the basis of incomplete returns compiled by The Canadian Press at least eight candidates in the traditionally Liberal province had amassed majorities—in some cases pluralities—of more than 10,000.

Eugene Durocher, Liberal member of the last House for Montreal St. James, held the biggest majority for any candidate in the Dominion—a lead of more than 25,000 over his nearest opponent.

Four cabinet members appeared to lead majority holders in four provinces. They are Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Finance, with a plus figure of 2,941 in Prince constituency in Prince Edward Island; Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, 5,545 in Digby-Annapolis-Kings, Nova Scotia; Hon. J. E. Michaud, Minister of Fisheries, 6,486 in Restigouche-Madawaska, New Brunswick, and Hon. J. A. McKinnon, Minister Without Portfolio, 8,007 in Edmonton West, Alberta.

Britons Attempt To Lure Nazi Fleet To Battle

LONDON, March 27.— (CP). — While British warships busied themselves with tightening of the blockade against German ore imports in hope of luring the German fleet into open battle, Great Britain counted on the Royal Air Force to-day for yeoman service against any spread of German submarine raids.

Concentration of British destroyers and submarines in the Skagerrak, off the Danish and Norwegian coasts, was aimed primarily at cutting Germany's ore supplies from Sweden, but neutral observers saw a deeper motive.

They said that if Germany could be goaded to send out a cruiser squadron against thees comparatively light forces, the British probably would have some heavy units nearby to fall upon the Germans with superior power.

The Norwegian Admiralty announced British destroyers were sighted last night that eight or nine British warships were sighted in Norwegian waters on at least two occasions last Friday, when German ships were passing the

Moscow Recalls Ambassador At Paris Request

MOSCOW, March 27 — (AP). — Soviet Russia announced today her Ambassador to Paris is being recalled at the request of the French Government, a request which Tass, official Russian news agency, said was based on an attempt by Jakob Surits, the Envoy, to telegraph felicitations to Joseph Stalin on the conclusion of the war with Finland as a success against "British-French warmongers."

The telegram was stopped by the French censor.

"On March 19 the French Charge d'Affaires at Moscow (Jean) Payart, informed the People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs (Vyacheslaff Molotoff) that the French Government regarded a telegram signed by the Soviet Ambassador to Paris, Surits, and delivered to the telegraph for transmission to Stalin at Moscow on the occasion of the conclusion of a peace treaty between the U.S.S.R. and Finland as intervention by the Ambassador in the internal political life of France.

Some Differences.

"According to Payart's statement, the French Government deems incorrect with regard to the French Government certain expressions in the telegram signed by the Ambassador, underlined in excerpts from the telegram given below, namely:

"Thanks to the wisdom of the Soviet government and to our valiant Red army, the plans of the British-French warmongers who attempted to fan the flames of war in Northeastern Europe again failed.

"Also:

Ottawa Collects Over $31,000 Lost Deposits

(By the Canadian Press.)

The Federal Government will collect probably more than $31,000 in lost deposits of candidates in yesterday's election.

On the basis of incomplete returns, in the civilian vote, compilations by The Canadian Press today showed 157 contestants in the big field of 669 had failed to poll more than one-half the vote of the elected members in scores of constituencies.

In many constituencies more than one candidate lost deposits, and the total of contributors to the national treasury may well exceed 157—at a cost of $31,400 to them—when the complete vote is known.

Each candidate is required to post $200 when nominated. The deposit is lost if he fails to poll half the vote of the elected member of his constituency.

Heaviest losers appeared to be in Quebec, where indications today were that 48 had lost their deposits. In Ontario 41 were possible losers; in Alberta 20 and in Manitoba 18.

The probable losers in other provincese were: Saskatchewan, 12; British Columbia, 10; Nova Scotia, 6; New Brunswick, 2.

King Followers Gain Ground Across Prairies

WINNIPEG, March 27—(CP).—Liberals won stronger parliamentary support in Western Canada on the basis of incomplete civilian returns from yesterday's Federal election than was given them in 1935 when the West sent 37 Liberals and Liberal-Progressives to the House of Commons.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King received personal endorsation in Prince Albert, which he has represented since 1926 and all four of his western cabinet ministers were re-elected by substantial majorities. With eight seats undecided in the four Western provinces, election of 39 supporters of the King administration was indicated.

Liberal strength was maintained in Manitoba and increased in British Columbia. Losses to Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates in Saskatchewan were more than offset in Alberta at the expense of Social Crediters running under the New Democracy banner.

Premier King Paints People's Vote As Highest Service To Canada

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP). — Party leaders and stalwarts had their say after the civilian vote in the Dominion election showed the greatest majority ever recorded for the Liberal party and the failure of Hon. R. J. Manion's National Government followers in their bid for power.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King thanked the Canadian people for their support in a national broadcast last night and said:

"I believe that all who have given the present administration their support today have rendered the highest possible service to our country at this time. Not to our country alone, but also to Britain and France and to those small nations whose freedom has been destroyed, threatened or imperilled by the most relentless, cruel and brutal of forces."

Dr. Manion, in a national broadcast, said he had little to say but declared: "The electors of Canada have decided to continue as they are. That is their right."

Dr. Manion's voice was husky from his long and strenuous campaign and he spoke briefly. "The responsibility continues to be Mr. King's not only to carry on our war effort but to prepare for the after-war. That is the decision of the people. I have no complaint."

When the Altmark was attacked by the Cossack she was backed into Josingfjord, on the Norwegian coast, and run aground. Her propeller was damaged and she remained there for some time.

Regime's War Effort Up For Review In Session Expected May 2 or 9

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP)—Canada's war plans and the accumulated business of a regular session confront the new parliament which Prime Minister Mackenzie King probably will summon to meet early in May.

Armed with the "emphatic majority" he sought in pre-election appeals, the Prime Minister will lay his government's conduct of the war effort before parliament elected yesterday for review. The House also will tackle a backlog of civilian problems left over from the one-day session on Jan. 25.

Parliament likely is to meet either May 2 or May 9, which fall on Thursday, the traditional opening day. This belief is based upon a statement by Mr. King last Jan. 27 when he announced the date of the Dominion election and said he did not believe parliament could be opened until "early in May."

The prospect is that parliament will be sitting throughout the summer months. Mr. King probably will take a short holiday, if circumstances permit, before the opening.

In some quarters the possibility has been suggested that only a brief session would be held with adjournment until fall but it is understood the prime minister would desire to clear up all the tasks of parliament for this year without interruption.

All Must Be Re-Sworn

Meanwhile, Mr. King prepared to carry out the formalities in which he will be sworn in for a fifth time as leader of a "Canadian government. Although Mr. King and his entire cabinet were successful, on the basis of the civilian vote, in yesterday's Dominion election, the ministers all will have to tender their resignations and be re-sworn.

Liberal Ballots Run 53 p.c. Of Total Vote

(By the Canadian Press.)

Incomplete compilations today indicated that Liberal candidates polled approximately 53 per cent of the national vote in rolling up a record party-standing majority in the Dominion election. In the 1935 election 47 per cent of the vote went to Liberals.

Running under the National Government label, followers of Conservative Leader Manion won 33 per cent of the vote-total compared to 30 per cent recorded for Conservatives in 1935. Because C.C.F. and New Democracy candidates contested, in the main, constituencies in the West where returns are delayed, it was not immediately possible to gauge their popular vote with 1935 figures.

The first Canadian Press popular vote summary, with many ridings incomplete, did not make clear whether the record 1935 total vote of 4,406,864 would be exceeded. Heavy snowfall throughout eastern Canada appeared to have held the balloting close to the 1935 figure.

The incomplete compilation based on the civilian vote 3,726,400 votes, Liberals polled 1,969,569 and National Government candidates 1,(233,551. It was certain that both groups would show higher popular vote totals than in the last election when complete results became available.

Old Parties Predominate.

In both Ontario and Quebec the two old-line parties virtually monopolized the votes, whereas in 1935 almost 20 per cent. went to other parties, notably C.C.F. and Reconstruction.

Following is the popular vote by provinces:

Province	Total	Lib.	N.G.	C.C.F.	N.D.	Other
P. E. I.	59,505	33,050	26,445

Totals	3,726,400	1,969,569	1,223,551	305,976	96,337	130,767

The incomplete major-party vote compared to the complete vote in 1935 and 1930, follows:

	1940	1935	1930
Lib.	1,969,569	2,060,890	1,714,860

coast, and that a Norwegian torpedo boat fired a warning shot in one instance.

British foreign office sources said a Norwegian protest alleging that territorial waters had been violated was being studied and "the entire affair is being investigated."

An Important Link

The Skagerrak passage linking the North and Baltic seas, is especially important to Germany in winter, when her ore shipments from Sweden must come down the Norwegian coast.

When the ice is gone, ships can sail from Sweden to Germany inside the landlocked Baltic, where British warships have not yet penetrated, and where battle operations would be hampered in any case by lack of room.

Word that the air force would help combat any Spring rush of German submarines came with unofficial reports that British bombers had sunk two submarines this month in the North Sea and that the big aircraft carrier Ark Royal was on duty again after a "wash and brush-up" at home.

Since the war began, the Ark Royal has ranged from the North Atlantic to South Africa and South America, and it was disclosed that her planes already had been used against submarines.

The British press today published lengthy accounts of the Ark Royal's recent stay at Portsmouth, taunting the Germans for their intimations early in the war that the $15,000,000 ship had been sunk by a German bomber.

For furthering the propaganda battle, the British Broadcasting Corporation meanwhile engaged Karl Stepanek, Czech movie actor who once played in German films, to make German language broadcasts.

Black Replaces Wife In Yukon

DAWSON CITY, Y.T., March 27 — (CP). — The Yukon seat in the House of Commons remains in the Black family under a husband-to-wife-to-husband process.

George Black, one-time speaker of the House, was elected National Government member in yesterday's balloting for Canada's most remote constituency. He succeeds his wife, who sat as an independent Conservative in the last House.

Mr. Black served as speaker during the Conservative administration of Rt. Hon. R B. Bennett before the 1935 election. Ill health forced him out of that campaign, and Mrs. Black took up the electioneering burden in her own behalf. She was successful, and was a member of the opposition from 1935 to 1940. Now her husband is back again, a member of the opposition in the new house that will be predominantly Liberal.

polls fully informed as to the main issues of the campaign and in that regard the Examiner has been a most valuable factor, not only through its news columns where generous space was given all through the election to reports of meetings, but also from the wide circulation my advertising obtained in it, throughout the riding.

The very high level in which this campaign was conducted so far as Mr. Glover and myself were concerned has been most gratifying to me and I am glad of this opportunity to again express my appreciation of the sporting spirit shown by Mr. Glover in appearing at our meeting in the Legion Hall last night and congratulating me. It was a very fine gesture.

My thanks are due to the army of loyal workers in city and rural polling subdivisions for their enthusiastic and effective efforts. Without the help they gave so generously the result would have been different.

Manion Holiday

Reports were heard here today that Dr. Manion already had decided to resign the leadership when his followers convene for the opening of parliament but his office stated this was not true.

Conservative advisers here are still hopeful that soldiers' votes will add a few seats to the National Government column. It is also suggested that if the soldier vote is fairly solid for National Government candidates, that might be considered some vindication of Dr. Manion's campaign effort and a possible factor in determining the leadership question.

Hanson For Leader?

Should Dr. Manion not seek re-election at this time, it is expected the successful National Government candidates will not caucus until shortly before the House opens, likely early in May and will elect a House leader. Hon. R. B. Hanson comes back to Parliament as member for York-Sunbury. He succeeded Hon. H. H. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Bennett cabinet and will likely be one of the names considered if a temporary leader is chosen. Hon. Grote Stirling who was Defence Minister in the same cabinet, has been returned. Hon. Earl Rowe elected in Dufferin Simcoe also served for a short time in Mr. Bennett's Government.

Several Toronto Conservatives here paid tribute to the strong fight Dr. Manion put up against great odds and expressed their readiness to meet his wishes in whatever course he should decide.

"'1. The government of the U.S.S.R. finds no substantial ground for the French government not to regard Soviet ambassador Surits any longer 'persona grata' on the strength of the contents of the telegram signed by Surits for transmission to Moscow, in which no mention was even made of the French government.

"'2. However, inasmuch as the French government formally raises the question of confidence with regard to Surits, the government of the U.S.S.R. informs it that Surits is being released from his duties as ambassador of the U.S.S..R. to France.'"

PARIS, March 27—(CP).—Russia today lacked an Ambassador in this Allied capital and speculation rose as to just how strained Franco-Russian relations were.

The Ambassador, Jakob Surits, was recalled at the request of the French Government which accused him of seeking unsuccessfully to send a telegram to Moscow, saying the Russo-Finnish war had blocked aims of "British-French warmongers," and of making unfriendly remarks about the Allies.

Surits' recall underlined the facts that Paul Emile Naggiar, French Ambassador to Moscow, has been home on "sick leave" for more than a month and that Britain's Ambassador to the Soviet, Sir William Seeds, has been home on leave since last August.

Ivan Maisky, Russian Ambassador in London, has remained at his post despite the cool relations between the two countries.

Informed quarters considered it unlikely that the new French Government of Premier Paul Reynaud, pledged to make war on Germany "in every field," would approve any replacement for Surits. French relations there are in the hands of a charge d'affaires, Jean Payart, whose representations to the Kremlin brought about Surits' recall.

Election Result Known Hour Sooner Than '35

TORONTO, March 27 — (CP) — The Canadian Press set up a record for speed and accuracy in reporting the result of the Dominion election last night. Return of the Liberal Government on the basis of the civilian vote was flashed over the news association's coast-to-coast wire network at 8.47 p.m. EST, 13 minutes before voting ended in British Columbia.

The result of the election was almost an hour faster than in 1935 when a Liberal majority over all was flashed at 9.42 p.m. EST, 39 minutes after the defeat of the government had been reported.

Despite the fast coverage, returns were not published in newspapers or broadcast in any province before the close of polls in that province. This was due to an amendment to the Election Act in 1938 following representations that the speedy CP coverage of the 1935 election returns from the East had affected voting in the West.

The record showing was due to the work of The Canadian Press staff of 200 in bureaux at Halifax, Mont-

Massey a Big Winner.

Though returns from many parts of the Dominion were still incomplete and still lacked the soldier vote, Denton Massey, in Toronto Greenwood, appeared to be among the biggest majority-holders in the National Government ranks. Unofficial returns gave him a majority of 6,836. In Toronto Broadview, Tommy Church, veteran of the House, had a plus figure for the National Government of 6,129.

At the same time, Sam Factor retained the Toronto Spadina seat for the Liberals with a majority of around 6,100.

Ontario's leader for the Liberals, however, appeared to be J. R. Hurtubise, who retained his northern constituency of Nipissing with a majority of more than 16,000.

W. G. Brown, only United Reform member of the last House, was high man in Saskatoon City with a majority of 5,457.

In British Columbia, A. W. Neill, Independent, retained his Comox-Alberni seat with a majority of about 6,000 on incomplete returns.

In contrast, one of the smallest majorities recorded was that for K. J. Cochrane, Liberal, in Cumberland, Nova Scotia, who held a lead of only six votes over P. C. Black, National Government. Guy Demings, C.C.F. candidate, trailed far behind.

Busy Men On British Bomber

A view of the "blister" on the tail of a British bomber, showing the gunner who operates the four machine-guns that are calculated to take care of an enemy attacking the rear of the plane. The British Royal Air Force raids on the German naval and air base at the island of Sylt seems to have proven the efficacy of this defence, for only one British plane was reported lost in the raids.

For Gallantry

Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France, is shown pinning a British decoration on a French sergeant-major for conspicuous gallantry. The French non-com. performed his deed of valor while operating with a British patrol on the western front.

Enjoys International Reputation

Although the Tamblyn Group of Retail Stores operates in Ontario only, they enjoy an enviable record not only in Canada and the United States of America but also in lands beyond the ocean. The latest recognition comes from England where a lady moving to Canada was advised that it was unnecessary to bring over extra supplies as she could procure her requirements at any Tamblyn Drug Store in Ontario. Reports of similar rating are repeatedly heard by us, and some even go so far as to say that in some countries stores similar to the Tamblyn Group are called chemists shops whereas in Canada they are called Tamblyn's. Be that as it may, we thought you would be interested in knowing that the Tamblyn Company are favorably known as running Drug Stores of excellent repute and we welcome the opportunity of advising you that any Tamblyn Drug Store is at your service and at prices we know will appeal—a fact substantiated in this our list of

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1940

The Answer Is Plain

The people of the Dominion wanted Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King to continue as their war leader.

They said so in such a decisive way that it is impossible to find a place to inject doubt as to the meaning of the verdict. It was one of those elections which was never in doubt after the first half-hour of receiving returns had been completed. By 8.50 o'clock the Canadian Press announced a Liberal Government had been returned. And at that time nothing had been heard from Western Canada owing to the difference in time. It was known that the King Government had been returned before the polls had closed in British Columbia.

Undoubtedly from the consideration of personal campaigning Prime Minister King was handicapped because he had to attend to the serious business of war government while the election was on.

Unless a seat is found for Dr. Manion he will not be present in the House to look at the group which followed him into battle and managed to survive. Whether he will be retained as leader is something which the Conservatives will have to decide. Certainly the results of the election fail to indicate that a genius for leadership is one of his major possessions.

Undoubtedly the man made a mistake in cutting adrift from the Conservative party and launching out on the plea that a National Government was what the people wanted to carry them through the war. He was vague to the point of secrecy regarding what he had in mind about National Government. He tried to persuade people it was not Conservative party government, but all the candidates with but one exception were former Conservatives.

We are convinced Dr. Manion made the error of confining his campaign to attacks which were more bitter than constructive. He conceded nothing of worthy war effort to the existing Government. One can step too far over the line that way, and the common sense of the people told them that while the King Government was bound to make some mistakes it could not possibly be wrong all the time.

Col. George Drew was one of the chief assistants in the Manion campaign. The manner in which he stood up under the strain of a continuous campaign was remarkable, but in the end he was not effective. Nor did his alliance with Premier Hepburn in passing the vote of censure on the King Government play any part in the result. Mr. Hepburn can find small satisfaction in the result. He did not take to the platform, but he lost no opportunity to parade his personal and political animus toward Prime Minister King. It would cause no surprise if his excursion into the situation has cost him his definite grasp on the political situation in Ontario.

The result must come with satisfaction to Prime Minister King. He asked for a mandate from the people and he has received it. Received such endorsation that the meaning cannot be mistaken. There can be no other interpretation placed upon it than that the people of the Dominion are satisfied that Mr. King has worked studiously and well with the British Government. The answer is a denial to the charges that graft and favoritism were entering the war business, that Mr. King was lukewarm about the war and had little interest in it. The election has left the situation just about where it was with a Liberal Government in power with an impressive majority.

The returns for the present are based on the civilian vote, and the vote taken overseas will not be revealed until the first of April. To what extent it can or will affect the standing of the parties cannot be known, but it cannot possibly change the outcome.

In Peterborough West

With two polls yet to report, Gordon K. Fraser, National Government candidate, is the winner in Peterborough West with a lead of 176. In spite of the fact that many in the rural sections were unable to reach the polling booths there were actually more votes polled than in 1935 when the total for four candidates was 18,929, while on Tuesday the vote was 18,974.

There was a fair contest in Peterborough West. The Examiner had much to do with the handling of the contest by presenting the addresses of both parties to its readers. In this way there was opportunity for understanding the issues of the campaign, and the people themselves made their decision on the basis of an informed electorate.

The fact that the riding has swung itself out of line with the government in power is one of the incidents of election. People vote only for the candidate in their own riding. Being an Opposition riding is something which should not be weighed too heavily at the outset, and there is no reason to believe that the King Government will be less interested in the affairs of this riding because a supporter of the Government was not returned.

Mr. Fraser is well aware of the needs of Peterborough West, has an intimate knowledge of the problems of people in all parts of the district, and will be able to present them carefully and well.

We doubt if the Liberals in their campaign were as active and as well organized as were the National government supporters. Mr. Fraser had been in the field for months and he built his organization. Mr. Glover came into the contest only a short time before official nomination day. There was too great a tendency on the part of Liberals to depend on the standing of Mr. Glover in the city and the part he had played in many enterprises and good causes. Many of them were too certain that on those grounds he was sure of election.

No Need For Sympathy

Fitz Thyssen, German steel magnate and of great wealth, left Germany several months ago and went to take up residence in Switzerland. He was opposed to the war and blamed the Nazis for it so it was safer for him to get out.

Now he has moved again and is in Paris. Occasionally one sees reference to this man Thyssen as having had the courage of his convictions and so on, but if people want to feel sorry for some one or feel moved to praise some individual they might well look for something better than Thyssen.

Thyssen backed Hitler when he saw him coming rapidly to the front in Germany; he helped to finance the Nazi movement, and he was certain of his reward. He helped to build the machine he now denounces; through his chain of steel mills went the material out of which much of Germany's mechanized army was built. And he would know all the time plain as a pikestaff that the machine he was helping to build was not for the defence of the nation because no nation was thinking of attacking Germany. Therefore Thyssen would know the machine was for aggression. Also he would have Hitler's own book "Mine Kampf" to tell him what it was all about. He would not be like one who dashed his foot against a stone because he walked in the dark. He is in Paris now because he found it unsafe to remain in Germany with the machine he had helped to build and out of the building of which he extracted his full measure of war profits.

Disraeli And Drew

Judith Robinson, writing in the Globe and Mail, is inclined to bend toward the belief that politicians are getting touchy about phrases and adjectives directed at them. Without making use of the names of individuals, the writer says she can find no fault with Col. Drew for having referred to Hon. Norman Rogers as "a dyspeptic little son of Mars." The claim advanced is that the same could have been said of Napoleon Bonaparte. But that was not the entire quotation. It was this:

"That dyspeptic little son of Mars has been a standing joke in every military camp since he blossomed forth as our new war lord last September."

Whatever sting there is in the phrase is in the section omitted by Judith. Looking for a parallel in British history she turned back the pages to the day of Gladstonian Liberals in the Victorian period and assures us that none rose to protest when Disraeli informed Gladstone he "was intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity."

How much difference there is between the statement of Col. Drew and that of Benjamin Disraeli is hard to determine. It cannot be measured exactly in feet or inches or weighed upon scales and reduced to a state of mathematical exactitude. But the difference is there and it is very great.

"Intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity" would spring readily from Disraeli, a master of wit, sarcasm, epigram, and possessed in generous measure of all rhetorical devices. He died 59 years ago but his phrases continue in quotation. That phrase is not merely calling a man a name, but it was fashioned to describe the man against whom it was directed. Gladstone worked on his speeches until they were letter perfect, but his style would appear to the brilliant Disraeli to be ponderous. Disraeli had no educational background; of schooling he had virtually none at all, and his first attempt to speak in Parliament was a fizzle. But the gift was there and finally it broke through to the point of world recognition. A Disraeli thrust was a masterpiece. The dyspeptic reference of Col. Drew was not.

Col. Drew can do much better than that. He was in Peterborough some months ago and spoke at a complimentary dinner. It was shortly after the visit of Their Majesties to this country, and he was referring to the feeling of the people. He did it this way:

"We have been exalted by the unconscious elevation of our own spirit."

That to our way of thinking is so superior to Col. Drew's election time effort at phrase-making in which he referred to Hon. Norman Rogers as a "standing joke," that we believe the Colonel must have slipped into the common error of believing that during an election campaign people prefer their political beef sliced from the rump and cut rather thick.

He's Full Of Complaint

Premier Aberhart of Alberta has a complaint. He said newspapers were trying to make it appear that the return of the Social Credit party was in doubt, and they were doing that in order to stimulate interest for the Liberal party in the Federal election.

If the newspapers are not up to this kind of mischief then they are up to that kind. Always trying to do something a trifle shady. We do not believe Mr. William sees many of the papers. He could have read a couple of weeks ago in the Examiner the opinion that he would win the election. That's honest, Mr. William.

The trouble is that Alberta has such a funny way of counting up its ballots that it's hard to say when a man's in or just half way in. There is both proportional representation and the transferable vote in operation, and one at a time they would be bad enough. Put them together and they are awful. The only way a man can be elected in a hurry is to have him gain a clear majority over all the other candidates. If that isn't done then it is necessary to elect or defeat him by counting the votes again and proceeding to shuffle them around according to the book of rules.

It's as complicated as making out an income tax paper that will satisfy the inspector of taxation and as amazing as seeking to find when and how a hen puts a shell on the egg. That's why newspapers cannot announce definitely how many candidates have been elected for various parties in Alberta and the voting took place a week ago. No paper has so far announced that Premier Aberhart's government was in any particular danger, nor can a paper say yet how much majority the government will have. Papers are not trying to sit on anything which should be made known. Alberta does not yet know the election returns, so how under the sun would the newspapers have that knowledge?

NOTE AND COMMENT

In the previous Alberta election 132 of the 240 candidates lost their deposit. That cannot possibly take place this time because there were but 165 candidates in all.

Just one thing more. The election campaign demonstrated that people who think 20 minutes is the limit for a good sermon sat and listened for 90 minutes to a political address.

Parts of Elgin report a serious shortage of natural gas on which people depend for heating their homes. It may improve now that the election campaign is over.

There was something written once about Spring lingering in the lap of Winter, and our belief is that Miss Spring has been hanging around with the old sugar daddy much too long.

"TOLD YOU SO"

(By A.R.R.)

¶ Three men have stopped me up today, was something that they had to say, nor would they let me go; I had to stand and listen there, and hear them all in turn declare, "You see I told you so."

¶ Elections are just pie for them, far-seeing and observant men, they rather get my goat; today they like to stand and boast, that they could scan from coast to coast, and calculate the vote.

¶ The thing was easy so they said, just start the wheels within the head, see all the cards are dealt; then keep an ear upon the ground, thus public sentiment was found, the country's pulse was felt.

¶ Just talk with people as you go, some useful seed they'll likely sow, you mustn't miss a thing; if you go sleuthing in that way and listen what the people say, you'll see which way she'll swing.

¶ These men all told me of their ways, nor did they wander in a haze, they were observant men; they looked at this and looked at that, while wheels kept buzzing 'neath the hat, it was all pain to them.

¶ There's one thing strange it seems to me, not like things really ought to be, I'd really like to know; just why they wait till voting's done, and then begin to spin and run—and say "I told you so."

Risked Lives As German Mine Taken To Pieces

By the Naval Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian

A CONSIDERABLE number of the German magnetic mines have now been recovered and examined by our experts, and I am permitted to make public some of the details of their construction.

The mine is pear-shaped and can be laid either by submarine or from seaplane by parachute. It weighs complete about 1,500 lbs., and as the practicable load of most German seaplanes does not exceed 3,100 pounds, only two of the mines can be transported by air on any one trip as against the 30 or 40 that form the cargo in a submarine-minelayer.

The explosive used is a well-known compound similar to that used by us and is not something secret of exceptional power. The amount used in each mine is about 700 pounds.

The principle on which it works may be briefly, and non-technically, explained thus. A magnetic "needle" inside the mine is held in a horizontal position by springs no matter at what angle the container may be lying on the seabed. A ship passing directing over the mine attracts one end of this needle upwards, and the opposite end dips until it touches an electrical contact, and so completes a circuit which fires the mine.

This makes it quite clear that it is not, as many people have supposed, the whole mine which is lifted from the sea-bed by magnetic attraction to hit against the hull of the ship. The magnetic field set up by the hull of the ship affects only the actuating needle inside the mine. The casting of the mine is made of aluminium, and all the parts are, naturally, made of non-magnetic material.

There is much drama in the story of the recovery of the first example which our experts were able to dissect. On the night of November 22 artillerymen at Shoeburyness saw a German seaplane drop two objects attached to parachutes, which fell near the low-water line on the foreshore.

THE ADMIRALTY was at once advised, and thence an urgent order was sent to the experts at the Mining School at Portsmouth for them to get to Shoeburyness at once. Meantime a naval officer from Southend took a photographer along the foreshore as the tide fell, and at a respectful distance flashlight pictures were taken of the mine.

By 4.30 a.m.—six hours after the first 'phone call — the party from Portsmouth arrived and set to work. They took their lives in their hands, for they might easily have touched off the mine by some accidental movement, and a week or two later the King decorated all five of them for their bravery.

The first thing was to anchor the mine so that it should not move with the rising tide. Then they made paper rubbings of some of the external fittings in order to have tools made that would unfasten the nuts and bolts. By that time it was again low water. Soon after midday Shoeburyness experimental department had produced the improvised tools, all made of non-magnetic material, and the little party set out across the foreshore again.

Lieutenant Commander J. G. D. Ouvry undertook to tackle the opening of the mine first. He told the others which fitting he would start on, so that if he blew himself up the others would not touch that fitting on any other mine they tried to examine. He worked the fitting loose and found that it appeared to be the detonator. So the whole party then set to work on other parts, and suddenly they had a shock, for one of the fittings they prised off proved to be a a second detonator.

They worked feverishly all through low water, and by 4.40 p.m. they had not only made the mine innocuous, but had loaded it on a lorry for despatch to Portsmouth, where every detail of it could be carefully analyzed and minutely examined by the specialist staff.

To The Editor

EASTER EGGS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Anent the above topic there appeared in Saturday's issue of your paper this sentence "The origin of the Easter egg legend, like many of our customs, is lost in antiquity."

It is true that the custom is very old but its origin is not lost in antiquity. It has a definite religious significance. The egg is a symbol of the resurrection: for just as the chicken breaks with its bill the shell of the egg and thus releases itself by its own power from its temporary tenement, so did Christ by His own power break asunder the barriers that held Him in the sepulchre to rise to a new and glorified life.

WISHFUL THINKING

With so much wishful thinking, it is just as well to note that Anne O'Hare McCormick, European correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Berlin, dissipates the idea that the German war machine has cracked or can easily be vanquished. She says: "The foolish imagine it is cracking or that the morale of the hard-driven population is near the breaking point. Only a catastrophic reverse will overthrow Hitler."—Niagara Falls Review.

BRITISH MEMORY

(Buffalo Courier-Express)

The British are reported to have told Sumner Welles that they will not negotiate with Adolf Hitler or any government headed by him. It seems the British memory recalls certain promises Hitler has made of having no further designs on European territory.

• Is That Westwall Vulnerable?

MILITARY experts are keenly interested in Russia's drive through the Mannerheim line defences to the outskirts of Viipuri. The Mannerheim line was known to be a most difficult obstacle for any invading force, a barrier fully as good as either the Maginot or Siegfried lines. Under the careful direction of Baron Mannerheim, notes the Watertown, N.Y., Times, the Finns had built more than 2,000 steel, iron and concrete pillbox forts entrenched in the ground to a depth of 20 and 30 feet. The walls were six feet thick. The guns were arranged so that if one fort fell deadly cross fire from others would wipe out the advance.

How did the Soviet get through? War correspondents now in Stockholm tell the story. For ten consecutive days Russian artillery maintained steady fire in the Mannerheim sector. On Feb. 26th, for example, 8,000,000 tons of shells were used. On the following day 6,500,000 tons were fired. The average for the ten days was more than 5,000,000 tons.

The shells gradually buried themselves under the concrete forts and in time blew the pillboxes out of the ground. In other cases Finnish gun mechanisms were damaged and thrown out of range. In the Summa area close to Viipuri more than 300 forts were wrecked. Russia's best fighting troops were sent into action and they cut out their way to their objectives.

If the Finns had had fresh troops, the correspondents stress, they might have held back the enemy but after the fall of the pillbox defences they were powerless to resist.

If the Mannerheim line was vulnerable, what of the Western Front defences? The German Westwall, running for 500 miles with a depth of 50 miles, has an estimated 30,000 pillboxes. The French Maginot line is not essentially a pillbox barrier but rather a series of vast subterranean chambers running for miles underground. There are an estimated 6,000 pillbox forts, however.

The Russians proved that such defenses can be penetrated by intensive artillery fire. French heavy guns are the finest in Europe and the French army has a manoeuvrability second to none.

Perhaps the end of the Finnish war is bringing fresh worries to the Nazi high command who have banked so heavily on the impregnability of their Westwall.

• The Truth About Finland

A CARTOON in an America newspaper reflects a too common American opinion that Finland lost the war with Russia because the Allies "let her down."

The cartoon shows France and England, as firemen looking out of the firehall window and congratulating themselves that as the blaze was out they would not now have to go to the fire.

The truth is that:

1. Britain and France had no more responsibility to Finland than the United States had.

2. Britain and France sent substantial aid.

3. They were at all times willing to send more help but Finland and the other Scandinavian countries would not make it possible.

Dorothy Thompson, in the New York Herald-Tribune, puts it more accurately than the Boake Carters, the Walter Winchells, the radio commentators and the "liberal" cartoonists have put it.

She says:

"The greatest neutral in the world, supported by the overwhelming sympathies of its own population, refused to do anything of any vital importance to aid neutral Finland. Congressional debate greatly encouraged the Russians and Germans to believe that, no matter what happened, the United States would not even risk a really useful dollar.

"The Allies, despite the fact that they were already engaged in a serious struggle with Germany, offer to send a hundred thousand men and depleted their own war material stores to send substantial assistance to the Finns.

"Further assistance was impossible because the Germans threatened the whole Scandinavian peninsula with invasion if they allowed it."

STRAWS IN THE AXIS

SIGNOR GIOVANNI ANSALDO, writing in the Telegrafo of Rome, has set the fascist capital chattering by quoting a line of Dante which signifies that the Germanic hordes should stay above the Brenner Pass. He used the quotation, one which is cryptic to outsiders but clear to Italians, on the day Von Ribbentrop left Rome. It was as close as an Italian editor could come to saying to a German Foreign Minister, "farewell—and don't come back."

The following day Under-Secretary of War Soddu announced to the Chamber of Fasces and Corporations that Italy has constructed a "Maginot line" along the Brenner Pass. The Chamber broke into loud applause at word that Italian forts now face Germany as well as France and Switzerland.

That Germany's cause is unpopular with the Italian people has long been clear. Hatred toward England (which grew out of England's application of sanctions in the Ethiopian war) seems to be wearing away. This popular feeling seems, in a curious way, to be breaking through the rigid Fascist attempt to put a good face upon Rome-Berlin relations. —New York Post.

SALT PLAYS HOB

WE HAVE had occasion enough this winter to regret the damage done to shoes by the salt spread to melt snow and ice. But our case has been easy compared with that of Germany, whose ersatz shoes are far more vulnerable than our leather ones. Salt water melts them.

Not because of this, but because of its scarcity, salt has been limited by order to use as a condiment. It is said to be almost as scarce as jute, which has gone up in price because of the prodigious use of burlap sandbags and has been cut off from Germany by the blockade. Police have gathered up old sacking wherever they could find it, and the government has ordered upholsterers to use paper fillings wherever they can, as they were doing before the World War ended.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TOO BAD

Our hearts are breaking for those fugitives who ran away from the United States to bask in taxless languor on the sands of the Bahamas. It seems there is a war, and the Bahamas are British, and the Americans who embraced British citizenship are now in danger of being conscripted —to say nothing of what may happen to them in the way of taxes and the commandeering of securities. Jeeves, brush that crocodile tear off our cheek!—New York World-Telegram.

EQUALLY WORTHLESS

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Sweden is now looking forward to receiving a pledge from Russia. It is not much more distinction for a nation to receive a pledge from Russia than an apology from Japan. Pledge and apology are equally worthless.

A JAPANESE LIBERAL

OBEDIENT, as usual, to the crack of the army's whip, the Japanese diet has finally expelled Takao Saito, the most courageous of Japanese liberals. His crime was not that he doubted the wisdom of Japan's whole policy in China; thousands of other Japanese must have their private doubts at this time, when the war has cost 100 000 Japanese dead already and has burdened Japan with a moral and material debt that cannot be redeemed for generations. His crime was that he stood up in Parliament and spoke his mind like a brave man. Army and Government leaders now expect Mr. Saito to vanish quietly from the political scene. But will he? He intends to be a candidate at the general election next month; apparently he is not a man who can be throttled without trouble. In any case, he has proved that common sense is not yet extinct in the politics of present-day Japan. New York Times.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds....And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him: for whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?....Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.—Heb. xii, 1-3, 5-7, 11.

Finally, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord.—Phil. iii, 1.

A Bit of Nonsense

Were They Black Sheep?

The foster mother was out with her small evacuee when a funeral passed by. Then round the corner came a flock of sheep and joined in the procession.

The small boy looked on for a while, and then he exclaimed:

"I suppose the butcher's dead."

Royal Mis-Fit

The recruit was disappointed with his uniform. It seemed to fit nowhere.

He was still trying to make the buttons of his tunic meet when he passed the colonel on the parade ground. He forgot the salute.

"Pull yourself together," said the colonel. "Don't you know you're wearing the King's uniform?"

"Oh, that's it," said the recruit. "I knew it wasn't meant for me."

Change Here

The train was about to leave the station when the guard noticed a little girl struggling with her frock in the corridor and crying.

"What's the matter?" asked the guard in kindly voice.

"Please, sir," sobbed the girl, "I'm being evacuated, and they said I must be sure to change at this station; but the train won't wait long enough for me to get my other frock on."

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, March 28.

The astral influences bearing rule on the events of this day are somewhat doubtful and conflicting. There is danger from some form of sharp practice, deception, trickery, or fraud, with writings and papers figuring as contributory agents to trouble. Avoid law, theft and dubious complications and there is prospect of very definite progress in important relations, as elders, superiors and those in influential places are friendly and ready to lend support.

Those whose birthday it is are under aspects of a conflicting nature, with promise of splendid co-operation from employers, superiors and those of prestige and power. Yet, there are also loopholes for fraud, trickery, loss and litigation, with writings or documents, signatures or misconstructions as elements of contention. With care in this particular, there may be progress, promotion and gratification.

A child born on this day may have excellent talents, with worthy ambitions and fine executive ability, winning approbation of those higher up. Some latent tendencies to trickiness, slyness, and want of integrity should be disciplined in early youth.

"Take it from me, Jim, I didn't know how much I had been missing, until I got into that new Hudson Six. We invite you to make a simple test. Drive a Hudson Six over the route you travel every day, where you know every turn, every bump, every stop and start. Bill Calladine Given Boost In N.Y. Booklet

The mast-head on this page reads "Around the Circuit"—and we'd like these colums to cover just that. After all, we have our own opinions, and it does lend interest at times to hear the other guys. So today we're introducing a Baltimore gentleman of the old school. (Well, maybe not TOO old.) He's mighty high on Norman Calladine, and perhaps we'll agree with him to the extent that next to our own Ab Collings and Frankie Boucher, Norm rates pretty well in this league. At any rate, we think you'll find newsy and interesting reading in the following contribution from Art Janey, hockey expert of the Baltimore News-Post-American (Art writes so much hockey that the three papers decided to amalgamate so they could all use it.) So here we turn you over to Art Janey:

Actions speak louder than words. As in other endeavors, this is true in ice hockey.

And the Eastern Amateur Hockey League has the No. 1 example in the amazing Mr. Calladine.

Norman Calladine (in case you aren't up on your Eastern League statistics, is the point-making wizard of the Baltimore Orioles.

And in case you have ever had an opportunity to visit the Baltimore club's dressing room, a lad, a bit on the thin side in build, will be sitting in the corner minding his own business. Generally he won't say more than a half-dozen words from the time he enters in conservative street clothes until the time he leaves as No. 14 in the orange and black riggings of Maryland's skating Orioles. But this lad is holder of the consecutive game scoring record in the Eastern league, and though his build belies the fact, he's also the "iron man of the Orioles.

When, on January 9th in Washington's new rink, Calladine assisted in the Orioles' only goal that night, he became the possessor of a phenomenal scoring record. It was the 23rd consecutive game in which the Oriole pivotman had chalked up at least one point (a goal or an assist) beside his name in the league scoring records.

Calladine's scoring run, launched on November 23rd, took in 26 goals and 13 assists for the 23 games.

As far as can be determined the previous consecutive-game scoring mark for the circuit was set by another Oriole, Vince Papike, who was finally blanked after 22 games in the 1934-35 season.

Calladine, who came to Baltimore at the start of the 1936-39 campaign, also can claim "iron man" honors as far as the Orioles are concerned, for he played every game of the Baltimore schedule last year. Including exhibitions, he has participated in over 100 straight contests as a member of the Baltimore squad.

Many say a fellow has to be lucky to go through a hockey season without missing at least one game. Maybe so, but Lady Luck hasn't smiled on Calladine very often since he's been an Oriole.

However, disappointments seem to inspire rather than discourage Baltimore's No. 1 hockey personage. But good luck or bad, you'll never hear Calladine complain.

Collecting 74 points after a slow start last winter, Calladine was beaten out in the Eastern League scoring championship race by a single point by Herbie Foster, Atlantic City "Sea Gulls" skatesmith who subsequently was signed by the Four-R Hockey System's Philadelphia Ramblers. That was disappointment No. 1 for Mr. Calladine, no doubt, but to make matters worse, there had been talk that Lester Patrick, the Rangers' famous boss, was interested in the Orioles' topnotch point-maker. But Norm wasn't even offered a try-out with the Ramblers in the Four-R chain so he's back with Baltimore working harder than ever for that place in the hockey sun.

Stricken with appendicitis at the start of the current campaign, it didn't look like Calladine would be able to play for awhile, but when he finally joined the Flock he started on the scoring spree which is without equal in Eastern League annals.

In appearance (but only in appearance) Calladine doesn't even look a whole lot like a hockey player and Coach Pick Hines took quite a bit of "ribbing" in Baltimore when he predicted that his protege would be among the league's top ten scorers. As you know, the lad missed the scoring title by only one point, bearing out his boss' prediction and then some, in his first season at Baltimore.

Calladine comes from Peterboro, Ontario, a town of canoes and hydraulic locks (the largest in the world, and that's the only thing you can get our hero to brag about, lo and behold).

A hard-worker at all times, Calladine seldom ever loses his temper in the hottest of hockey rodeos and five penalties are a lot for him in an entire season. Clever as they come with a hockey stick, and just about as easy to hit as a toy balloon at 15,000 feet, Calladine is playing the best hockey of his career and improving with each start. He is an effortless player whom no one would ever notice were it not for his steady point-making, which he makes look too easy.

Always a gentleman, Calladine has the backing of Baltimore folks for a place in the majors. They are just wondering when Patrick or some other big-league coach is going to give another Frankie Boucher a "break."

Deprived Of Title

On the grounds that he has not defended his title within the six months required by the association, the N.B.A. has withdrawn recognition of Lew Ambers as lightweight champion of the world. The winner of the forthcoming Day-Sammy Angott fight in Chicago will be recognized as champion in his stead.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

At the recent O.S.A. annual, the secretary pointed out that softball is a "war baby", having originated as indoor baseball after the Boer War, been popular during the World War and is now the most popular of sports among the soldiers. Not only those in barracks, but by the British and French servicemen in France. Loops are now being formed among military units in Canada, and it looks like the abbreviated ball game is in for its biggest season yet. There were about 35,000 playing the game under O.S.A. auspices last year in Ontario, and more will be swinging the slim cudgel at the big turnip this coming semester.

* * * * * *

In about another week, the local Girls' Softball League and the men's City Loop will be thinking of re-organization meetings. April is the right month to get started, and we look for a Bowl (over Ashburnham way) jammed with softball activity and ringed with roaring fans again this summer. They had a fine season in '39 over there—with record playoff crowds, riots, police protection and what not. Minor softball circuits will be back stronger than ever, we believe, this year; such fine loops as the School League, Church Circuit, Industrial Loop, Southend setup and the rest. And 'twill soon be time for the initial meetings.

Girl Cagers Play

Cage fans, followers of the colleens, will view two swell playoff tilts tonight in the Y.W.C.A. It's Westclox vs. St. John's in the second of the two-in-three junior finals at 6.45, and "Y" Gym 'gainst Quaker Aces at 7.45 in the second of their three-game final series. Aces won the first senior go and St. John's copped the first junior playoff, so it's up to the Gym damsels and the Armour Hill maidens to really roll this e'en or their basketball is ge-finished for the year. It'll be hot.

* * * * * *

Percy Bond, sojourning down south, sends us a couple of puck programs of the Eastern U.S. Amateur Loop, put out by Madison Square Garden. Interesting little booklets, full of hockey chatter, along with names, numbers, data, standings and pictures. You run across names in 'em which are well-known to Peterborough ice rooters, monickers like Coach Pick Hines of Baltimore Orioles and Bill Calladine and Ned Vitarelli of the same squad. Also Roy Covert of Washington. Elsewhere, we've clipped a good article on Calladine and published it. One item says: "The players receive dozens of invitations. Fans want to entertain them in their homes, and only the strict training rules of Pick Hines, capable Baltimore coach, keep the boys from putting on weight."

* * * * * *

A Boost For Bill

And there's this, too: "Norman Calladine and Jack Riley are two striking examples of coming pro stars. These members of the Orioles are ready to step up the ladder, and Lester Patrick has promised to give them a thorough trial. Calladine is a scoring fool. He has been the leading point scorer for Baltimore for several years, and has finished up among the leaders in the league as well. If he could add some poundage, as he no doubt will, Calladine should go far in faster company. Quiet and unassuming, he goes about his playing in a serious manner. He looms as one of the best prospects in the league." Bill, as he is known here, has a "15" on the back of his bright sweater and Vitarelli wears a "14".

Kitchener Greenshirts trek tonight to Owen Sound for a round-robin tilt with the Trappers, the game being pushed back from last Monday. A win or tie for the 'Shirts this eve will start the O.H.A. intermediate "A" finals in Peterborough this Friday, Kitchener and the Petes clashing on local ice at 8.30 p.m. In which case, tickets would go on sale here Thursday morn at 10 bells. Executive figures the ice will hold out here the rest of the week. But if Owen Sound wins tonight, it'll toss a big monkey-wrench into plans down this way, since the Trappers and 'Shirts would then be called upon to play off their second-place tie on Friday, winner to meet the Petes next Monday. Tonight tells the tale.

Bundle On The Petes

This long delay—chafing at the bit—is liable to upset the fine tension of the speedy Petes, but we'll still put the bundle on the Buckland bunch. Against either the Greenshirts or Trappers. We'll be too surprised for words (and that's the zenith of surprises to this corner) if the Kitchener crew doesn't knock over the Trappers. And they ought to do it tonight. Meantime, the Petes are in good shape and working out regularly, the ice being okay so far this week. Should things break anyway fair locally in hockey, a record crowd of puck rooters will be sardined into the building on the Rue Brock on Friday and a-roarin' for the Petes in their final playoff series opener. We hope and hope and hope!

* * * * * *

Some of the local baseballers, when they get up around 30 years of age, begin to think their peak is passed and it's about time to hang up the spikes. But what about such big league ball stars as Charley Root, aged 41; Lefty Grove, Ted Lyons, Gabby Hartnett and Syl Johnson, all 40; Johnny Cooney at 39, Clint Brown at 37, Al Simmons, 37, also Earl Averill, same age, Charley Ruffing a year younger—but the Yank veteran is still the best all-around flinger in the American Loop; Sam West and Pepper Martin at 36; and others—what about those? And it is surprising the number of N.H.L. aces in their late 30s, too. Guess it's a case of a gee being as young as he feels, if he keeps in condition.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Now that all the excitement and turmoil is over we can settle down to regular business—that of curling.

When writing for this column about a week ago, little did we think that we would be at it at this late date—but nevertheless here goes; and at the time of writing there are five sheets of good ice and about 6 degrees of frost inside the rink—so here's what we want to put across:

Tonight at 7.15 p.m. the club will hold a 25c benspiel and as we will only be able to accommodate 40 players it behooves the boys to be out on time. If you telephone in your name be sure to be here before the draw is made.

TROOPER IMPROVES

WINDSOR, Ont., March 27 — (CP) —Authorities at Grace Hospital said this morning that the condition of Howard Hines, 27, of the 45th Artillery Company, Lindsay, was "generally quite good." Hines had his left arm amputated below the elbow on Saturday. While shooting starlings on Thursday at the back of the home of his parents, Essex, he accidentally shot himself in the arm.

Stan King Stars For Victors In Second Frame

PORT ARTHUR, Mar. 27.—Putting on a one-man show in the second period, Stan King, sensational right wing of the Port Arthur Bearcats, paced his team to a 6-1 victory over the Moose Jaw Millers here last night in the first of their best-of-five series in the semi-finals of the Western playdowns of the Allan Cup.

The second game will be played at Port Arthur on Thursday night, the third at Regina on Saturday, and the fourth at Saskatoon on Monday, with the fifth to be decided later. After Millers had tested the strength of the Bearcats and played them a fairly even game for a period and a half, King went into action, scoring three goals and assisting McCormack for a fourth before the period ended.

The third period saw Heming save Millers from a dip in the whitewash bucket and the dynamic Laprade brothers, Bert and Edgar, both add to their team's quota. While Millers presented a heavy-set and hard-checking aggregation, they were no match for the fast-skating and smooth stick-handling Bearcats.

Despite Dominion election returns a capacity crowd viewed the tussle, which saw Bert Laprade draw the only penalty in the second period for tripping.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKE FIRST OF THE SEMI-FINALS FROM DETROIT

Beaten At Polls Apps Plays Bang Up Game

TORONTO, Mar. 27 — (CP). — All Toronto Maple Leafs', attacking power will be needed to carry them past the pesky Detroit Red Wings into the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals.

The Maple Leafs pounded against the Red Wing defences all last evening and managed to squeeze through with a 2-1 victory in the opener of the best-of-three semi-finals because of two brilliant dashes by Sylvanus Apps and Dave (Sweeney) Schriner. They were almost always on the attack, but Detroit's quick thrusts from the defensive shell nearly threw the result into reverse.

"We just about did it to-night, on the ice where we hadn't won a game in two years," Manager Jack Adams of the Wings enthused.

"We'll swing the second game at Detroit on Thursday by the same kind of fighting tactics. The kids on our club were magnificent."

One of Adams' kids, Connie Brown, scored the Detroit goal midway through the third period. Moments later young Byron (Butch) McDonald, who had started the scoring play for Brown, hit a goalpost with a shot that would have tied the game.

Apps Opened Scoring.

The aggressiveness of Captian Ebbie Goodfellow's play on the defence contributed to his team's undoing. He was serving a two-minute penalty—part of the total of nine minutes he served — when Apps opened the scoring after 11.16 of the third. Before Goodfellow returned Gordon Drillon and Nick Metz had missed goals by inches.

Apps, not bothering about the fact he had been beaten yesterday as National Government candidate in the Dominion election in Brant, played one of his best games of the year. To score, he took Metz' pass near the Detroit goal-mouth and batted it home.

Schriner's goal, scored with only 56 seconds of the third period gone, was even prettier. He sped around the defence from right wing and lifted the puck over Thompson's shoulder as the goalie fell.

An element of luck was attached to Brown's score. He pushed an intended pass through the defence, and Goalie Turk Broda sat down on the puck when it eluded Regis (Pep) Kelly of the Leafs. Somehow the rubber broke free and McDonald and then Brown whacked at it, the second knock putting it in.

Two of the nine penalties were majors to Bingo Kampman of the Leafs and Goodfellow for fighting. They came together at the Toronto defence and almost every other player on both sides joined in the milling.

Quebec Aces Defeat Verdun

The Leafs bowed 4-2 to a fast, light Quebec Aces squad last night, and so carry a two-goal deficit into the second game of their home-and-home series with the Aces. The final game is scheduled for Quebec to-night.

Eleven penalties were handed out in last night's rough and tumble affair. Aces came from behind to tie up the game twice before they stepped into the lead in the third period.

TAMPA, Fla. — The Giants were jubilant today as they faced Cincinnati Reds—for they had done what they probably won't do again until next spring rolls around—walloped the Yankees. In a winter haven game yesterday they outlasted the champs by 14-13.

FORT MYERS, Fla. — Cleveland Indians bid goodbye to their training camp site here today in a game with Syracuse of the International league. The game will mark the first appearance of Mel Harder, providing a test for the problem arm that handicapped the Tribe in '39.

Syl Apps May Not Be Wanted In Ottawa But Smythe Is Sure He Wants Him

TORONTO, March 27.— (CP).— Defeated as National Government candidate in Brant in the Federal election, Sylvanus Apps was philosophical.

"I've still got my hockey," he said. "And when I'm through with that I'll turn to politics again. I feel sure I can be useful."

News of Apps' defeat by George E. Wood, Liberal, arrived at Maple Leaf Gardens last night while the hockey star was helping Toronto Maple Leafs to defeat Detroit in National League semi-finals for the Stanley Cup. He scored the first goal in the 2-1 victory that marked the start of the round.

Woods margin on the civilian vote was 101. Apps said he was "afraid there won't be a heavy enough soldiers' vote to mean a turnover."

Manager Conny Smythe of the Maple Leafs said: 'They may not want Syl Apps in Ottawa, but we want him around this club.

"Syl is a credit to professional hockey and a credit to any community, and we're proud to have him around with the Leafs. I'm not hinting that I'm pleased that he is likely to be saved for professional hockey temporarily, but it's a mighty nice feeling when you know he's going to be around popping in those goals for us for a while."

Remember When—

Boston Bruins won the National Hockey League championship with a 5-1 victory over Montreal Maroons at Boston 10 years ago tonight. It was the third Bruin win in four games with the Montrealers and the triumph gave them the title. Bruins entered the Stanley Cup finals to defend their world title but lost out to Montreal Canadiens in two straight games.

Rangers Tie Up Boston Series With 1 to 0 Win

NEW YORK, Mar. 27 — (CP). — Consult the records and the only conclusion available is that Boston Bruins will win their Stanley Cup semi-final against New York Rangers in seven games—the limit.

The records show that Rangers' 1-0 victory last night, tying the series in two games apiece, was to be expected—for hadn't they gone 10 games on home ice without defeat by the league champions and cup defenders? And, by the same token, the Bruins should win the fifth game in Boston on Thursday night, for the Rangers haven't won a game there in nine starts over two seasons.

Players hardly counted in the pre-series debating, such as Murray Patrick of the Rangers and Eddie Wiseman of the Bruins ,have been breaking up the games. Murray, son of Boss Lester, did it last night, punching home a 33-foot shot at 10.54 of the third period as Goalie Frank Brimsek's vision was blinded by the players bunched in front of his cage.

Sixth Game Saturday.

The sixth game of the series, to qualify one of the clubs for the final against either Detroit or Toronto, will be played here on Saturday night, and a seventh, if necessary, in Boston on Sunday night.

Patrick's goal, set up after Phil Watson and Dutch Hiller scrambled around the Bruin defence zone to get the puck back to the Ranger defenceman, brokeup the toughest and closest game of the series.

Both clubs had all the opportunities possible to break up the game before Patrick's scoring shot, which the Bruins claimed was deflected in off Defenceman Dit Clapper's skate. Brimsek, who looked baffled as the long one floated by, had come up with a half-dozen grand saves in the first and second periods; Dafie Kerr had turned back Art Jackson, Herb Cain, and Bill Hollett when all these three had to do was outguess the all-star goalie.

Providence Reds Beaten 8-2 By Indianapolis

(Canadian Press.)

When the list of this season's comeback teams is made up, there ought to be a prominent spot reserved for Indianapolis Capitals in the International-American circuit.

The Caps came through with a smashing 8-2 victory over Providence Reds last night to tie up their playoff series at two games each. Indianapolis dropped the first two games of the series chiefly through the great goal-tending of Mike Karakas, but Karakas held no hoodoo over them last night.

Meanwhile, Hershey Bears were administering a 3-0 trouncing to Pittsburg Hornets in the first of their three-game semi-final at Pittsburg ,with Wally Kilrea in the hero's role. Kilrea scored two of the Hershey goals and assisted in the other..

Gus Giesbrecht turned the "hat trick" in the Indianapolis game, with a goal in the second period and two more in the third. Just for good measure, he threw in an assist in the third as well.

For one period, the Reds held their opponents in check, and kept the score knotted at one-all. But the Caps broke loose with a three-goal splurge in the second, and added four more to Providence's one in the third.

The Hershey-Pittsburg game was practically all Kilrea. After a scoreless first period, he banged in one counter and assisted Bruce on another in the second, then tallied a clincher in the third.

WILL SWAP ANYTHING

ORLANDO, Fla—Making one of the worst spring showings in years officials of Washington Senators are ready to do almost anything to give the club some life. With the exception of Dutch Leonard and Buddy Lewis the report is that owner Clark Griffith will swap anybody on his club and there is a possibility that a deal with Detroit Tigers is in the offing.

Calgary Is Two Up

CALGARY, March 27.—(CP). — Calgary Stampeders trampled over Trail Smoke Eaters 5-2 here last night to chalk up their second straight win in the best-of-five Alberta-Kooteney Allan Cup hockey playdown. Stampeders won the first game 3-0 in Trail and the third will be played in Calgary Thursday night.

MORE ABOUT—

burnham, where the Liberal candidate was born and spent his early years, the Liberal organization confidently predicted a majority of 300, but the total vote in the nine polls across the river showed on the contrary a Fraser majority of five. On the other hand Glover cut into the Conservative lead in the South Ward at several polls and had better success in the other three wards than Liberal candidates in the Federal area usually succeed in attaining.

Fraser had majorities in 32 city polling sub-divisions and Glover led in 27, while the two remaining polls showed a tie. These were 2-A in the North Ward where both men had 92 votes and 26 in the South-West section, where each secured 102.

Fraser's biggest urban poll was No. 39 at 471 Sherbrooke street, where he secured 171 votes against Glover's 94, while Glover's largest was at No. 8, situated at 488 Murray street, that west ward poll, giving him 169 while Fraser had 109.

At the Committee Rooms

Only a few workers had arrived at the Conservative committee rooms when the first returns came in over the telephone. Gordon K. Fraser sat at the desk ready to tabulate the figures when they started to trickle in, and Mrs. J. H. Cridland, president of the Women's Conservative Association, and Miss C. Kenneally took the returns over the telephone. It was 6.17 when the first report arrived and it hailed as a good omen. It was from Poll 34 at 525 Patterson street and gave Fraser 39 majority, the figures being Fraser 120, Glover 81. The next telephone message brought more joy because it was an Ashburnham poll, No. 50, and gave Fraser 93 to 70 over his opponent. Poll No. 7-A was the third to report with 71 to 69 for Fraser and immediately after came No. 9 at 521 Reid street with Fraser leading 97 to 83. Fifth to check in was 10-A, 574 Aylmer street and it kept up the Fraser parade with a total of 80 to 63. The advance poll giving Fraser 25 to 23 came in next and then there was the first break, Poll 12 at 452 Elm street reported the first Glover majority, the poll giving him 119 to 103.

Enthusiasm Mounts

The room was rapidly filling up at this stage and enthusiasm began to mount as the early returns indicated a Fraser win. Other city polls added to the toll and a little later when the first poll from outside the city, Downer's Corners in Otonabee, contributed 117 for Fraser and 94 for Glover, the first big cheer went up from the Conservative workers. Harold Rye, North Monaghan chairman, increased the joy with reports of substantial Fraser majorities in that township and Hall's Bridge caused another cheer with a message that Fraser had captured the Harvey township poll there by 113 to 62.

By this time the calculators had figured out on the basis of returns already in that Fraser was leading by 500 and there was general jubilation. It was checked soon after by a series of city polls that gave Glover majorities and by a realization that three of the Liberal rural strongholds, Ennismore, Douro and Otonabee were yet to be heard from, and that the finish was going to be close.

These polls arrived shortly afterward and there was a sigh of relief when it was seen that Fraser was still in front, in spite of the Glover majorities in those townships. South Monaghan relieved the pressure with a net Fraser majority of three, and when a checkup, assisted by figures from some of the missing polls supplied by The Examiner showed a majority of 162 for Fraser with three city polls and three rural subdivisions to hear from enthusiastic workers shouted "Get out the band." Four of the missing subdivisions were heard from immediately after and when they showed Fraser 176 to the good with only two polls to come the Manion candidate finally declared that victory had been won and that the missing polls could not change the result.

Start A Parade

That was enough for the milling workers in the committee rooms. Their attention had been centred upon the local results and telegrams telling of the scuttling of national government candidates in the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario failed to attract any notice.

It was 8.30 o'clock when Mr. Fraser at last claimed a win and immediately the Conservative cohorts decided that it was time for a parade and with the Citizens' Band supplying martial music, the down town streets were covered by a marching, cheering throng, the successful candidate walking with his squad of workers. The parade finally found its way to the Legion Hall which was thronged to the doors for the victory meeting which followed.

Mr. Fraser in expressing his thanks to all who had helped in the campaign, said that in no other election had he been associated with such a squad of enthusiastic willing workers. "I can only say," he added, "that regardless of your politics or religion I will do everything in my power to assist you in any way I can."

A Sporting Gesture

At this stage Rollie Glover, Liberal candidate, accompanied by T. J. Carley and E. L. Sackville, arrived at the hall and Mr. Glover was greeted with cheers when he appeared on the platform to congratulate his victorious opponent.

"I congratulate Mr. Fraser and wish him every success at Ottawa," said the Liberal candidate, "and I assure you I have no ill feeling toward any one."

"He's a fine sport and 100 per cent man," said Mr. Fraser in tribute to the sporting action of the defeated candidate and the big crowd applauded his words.

Mrs. Joseph Mills, Senator Iva Fallis and H. B. Rye were among the speakers who addressed the cheering throng as the Conservatives oblivious to the fate of their party elsewhere whooped it up over their victory in West Peterborough.

With The Liberals

When 6 o'clock struck from the market clock, sounding the end of the electoral day, Liberal headquarters in the former Bank of Montreal office on George Street was becalmed as some of the poll workers began homing with reports that a large percentage of voters in the city had turned out.

Three telephones were manned by E. L. Sackville, C. H. Elliott and T. F. Doughty. Among the first arrivals was Alderman G. N. Gordon, joining the group of thirty or forty men and women who had come early to get the results.

Some of the incidents in the next hour or two are recorded in the order of the clock's timing.

6:07—Mr. Sackville reported Liberals leading in eleven Nova Scotia ridings. "I said two weeks ago that we wouldn't lose much more than a dozen seats in this election, and I'm standing by my prediction," Mr. Sackville commented.

6:10—T. J. Carley, K.C., one of Rollie Glover's main supporters in the campaign, clocked in, followed shortly afterward by Dr. E. M. Crough.

6:15—Early news from New Brunswick slightly discouraging.

6:16—First local poll to report, No. 50, in Ashburnham, where E. L. Sackville voted. Gave Fraser 93 to Glover's 70; somewhat ominous especially from the neighborhood where Mr. Glover was born and lived for years.

6:17—Millburn's School in Smith, first rural poll, gave Fraser 57 and Glover 85, putting Glover five up on the total for the two polls.

6:18—Poll 7a, Fraser 71 and Glover 69, leaving only three of a majority for Glover, and suggesting that the city vote was going to be close.

6:19—Poll 34, Paterson street: Fraser 120, Glover 86. "That's bad," Mr. Carley remarked. Conversation was lulled by that severe set back.

6:20—No. 12 poll, Elm street, Fraser 103, Glover 119; a recovery of only 16 for Glover, but still offering some little encouragement.

The next three polls, 521 Reid street, 552 Armour Road and 480 Donegal street, came in almost together, giving Fraser 327 and Glover 325. "It's going to be close," Mr. Carley observed, and some one pointed out that Armour Road in Ashburnham had given Glover a majority of only three votes.

First Harvey Poll

6:22—Lakehurst, poll 56 in Harvey township, was the second rural poll to hear from with Fraser 41 and Glover 71, a reduced Liberal margin compared with 1935 when Senator Duffus got 81 votes.

6:35—Poll 1a, Gilchirst street, gave Fraser 73, Glover 46; it was followed by poll 24, 572 Charlotte street with Fraser 140 and Glover 106. "It looks disturbing," Mr. Carley said, and 10a, 574 Aylmer street, was next with Fraser 80 and Glover 63. Enthusiasm among the increasing committee room crowd was palpably dampened.

6:26—Selwyn gave Fraser 100 and Glover 103, another country subdivision. The poll at 308 Mark street gave Glover 121 to Fraser's 101; and still another Ashburnham spot, 319 Burnham street reported 108 for Fraser and 87 for Glover. By that time there was no Liberal balm from across the river.

Bridgenorth was next with a twenty Glover majority, and the other poll at the Chemong community was 49-47 for Glover, a negligible majority. The poll at 559 Harvey street was 96-94 for Fraser, and 556 Rogers street, in Ashburnham gave Glover 20 more votes than Fraser. Sentiment at headquarters regained a little confidence.

6:29—Canadian Legion Hall was next with 114 for Fraser and 94 for Glover, and Downer's Corners in Otonabee helped Mr. Fraser with 111 to 94.

6:31—"The Maples" at Lakefield put a crimp in the Grit expectations with 102 to 54 for Fraser, but opinion recovered somewhat when the two polls at 338 Reid street swung to Glover with 188 to 117.

6:35—The committee room crowd much increased. Queen Elizabeth school on the north border of the city gave Fraser 143 to Glover's 111; the poll at 69 Hunter street went 132 to 98 for Fraser.

6:38—The poll at 229 Princess street favored Glover by 105 to 90, but poll 31 at 217 Rubidge street jolted the Liberal crowd with an adverse vote of 152 to 89. "We're sunk," Mr. Sackville ruefully commented.

6:40—The two polls at 561 Homewood avenue, a section of the west ward reported 133 for Fraser and 181 for Glover. News from Kingston indicated a comfortable lead for Hon. Norman Rogers. Poll 42 at 223 Princess street went 151 to 129 for Fraser and Young's Point struck hard with 113 to 66 for the National Party.

6:45—Bensfort, in South Monaghan, gave Fraser a 63-46 count, and one of the crowd lamented "They've got us.'

Nogie's Creek

Some one brought a report, presumably from the Examiner that Glover was leading by 957 to 919, and right on the heels of that hope came poll 34, Sherbroke street, with 179 for Fraser and 94 for Glover. Nogies Creek in Harvey was next with an even count, 44 for each candidate. That same poll in 1935 gave Duffus 83 votes. "Terrible," Mr. Carley was heard to remark. Poll 44 in Ashburnham went 101 to 100 to Fraser, regarded as another setback from across the Otonabee.

Western Avenue on the south-western fringe of the city went strong for Manion-Fraser with 182 to 107, but partly offsetting that reverse was Murray street west with 169 to 109 for Glover.

A 7 o'clock summary from the Examiner brought the unwelcome information that 75 polls gave Mr. Fraser a majority of 135. Some one thought of the fact that the country was still to be heard from, especially sections that were usually favorable to the Liberal cause, and that reminder eased the sting for a few moments. North Monaghan voters in the old "town hall" section gave Glover a majority of 14, and poll 3 at 715 George street added 8 more. Next in order was the poll at 653 George street with 112 for Fraser and 94 for Glover.

Big Gain For Fraser

7:15—Poll 71, Chamberlain steet, rocked the Liberals with 148 for Fraser and 87 for Glover. "Goodbye" was the Sackville moan, but the seeming of things in general brightened with more favorable Liberal news from the Maritimes. And then Indian River clocked in with 131 for Glover to 40 for Fraser, one of the sections in which Colonel Dewart spoke during the campaign.

7:20—"Prospects throughout the country appear to be very promising," Mr. Carley announced as he summarized some of the telegraph reports.

7:25—An Examiner report gave Fraser a majority of 183. "West Peterborough isn't going to sell Canada down the river," Mr. Carley exclaimed with broad sarcasm. The committee room was packed by that time.

7:28—Bad news for Mr. Sackville, Denton Massey leading by 3,000. Fraser majority up to 152, "but Ennismore to hear from."

7:34—Mr. Glover's own poll gave him 127 votes to Mr. Fraser's 100 . . . "Peterborough's going to be with the fish" was the Sackville grim quip as a strong swing to Mackenzie King was reflected in the returns from Eastern Canada.

7:45—Loud cheers as Mr. Carley read a telegram that Dr. Manion, leader of the National Party, was apparently on the way to defeat in his own ballwick.

8:05—Examiner bulletin, "97 polls give Fraser majority of 146." Even then some one called out "there may be a chance yet."

8:10—Defeat of Dr. Manion indicated,' Mr. Carley read from a telegram. From Hastings-Peterborough the news came that Rork Ferguson was down 147 votes with 61 polls heard from.

8:25—"Chances look mighty slim for the National Government we heard so much about," Mr. Carley reported.

8:32—Examiner bulletin: 101 polls give Fraser majority of 130. . . Cheers greeted the news that W. A. Fraser looked more than safe in Northumberland.

And so it went until the Fraser band celebrating victory in West Peterborough was heard going by. Last Examiner bulletin gave Mr. Fraser 176 majority with two polls in the north not reported.

Glover's Thanks

About that time Mr. Glover accompanied by Mr. Sackville and Mr. Carley, left for the Examiner office and the Legion Hall personally to congratulate Mr. Fraser on his success.

Before leaving Mr. Glover stood on a chair, and after prolonged cheering, he said—"It looks as if I am likely to be defeated when we have the final figures. I can say this that I have enjoyed the campaign, especially the meeting of a large number of people throughout the riding. I received splendid support from them, and I want to thank everybody who helped me. It may be, that my late entry into the election had something to do with my defeat. I would like to add that the results of today's voting will have no effect on my interest in Peterborough, and I will do anything I can for the welfare of our city and district."

Mr. Carley declared that those who had voted for Mr. Glover "voted for the best candidate Peterborough ever had before. We heard something lately about selling Canada down the river. I wonder where Peterborough thinks it is going. Mr. Glover conducted a clean campaign, and those who were with him have nothing to regret except that this riding has placed itself among the minority of Canadian constituencies in the Dominon and also in Ontario. Personally, I am as proud of Mr. Glover as if he had been victorious."

Half an hour later Mr. Glover was back at the committee rooms and Mr. Carley kept up a running account of the Dominion's landslide giving Mackenzie King the fresh mandate he had sought. The fact that all the members of Mr. King's cabinet had been re-elected, except Hon. Ian Mackenzie whose position was not known up to 11 o'clock, was greeted with long cheers.

struggle in Burleigh-Anstruther and in Belmont, but in Dummer Ferguson had the edge. In the Cordova Mines village Ferguson added 75 votes to White's 20.

Poll 16 at Malone, about ten miles north-west of Marmora, reported in at 6.10 giving Ferguson 17 and White 33, and No. 51 from Montreagle valley north of Bancroft was next showing 58 for Ferguson and 53 for White. Poll No. 7, Bonarlaw, came next with 36 for Ferguson and 102 for white, which was a distinct loss for Ferguson as he had received 58 votes in this poll when he won the seat in 1935 in a three cornered fight.

At 6.45 sixteen polls had produced a total of 1,046 for Ferguson and 1,189 for White and as the reports came in from the eastern part of the riding White continued to steadily increase his majority until at one time when 30 polls had been tabulated he had over 400 votes on his opponent.

Big Vote At Apsley

Bad weather seemed to have little effect on the vote at Apsley Town Hall where records showed a total vote of 227 and when the reports came in Ferguson had 99 and White 95, a total of 194.

Stirling returns were complete at 7:15 and combined polls in this area gave White a nice lead. At 7:30 complete returns from Havelock gave Ferguson 277 and White 200, a majority of 17 for the Norwood farmer who had figured more support from this section because of the new fish hatchery and improvement to mining roads in the district.

Hastings-Peterborough riding is one of the most extensive in the province, extending north and south for approximately 110 miles from beyond Maynooth on the north to Stirling at the southern end. Several of the polls had no telephone nor were there any telephones close with the result that returns were late. The results from eight polls still outstanding will probably be turned in today when the deputy returning officers make a trip out with the ballot boxes. There may be some changes also in a few of the totals because the information was delayed to the reported tabulating the returns at Marmora.

Quiet In Marmora

Marmora village was quiet but a large crowd was at White's committee rooms in Madoc where the returns were posted on the wall. Rork Ferguson is believed to have remained at his home during the evening while at a late hour on Tuesday, Mr. White was reported to have gone to Stirling. He hesitated to claim the victory when his majority was 468 and his caution was justified as late returns cut the total to 188.

In the Dominion election of October, 1935, Rork Ferguson wrested the Hastings-Peterborough riding from the Conservatives for the first time since the boundary lines had been changed in 1925. East Peterborough had been consistently Conservative for more than a generation excepting a period of defection when it had fallen in with the Progressive upriaing in 1935. The Hastings section had been more staunchly Tory for even a longer period.

Mr. Ferguson's victory at that time was regarded as a rather notable event and party stalwarts felt that if the rural vote could have been available Tuesday the old campaigner would have repeated. The whirlwind campaign of the new member, whose pleasing platform, personality and vigorous electioneering gained him many friends, has resulted in the riding returning to the Conservative fold.

Conservative Riding

Without looking back beyond the turn of the century, it is interesting to note that the old riding of East Hastings was unwaveringly Conservative from 1900 until the redistribution in 1924.

W. B. Northrop won it in 1900 and was re-elected in 1904, 1908 and 1911. The late T. H. Thompson, as Unionist, carried the riding in 1917 and was returned in 1921. Since amalgamation with East Peterborough the new riding had been Conservative without a sign of weakness under the capable leadership of Dr. Embury until 1935 when Ferguson gained the victory.

The old riding of East Peterborough distributed its political favors more evenly between the two parties than its new partner, P. M. Grover of Norwood carried it for the Conservatives in 1867 and 1872. The first Liberal break came in 1874 when John Hall won by a margin of 114. John Burnham redeemed it for the Tories in 1878 and 182 by majorities of 26 and 57 respectively.

Then John Lang, a Liberal of the old fighting school, was elected in 1887, but Burnham carried the riding again in 1891 with a majority of 29.

In 1896 and 1900 Lang was swept back into office under Laurier, first by 615, the largest majority recorded in the constituency from Confederation to that year, and by 174, the second time. John Finlay of Norwood held it for the Liberals in the election of 1904 by a margin of 71 over John A. Sexsmith of Belmont township. He was first elected by a majority of 382 over E. C. Tanner and by 593 over F. D. Kerr in 1911. As the Unionist candidate in 1917, his majority was 1166 over W. H. Johnston of Havelock, but in the Progressive Agrarian revolt of 1921 Mr. Sexsmith was defeated by Arthur Brethen by a majority of 351.

In 1935 it was a three cornered fight with Ferguson, Liberal; Dr. Embury, Conservative and Judson Gunter, Reconstruction. The results were as follows. Ferguson, 5324, Embury, 4400 and Gunter 2356, a total vote of 12,080. Incomplete returns for yesterday's balloting reveals a total of 10,260, while the approximate total vote in the riding is close to 18,000.

The new member, George S. White, is 42 years of age and a veteran of the Great War. He is married and is practising law in Madoc village.

Bennett Conservative government, brought stunning defeat to the new Conservative leader, Hon. R. J. Manion, whose proposed National government was rejected.

Manion Loses Seat

Dr. Manion, a medical officer in the first great war and minister of railways and canals in the Bennett government, suffered personal defeat in Fort William while the prime minister was conceded election late last night in Prince Albert.

Election of candidates was conceded on the basis of the civilian vote, but the possibility existed that when the ballots of between 85,000 and 90,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen are counted results in a few constituencies might be changed.

In most constituencies, however, the winning candidates held substantial majorities that could scarcely be overturned when the active service vote, taken in England and Canada before election day, is reported next week.

Mr. Mackenzie King's appeal to the country was made when the party standing in the House of Commons stood as follows: Liberal, 169; Conservative, 38; Social Credit, 15; Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, 7; Independent Liberal, 5; Liberal-Progressive, 2; Independent, 2; Independent Conservative, 1; U.F.O.-Labor, 1; United Reform, 1; vacant, 4.

Early this morning the Liberal total shot up above the record 169 as it had been apparent it would since before midnight. Mr. King was assured that when he calls parliament, probably in Early May, his opposition would be even smaller than it was on the dramatic day in January when dissolution ended a four-hour session.

Many Veterans Gone

Dr. Manion's National Government group was no larger than it was as the Conservative unit in the last house. The New Democracy representation from Alberta was half that of the Social Credit band in the last house. Only the C.C.F. made a slight gain.

While the entire Liberal War Cabinet was returned without casualty, Opposition groups suffered heavily. Among the vanquished were these:

Dr. Manion by Dan McIvor, Liberal, in Fort William.

Hon. C. H. Cahan, former Conservative Secretary of State, in Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George.

Hon. H. A. Stewart, former Conservative Minister of Public Works, in Leeds.

A. A. Heaps, veteran C.C.F. member, in Winnipeg North.

R. S. White, Conservative Dean of the House of Commons, in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount.

Hon. Maurice Dupre, former Conservative Solicitor-General, in Quebec West and South.

Hon. R. D. Morand, former Conservative Cabinet minister, in Essex East.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, founder of the New Democracy movement and former Canadian Minister to Washington, in Kindersley.

M. A. MacPherson, runner-up to Dr. Manion for the Conservative Leadership in 1938, in Regina.

Dr. Bruce In—Macphail Out.

Among the successful National Government candidates were Hon. R. B. Hanson, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, in York-Sunbury, and Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, in Toronto Parkdale.

As notable a conquest as any in the country was accomplished by W. E. Harris, Liberal, in Grey-Bruce, where Miss Agnes Macphail was defeated for the first time since she became member of Parliament in 1921. Miss Macphail, aftr five election triumphs, ran third in a three-cornered contest.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. Leader, was conceded election in Winnipeg North-Centre on the basis of the civilian vote, but he was not so sure about the ultimate result himself. Mr. Woodsworth commented that it was impossible to tell who had won until the Active Service vote was counted. His lead over A R Macdonell, Liberal, was 185 votes.

M. J. Coldwell, national chairman of the C.C.F., was returned in Rosetown-Biggar and John Blackmore, leader of the Social Credit group in the last house, was re-elected in Lethbridge where he ran as New Democracy candidate.

Indications were quick to appear after closing of the polls in the Maritimes that the National government party was to have hard sledding against Liberal candidates. Early returns favoring the King government were decisive.

New Brunswick Shifts

Prince Edward Island returned a solid block of four Liberals; Nova Scotia elected 11 Liberals out of a possible 12 and only New Brunswick, solidly Liberal in 1935 with one exception, shifted away from the government, dividing its 10 seats equally between King and Manion followers.

The first candidate conceded election in the country was Finance Minister J. L. Ralston in the Prince Edward Island constituency of Prince. Revenue Minister J. L. Ilsley quickly joined him from Digby-Annapolis-Kings. New Brunswick's cabinet representative, Hon. J. E. Michaud, was successful a bit later in Restigouche-Madawaska.

An hour or so later there could be no doubt of the election result as Quebec ballots rolled in for the Government, returning 61 Liberals and three Independent Liberals. Election in the 65th Quebec riding, Three Rivers, was deferred owing to the death Monday night of the Liberal candidate, Willie Poisson.

Ontario elected 25 National Government men, the same representation the Conservatives had from the province in the last House. Here it was that Liberal defences, if they had weaknesses, were expected to yield—but the Liberals returned 57 followers, including two Liberal-Progressives.

This was a one-seat gain for the Government and it was at the expense of Miss Macphail, running as a United Farmers of Ontario-Labor candidate.

Leeds Proves Surprise

Perhaps the most surprising result in Ontario was the switch to the Liberal column of Leeds which never before deviated from a Conservative course at elections since the constituency was created in 1903. Member since 1921, Hon. H. A. Stewart was defeated there by George T. Fulford.

First member elected in Ontario was Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defence, and the butt of intensive Conservative criticism during the campaign. Mr. Rogers retained Kingston by a sizeable majority over T. A. Kidd, National Government, former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

Toronto, a noted Tory stronghold, named three Liberals—Sam Factor in Spadina, Fred Hoblitzell, former Ontario amateur golf champion, in Eglinton, and Arthur W. Roebuck, one-time Attorney-General in Ontario's Hepburn Government, in Trinity. Mr. Roebuck resigned his Ontario Legislature seat to run for parliament.

One National In Manitoba.

Three C.C.F. gains from the Liberals marked voting in Saskatchewan. Mackenzie, Melfort and Yorkton swung away from the Government whose only gain was from Social Credit in Kindersley.

Social Credit held all but two of Alberta's 17 seats in the last House, but the Liberals made inroads yesterday, capturing six seats. British Columbia also contributed gains to the Liberals.

17 Seats Switch

Although the party standing in the province underwent no material change individuals met with varying fortunes. No les sthan 17 of the 32 seats changed their party allegiance. Liberals captured seven seats from National Government supporters and one from Miss Macphail. Conservatives captured seven from the Liberals.

The Liberal gains included such traditional Conservative seats as Hamilton East, Hamilton West, Wentworth, Toronto Eglinton, Leeds and Lanark. Conservatives stormed and won a Liberal stronghold in Kent and won back Frontenac-Addington, Hastings South, Hastings-Peterborough, Huron North, Peterborough West and York West, all of which went to the Liberals in the sweep of 1935.

Just as in 1935 Ontario participated in the nationwide swing to the Liberal party but gave the Conservative party which campaigned for National Government a secure foothold in parliament. Ontario's 25 National Government supporters saved the party headed by Hon. R. J. Manion from virtual extinction.

McIvor Beats Manion

Dr Manion, himself, however, met defeat in the Northwestern Ontario constituency of Fort William. Rev. Dan McIvor who wrested the seat from him in 1935 when Dr. Manion was minister of Railways and Canals, retained it against Dr. Manion, the party leader.

All Ontario ministers, Hon. Norman Rogers, National Defence, Hon. C. D. Howe, Transport, Hon. W. D. Euler, Trade and Commerce, and Hon. Norman McLarty, Labor, retained their seats.

Mr. Rogers emerged from a strenuous fight in Kingston against Thomas A. Kidd, who resigned a seat in the Ontario Legislature to oppose him as the first candidate whose election was conceded in Ontario. As holder of the key war portfolio much of the criticism directed at the King Government centred on him.

Sylvanus Apps, star with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and National Government candidate, was defeated in Brant by George E. Wood, Liberal. Wood's margin on the civilian vote was 101.

Arthur Roebuck, another Provincial member who entered the fight, was elected in Toronto-Trinity, the seat held in the last parliament by Hugh Plaxton. Mr. Roebuck resigned as Attorney-General of Ontario a few years ago following a quarrel with Premier Hepburn, and since then has followed an independent course in the Legislature.

Hamilton a Turn Over.

Ontario cities, in other elections unbreakable Conservative strongholds, treated Liberal candidates more kindly than ever before. Government supporters made a clean sweep of the Hamilton area with its three seats, held their own in the Toronto area by capturing Toronto-Eglinton and losing York West, and gained London where Dr. Manion found a seat when he became leader of the National Conservative party.

By increasing its representation from Ontario the Liberal party set a new high record. In 1935 for the first time since 1874 Liberals obtained a majority of the Ontario seats. Yesterday the majority was increased by one.

Voters had to combat the effects of a stiff week-end storm in order to get to the polls. A heavy snowfall hampered traffic in the rural areas on Sunday and Monday. Although fine weather prevailed on polling day roads in many areas were blocked and special effort was required to get them opened.

real, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver and staff men at Saint John, N.B.; Quebec, London, Regina and Victoria. The Canadian Press staff was aided by the staffs of its 89 daily newspaper members who collected returns from their respective areas in Canada's most extensive piece of newspaper co-operation.

11,000 Miles of Wires

The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National telegraphs contributed teleprinter and telegraph circuits paralleling the 11,000 miles of Canadian Press leased teleprinter wires over which returns flashed to every C.P. newspaper. Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, assisted by instructing his more than 100,000 election employees in 243 constituencies to give every possible assistance to The Canadian Press.

The movement of returns over the wires started shortly after the close of polls in the Maritime provinces at 5 p.m. EST. Four hours later polls closed in British Columbia and by 1 a.m. EST the bulletins dwindled to a few straggling returns from late-reporting constituencies.

The first concession was flashed at 6:38 p.m. EST from Prince in Prince Edward Island. By 8:45 more than 100 concessions and at midnight 196 concessions were tabulated. Communications were almost impercetibly affected by the sunspot threat which disrupted telegraph and short-wave radio service over the weekend. Some slight delays occurred in Northern Ontario and the West.

An up-to-the-minute service was prepared by The Canadian Press for broadcast over the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation at 15-minute intervals.

Final results of the voting will not be known until April 1 when it is expected that the votes of some 90,000 Canadian Active Service voters in Canada and overseas will have been tabulated.

W. F. Rickard Retains Durham Riding

MILLBROOK, March 27—(ENS). —Upsetting the forecasts of political dopesters, W. F. Rickard, Liberal, was returned to Ottawa with a majority of more than 1300 votes over his National Government opponent, Ross Strike, in the Durham riding. While some forecasters had predicted he would be returned to power, none guessed he would have such a commanding lead.

In Millbrook Mr. Rickard bowed to Mr. Strike by 60 votes, but that was 40 fewer majority than the Conservative candidate piled up in the 1935 election. Ward 1 gave Mr. Rickard 72 votes, Strike 132, and in Ward 2, each received 99 votes. Total for Strike 231, for Rickard 171.

Cavan township swung from its Conservative tendency and gave Rickard a majority of 31 votes. By polls the result was: Poll 1 Rickard 33, Strike 77; Poll 2, Rickard 64, Strike 83; Poll 3, Rickard 66, Strike 65; Poll 4, Rickard 96, Strike 63; Poll 5, Rickard 105, Strike 48. The Cavan poll was smaller by 400 than in 1935, when 1,085 votes were cast.

Hope, Cartwright, Darlington, Cavan, Port Hope and Newcastle, all gave Rickard substantial majorities. Port Hope carried the Liberal standard by 600 votes. Strike won comparatively small majorities in Manvers, Clark, Bowmanville and Millbrook, and had no large majorities. Bowmanville was largest, giving him 200 majority.

County Boys Form Grain Club

From a straggling group of nine or ten that seemed to be getting nowhere toward organization, a boys' grain club has already thirty members, and Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, will be quite satisfied if no others write or telephone that they want to sign up.

These young farmers obviously know bargain oats when they see them. The Grain Club for junior farmers is sponsored by the Peterborough County Crop Association. To attract boys to this work, and especially to stimulate more interest in growing good grain, the association decided to offer top quality oats at a bargain. In fact, every allotment of oats as an attraction to a young farmer cost the Association one dollar.

Response several weeks ago had been around nine or ten members, and Mr. Paterson remarked that if more of the boys did not join up there wasn't much use in going ahead with it. He passed out a copy of his circular letter about his project and the Examiner published a summary of it. Since then it has sprouted new enthusiasm among country juniors, and one or two more of them will bring the membership up to thirty.

"If they join up with the Crop Improvement Association it will be a gain all around," Mr. Paterson said today. "At any rate it is getting them started to take more interest in the important question of crop improvement."

14 Boys Passed First Stage Exams

Fourteen members of the Ashburnham Boys' Swimming Club have passed their first stage examination having completed five tests. The members are John Reed, Gordon Delahaye, Bob Frise, Gerald Simpson, Bill Clarke, Doug Hayton, Don Griffin, Lewis Clark, Fred Wynne, Reg. McEwen, Alvin Kelly, Victor Chate, Frank Blackburn and David Simpson. All the above boys with the exception of John Reed, who was absent have also passed test number four in the second stage examinations.

Eight boys, Bill Carr, Gordon McDougal, Walter Lelong, Ernest Donnelly, Don Smith, Vern Simpson, Bill Coons and Teddy McEwen have completed four of the five tests of stage one. There are fifty-one boys at various stages in the swimming tests and Gordon Minty the instructor hopes that all of them will have passed the first two stages by middle of April.

STILL SEATS FOR G.W.T.W.

Despite rumors to the contrary it was learned today in an interview with Mr. A. E. Cauley, manager of the Capitol Theatre, that there are still available plenty of good seats for "Gone With The Wind." This is true of both matinee and evening performances of this famous play which remains at the Capitol until Saturday night.—(Advt.).

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By Examiner Reporters

OLDEST VOTER.

Oldest person to go to the polls in all Peterborough West yesterday, it is believed, was Mrs. A. J. Morrow, 253 Burnham Street, who was driven there in a motor car. She is 94 years old.

WEATHER ADVERSE.

Howard Quinn, of Douro, president of the Federal Liberal Association in this riding, suggested Tuesday night that normal weather conditions might have altered the decision in Peterborough.

AN INTERRUPTION

While Tom Carley was announcing election results in the Liberal committee rooms last night, the rear door off the market was opened momentarily and Emmet F. Sheehy stuck his head in the room and shouted, "three cheers for Manion."

ELECTED IN ALBERTA

Election of the Hon. D. B. Mullen in the Alberta provincial elections is announced today in a press despatch from Edmonton. Mr. Mullen is the Minister of Agriculture in the Aberhart administration. He is a brother of George Mullen of Smith township.

CARRY A LANTERN

A farmer walking along Highway 7 between Havelock and Marmora last night carried a lantern and motorists had no trouble spotting the light as it bobbed along beside the high snowbanks. One motorist remarked at Havelock that farmers can reduce the accident toll considerably if they follow this rule of carrying a lantern on the highway.

HE WAS JUST TOO LATE

One elector who motored from Toronto Tuesday to poll a vote for Gordon Fraser and who had to flirt with the speed limit all the way missed marking his ballot by a fraction of a minute. He went to the wrong poll first and was just stepping out of his car at the proper place when the door slammed. It was exactly six o'clock.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED

Although many rural voters did not get out to vote Tuesday because of blocked roads the total polled in the township voting was considerably larger than was expected at noon yesterday. At that time when The Examiner checked up at a number of rural polls the general opinion was that most of the voters who could get out had already exercised their franchise but the afternoon voting proved much heavier than was looked for.

SMALL POLICE COURT

The election rejoicing Tuesday night did not produce a very heavy list for Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to deal with this morning. In fact there was only one offender who was charged with being drunk and it is not more than remotely probable that the election had anything to do with his condition. Anyway he pleaded guilty and was nicked the usual amount, $10 and costs or ten days. He took the latter.

HIGHWAY CLEAR

No. 7 highway to the east from Peterborough to Marmora is almost bare and is in good condition all the way. High snowbanks line the road the greater part of the distance and most of the intersecting roads are blocked. The highway plow has cleaned the snow off so thoroughly that the sun melted practically all that was left behind and motorists going east can make good time.

AMONG THE FALLEN.

The defeat of J. A. Marsh in West Hamilton was greeted with boos at the Liberal headquarters Tuesday night. Mr. Marsh was the candidate of the National Government party, and had spoken in Peterborough several weeks ago. "Apparently they thought a great deal more of him down here than they did in his own riding," T. J. Carley called out in his rapid fire commentary on the returns.

TWO BANDS OUT.

Appearance of a parading fife and drum band on George Street Tuesday night puzzled several Grits as to what it was all about. This incident occurred an hour or more after the Fraser victory parade had blared down the street. "They're just out for a walk or they're celebrating something," one of the Grits remarked about the fifers and drummers. "Would you say they might be celebrating for Mackenzie King or Gordon Fraser?" the other asked. The answer was lost in some passing motor noise.

LEAVES TWO VACANCIES

While most people are glad that the election is over the closing of the two committee rooms leaves two empty business places. The campaign staffs of the two candidates were preparing to move out today and the flaring signs and slogans are no longer on display.

Bruce McNevin Is Returned Over McAlpine

LINDSAY, Ont., March 27. — (ENS). — Bruce McNevin, Liberal candidate for Victoria and Haliburton, scored a smashing victory over his Conservative opponent, Col. C. D. H. McAlpine in Tuesday's election contest. Incomplete returns gave Mr. McNevin a majority of 937. The result was a surprise to both parties.

The vote throughout the constituency was somewhat lighter than was registered in the federal election of 1935. This was due to the condition of the roads in the rural sections. One of the surprises of the election was the vote in Lindsay. This town is traditionally Conservative, and the Conservatives counted on a majority vote sufficient to offset the Liberal vote in the rural sections. However, the Conservative candidate carried the town by only a majority of 100. The vote in the townships showed a decided Liberal trend, the Liberal standard bearer receiving a majority in practically every one of them.

There was great rejoicing among the Liberals when the election of Mr. McNevin was assured. At Hough it was late in the evening when the final returns received were tabulated, crowds lingered around Liberal headquarters. Addresses were delivered by Mr. B. McNevin and prominent Liberal workers, after which a procession was formed Mr. McNevin was carried in triumph through the streets.

Owing to the lack of telephone service and the impassable condition of the roads, the result of the voting in subdivisions in Haliburton could not be obtained. In the federal election of 1935 Mr. McNevin was elected by a small majority in a three-cornered contest, his opponents being T. H. Stinson, K.C., Conservative, and J. R. Falconer, Reconstruction.

King Government Called Rational

A stray memory came to Tom Carley at the Liberal headquarters Tuesday night. It was past ten o'clock. Mr. Carley was calling out the reports from across the Dominion, a long succession of cheerful news in those quarters. He was referring to the first promising report from Prince Albert indicating that Mackenzie King would be re-elected. And then after pause, Mr. Carley said, "And the Liberal government has proved again that it is not only national but also a rational government."

Turning to a reporter, Mr. Carley said, "Can you quote that for me if you use anything about down here? A dear old lady called me up one afternoon two or three weeks ago and talked away to me for twenty minutes. She was very interested in our campaign for Mr. Glover, and she also thinks a lot of Mackenzie King. In our conversation she said 'The Liberal government is not only national government but it is also a rational government, and I said that was a bright phrase, and if I got a chance to make a speech I would use it. I made a note of it for Young's Point, but it faded out of my memory, and this is my last chance tonight. If you publish it I know that lady will read it. I would like her to know that I had remembered her although it is so late."

Only twelve days after he celebrated his 90th birthday, William McCall, one of Peterborough county's oldest residents, died today at the home of his son, Charles Wilbert McCall, on the 13th Concession of North Monaghan township.

Born in Cavan township, son of the late James McCall and Nancy McBain, he had lived in this district all his life, and was among the county's best known residents. Old age brought few infirmities to him and he remained an active man until less than two weeks ago when he was suddenly taken ill.

For many years Mr. McCall was a farmer near Orange Corners and was a member of the Anglican Church there.

His wife, formerly Mary Ann McCarrell, died six years ago, and for the past three years, Mr. McCall has made his home with his son in North Monaghan.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. J. Miller of Chicago, Mrs. J. Calvert of Carburry, Manitoba, and Mrs. J. Armstrong of Otonabee; and three sons, John J. McCall of Chicago, William A. McCall of Emily, and Charles W. McCall of North Monaghan; also one sister, Mrs. J. Hutchinson of Vancouver.

The funeral service will be held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, Rev. G. H. Johnston of Omemee officiating. Interment will be at Emily cemetery.

Canada's Commons Loses Agnes Macphail To Gain Mrs. Neilsen, New Unity Member

TORONTO, March 27—(CP).—Canada's next House of Commons again will have a woman member although the two women members at dissolution will not be in the next House.

On the basis of returns still incomplete today, Mrs. D. W. Neilsen of North Battleford, Saskatchewan, will have the honor of being the lone woman parliamentarian. She will have also an other distinction—the only Unity member in the Commons.

Mrs. Neilsen will succeed Miss Agnes Macphail, veteran U.F.O.-Labor member, who met defeat in yesterday's balloting in Grey-Bruce, and Mrs. George Black of Yukon who did not seek re-election.

Mrs. Neilsen's victory was at the expense of C. R. McIntosh, Liberal, her only opponent.

Other unsuccessful women candidates yesterday were Miss R. B. J. Adams, Verdun; Miss Mary Crawford, Edmonton West; Mrs. Borah Dymond, Toronto-Rosedale; Mrs. L. Lucas, Melville; Mrs. Margaret MacNab, Kamloops; Mrs. R. R. McBride, Macleod, and Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, Calgary West.

Miss Agnes Macphail, defeated as United Farmers of Ontario-Labor candidate in Grey-Bruce yesterday after 19 years in parliament, told The Canadian Press today that she had made no plans for the future.

"I have no idea of what I'm going to do," said Miss Macphail, the first woman elected to parliament in Canada.

Miss Macphail commented on the election in three terse sentences: "Canada will regret it. The entire issue of the election was whether the government can disregard parliament. After this we apparently must take it for granted that the government is everything."

Miss Macphail was defeated in a bitter fight with her two opponents, W. E. Harris, Liberal, who was conceded the seat on the basis of the civilian vote; and K. D. Knechtel, National Government candidate.

It was back in 1921 when Miss Macphail, then just past the age of 30, was elected member of parliament for her home farm constituency. She was re-elected in the general elections of 1925, 1926, 1930 and 1935. During her years in the House she gained a reputation as an able debater and until recently was a bitter critic of expenditures for war preparation.

Aged Woman Is Drawn To Vote In Cutter With Two Men Between The Shafts

LAKEFIELD, March 27—(ENS)—There were many means of transportation used on election day, but Miss Polly Shields, aged resident of Douro and who is making her home with a relative, Miss Ella Down, near Lakefield, had a new method. Miss Shields, who has not been outside since last fall, was drawn over the crust through fields a distance of about one-half mile in a man-drawn cutter, Galvin Graham and Joe Edwards doing their part in drawing with Miss Down pushing.

W. A. Fraser Is Given Lead Of 1,053 Votes

COBOURG, Mar. 27 — (Special). —W. A. Fraser, Liberal candidate for Northumberland, added his riding to the Liberal totals when he was returned by a majority of 1,053 last night. Except in three municipalities where Bone had comparatively small majorities, Fraser was well in advance of the National Government candidate. However, Fraser's majority was still some 700 below his standing in 1935 when he defeated Conservative, C.C.F., and Reconstruction candidates.

Fraser had a majority of 103 yesterday in Cobourg as compared with 258 in 1935. Total vote for Cobourg at this election was 1,497 for Fraser and 1,394 for Bone. In Haldimand Township Fraser polled 897 to Bone's 408. Hamilton Township gave Fraser 659 to 653 for Bone. Majorities by municipalities for Fraser were: Cobourg 103, Alnwick Tonwship 44, Campbellford 33, Colborne 61, Cramahe Township 65, Haldimand Township 465, Hamilton Township 48, Hastings 36, Percy Township 113, and Seymour 101.

Bone had a majority of 5 in Brighton Village, 21 in Brighton Township, and 55 in Murray.

Campbellford Vote

Campbellford Liberals gave Fraser a majority of 33 votes. The vote polled here was smaller than expected with only 1,639 of the 2,102 appearing on the lists exercising their franchise, while the Township of Seymour showed an even greater falling off due to the impassable condition of many side roads.

The results were:

BigPeasAcreage Being Planned

Canada Packers Limited are planning to operate their canning plant to capacity this season, and will also freeze a large quantity of fruits and vegetables.

The canning department will be confined to tomatoes and peas. Contracts for supplies of tomato plants have already been let to greenhouse men in the Port Hope area and also local gardeners. Peas will be early, late and medium in maturing, and will be mostly of the Laxton variety.

G. S. Matthews told the Examiner to-day that arrangements were being made to plant 400 acres in the two crops.

Freezing of natural vegetables and fruit has been recognized for years as a practical preservative, and has been gradually coming into commercial use. Canada Packers intend to adopt this method rather extensively this season.

BERGEN, Norway — (AP). — Shippers here were advised today that the 3,794-ton freighter Cometa, whose home port is Bergen, was torpedoed and sunk yesterday while in the contraband control base at Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands off Northern Scotland.

The entire crew of 37 was saved. The Cometa was en route from Bergen to Buenos Aires.

The newspaper Bergen Aftenblad criticized Britain for taking the ship into the contraband base. It said the British Consul at Bergen gave her "official clearance." She carried a cargo of Norwegian goods.

Sees Burns Suit Just "The Bunk"

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 27 — (AP) —The District Attorney's office said yesterday that a $70,000 suit filed against Comedian Bob Burns and others was without basis, and that the man who filed it previously had admitted he was "sore at Burns about some other matter."

Daniel Hoge, middle-aged civil engineer, charged in the suit he was abducted from his Wilmington home near here on December 29, 1938, was forced to sign a denial that Burns had stolen the affections of his wife Millie, and to sign a similar statement releasing Burns' studio, Paramount, from any claims.

John Klein, chief investigator of the District Attorney's staff, said after a check of his records that Hoge was questioned on December 17, 1938.

Klein said that after Paramount made a report to him Hoge was located at Wilmington and came to the District Attorney's office of his own volition. His house was not entered, Klein said.

At the District Attorney's office a statement was taken from Hoge. Klein said it was an admission that Hoge's alienation of affections charges were "the bunk," and that Hoge was "sore at Burns about some other matter," and an agreement that Hoge would not file the suit.

Farmers Aiding Carriers Deliver Mail

A county snow plow, heading off towards Stewart's Hall on the Wallace Point road this morning, stalled in a deep drift after going a short distance from the "flat road" junction. Twelve or fifteen men had to be recruited to unfasten it.

That was a sample of stories from the snow-bound townships brought by rural mail carriers to the post office this morning. Thomas Harvey said he had managed to get the mail yesterday to all but three of the residents on his route along the Smith-North Monaghan boundary and south to the highway.

Automobiles have been discarded on all roads except the provincial highways. Mr. Harvey said it took from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. to shovel through a 300-yard drift on the Beardmore Hill near Walter McKee's farm.

"I would not have been able to get along as well as I did if it had not been for the help of a lot of the farmers in arranging to pass mail on to neighbors," Mr. Harvey said. He was taking his camera along this afternoon to get some shots of snow scenes.

William Breckenridge told a similar story about the helpfulness he received down the Crowley line in Otonabee. He mentioned Len Clancey and his boys as going out of their way to pass mail along the route.

Leo Shaughnessy said that none of the North Monaghan roads are open east of Springville. He leaves quite a bit of his mail at Springville and farmers have been getting it there. His route is the River Road from Joe Madill's corner.

Pete Maloney, who covers a route in Douro, quotes one of his neighbors as saying that the Lord will send a warm rain one of these days, and that will be the last of the snow.

Howard Harper, an Otonabee farmer, from the Stewart's Hall area, said he had to take across fields to the flat road coming in to Peterborough this morning. And the flat road, south to Bensfort, is not open.

"I had to take the top off the drifts along 200 acres to let the horses get through," Mr. Harper said.

To The Electors—

To all those citizens who voted for me on Tuesday I am deeply grateful, and I should like to add a special word of appreciation to the many other men and women who assisted me in various ways during the campaign. There is a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that our faith in Mackenzie King and our recognition of his ability have been so overwhelmingly endorsed from coast to coast.

We learn in sport to accept the decisions of the referee, and in that spirit I accept the verdict of the majority of the electors of this riding, trusting that this industrial city of Peterborough will continue to advance in pace and in spirit with the rest of Canada.

Yours Faithfully,

"We Like to Dress Up, Too!

A TAILORED PRINCESS FROCK—These striped seersuckers, pictured here, are excellent examples of the princess silhouette with their clever manipulation of the striped pattern and their pristine collars and cuffs. They come in blue and white to match the rest of the wardrobe.

A QUAINT PINAFORE FROCK—At least one pinafore frock for every little girl this Spring. Crisp white lawn pinafores over checked or printed frocks are most appealing. A few extra pinafores will convert winter cottons into Spring styles. They'll save on dress laundering, too.

A SHIRTWAIST FROCK—And this year it should contrast plain and striped chambray. Chambray is the Spring's most popular dress fabric.

A JUMPER FROCK—There are new ones of spun rayon with crisp sheer cotton blouses. Have a few blouses on hand to keep her looking fresh. Spun rayons wash well and are crease resistant.

FASHIONS

Sew something simple! A trim frock that's right for any occasion all day long because it's neither too dressy nor over-formal. Make it of a small print on a dark background for an illusion of slenderness. Trim it all down the front with bright buttons to pick up one of the colors in the print. The heart-shaped neckline is ever so flattering to your face. The long slim lines of the dress itself add apparent inches to your height, and seem to subtract pounds from your figure. Both short and long sleeves and a turn-over collar are included in the pattern.

Style No. 3193 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material.

DOROTHY DIX

GIVE HUSBAND THE CHILDREN AND DIVORCES WILL BE FEWER

Assuming All the Family Responsibility Will Make Man Think Twice

Dear Miss Dix—No story is commoner than that of the philandering husband who at middle age decides that his perfectly good wife is no longer his soul mate and that some young girl is his affinity, and who insists upon his wife giving him a divorce. He always nobly presents the children to their mother, and, having performed this act of generosity, he washes his hands of all further responsibility about his offspring and leaves his discarded wife to wrestle with the problem of rearing and supporting them. The wife thus summarily chucked out of house and home with her children—for no reason except that her husband has lost his taste for her—is a poor, bewildered creature knowing not what to do. So perhaps you will be interested in hearing how a friend of mine settled this problem. This lady, like so many others, possessed a husband with a roaming foot who became in love with a young woman. The wife tried all the usual wifely tactics to bring him back to his duty as a father and a husband, but to no avail. So at last the wife told him that she agreed to free him on the provision that he take their four young children with him.

She told him that they legally belonged to him even more than they did to her.

That he was better able to support them than she was, and that while she could earn her own living she would be unable to take proper care of the four youngsters. Also, she said that she felt that she would have a better chance of marrying if she was not handicapped by such a large readymade family.

That ended the affair and saved the home from being broken up. Lothario didn't look so romantic to the girl surrounded by his olive branches, nor had he any desire to jump the bars if he had to take the whole litter along with him.

I believe that if in the case of a separation of a married couple the children were given to the father instead of the mother, it would do more than any one thing to stop divorce. It would make many a man reflect that it is better to be married even to a wife who doesn't understand him than to have to be a nursemaid, and it would cause the moose-eyed love pirates to turn their glances in another direction, for a man with howling brats, good or bad, young or old, would cure any predatory female of nefarious designs on their father. MABLE.

Answer:

It is an idea. Many of us who have observed the craving of middle-aged men for divorces have wondered if the real reason of it wasn't that they had got as tired of their children as they had of their wives, and they were as anxious to get rid of the one as they were of the other.

Domesticity had palled upon them. They were fed up with looking at Maria and the kids, and of listening to the same line of twaddle that she had been giving them for the last thirty years. They were tired of hearing the children quarrel and fight, and of seeing all of their money go for food and clothes and doctors' bills and bicycles and skates. So they got the crazy idea in their heads that if they could only get a divorce it would wash the slate clean and they could start over and be young and gay once more.

But divorce would offer no such alluring prospect to a man if he knew that it would not lift the burden of his children from him. It would only double it, for he would have to be mother and father both. He would have to see to the baby formulas, the spinach and the toothbrushing; help with the home work, supervise their morals and their manners and their clothes, and do the million tasks that are just a part of a mother's daily routine.

And when he remembered how exhausted a single Sunday afternoon of entertaining the children left him, divorce wouldn't seem like an escape. It would look like purgatory.

Of course, the plan of having the courts award the children to the father instead of the mother isn't feasible because wives haven't the nerve to call their husbands' bluff, but there is no doubt that it would keep many a man safe in the domestic fold if they did.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What is the matter with us? My husband and I are always quarreling over little meaningless things. He is always grouchy and everything gets on his nerves. For instance, I love to drive the car and he hates it, so he asks me to drive, but every minute of the time he is telling me how to do it and finding fault with the way I drive. This makes me very upset and when I have a close call to an accident on account of him, he strikes me, with people looking on from the sidewalk. My husband is always saying: "Let's part," and I say, "All right, if you want to," but he never goes. We have a boy 12 years old. What shall I do? — SARAH.

ANSWER:

There are two courses open to you. One is to call his bluff about leaving. The next time he threatens to go, run and get his bag and tell him you think he is right and that two people who can't get along together in peace had better part.

Magician Makes Money Fresh While You Wait!

Entertain with Clever Tricks

An empty handkerchief till the magician says a few magic words—then presto, out comes a dime! Miraculous? Not when you know the secret.

Grand fun to play amateur magician—keep friends agog at parties. The trick called "Aladdin's Handkerchief" is really very simple. Perhaps you can guess how it's done.

The "magician" pulls out a clean handkerchief, unfolds it and shows both sides to the audience. Anything up his sleeves? No, he turns back his cuffs to prove it.

Now the handkerchief is rolled up, handed to a member of the audience. "Abracadabra!" chants the magician. And, when the handkerchief is opened, there—sure enough—is the dime!

It's just a matter of fixing things before hand. And, with a few quick preparations, you work other fascinating tricks, too—"The Vanishing Sugar," "The Rising Cigarette," "The Phantom Cards."

Find instructions for these and other mysterious tricks in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to perform magical feats with cigars, cigarettes, cards, coins, balls, baffle friends with "mental telepathy" stunts.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PROFESSIONAL TRICKS FOR AMATEUR MAGICIANS, to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

In And Out Of the Shops

with FLORA

Men who don't give a hoot what they look like at any other time of year are getting clothes conscious right now — perhaps because of the way the Spring brightness brings up the shine. They're looking about for new suits, top coats, and all the rest of it—and the ones who know their stuff are wasting no time, but heading for the new Men's Style Shop at 136 Hunter Street, West, opposite the Regent Theatre. This shop, which opened recently under the management of two young Peterborough men who have been connected with men's clothing requirements for years, is a shop where a man can choose the best of everything from a stock of popular-priced merchandise. Even those who refuse to buy clothes until decency demands it, will find buying here a painless and pleasant business. 9923 is the 'phone number.

Hurrying up George street yesterday I was halted in my tracks outside the windows of the new Darling Specialty Shop — there was such a look of individuality about them that after flattening an excited nose against the glass I just had to step inside and investigate—emerging later with two chic frocks under one arm, a new pep in my step, and, best of all, a wealth of information for you! It's this way, folks. The manager was just in the midst of unpacking a thrilling collection of frocks he has just brought back from Toronto and Montreal — clever copies of American originals which he tells me are to be featured at $8.95 in a special promotion sale this Friday and Saturday ONLY. Selling usually at $12 and $14.95, there's something about these frocks that reminds one of a sunny Southern cruise—but I know you stay-in-towners will be quick to see in them just the deft styling and gay sophistication you require to swing you brightly into spring and happily through the summer.

I wonder if you know what I know about the new BILTMORE RESTAURANT, formerly the Elite Grill? Do you know it is now completely changed—new food, new menus, new business luncheons that offer you a nourish g meal for 25 or 35 cents topped o.. by a grand dessert? There are other luncheons and dinners too, of course, and prices to match every taste and purse. Do you know that the atmosphere is a quiet, soothing one—the service quick and efficient? If you don't, it's because you haven't taken the trouble to find out—if you don't do a bit of personal investigation NOW you are going to be the loser—don't say I haven't tipped you off! I'm enthusiastic about the new ideas in food, prices and general manageemnt,-and because of that I know one visit will arouse your enthusiasm, too. And by the way, this is important news—there is to be free tea cup reading for a short time only with any 25 cent order—from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 11, daily except Sunday.

One of the clever young operators at Moore's Beauty Salon, 296 Charlotte Street West, was just putting the finishing touches on a new permanent as I dropped in yesterday, and it was one of the most charming hairstyles we've seen this season. The contour of the young matron for whom it was designed had been carefully studied prior to the permanent, then an individual style had been worked out according to the dictates of the latest mode. Because of the complete equipment and skill of the operators, a permanent at this modern salon is a most gentle and comfortable procedure, with the assurance of having those all-important neck hairs quite curly, and not, as often happens, cut off or left more or less straight. Spring-time, following a long winter season of hat-wearing and the dry air of office or shop, is an ideal time to renew your permanent. It's wise to 'phone early for appointments—3095 is the number.

KINGSTON, ONT.—From this city comes the news that tomato juice is made much more flavoursome by adding a little H. P. Sauce. Try this idea yourself and you will enjoy tomato juice with more zest than ever.

H. P. Sauce is a general favourite and has been used in cooking and on the table for many, many years. Being a thick, rich, fruity sort of sauce, H. P. has extraordinary flavouring power. It makes hot and cold dishes of every description taste much nicer. Use this English sauce for adding flavour to soups, stews, meat pies, gravies, macaroni, chops, steaks, cheese dishes and so on.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XJIX

Stephen Black was slumped in a chair by an open library window, his eyes fastened vacantly on the satiny green lawn before him. He did not turn his head when Janis entered the room, nor did he speak.

She halted, waited, her heart in her throat. At last, she stammered: "Ste-Stephen—I'm glad—glad you acted as you did."

He swung around sharply, then said in a surprised tone: "You're—glad? I thought you'd blame me for losing my temper. But I couldn't stand by—let a man——"

"It was splendid of you." She sat down near him. "I hope you taught him a lesson—hope he'll never try anything like that again."

"Again? You intend seeing him again?"

"Yes—I must, Stephen. He's my husband." She chose her words carefully. "A woman must—must overlook a great deal in a husband."

"You—still care for him?"

She hesitated. "I did care once, you know," came from her, low. "Anyway—I'm going back to him."

Janis Makes Her Decision

Stephen Black gripped the arms of his chair, leaned toward her. "Janis! You can be serious about this—you can't! Think what it means—a lifetime, perhaps! Have you thought of that?"

"Yes," she returned, stoutly. "Yes—I've considered everything. He's the baby's father, and he seems fond of her. It may change him. I feel—know he needs help—and I'm the only one who can help him.'

Stephens face was dead white. He squared his broad shoulders. "I—I understand," he said, slowly. He stood up, tall and straight in body and mind, and she thought she never could let him go. She knew she had convinced him now that she loved her husband.

"I'll leave here as soon as possible—get Grace Pawling to take my place. I'll try to put Mary's affairs in order," she said, unsteadily.

"Yes——' he said, as if her had not heard her, "yes, of course." He hastened to add: "I won't be out again before you leave. I shall be busy in town."

"Thank you—it will be better that way."

He took a step toward her. "Janis," he said, and paused.

She lifted her head, saw in his eyes an agonized revelation of his love all barriers down. Her brain in a turmoil, she impulsively reached out a hand to him.

Tears of Regret

Ignoring it, he wheeled abruptly and strode out of the room, leaving her sitting there alone, dry-eyed, shaken.

She sat motionless a long time after the noise of his departing car had died out down the street. She realized that from now on he would make every effort to forget her, being the sort of man he was; she wondered how long it would be before he actually accomplished it and was frantic.

She was thankful there were so few remaining hours of that day. By night she felt completely burned out wi htworry. Even the soft silk sheets of her bed did not give her that delicious sense of luxury she ordinarily experienced, did not make her remember there had been no such luxury in the old St. Louis days. She was only tormented by what she had done to Stephen Black; what she had done to her own future.

She tossed restlessly, could find no way to relax her cruelly twitching nerves. There was no invitation to sleep in her throbbing eyes, and she was beyond crying. But by dawn she had drugged herself with suffering and fell into a deep slumber from which she did not awaken until long after her customary breakfast hour.

All that day and several following she rushed madly about in an endless round of packing, attending to Mary Black's mail and telephone calls, discussing with Nettie how to settle Mary Jane comfortably in a new environment; trying desperately not to have a spare minute in which to take out that grilling torment in the back of her mind, mull it over.

Nettie promised to go with the baby to her new home, which was a distinct relief to Janis and when Mary Black returned Grace Pawling had decided she could stay permanently at Bridgecliff.

Mary wept when Janis left the house and declared she never would be able to manage without her and that blessed baby. But she did not try to dissuade Janis against the move. It was apparent to Janis that Mary and Stephen had thoroughly discussed the situation, decided not to interfere with a wife's duty to the man she loved.

And Janis knew that her leaving this home gave every evidence of that love. Only she alone knew it was that other love, the one great love of her life, which was making her go away. She didn't intend to go into secret heroics over her sacrifice, but there were moments when she felt it was too tremendous to be endured.

In Her New Home

She finally found herself settled in a Beverly Hills penthouse with a husband, baby and nurse; also a butler, cook and chauffeur. The glaringly modern furnishings of this new home exactly suited Rock, and Janis pretended to like them, pretended to be highly pleased with all he said and did. But it was a struggle that was wearing her down. After a few weeks she had lost weight, was pale and easily irritated.

When Rock insisted that they give a house-warming and invite in all the old crowd, she nearly lost her remaining shred of patience. But she did not let him discover it. Instead, she planned an elaborate dinner menu with Rose; the cook, discussed minor details with Herman, the butler, and rushed down to Hollywood for unique table decorations and favors.

When all was in readiness, the spacious rooms, fragrant with great clusters of pink roses, the long dining table decorated by pink tapers in crystal holders and gardenias in crystal bowls, Janis sighed with relief.

She entered her bedroom, wondering what to wear. It was really unimportant, she thought dejectedly. No one would specially notice the wife of the rapidly rising screen star, Rock Conover, when he was around. She would be merely a robot in the background, pulling the strings to make a smooth evening for all concerned. But she put on a crimson tulle gown, which she hoped would make up in vividness what her spirts lacked and pretended she was about to enjoy what Rock would call "a swell blowout."

The Old Life Resumed

She knew before the evening began how it would be. Lucinda and Eve and Sally and the rest of them, all flattering Rock, and he reveling in it. If he would only think of the future, plan toward the hour when his popularity would wane.

All screen favorites fortunately didn't have Rock's point of view. Many of them these days were laying aside an income against the time when they would be crowded off the pinnacle of public favor. Why couldn't Rock do this? A man with a wife and child—It gave her the shivers to contemplate their future.

That night there was the usual sprinkling of men whom Janis knew were hanging on the fringe of the motion-picture colony, waiting for breaks, problematical for the majority of them. They, also, made a business of heaping heady praise upon Rock, magnifying his accomplishments, paying homage to him as if he were a Barrymore or Leslie Howard.

And the worst of it was, Rock thought them sincere. He was among these climbers, a King—and the King could do no wrong. He went among the women, greeting the pretty ones with kisses, making flippant love to them, glowing at their worship.

This company was a far cry from the cultured groups found at Mary Black's parties, where art, politics and religion were intelligently discussed, where a romantic play of mind could enter the field of archeology, science, travel and other interesting subjects.

Conversation among the two dozen guests tonight became loud, laughter boisterous at pointless humor. Janis was worried about Mary Jane, supposed to be sleeping through this this racket. The nursery was in the rear of the apartment, but such noice as was going here now would carry a block away.

Storm Brewing

From her end of the table, she finally succeeded in catching Rock's eye. She put a finger to her lips, shook her head significantly.

"She'll lose a lot of it when she grows up—if she's like her dad," drawled Lucinda, as if giving him a compliment.

But underneath Lucinda's smile her face looked more strangely ruthless than usual. Janis stared at her and shuddered.

"If we could all tone down a tle," suggested Janis irritated beyond endurance.

"Say! Does this house have to run on infant schedule?" Rock's voice was thick, he glared fiercely at Janis. "Let the kid yell. That's the best thing she does!"

Eve flung Rock a sympathetic glance, as did the majority of the other guests. Janis was thoroughly incensed, but offered nothing further. She only choked down a piece of delilious filet of sole, pretended she had a kind, discriminating husband and was entertaining courteous people. Somehow, she got through the meal.

He hasn't any intention of leaving you. He loves his home and you and the boy, and he would be perfectly miserable away from you, but he thinks he can worry you by pretending he is going away.

The other way to deal with the situation is by silence. No matter what he says to you, don't answer back. Just get up and leave the room. There is no point in raging and saying insulting things if the abused one doesn't hear them. It takes two to make an argument, you know, and if you don't chip in with your little two cents' worth there is nothing doing.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

PLAN TWO FINESSES

LOOKING ahead will sometimes show you the necessity of leading twice from one hand in order to take two finesses. Doing that requires, of course, putting the lead into that hand twice. At the same time you will want to guard yourself against the possibility of a singleton honor winning a trick for the defenders. A bit of planning may show you how to protect yourself against all of the risks against which it is possible to guard yourself.

	♠ A Q J 3 2 ♥ 6 5 ♦ 7 6 3 ♣ A 8 5
♠ K 10 9 7 ♥ 6 4 ♦ 10 3 ♦ A J 10 9 ♣ Q	N. W. E. S.	♠ 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 4 2 ♦ K 5 ♣ 9 7 4 3
	♠ 8 ♥ A K 7 ♦ Q 8 4 2 ♣ K J 10 6 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥	3 NT

South held up when East covered West's heart 10, but took the second heart, then counted nine possible tricks—two in spades if the finesse would work, five in clubs if that one would succeed, and two in hearts. So to the third trick he finessed the spade J, took the spade A and finessed the club J, losing to the Q. West led the diamond J to the K, took the diamond 9 on the return, then the diamond A and spade K, setting the contract two.

Why didn't South take the A on the first club round, to guard against a singleton Q? Because, he said, if East had the Q, he would have to finesse twice and so would need the club A as an entry to try the second finesse.

Both points could have been covered by proper play. Before touching the spades, South should have planned to play to the club A, then finesse once in clubs, next take the spade finesse and spade A and then finesse the clubs a second time. By this more thorough and sounder plan, he would have provided for two club finesses and also for protection against a singleton Q, and so would have made his contract which he had reached by rather unusual bidding.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 10 5 ♥ 7 4 2 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ A Q J 3
♠ Q J 6 4 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ K J 6 ♣ K 10 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 9 8 2 ♥ Q J 10 6 ♦ 7 5 2 ♣ 8 7 6
	♠ K 7 3 ♥ A K 9 ♦ A Q 10 3 ♣ 9 5 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Diamond on this deal, North 2-Clubs, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, what should West lead?

Fire Furnishes Manhattan Blackout

This fire in Kearney, New Jersey, gave Manhattan a sample of what a blackout is like. The spectacular fire of undetermined origin in the chemical building of the White Tar Company, sent great plumes of heavy dark smoke rolling across the river and bay. Emergency calls for help were sent to Jersey City and other nearby communities for equipment with which to battle to prevent spread of the flames.

Rumor Reds Urge Chiang To Accept Wang's Armistice

PARIS, March 27—(CP-Havas).—Reports reaching French diplomatic quarters today from Chinese circles in Moscow said the Soviet Union is advising Chiang Kai-Shek to accept an armistice Wang Ching-Wei is expected to propose shortly after he is installed as Japan's puppet premier in China.

Some observers believe the move is part of a German-sponsored plan to establish totalitarian control over the two continents, with the Reich, Italy, Russia and Japan joining in partnership.

More authoritative opinion, however, is that, in urging Chiang Kai-Shek to make peace, Russia is merely extending her own Imperialist ambitions to the Far East. According to this view, the Russians see the stalemate in the Sino-Japanese war as affording an excellent opportunity for obtaining Japanese recognition of Soviet predominance in Chinese Turkestan and Outer Mongolia in exchange for a decisive word for peace from the Kremlin.

According to word from Tokyo, Russo-Japanese negotiations on mutual Far Eastern problems are making slow but positive progress.

Wang's Japanese-sponsored "central Chinese government" is scheduled to take office at Nanking Saturday, although its formation has frequently been postponed in the past and may be deferred again.

The difficulty appears to be that if the Japanese armies continue to gobble up more and more of China after Wang is installed, the new premier will enjoy none of the Chinese public support he hopes to win as a "pacifier." On the other hand, if the Japanese troops were withdrawn, Chiang Kai-Shek would be left in a strategic position to reconquer the territories now lost to his regime.

Russia is in at least partial possession of the key to the situation. If it is true that the Soviets are bringing pressure on Chiang to conclude a peace with the Japanese invaders' agent, there is an analogy between the Kremlin's policy in Europe and in Asia.

In Europe, Russia professed to be on the side of law and order until friendship with Germany gave her an opportunity of annexing territory from Poland and Finland, occupying strategic strongholds in Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, and gaining effective control of the Baltic.

In Asia, the Soviet from the outset has shown partiality to the Chinese republic's fight against Japan. French observers would not be surprised, however, to see Moscow make a sudden about-face if profit was to be made from such a shift.

FELT TIRED, LISTLESS, NERVOUS TELLS HOW SYNTONA HELPED HER

No Longer Suffers With Headaches, Dizzy Spells and Constipation. Complexion Has Cleared, Appetite Improved and Energy Returned, She Says.

MISS IVY HODGKINSON

"Since I have taken a treatment of Syntona, I can plainly see why so many people are talking about this medicine," said Miss Ivy Hodgkinson, of 246 Main Street W., Hamilton, in a recent statement.

"I had become badly rundown and I was so nervous and irritable I didn't want to talk to anybody; just felt like sleeping all the time. Even when I slept eight or nine hours a night I would feel fatigued and listless right from the beginning of the next day. My skin was rough and pimply, my complexion was sallow and I suffered with dizzy spells and constipation. I was subject to headaches and floating spots before my eyes.

"I thought I was going to have a complete nervous breakdown, but now, after taking a few bottles of Syntona, I am feeling like a different person. I arise in the mornings feeling rested and energetic. I don't get those headaches or dizzy spells any more and I am free of constipation. My appetite has improved and my complexion has cleared up."

Because of the unusual combination of pure herbs, roots and barks in Syntona, it is particularly beneficial for the whole family at this season. It is pleasant to take and contains nothing that would harm even the most delicate constitution.

Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, to-day and get yourself a treatment of Syntona. See how much better you, too, can be feeling in just a short time. Ask about the special introductory offer.—(Advt.)

Rawdon Family Honored By Friends With Party On Eve Of Removal

BONARLAW, March 27—(ENS)—On Thursday evening of last week the large farm house of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannah on the 13th Line of Rawdon was filled to overflowing when their numerous friends and neighbors gathered and presented Mr. and Mrs. Hannah and family with a beautiful floor lamp and an electric iron.

Mr. J. F. Baker, who acted as chairman, and Mr. W. J. Barlow expressed on behalf of the community the regret felt by all when it was learned they were soon to leave this township, and wished them all happiness and success in their new home.

The gifts were presented by Mrs. Dave Wellman and Mrs. John E. Brown.

Mrs. Hannah and her daughter Violet, members of the Springbrook Women's Institute, were also presented with a beautiful silverplated casserole and a silver dish by the members of this organization. The presentation was made by Mrs. J. F. Baker and Mrs. W. J. Barlow, the president and secretary. In making the presentation, Mrs. Baker referred to the splendid co-operation received from Mrs. Hannah and Violet, and their willingness at all times to offer their home for meetings and their readiness to assist in every way possible. They will be greatly missed.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hannah and Violet thanked those present for the gifts and invited all to visit them in their new home. They were given three rousing cheers and all sang, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

The balance of the evening was spent in social intercourse, games, community singing, a bountiful lunch and both round and square dancing to the excellent music furnished by Messrs. Kouri and Reynolds of Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannah expect to move to Marmora village in a few weeks and will carry on with their dairy business there.

Easter Services

Easter Day services were held in St. Mark's Church at 11 a.m. (Holy Communion), and 7.30 p.m. (Evensong), and were well attended considering the state of the roads. Canon W. G. Swayne delivered inspiring sermons at both services and the choir rendered the anthem "Easter Day."

The daffodils and tulips on the altar were a gift from the Women's Auxiliary and Easter lillies adorned the chancel.

At the close of the Sunday school session Easter morning, Mrs. W. G. Swayne, organist and choir leader of St. Mark's Choir was presented with a beautiful Easter lily from the members of the choir. Mrs. Swayne thanked the choir in a few well chosen words.

At the service in St. Mark's Church, Good Friday evening, the special preacher was Rev. A. S. McConnell of Stirling and his sermon was greatly enjoyed by all.

Staying On Job

Ottawa, March 27 (CP)

JAMES H. R. CROMWELL, who returned to Ottawa today from his home in New Jersey, said: "I have no other plans than to continue the duties of my office as American Minister to Canada."

The minister gave the press a prepared statement concerning the pro-Ally speech he made in Toronto recently and rumors that he would be a senatorial candidate in New Jersey.

The statement follows: "All I can say now is that I have no other plans than to continue the duties of my office as American Minister to Canada. As for Toronto, Secretary Hull (United States Secretary Cordell Hull), for whom I have great admiration and respect, has said the last word. There isn't any more and I have no further statement to make."

Foiling Raiders

London, March 27 (CP)

THE ADMIRALTY will counter German air attacks on its lightships by placing automatic lights on crewless vessels too small to be easily bombed, it was learned today.

The newly developed ships will need human attention only once every two months. They are only 30 feet long.

Naval circles said the new craft are a technical wartime achievement surpassed only by the measures developed by the Admiralty to thwart the German magnetic mine.

Both British and neutral merchant ships are dependent on floating light that mark channels through the North Sea and English Channel.

Union Service Held At Warkworth

WARKWORTH March 27—(ENS)—An impressive union service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Good Friday night. Rev. F. A. Ball, Free Methodist minister and Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper, United Church minister, gave interesting addresses based on the thirty second verse of the twelfth chapter of St. John: And if I be lifted up will draw all men unto me. The subject was "The meaning of the Cross."

Rev. G. R. Duncan read the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah and offered prayer.

French Tongue May Halt Movies By Dionne Quints

CALLANDER, March 27. — The movie careers of the Dionne quints may be halted with the making of the fourth and final picture under the contract held by 20th Century Fox Films Co., until such time as the children learn to speak English, it was disclosed here to-day.

The scheduled movie must be released before the end of 1940, under the terms of the contract. There were rumors that the company would forego making the last picture, but it is now understood it will be filmed in May or June.

The first picture made by the quints, "The Country Doctor," was a tremendous success, but the picture which followed failed to click to the extent anticipated. It is now believed that the moving picture careers of the five children will be halted until such times as they learn English. They will start to learn the language at the age of 6, which occurs on May 28. It is reported that the film studios feel that no picture of the quints can have wide appeal unless they are able to speak English. If they become as adept at speaking English as they now are at speaking the French tongue, the quints will again become an attractive proposition for the movies.

Dr. Dafoe leaves this week for New York where he will fulfill several radio engagements. He will be absent about a week.

Pelee Mail Plane Weckage Yields Three Bodies; Killed In Crash On Lake Ice

Tragedy Discovered After 20-Hour Search, Fliers Point Way 4 Miles Off Shore To Boat Crews Led By Girl Victim's Lover

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 28.—(CP)—A rescue boat today reached the wreckage of the Pelee Island mail plane on the ice four miles off here and found Pilot Tom Higgins and two passengers dead. The passengers were Mabel Tessier, 20, North Ridge, and Sam Konvsky, Leamington fur buyer.

Pilot John Dehne of the Border Cities Aero Club and Barney Gloster, newspaper cameraman, from another plane at eight a.m. today sighted the wreckage of the Pelee plane, more than 20 hours overdue here on its 15-mile hop and guided a rescue boat to the spot.

It was believed that the three were killed as the plane crashed as there was no sign they had made any effort to leave the wreck.

News that the three were dead was brought here by the plane. Pilot Dehne said those in the rescue boat wrote "all dead" in the snow to give him the message.

Pilot Norman Reynolds, in another plane, returned from the scene and said that the bodies had been placed into two rescue boats and were being brought to the mainland over water-covered ice.

Sweetheart Leads Rescue

Members of the boat crews were Jim Sherratt, Robert Bosman, Thomas Bell, Charles Rowley, Earl Cooper, Martin James and Henry Fisher. It was learned that Miss Tessier, killed in the crash, was the sweetheart of Sherratt. Sherratt was Pilot Higgins' mechanic.

The wrecked biplane was purchased last May for $20,000. It was a four-passenger model.

"The plane was badly wrecked," Pilot Dehne said. "It looked as though the pilot tried to get his position in bad visibility, misjudged his altitude and crashed. It seemed from marks on the ice that the plane bounced several times before the nose hit. The nose is imbedded in ice and it appears the engine is shoved back in the cockpit. I don't see how anyone could be alive."

Plane Only Link.

It has not been established whether the mail plane reached Pelee on its daily trip with the mail or whether it crashed on the way there. The underground cable to the island has been broken, and only communication this winter has been by plane.

The plane was due on its return trip at 11.30 a.m., yesterday. Search was started when it became an hour overdue.

Ballot boxes containing the Pelee Island vote in the Federal election on Tuesday were believed aboard the plane.

Yesterday, a search plane flew over the route and Pilot Bev Briscoe reported he saw what appeared to be wreckage on the ice, with three figures moving near it. Swirling snow prevented him obtaining a clear look. Observers with field glasses on shore also thought they could discern three figures moving on the ice a few miles from shore. Search parties returned at dark last night after venturing as much as seven miles on the treacherous ice.

Bonfires were lighted on the shore last night and town factory whistles were blown in an effort to attract

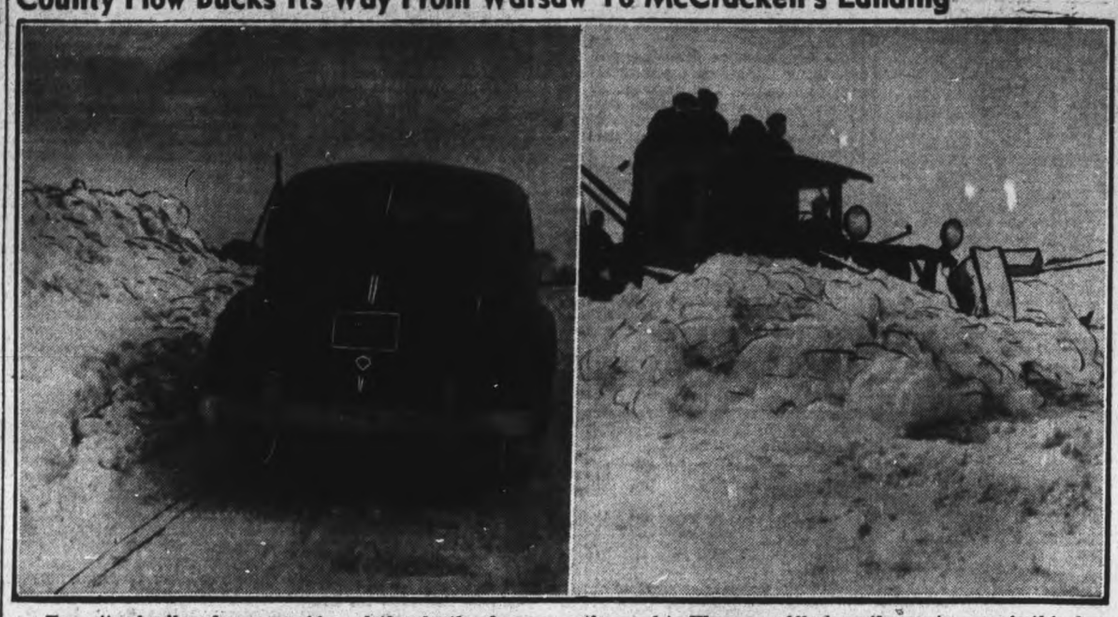
County Plow Bucks Its Way From Warsaw To McCracken's Landing



Few city dwellers have any idea of the depth of snow that lies all through Ontario. Not five miles from Peterborough it is anywhere from three to six feet deep in most places and snowplows are faced with an almost impossible task in opening the roads. At LEFT a car is stopped along the road to Warsaw. All along the route snow is this deep and deeper. At RIGHT is the county of Peterborough's snowplow bucking its way from Warsaw to McCracken's Landing in order that medical aid may be brought to a marooned man, Wellington Matthews. Berlin Arms Plant Burns; Two British Bombers Shot Down During Raids

Flames Brighten Sky Over German Capital; Norwegians Seize Nazi Sub Stranded Off Coast And Intern Crew

AMSTERDAM, March 28—(AP)—A British bombing plane machine-gunned by Netherlands pursuit plane searly today was forced down and burned near Pernis on the Island of Ysselmonde southwest of Rotterdam.

One of the British crew leaped to his death. Four others were slightly injured in the landing, but escaped the flames which enveloped the craft.

An announcement by the Government Press Service said the four survivors would be interned.

The plane was flying in a westerly direction over Dutch territory when, a communique said, "It was hit by the gunfire of a pursuit plane."

Eye-witnesses said two Netherland fighter planes came from the north and circled the bomber.

Fire Streams Out

Witnesses said the plane, a Bristol-Blenheim bomber, was flying at an altitude of 1,200 feet when it was intercepted by two fighters.

The rattle of machine-guns was heard and then fire and smoke streamed out of the rear of the bomber.

As the flaming plane started down witnesses, expecting a crash, were surprised that the pilot could make a landing.

No burns were found on the body of the man killed by jumping. It was believed his companions did not attempt to use their parachutes because of the low altitude.

Burning fiercely, the plane was consumed in less than an hour after landing. Since there were no explosives it was believed it carried no bombs.

BERLIN, March 28. — (AP).—Towering flames from a warehouse of the Bergmann Electric Company on the northern outskirts of Berlin threw a warlike red glare over the city early to-day

But the blaze apparently was less sensational than it seemed last night when fire-fighting equipment was massed for half a mile around the scene in Wilhelmsruh, six miles from the centre of the capital.

Tongues of flame leaping high into the overcast night sky caused reports that the burning plant had been converted to manufacture of war materials and that the powder stores were exploding. This, however, was not confirmed.

DNB, German News Agency, said "highly inflammable material" was ablaze in the wooden warehouse but did not tell what it was. The flames were believed to have been confined to the one building but military police barred the way to the plant and strict wartime laws against reporting news of any military value hampered efforts to obtain informataion.

Bomber Shot Down.

LONDON, March 28.—(CP).— The Air Ministry confirmed to-day that a Bristol-Blenheim bomber, intercepted by German pursuit planes while reconnoitering over Heligoland Bight yesterday, was missing.

DNB, official News Agency, reported last night that the plane was shot down.

Two Norfolk lifeboats, meanwhile, were reported to have made a fruitless search for another British plane

Britain Calls Envoys Home From Balkans Russia Treads Easy—Mum As Ships Held

London To Check On German Diplomatic Drive

LONDON, March 28—(CP).—The British Ambassador to Turkey and the Ministers to Bulgaria, Greece, Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia have been called to London for consultation with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

The move, which was interpreted as foreshadowing a British diplomatic offensive in the Balkans, was announced by the Foreign Office News Department as coming from "authoritative" sources.

The envoys are expected to arrive in England early next month when Sir Percy Loraine, British Ambassador to Italy, also is expected in London.

Authoritative sources said "the only thing possible to infer at the moment" from the announcement is that Lord Halifax wishes to confer with men on the spot about German and Russian "economic and diplomatic offensives in the Balkans."

They asserted it is impossible to enlarge on the statement at the present time.

Germany Watching.

BERLIN, March 28—(AP).— The Allies' attitude toward the neutrality of Norway and Denmark, whose territorial waters provide Germany a sea-lane from the north, is being watched with "the most profound attention," authorized German spokesmen declared today.

They said the Reich is reckoning with the possibility the Western powers may "assume the right to police territorial waters" of the northern nations, in view of a statement issued in Paris last night.

(A semi-official French statement outlining the Allied attitude toward neutrals made a sharp distinction between active and passive neutral nations. It said recent activity of British warships off Jutland was due to "the passive attitude" of "certain neutral governments" permitting Germany to carry on a regular "war traffic." The Allies intend to police "doubtful" neutral waters, the statement declared).

The German press echoed a statement today in Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter that the Western powers "probably still hope in this wise, after the failure of intrigues in Finland, to make a battlefield of the whole north."

Allies Agree Neither To Make Peace Alone And Only After Lasting Effects Assured

LONDON, March 28—(CP).— The British and French governments agreed today that during the war they will neither negotiate nor conclude an armistice or treaty of peace except by mutual agreement. The decision was made at a meeting of the supreme war council.

The meeting was attended by Premier Paul Reynaud of France and the Allied Commander-in-Chief, General Gamelin.

The Allied war leaders also agreed, said an official statement, not to discuss peace terms before reaching complete agreement on the conditions necessary to ensure effective and lasting guarantees of security.

Finally they agreed "to maintain after the conclusion of peace community of action in all spheres," the statement declared.

Suspect Reds Uneasy Over Nazi Ties As Allies Stiffen

LONDON, March 28—(CP). — Great Britain and France are arranging immediate consultations on means of intensifying the war against Germany and on what status to assign Soviet Russia in the conflict.

The Russian question was brought into sharper perspective by the recall from Paris, at French request, of the Soviet Ambassador, and the British detention of two Russian ships in the Far East.

Russia also was believed to occupy an important place in the Allied discussions in the light of the Finnish war settlement of March 12 and the reported efforts of Germany to draw Russia and Italy closer.

It was reported that Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax discussed at some length yesterday with Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky the degree of neutrality to be accorded Russia by the Allies.

British detention of the Russian ships Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky for contraband examination also was said to have been discussed, but Foreign Office sources denied that Maisky had protested the British action.

Diplomatic observers held that Russia was unlikely to raise any major dispute over the detentions because they believed the present Soviet foreign policy is to pursue a cautious course while sizing up the European situation.

U.S. Supplies For Enemy

The News Chronicle said the seizure was "closing another gap," and added:

"For many weeks now the stream of sympathy coming out of America for Finland has been equalled in size and rate of flow only by the stream of important American war materials which have found their

Norse Protests Pictured Matter Of Form

LONDON, March 28 — (CP). — The Times today suggested in an editorial on the Norwegian situation that small neutral countries find themselves obliged to protest in any case of suspected breach of their neutrality in order to forestall possible German charges of unneutral bias.

The newspaper pointed out that the Norwegian protests awaited answer here, said:

"There is full understanding and sympathy here with the difficulties of the Scandinavian states. The position of small neutrals during a struggle between greater powers is always delicate. No doubt they may consider it prudent, in order to forestall any German charge of unneutral bias, to protest whenever there is the least suspicion of irregularity—even when, as in the case of the Altmark, British ships intervened in order to prevent a gross abuse of the hospitality of Norwegian territorial waters."

The newspaper stressed, however, that "the British navy is doing all in its power to safeguard the in-

Report Germany Offering Hungary Bait

PARIS, March 28—(CP).—Genevieve Tabouis, French foreign affairs commentator, wrote in L'Oeuvre today that Germany was reported to have offered Hungary Slovakia and Transylvania—the latter now part of Rumania—in return for guaranteed German domination in the state that would thus be formed.

Mme. Tabouis said it was even reported that the current visit of Premier Paul Teleki of Hungary to Rome was to sound out Italian leaders on their attitude to the project.

She continued:

"Germany, determined to impose its protection on Hungary and the Danubian basin territories, is reported to have submitted to Budapest a scheme, the aim of which is to give the Magyar nation territorial compensations in exchange for part of its political independence.

"The plan is to create a tripartite state by linking Slovakia, on the one hand, and Transylvania on the other, to Hungary.

Sumner Welles Returns; Mum On Tour

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP).—Sumner Welles, sent to Europe on a fact-finding tour by President Roosevelt, returned today to report in person to the chief executive on conditions in that war-torn continent. Affable, but silent as usual on his highly confidential mission, Welles was to entrain immediately for Washington.

The under-secretary of state, guarding closely the tremendously important information gathered in conferences in Italy, Germany, France and Great Britain, arrived in the liner Conte di Savoia.

These conferences contributed the basic facts in his possession:

An hour and a half talk with Chancellor Hitler. It had been nearly two years since an American ambassador had last seen him;

A discussion with Premier Mussolini in Rome;

Long and private discussions with former Premier Daladier in Paris, and with Prime Minister Chamberlain in London.

Welles' first words to newspapermen who went down the bay to meet him were:—

"I can give you some real news."

Predicts King Will Have 183 In House

TORONTO, March 28.—(CP).— Three western seats were still in doubt in the general election today, but the virtually-complete picture of Tuesday's balloting showed the Liberal government with a total of 177 seats—a majority of 110 over all others combined.

Actually the government strength stands at 183 seats, when three Liberal-Progressives and three Independent-Liberals are included on the government side. This total is just 122 more than in all the rest of the new parliament, a government majority of record-breaking proportions.

Close counting form the few remaining doubtful seats last night added another seat to the Liberal fold when Peace River was captured from Social Credit. The other concession last night came from Vegreville, also in Alberta, which was retained by the new Democratic party, the successor to Social Credit in the Federal field.

Doubtful seats yet are Maple Creek in Saskatchewan and Acadia and Jasper-Edson in Alberta, and Gaspe, Quebec. The election in Three Rivers, Quebec, has been deferred.

Mob Assassins Almost Get Two Witnesses

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP).—District Attorney William O'Dwyer disclosed today that gunmen seeking to silence two prize informers in the investigation of murder, inc., intended to assassinate them in their Manhattan hotel hide-away.

The Kings county prosecutor said the mobsters had taken a room directly across the courtyard from the quarters where Abraham (Pretty boy) Levine and Tony (the Duke) Maffetone had been sequestere for questioning, and planned to shoot them through the window.

O'Dwyer withheld further details of the plot, adding only that Levine and Maffetore, whose wagging tongues originally "broke" the case against the death-on-the-dotted-line syndicate, had been removed to another hide-away.

The widening scope of the case—now by far the biggest mass murder investigation in New York criminal annals—was emphasized with the disclosure that 150 detectives have been assigned to help O'Dwyer track down members of the crime

German Raider Meets End Off Scotland

LONDON, March 28—(CP).— The Royal Air Force today shot down a German warplane off the northeast coast of Scotland.

The Air Ministry at the same time announced extensive R.A.F. reconnaissance flights over Northwest Germany last night in which two planes failed to return. One was shot down by Netherlands planes and the other by the Germans over Heligoland Bigh.

A statement by the Air Ministry said:

"During last night aircraft of the R.A.F. carried out extensive reconnaissance flights over Northwest Germany.

"Two of these aircraft have failed to return.

"Shortly after mid-day today an enemy aircraft which approached the northeast coast of Scotland was shot down by R.A.F. fighters."

Burgin Visits North Ireland Area At Call For More War Factories

BELFAST, March 28—(CP)—Supply Minister Leslie Burgin arrived here today to see something of Northern Ireland's war effort and to inaugurate a regional organization of the Ministry of Supply.

He visited works engaged in wartime production and met deputations of business men and trade unions.

While Mr. Burgin was meeting privately with Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of North Ireland, press conferences were held by the Northern Ireland Minister of Labor, J. P. Gordon, and the Minister of Agriculture, Sir Basil Brooke.

Mr. Gordon said that Northern Ireland wanted a fair share of war material production to be assigned to that area, since inhabitants are bearing the same financial sacrifice as their fellow countrymen in Great Britain.

Explaining that many Northern Ireland men had left to take up employment in munitions factories in Great Britain, and that this created problems in both areas, he added that although Northern Ireland was a part of the United Kingdom no government factories for war purposes had yet been built here.

It was far better, he said, that workshops should be brought to the workmen instead of workmen having to be taken to shops across the Irish Sea.

Sir Basil said that Northern Ireland has reached its objective of bringing 250,000 additional acres into active production. He added it is hoped to reach 300,000 acres.

An Explanation

IN THE REPORT of election night speeches there was inserted in the noon edition of The Examiner from a committee room address the statement that "We may find out after thirty days whether Mrs. Fraser's money talks as loudly as it appears today." That was deleted from the afternoon edition of the paper as it was considered as something which should not have been published, and the Examiner without any suggestion from either Mr. or Mrs. Fraser expresses its regrets that this particular reference should have appeared in its columns.

Speaking to Mr. Fraser the Examiner is authorized to say that not one five-cent piece of Mrs. Fraser's money was used in the election campaign. "Any money which I spent," said Mr. Fraser, "was my own, earned by my own efforts and ability and non of it was spent in an improper way."

U.K. Forbids Neutral Crews Ashore Tips Sinking Too Many Vessels

LONDON, March 28 (CP)—Neutral vessels anchored in certain British ports were placed in virtual "quarantine" today as authorities launched a drive to prevent contact between foreign seamen and enemy agents.

Sentries guarded neutral freighters and fishing boats lying off Grimsby and Hull. No members of the crews were permitted to go ashore and no visitors were allowed aboard.

The British press association explained that the restrictions were applied "largely to prevent contact with enemy agents."

It was suggested in some quarters that Hull be made a "forbidden" zone for foreigners. It was understood that authorities there are planning to examine carefully the cases of all foreigners living in the district.

The freedom permitted foreigners was criticized last week by Colonel Henry Walter, Conservative member of parliament, who today charged that information regarding sailings is immediately communicated to the enemy. He said a number of vessels have been attacked shortly after weighing anchor from Hull. There have been too many cases, he said, to believe they constituted a mere coincidence.

Hereafter the only persons to be permitted aboard neutral vessels in eastern Scottish ports will be government officials and shipping agents. The restrictions will apply at Leith, Methil, Grangemouth and

British Editors Cheer Liberal Sweep

LONDON, March 28—(CP). — British newspapers today hailed the Liberal landslide in Canada as renewed proof that the Dominion's only disagreement was as to how she could best serve the common cause.

The Times explained the sweeping victory on the ground that "the alternative which the opposition had to offer was not sufficiently attractive to tempt many voters to the risks involved in a change of government during the war."

"Mackenzie King has won a remarkable victory in the Canadian general election," The Times said. "At a very early stage in the campaign there was little doubt his government would remain in power.

"The alternative which the opposition had to offer was not sufficiently attractive to tempt many voters to the risks involved in a change of government during the war.

"All the returns are not yet in, but it is clear already that the Liberal predominance in the new parliament will be even more overwhelming than it was in the last. Mackenzie King himself and all the other ministers have kept their seats, most of them by sweeping majorities.

"Another surprise about the election has been the heavy polling in spite of bad weather. Reporters tell of voters making their way to the booths through blizzards and snowdrifts.

"The Liberals had the advantage that they were the government in being and were able to point to their not inconsiderable achievements in the Empire air scheme, in raising, equipping and dispatching Canadian troops and in their contribution to naval defence.

At a Reform Club luncheon Mr. Burgin said Northern Ireland is a wonderful customer for Great Britain, her consumption of British-made goods during 1938 totalling £33,000,000 ($146,850,000).

Referring to the Harland and Wolff shipbuilding yards, Mr. Burgin said: "I believe it is true to say that work is going on at full capacity. This is the largest shipyard in the world, and every slip in the yard now has a ship in course of construction."

Saying that capacity for making guns, mountings and armored fighting vehicles has been increased enormously, the Supply Minister added:

"At the works of Messrs. Short and Harland some 20,000 people are engaged on large Air Ministry contracts and large orders already placed will be substantially increased when developments at present in hand are completed."

Easter Message Given W.C.T.U.

That Easter is still uppermost in the minds of women was shown on Wednesday when the theme for the Scripture, hymns and story were all built upon it as a basis at the meeting of the W.C.T.U.

For this March meeting Mrs. Ingham of Crescent Street was hostess to a good representation of members when the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, presided, opening the meeting with an appropriate Easter poem, followed by the Easter hymn. Reading from the 27th chapter of Matthew, Mrs. Coleman Elliott brought an inspiring message in her devotional talk. The significance of the events from the first Eastertide were recalled as a revelation of the eternal love of God toward us. Continuing this Easter theme was the beautiful story, "The Eleventh Hour," related by Mrs. C. S. Thompson in her usual compelling manner. The setting for the story was a little village not far from Jerusalem, and the time, Passover week. The chief character is the blind poet who sought healing of Jesus, but he did not reach Jerusalem until after the tragic events of Good Friday. The blind man's faith took him to the Saviour's tomb where he was rewarded by the vision of the risen Lord, who restored his sight. His one great memory of this miracle was sthat you can never come to Jesus too late. Earnest prayer was offered by Mrs. Scott Wildman both for the temperance cause and for the missionaries on on the field.

Mrs. E. E. Lord, superintendent of Canadianization and Citizenship, conducted the timely and interesting clip sheet, assisted by a group of the members. The topic referred particularly to the responsibility of women as good citizens, first all within the home. Here this may be done by child-training and by making the home a social centre and an object lesson of enjoyment that is elevating—free from the desire for strong drink. Outside the home a woman may work toward good citizenship through group study on outstanding problems such as the use of alcohol or narcotics, as well as peace problems. Some pertinent facts on the use of th franchise were brought to light. Though it meant long and self-sacrificing effort before women were given the vote, in many constituencies less than half of the women voters came to the polls. These stay-at-home women may claim other duties, but she who really cares for her home should take an interest, economic and political, that affects the welfare of all homes. Her influence should be on the side of honest and law-abiding methods at all times, and there seems to be great need for honest election methods if we believe a quarter of what we read in the newspapers.

Special reference was made to woman's responsibility toward the temperance question in view of the effect that liquor has on the war effort of the nation. Is it not a time to consider conserving our men and materials by restricting the sale and manufacture of alcohol for the duration of the war. Some women may be slackening in their loyalty to the W.C.T.U. since war broke out, claiming they are so busy knitting they have no time for our meetings. "Let them bring their knitting to the meeting." Let us do all we can for the comfort of our soldiers, but let us never slacken our efforts in the war against the liquor traffic, or we will not have a Canada worthy of their sacrifices.

A very pleasing solo was "Face to Face," the contribution of Miss Hanlon, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade.

The brief business session looked after many Union details, among which was the planning of the itinerary of the field secretary, Mrs. P. Mulholland, who is to speak here on Wednesday afternoon, May 1, at an open meeting to be held in the Salvation Army Temple. Arrangements were also left to the executive for a spring tea to be held at the home of Mrs. T. Barrie, Water Street.

Mrs. W. Boorman presided at the piano for the hymns, and Mrs. Rehill expressed thanks to Mrs. Ingham for her hospitality and to all who assisted in making a success of this meeting.

Aberhart Has Force Of 29

EDMONTON, March 28—(CP).—Premier William Aberhart's Social Credit government was officially returned to power today, the seventh day after Albertans cast their votes in the provincial election.

Election of N. E. Cook, who defeated F. S. Grisdale, Independent, by a margin of 66 votes in Olds constituency, increased the Social Credit forces to 29, giving them a majority of at least one in the 57-member assembly.

Social Crediters were almost certain to add to their majority as they lead in nine of the 10 doubtful ridings where second counts will take place later today or possibly tomorrow.

The chief opposition will be coalition Independents who have elected 17 members and lead in one riding. The other member of the next Legislature will be Angus Morrison, Labor, representing Edson.

Cook's final count was 2,549 and his opponent's 2,471 after an Independent Social Credit candidate, Herbert J. Ash, who represented Olds as a Social Credit member of the last Legislature, had been eliminated in the second count. Two hundred and nineteen of Ash's 354 ballots had second choices, giving 207 votes to Mr. Cook and 12 to Mr. Grisdale.

4 More Social Crediters

The seven members elected by second counts yesterday were four Social Crediters, two Independents and Morrison, who won Edson on a second count that left J. H. Unwin, former Social Credit whip, short 197 votes.

"Since the outbreak of war," it said, "no Norwegian ship has been attacked by us, and the Norwegians well know none is liable to be attacked. But Norway has lost 60 ships and the lives of 400 seamen, every one of them by German action."

Boon To Neutrals.

The work of the British Navy and Air Force in waters used by Norwegian ships "is mainly directed toward preventing these atrocities," the Times continued. "The ships are there to sweep mines, sink U-boats and shoot down airplanes by which Norwegian lives are threatened.

"The truth is that the Scandinavian neutrals have everything to gain and nothing to lose by regular and efficient functioning of the British patrol of the seas.

"They must not, of course, depart from their neutrality to the extent of active collaboration, nor are they asked to do so.

"But they have every reason of self-interest to view the actions of British officers in the most favorable light, and while steadfastly doing their legal duty as neutrals, to refrain from straining the law to unnecessary hindrance of operations from which they benefit so greatly.

Continued "patrol activity on both sides, especially in the Vosges region," was reported by this morning's communique from the French high command which said there was "a calm night on the whole."

All German attacks on French posts were repulsed with ease. French military authorities said that the local activity gave no reason to believe that a large-scale action is imminent.

German artillery action was mostly limited to harassing and range-finding fire directed in particular against certain shelters and small woods, numerous in the hilly region between the Sarre and the western slopes of the Vosges. French artillery replied in the same manner.

Authoritative French sources said that no report has been received in connection with German claims they took prisoners in the Pirmasens region.

The same was true of another report saying that a French plane had been shot down. Two days ago a French machine came under the fire of German pursuit planes but escaped and landed behind the French lines, its crew unhurt.

Authoritative French military sources gave the following details concerning Tuesday afternoon's fight between British and German planes over the lines:

English planes attacked a group of seven German reconnaissance machines accompanied by pursuit ships. During a sharp fight two German planes fell in flames and one British machine was shot down.

There can be no denial of the number of German planes certainly destroyed, since they crashed behind the Allied lines. It is possible that other planes, seriously damaged by shots from the British planes, crashed in German territory.

Pelee Icefield Combed For 3 In Plane

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 28—(CP).—Efforts were resumed today to locate the pilot and passengers—either two or three—of the Pelee Island mail plane which made a forced landing yesterday on the short flight from the island to the mainland.

Rescue parties which risked their lives over the treacherous ice yesterday reported seeing no sign of the plane or its occupants, and it was hoped that they had been able to return to the shelter of the island before dark set in.

If the missing persons, who include a woman, were forced to spend the night on the ice of Lake Erie it was feared they would have suffered greatly in the cold and icy wind which swept the lake last night.

The plane was piloted by Tom Higgins and carried Miss Mabel Tressler of Essex County. There was also either one or two male passengers for the short hop from the island to the mainland. In winter the plane is the only means of communication with the island and consequently it could not be ascertained last night whether the party had returned safely to their starting point or whether they were down in the lake. If weather permits a plane will go to the island today. Yesterday the flying conditions were too bad to permit this.

Wreckage Spotted?

One plane that managed to get in the air for a short time yesterday was piloted by Bev. Briscoe who reported that he had seen what appeared to be the wreckage of a plane on the ice, with three figures moving near it, but the swirling snow was too thick to allow a clear pic-

Investigation On.

TORONTO, Mar. 28 — (CP). — Col. Douglas Joy, Inspector of Civil Aviation, left Toronto to-day for Leamington to investigate the Pelee Island mail plane crash that cost the lives of Pilot Tom Higgins and two passengers.

Her First and Last Ride

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Mar. 28 — (CP). — The first airplane ride of Mabel Tessier, 20-year-old clerk in a general store at North Ridge near here, was her last. She was killed with two other persons when the Pelee Island mail plane crashed yesterday on Lake Erie ice. To-day, her sweetheart, Jim Sherratt, aided in bringing the body to the mainland.

Sherratt, mechanic for the pilot of the plane, Tom Higgins, yielded to pleas of Miss Tessier that she be given a ride in the plane. Next Sunday was to be the last flight to the Island this winter, so Miss Tessier's ride was arranged for yesterday.

Sherratt spent a night-long vigil on the shore here before going to the crash scene to-day. He had planned going with Miss Tessier in the plane, but arrival of unexpected passengers to Pelee Island prevented him doing so. The plane was on the return trip when it crashed in a blinding snowstorm.

Trains Crash At 70 Miles Per Hour Near Medicine Hat

Only three people received minor injuries when a train travelling at an estimated speed of 70 miles per hour crashed head-on into a heavy pusher engine near Medicine Hat. The pusher engine was thrown 200 feet back along the track and track was uptorn for hundreds of yards. The engineer and fireman of the pusher engine jumped from their cab just before the two engines met and both landed clear of the wreckage. The mail car, on the passenger train, LEFT, was burned with all its contents.

Leo Merau, Tweed Mailman, Walks Fifteen Miles To Cover Route

TWEED, Mar. 26 — (ENS). — Leo Meraw, local mail carrier, was forced to make his trip on foot, a distance of fifteen miles, on Tuesday. The recent snowstorm whipped up by a high wind had rendered the roads impassable to motor car and horse alike.

The county snow plough, which left Crookston on Monday evening, reached Tweed on Tuesday at midday after bucking the drifts for eighteen hours. One stretch of the road, a distance of less than a mile, required seven hours to negotiate with a gang of twenty men shovelling ahead of the snow plough.

Victoria poll, one of the rural sub-divisions of Hungerford Township, although situated less than a quarter of a mile west of Tweed, could not be reached by motor car on election day owing to blocked roads. Voters had to be transferred to sleighs at W. S. Gordon's corner in order to reach the polling booth.

Although travelling conditions were poor, eighty-three per cent. of the possible votes were polled in the village of Tweed, when 633 voters exercised their franchise, with the former Tweed district farmer, George Stokes, receiving a majority of two hundred over his nearest opponent.

Votes at 97.

Samuel Bowers, 97-year-old resident of Tweed, cast his vote for his favorite candidate on Tuesday, being the oldest resident in the Township of Hungerford to exercise his franchise. Mr. Bowers has voted at every election since Confederation in 1867, and still retains a keen interest in the affairs of his native land.

Fire Burns Home.

Fire of an unknown origin, which started in the absence of the owner and his family, completely destroyed the substantial frame dwelling, with the entire contents, belonging to Ernest Little, in the Township of Thurlow on Tuesday night.

Although it was impossible to contact Mr. Little, it was learned that the dwelling had been used as a polling booth earlier in the day, and that he and his family had left the house shortly after the supper hour. When the alarm was turned in at the local Fire Department, the flames had already gained considerable headway and before the firemen arrived at the scene of the fire, the house was practically burned to the ground. Firemen were handicapped owing to the fact that the house was outside the limits of the nearest fire hydrant, being fully one-half mile away, and only hand pumps could be used to combat the flames. Efforts to save an adjoining dwelling were successful, although a small barn belonging to Mr. Little was destroyed.

Apsley

The ladies of the Women's Association of Apsley United Church met in the Library Building on Wednesday morning for the purpose of quilting a quilt to be sent to the refugees. After a morning of work a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed. The work continuing in the afternoon, lunch was served before the ladies returned to their homes.

Born — In Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Sunday, March 17, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCormack, Apsley garage—a son.

Pte. D. McIlmoyle is on a visit to relatives in this district for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tucker were host and hostess on Wednesday night to Rork Ferguson, Liberal candidate, and his supporters, at their home in the village.

The temperature for Easter Sunday morning registered 30 degrees below zero in the village at about 6.30 a.m. A bitter north wind blew since Good Friday, blocking the side roads and making it impossible for the ministers of the two churches to take services at Lasswade or Owenbrook.

Some Noted Changes

If one had been interested enough to consider the matter at all the conclusion might have been reached that Agnes Macphail would again win the seat in Grey Bruce. She had been elected in 1921-25-26, and in 1930-35, and winning five contests would make it appear she was there to stay.

There was no doubt regarding her ability as a member of the House but there was a good deal of doubt regarding her effectiveness. She was bitter many times without reason, and nothing ever appeared to be fair and above board. When she spoke at the Normal School here to a gathering of farmers recently there was some slight misunderstanding about the time she was to be called for at the hotel to attend the session. Most people would have overlooked such an incident, but the lady took it to the platform with her and made of it a sour note. Perhaps she was doing the same thing elsewhere.

Hon. C. H. Cahan (St. Lawrence-St. George), Montreal, was a strong man in the Conservative ranks. Always had been. He is 79 years old and 50 years ago was in the Nova Scotia Legislature. He gained a seat in the House of Commons in 1925 after several unsuccessful attempts, and has been there for 15 years. The landslide took him out.

It was the same with Robert Smeaton White, who was born in Peterborough 84 years ago. Sitting for St. Antoine Westmount (Montreal) he had secured the comfortable majority of 5,683 in the 1935 election. But out went the doyen of the House when the storm struck the National Government movement on Tuesday.

In the London riding there was a Liberal candidate returned, and such a thing has not taken place since the days of the late C. S. Hyman in 1904. Hon. R. J. Manion secured the seat there in November of 1918.

In Kingston, where John A. Macdonald sat from 1867 until 1878, the Conservatives had held the riding continuously from the Reciprocity fight of 1911 until 1930, when it went to N. McL. Rogers. On Tuesday Mr. Rogers, now Minister of Defence, and under heavy attack throughout the campaign, more than doubled his previous majority.

Seldom does an election take place where all members of the cabinet are returned. But that is what took place, and a landslide is as good as any other word to describe it.

W. R. Givens Was Right

W. R. Givens, former publisher and editor of the Kingston Standard, now spends a good part of the year in St. Petersburg, Florida. When it gets too warm there he moves North. For a good long time before he disposed of his newspaper he conducted the Standard as a straight-speaking Conservative paper. We doubt if the Conservative press of Canada had at any time a better political writer and a more fearless adviser. For W. R. Givens was not merely a cheer leader at election time.

Although not active in newspaper work at the time of the defeat of the Bennett Government in 1935 Mr. Givens took occasion to say in advance he could see it coming, and he gave his reasons. Mr. Bennett, he admitted, was a capable and a powerful man, but he was not developing any of the younger talent for cabinet rank, and he was dominating the position to such an extent that in his absence no person was capable of carrying on. In the election the Bennett Government was defeated and Mr. Givens' prophetic accuracy scored a direct hit.

In the campaign just concluded Mr. Givens sat down and wrote yet some more. Sitting in the shade of the Royal palms which line his street in the South, he looked North and could see no good reason why Hon. Dr. Manion should scrap the word "Conservative" and seek to breathe non-political life into the nostrils of the National child. It looked too nebulous to Mr. Givens. If a candidate were a Conservative he could understand him; he would know in a general way the articles of faith written in his political creed, and he would recognize too that the candidate was associated with a political party for which he needed to spend no time offering apologies.

So once more W. R. Givens looked ahead and saw Dr. Manion riding to defeat and what's more he said so, trying to point to the error of his way in the hope of causing a halt. Well, the election of 1940 is now a matter of record and the Givens' prediction again has been verified. That which he saw on the horizon from his watch tower in the South rode into the land and the process of taking possession was swift and widespread. Conservative leaders might do worse than organize a pilgrimage and gather on the pleasant premises at 2222 Brevard Road, St. Petersburg. They might learn much.

People Are Strange

People are hard to understand and a trifle hard to deal with. We saw a report which stated that with four days to go little more than half of the 600,000 motor trucks and passenger cars in Ontario had been provided with 1940 markers.

In some of the larger centres additions have been made to the staff but the expected rush did not come. March 31 is the deadline and as it comes on a Sunday March 30 is the last day for securing markers and operators' permits.

For weeks it has been a simple matter to go to the office where such things are attended to; there has been little waiting, and at some hours of the day none at all. Right now and until the end of the month there will be lines forming, and when that takes place people are bound to say things about the size of the staff and the way people are forced to wait.

People who deal in furnaces tell us that in the fall they are always rushed because so few ever get their repairs or alterations attended to before it is time to light the fire for the winter. And when the grass starts to grow dozens of people make the discovery that the lawn mower needs to be sharpened. And they all want their work attended to at once. Most of us are in that class. The putters-off would be in the majority in any census effort.

After The Voting

There are times when it is interesting to read election predictions after the voting has taken place. The day before polling J. M. Robb, National party organizer, said:

"The Liberal headquarters know as I and many others know, that there are at least 55 doubtful ridings in the Dominion. Owing to the swing which has been evident during the past two weeks away from the King Government toward Dr. Manion and National Government it is not too much to say that Dr. Manion will take the majority of these 55 seats, which will make him Prime Minister of the country. Everything points to the fact that Mr. King and his government are on the way out."

We have no intention of making any comment on that statement apart from saying we suspect it was slightly in error.

Paying $200 For It

From the point of government finances it is good business to have a large number of candidates in the field. The greater the number the better prospect there is of unsuccessful candidates having to leave their $200 deposit with the government.

A candidate must post $200 when nominated. If he decides to withdraw after being officially nominated he loses his $200. If he stays in the fight and fails to poll one-half as many votes as the winning candidate he drops his $200.

At this writing it looks as though there were 157 contestants who were in the forfeiture class, and at $200 a throw that makes $31,400.

In one way it looks like rubbing in defeat. It is sad enough for a candidate to learn that he has failed rather dismally, and sadder still when he has to pay $200 for the information.

As It Was On The Tenth

We noticed in the columns of an agricultural paper where a discussion has been going on about a black horse which has been turning to a reddish color, and an attempt has been made to get a scientific explanation. When a young lady with dark hair starts to come out as a blonde people ask no questions, but it's different with horses.

But we doubt if they will ever get an explanation as to why a black horse will sometimes turn a reddish color and stay that way. They used to argue about that on the Tenth Concession. Grandfather had a black horse and sure enough it started going over toward the reds. The hired man always kept a lot of sick horse books and government pamphlets in his bedroom and he went into action to find out what was wrong with the horse. On all counts the thing seemed to be all right. Wasn't a very heavy horse but it did its share of the work without laying back in the collar, and it never had to be coaxed or prodded to step up to the feed box. Seemed to enjoy sleeping and even looked pleased when it felt the brush. All through it was acting just as natural as sow thistle dust going up your nose or down your neck on threshing day.

The hired man was not easily turned aside when he set out to find out something or other. If reading and pursuing knowledge had counted for much he never should have stayed on the farm. But the books and pamphlets had nothing on the question of a black horse starting to turn somewhat red. He suggested it might be some disease and would spread like the hog cholera, and he was all for stalling that horse off for a while and working it alone. Every time he laid a curry comb on that horse he'd look alarmed.

But grandfather never bothered a bit. If the horse wanted to turn a bit red he didn't object. It would be easy to spot him when he was tied along the hitching post row in the village. A horse that was a reddish color could work just as well as when he was a plain black, and grandfather said there was a certain kind of black that would change its color. He admitted it didn't happen often, but it happened right there on Lot 4 and grandfather refused to worry.

Whether the people who are discussing that problem today will shed new light on it seems doubtful. We're finding out a number of things in recent years, but why a black horse will occasionally decide to put on a reddish tinge is still a mystery. It belongs in the same list as when and how does the hen put the shell on the egg.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Please Mr. Hepburn, may we go now and look at that film about "Canada at War."

Just noticed an ad in a paper with the heading, "The Truth About Corns," but the way to get the truth is ask the man who wears one.

Toronto city hall closed at 3 on voting day to let employees go to the polls. It's handier living right where we are where one can duck around the corner any time of day and attend to that business.

Sun spots are reported to have had a good deal to do with difficulties in transmitting messages on our earth. Perhaps it is what is going on here which makes it difficult for the sun to do its work.

Eugene Derocher, running in a Montreal riding as Liberal candidate, came out with a majority of 25,782. We doubt if any board of strategy would recommend asking for a recount there.

If the Dominion desires a government pretty much all of the same mind they have it now. A formidable opposition is valuable in parliament, but when the people decide against it what's to be done?

One British farmer says it's nonsense trying to put girls to work on farms during war times, and refers to them as "hobbledehoys." That is an awkward sort of word especially if one was going to call them in at dinner time.

Report from Brantford said 126 cars were stranded between that city and Oakland. We are developing into a race of statisticians. Imagine any one floundering about in snow banks to count that far.

One little defect in the voting regulations is the absence of any provision for the voter to go and collect his money after casting his ballot. There are agents and scrutineers, poll clerks and returning officers, but the pay-off man was not in sight. At least that's the way we found it.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstructionist group in the 1935 election, and running in 1940 as a National Government supporter, met defeat. Tough say we for a man to see his new party die the first time out and on the next occasion to go down himself.

In one of Mr. Hepburn's moments of criticism of Mr. King he referred to the Royal Tour through Canada, and said every time people looked at Their Majesties Mr. King's head came up like a mudturtle. He seemed to have been doing something pretty much the same across the country on voting day.

ADMIRATION

(By A.R.K.)

¶ The handy man who lives near me, he's neat as any man could be, it's second habit too; he is a model so they say, who always puts his things away, as soon as he is through.

¶ He's got a basement shop down there, and I admit it's pretty fair, and it is clean and neat; he showed me all the tools he owned, and how he kept the edges honed, in fact it was a treat.

¶ For when he needs to find a saw, he doesn't need to gee or haw, could find it in the dark; the same with planes and hammers too, they hang there like they ought to do, each has a place to park.

¶ I know his method is just fine, at least ten times as good as mine, my system's rather blunt; if I must drive a nail I know, I have to look both high and low, and start out on a hunt.

¶ The same when I look for a wrench, I have no well-assorted bench, it may be on the floor; perhaps I left it last upstairs, when I was making some repairs or in the kitchen drawer.

¶ The handy man I much admire, sets my ambition all afire, I must improve some more; yet I know how to end this verse, within two weeks things would be worse—than what they were before.

Thousands Of Spain's Workers Are In Prison

SPAIN, having passed through the agonies of civil war, is now undergoing what promises to be a lengthy process of reconstruction. Never having been blessed, or should it be burdened, with a high standard of living, present conditions are lower than prior to the war. With more than 300,000 "political" prisoners still in concentration camps and prisons and a consequent shortage of labor, with the iron hand of Franco's militaristic Government bearing heavily upon it, the country south of the Pyrenees stands as an object lesson on the futility of civil war.

In the current magazine section of The Christian Science Monitor, W. Horsfall Carter has an informative article on Spain's reconstruction program. He paints all sides of the picture, the dark shades side by side with the lighter tones. Of living standards in the battle-worn country, he writes: "Senor Serrano Suner, the minister of the interior, admits that the country faces shortage of necessaries such as sugar, milk, and olive oil. The olive groves of Aragon, damaged in the fierce fighting of the last two months of the civil war, have no adequate substitute as yet in other regions. Sugar, too, is being imported in substantial quantities.

"These articles of everyday consumption, as well as many other needs of the poorest household, such as potatoes, are, of course, rationed. The amount of meat allowed per head is no more than 3½ ounces per week. Sausage meats, ham, and canned foods are available for those who can afford them. Rice dishes and soups of a strange variety of ingredients constitute the chief fare for a large number of households. Bread is plentiful enough, fortunately, though it entails the importation of wheat to the value of some $35,000,000.

POOR HARVESTS

"The orange, rice and olive oil harvests last year were unsatisfactory, partly because the fields were not planted, but mainly because of a deficiency of labor, this being due as much to the huge number of working-class persons serving prison sentences on charges of complicity with "the reds" as to the actual loss of man power in the war and by exile."

Transportation, naturally, is one of the main problems facing Gen. Franco. There is a 40 per cent diminution in rolling stocks on the railways and a large measure of unrepaired destruction on the roads. Among ordinary commodities luxury goods such as cosmetics are all but non-existent. Mr. Carter says: "Prices are nominally only 20 per cent or 30 per cent above those ruling in 1936, but with rents, rates, and taxes taken into account, cost of living amounts to about double the pre-war figure, and this despite a drastic system of restrictions and controls designed to keep costs down and to restrain profiteering."

What industrial recovery is taking place appears to be in public works on a small scale in the north of Spain, where the damage was greatest, electricity plants in Aragon and the mines in Murica. In the Provinces of Seville and Cordoba, the fief of the independent-willed General Quiepo de Llano, some valuable work has been done in the way of working class dwellings but as the author says: "The paternalistic 'radio general' was ousted last summer from his domain and sent in virtual banishment on a military mission to Italy."

ITALIAN INFLUENCE

Italian influence, says Mr. Carter, has increased in Spain since the end of the war, at the same time that German influence has decreased Here is an interesting note in this regard: "The wreckage of Barcelona's port has scarcely been touched, and it would almost seem as if the story of Italy's determination to blot out the rival to Genoa were true." Of Gen Franco's actual program, the article states: "General Franco must realize what a heavy and continuing task he is up against. Publicly he faces up to the facts with the good old Spanish custom of a portentous and high-sounding program. On January 11, 1940, a 10-year plan of reconstruction was proclaimed—with a budget allocation of some $380,000,000, of which $150,000,000 are earmarked for roads and railway repairs, another $150,000,000 for hydraulic works—irrigation, building of dams—and the remainder for harbor works."

There is apparently scope for the production in Spain of cotton and other industrial fibres, tobacco, dry vegetables, timber and paper pulp. Silk, for instance, is now being fostered by the planting of mulberry trees in the Province of Murcia for silkworm breeding to offset the present importation of silk worth 75,000,000 pesetas. Spanish soil contains nitrates and phosphates for fertilizers. Their extraction would save the country 150,000,000 pesetas a year. The plan of campaign, says Mr. Carter, as originally conceived was thrown out of gear by the outbreak of the present war, which has cut off the German market. It was to be the German barter system. Spain was to be geared to fit into this new conception of world trade.

Meanwhile there is a new readiness on Franco's part to come to terms with the French and British commercial interests, at a time when the democracies are still derided in the press. The commercial pact reaching with France provides for a clearing system to be operated every three months so that an equivalent value of goods is trade between the two countries and there is no question of credits.

• Trust Germans With Sea Power?

WHEN the British Ambassador, Lord Lothian, observed not long ago that "the real prize" for which the Nazis "are contending is not territory but sea power" it may have seemed to some an example of insidious propaganda. If so, it is interesting to find the Nazis doing their best to confirm him. British sea power has been rapidly moving to the forefront of their own propaganda in the last few days. As a Berlin dispatch to the Herald Tribune puts it:

Germany will try to break Great Britain's rule of the seas by encouraging neutral countries to seize strategic British naval bases, as well as insisting after the war on British naval disarmament, it was revealed today in German political circles.

These invitations to "neutrals" to help themselves to such British bases as Gibraltar or Singapore are understandable as cheap and very obvious bids to Italy and Japan. But they seem a singularly double-barreled sort of propaganda in so far as any other neutrals are concerned; for they force every neutral state to ask itself more seriously just what would happen if British sea power were demolished. Every trading nation knows perfectly well that the idea that the British fleet in peace time exerts any "strangling" effect whatever on themselves, on the Germans or any one else is fantastic. Its power is of significance only in the event of war or threats of war; in war, it may exert a severe pressure on neutrals—as Mussolini is learning in the matter of the coal shipments—but the Germans are using what sea power they possess even more ruthlessly against neutrals.

Besides, unless we are to follow the Nazis in looking forward to a future in which war will be the more or less normal and perpetual condition of mankind, such incidental pressures brought on neutrals after war breaks out are not of first importance. The vital thing is the role of the British fleet in preventing the outbreak of war or in deciding its issues if it comes. Here the British fleet has unquestionably buttressed a world system of a sort generally favorable to Great Britain. Has it been particularly unfavorable to any one else? Would even Mussolini, if it came down to it, really prefer to see the Royal Navy on the bottom and its world supremacy being exercised by his somewhat erratic fellow dictator?

Would the Scandinavian neutrals prefer a world in which there was no British sea power to check Nazi ambitions concerning themselves? Would the United States be more comfortable for its absence? Since the first enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine this country, while it has had its differences with the British, has not infrequently benefited by the existence of their naval preponderance; and while today we might still be able to defend ourselves without it, there is no attraction in the idea of its being replaced by a German naval supremacy further fortified by co-operation with Japanese and perhaps Soviet Russian navalism. "If Germany," said Lord Lothian, "can compel us to surrender our fleet and the naval bases whereby fleets may travel all over the globe, Germany will then be on top of the world." Surely it is not wise of the Nazis to make it so plain that this is no British propaganda, but a statement of exactly what they intend to do.

• Ships That Pass Out Quietly

WAR came close to New York harbor when the Queen Elizabeth steamed in, and again when the Mauretania and the Queen Mary steamed out. Those who saw the Queen Elizabeth knew that it wasn't from lack of trying that the Germans hadn't sent her to Davy Jones. The Mary and Mauretania have gone out into what ultimate danger we don't know, but almost certainly into danger. We won't know where, unless one of them slips into another American port. If you query Bermuda, Halifax or Liverpool about these things, the censor's reply is crisp and pointed.

It used to be a lark to go down and see one's friends off when a liner sailed. The band would be playing. Passengers would be trying to find both their hand baggage and their proper staterooms, which wasn't always easy, all things considered. Visitors would be trying to find their way out. There were singing, much handshaking, some kissing. At the last moment the big whistles nearly lifted the top of your head off. The passengers knew where they were going and about when they would get there, and they could telephone Aunt Caroline in Topeka if they got lonesome.

These sailings were different. The Mauretania went to sea at night, in a rainstorm, with no music, no cheering, no confetti, no streamers and only navigation lights and running lights showing. The Queen Mary gave the ferryboat commuters a show, but all they saw was a gray flank and a dozen seamen or so. The Mary wasn't putting on an act. This was serious.

War, which may seem remote in the shadow of the Maginot Line, was real in the river and the upper bay. Those who saw these ships pass will think of them often. Most will hope the day is not too far off when they will return with their bands playing and broken out with flags from stem to stern. If their fate is otherwise, we shall remember the valiant ships and the valiant crews, leaving safe harbor to face worse dangers than the ancient ones of storms, uncharted shoals and the rough lee shore.—New York Times.

CHURCH OF OPEN DOOR

TEN YEARS AGO the key to the Church of the Ascension, at Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, if not thrown away was retired from any hour of day or night against any the function of locking its doors at passer-by who might wish to enter it for rest or meditation or prayer. How many men and women have accepted this invitation nobody knows, but the Villager reports that a tally of visitors between 8 o'clock in the evening and 8 o'clock in the morning kept since 1933 shows this record:

Year	Visitors
1934	7,500
1935	9,000
1936	10,500
1937	12,500
1938	12,500
1939	19,000

The parish marks today the one hundredth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of its present beautiful place of worship. Its history is filled with interesting incidents, none of them more interesting than the obvious success of the experiment of the open door initiated by Rector Aldrich, the ultimate fruit of which is not disclosed to man.—New York Sun.

THE REALIST

A young friend of mine (reports a correspondent) is to be called up in the group of 23's, and his mother was speaking feelingly to the family of the coming parting. "I hope my boy, that you may be sent back safely to us all," she said solemnly. Then up spake little brother Willie. "And if you don't come back Jim, can I have your golf clubs?" — Manchester Guardian.

HE IS A FACTOR

Some British statesmen regard Mr. M. K. Gandhi as a fraud and a humbug. This may be the case, despite his canonization at the hands of the American Sunday supplements. But a few million fellow-citizens think the Mahatma is genuine. This is the fact to be reckoned with.—Brantford Expositor.

COL. DREW

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The Drew slogan was "King Must Go." The people of Canada spoke on Tuesday to answer that slogan. Mr. Drew said also that King had scuttled parliament on January 25, so let Mr. Drew take note that he also scuttled National government on March 26. Where are all the big guns today? Perhaps they were victims of a submarine attack or ran into the Maginot line.

EVERYTHING TO GAIN

THE SUB was crowded, and the two pretty girls who had just got on were compelled to stand. One of them, to steady herself, took hold of what she supposed was her friend's hand.

It was some minutes before she discovered that it was not her friend's hand she was holding but that of a young man.

"Oh," she gasped, blushing, "I've got the wrong hand."

The young man smiled and held out the other hand.

"It's all right," he said. "Here's the other."—Edinburgh Dispatch.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit .... For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit,....

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his....For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live....

Some Noted Changes

If one had been interested enough to consider the matter at all the conclusion might have been reached that Agnes Macphail would again win the seat in Grey Bruce. She had been elected in 1921-25-26, and in 1930-35, and winning five contests would make it appear she was there to stay.

There was no doubt regarding her ability as a member of the House but there was a good deal of doubt regarding her effectiveness. She was bitter many times without reason, and nothing ever appeared to be fair and above board. When she spoke at the Normal School here to a gathering of farmers recently there was some slight misunderstanding about the time she was to be called for at the hotel to attend the session. Most people would have overlooked such an incident, but the lady took it to the platform with her and made of it a sour note. Perhaps she was doing the same thing elsewhere.

Hon. C. H. Cahan (St. Lawrence-St. George), Montreal, was a strong man in the Conservative ranks. Always had been. He is 79 years old and 50 years ago was in the Nova Scotia Legislature. He gained a seat in the House of Commons in 1925 after several unsuccessful attempts, and has been there for 15 years. The landslide took him out.

It was the same with Robert Smeaton White, who was born in Peterborough 84 years ago. Sitting for St. Antoine Westmount (Montreal) he had secured the comfortable majority of 5,683 in the 1935 election. But out went the doyen of the House when the storm struck the National Government movement on Tuesday.

In the London riding there was a Liberal candidate returned, and such a thing has not taken place since the days of the late C. S. Hyman in 1904. Hon. R. J. Manion secured the seat there in November of 1918.

In Kingston, where John A. Macdonald sat from 1867 until 1878, the Conservatives had held the riding continuously from the Reciprocity fight of 1911 until 1930, when it went to N. McL. Rogers. On Tuesday Mr. Rogers, now Minister of Defence, and under heavy attack throughout the campaign, more than doubled his previous majority.

Seldom does an election take place where all members of the cabinet are returned. But that is what took place, and a landslide is as good as any other word to describe it.

W. R. Givens Was Right

W. R. Givens, former publisher and editor of the Kingston Standard, now spends a good part of the year in St. Petersburg, Florida. When it gets too warm there he moves North. For a good long time before he disposed of his newspaper he conducted the Standard as a straight-speaking Conservative paper. We doubt if the Conservative press of Canada had at any time a better political writer and a more fearless adviser. For W. R. Givens was not merely a cheer leader at election time.

Although not active in newspaper work at the time of the defeat of the Bennett Government in 1935 Mr. Givens took occasion to say in advance he could see it coming, and he gave his reasons. Mr. Bennett, he admitted, was a capable and a powerful man, but he was not developing any of the younger talent for cabinet rank, and he was dominating the position to such an extent that in his absence no person was capable of carrying on. In the election the Bennett Government was defeated and Mr. Givens' prophetic accuracy scored a direct hit.

In the campaign just concluded Mr. Givens sat down and wrote yet some more. Sitting in the shade of the Royal palms which line his street in the South, he looked North and could see no good reason why Hon. Dr. Manion should scrap the word "Conservative" and seek to breathe non-political life into the nostrils of the National child. It looked too nebulous to Mr. Givens. If a candidate were a Conservative he could understand him; he would know in a general way the articles of faith written in his political creed, and he would recognize too that the candidate was associated with a political party for which he needed to spend no time offering apologies.

So once more W. R. Givens looked ahead and saw Dr. Manion riding to defeat and what's more he said so, trying to point to the error of his way in the hope of causing a halt. Well, the election of 1940 is now a matter of record and the Givens' prediction again has been verified. That which he saw on the horizon from his watch tower in the South rode into the land and the process of taking possession was swift and widespread. Conservative leaders might do worse than organize a pilgrimage and gather on the pleasant premises at 2222 Brevard Road, St. Petersburg. They might learn much.

People Are Strange

People are hard to understand and a trifle hard to deal with. We saw a report which stated that with four days to go little more than half of the 600,000 motor trucks and passenger cars in Ontario had been provided with 1940 markers.

In some of the larger centres additions have been made to the staff but the expected rush did not come. March 31 is the deadline and as it comes on a Sunday March 30 is the last day for securing markers and operators' permits.

For weeks it has been a simple matter to go to the office where such things are attended to; there has been little waiting, and at some hours of the day none at all. Right now and until the end of the month there will be lines forming, and when that takes place people are bound to say things about the size of the staff and the way people are forced to wait.

People who deal in furnaces tell us that in the fall they are always rushed because so few ever get their repairs or alterations attended to before it is time to light the fire for the winter. And when the grass starts to grow dozens of people make the discovery that the lawn mower needs to be sharpened. And they all want their work attended to at once. Most of us are in that class. The putters-off would be in the majority in any census effort.

After The Voting

There are times when it is interesting to read election predictions after the voting has taken place. The day before polling J. M. Robb, National party organizer, said:

"The Liberal headquarters know as I and many others know, that there are at least 55 doubtful ridings in the Dominion. Owing to the swing which has been evident during the past two weeks away from the King Government toward Dr. Manion and National Government it is not too much to say that Dr. Manion will take the majority of these 55 seats, which will make him Prime Minister of the country. Everything points to the fact that Mr. King and his government are on the way out."

We have no intention of making any comment on that statement apart from saying we suspect it was slightly in error.

Paying $200 For It

From the point of government finances it is good business to have a large number of candidates in the field. The greater the number the better prospect there is of unsuccessful candidates having to leave their $200 deposit with the government.

A candidate must post $200 when nominated. If he decides to withdraw after being officially nominated he loses his $200. If he stays in the fight and fails to poll one-half as many votes as the winning candidate he drops his $200.

At this writing it looks as though there were 157 contestants who were in the forfeiture class, and at $200 a throw that makes $31,400.

In one way it looks like rubbing in defeat. It is sad enough for a candidate to learn that he has failed rather dismally, and sadder still when he has to pay $200 for the information.

As It Was On The Tenth

We noticed in the columns of an agricultural paper where a discussion has been going on about a black horse which has been turning to a reddish color, and an attempt has been made to get a scientific explanation. When a young lady with dark hair starts to come out as a blonde people ask no questions, but it's different with horses.

But we doubt if they will ever get an explanation as to why a black horse will sometimes turn a reddish color and stay that way. They used to argue about that on the Tenth Concession. Grandfather had a black horse and sure enough it started going over toward the reds. The hired man always kept a lot of sick horse books and government pamphlets in his bedroom and he went into action to find out what was wrong with the horse. On all counts the thing seemed to be all right. Wasn't a very heavy horse but it did its share of the work without laying back in the collar, and it never had to be coaxed or prodded to step up to the feed box. Seemed to enjoy sleeping and even looked pleased when it felt the brush. All through it was acting just as natural as sow thistle dust going up your nose or down your neck on threshing day.

The hired man was not easily turned aside when he set out to find out something or other. If reading and pursuing knowledge had counted for much he never should have stayed on the farm. But the books and pamphlets had nothing on the question of a black horse starting to turn somewhat red. He suggested it might be some disease and would spread like the hog cholera, and he was all for stalling that horse off for a while and working it alone. Every time he laid a curry comb on that horse he'd look alarmed.

But grandfather never bothered a bit. If the horse wanted to turn a bit red he didn't object. It would be easy to spot him when he was tied along the hitching post row in the village. A horse that was a reddish color could work just as well as when he was a plain black, and grandfather said there was a certain kind of black that would change its color. He admitted it didn't happen often, but it happened right there on Lot 4 and grandfather refused to worry.

Whether the people who are discussing that problem today will shed new light on it seems doubtful. We're finding out a number of things in recent years, but why a black horse will occasionally decide to put on a reddish tinge is still a mystery. It belongs in the same list as when and how does the hen put the shell on the egg.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Please Mr. Hepburn, may we go now and look at that film about "Canada at War."

Just noticed an ad in a paper with the heading, "The Truth About Corns," but the way to get the truth is ask the man who wears one.

Toronto city hall closed at 3 on voting day to let employees go to the polls. It's handier living right where we are where one can duck around the corner any time of day and attend to that business.

Sun spots are reported to have had a good deal to do with difficulties in transmitting messages on our earth. Perhaps it is what is going on here which makes it difficult for the sun to do its work.

Eugene Derocher, running in a Montreal riding as Liberal candidate, came out with a majority of 25,782. We doubt if any board of strategy would recommend asking for a recount there.

If the Dominion desires a government pretty much all of the same mind they have it now. A formidable opposition is valuable in parliament, but when the people decide against it what's to be done?

One British farmer says it's nonsense trying to put girls to work on farms during war times, and refers to them as "hobbledehoys." That is an awkward sort of word especially if one was going to call them in at dinner time.

Report from Brantford said 126 cars were stranded between that city and Oakland. We are developing into a race of statisticians. Imagine any one floundering about in snow banks to count that far.

¶ For when he needs to find a saw, he doesn't need to gee or haw, could find it in the dark; the same with planes and hammers too, they hang there like they ought to do, each has a place to park.

¶ I know his method is just fine, at least ten times as good as mine, my system's father blunt; if I must drive a nail I know, I have to look both high and low, and start out on a hunt.

¶ The same when I look for a wrench, I have no well-assorted bench, it may be on the floor; perhaps I left it last upstairs, when I was making some repairs or in the kitchen drawer.

¶ The handy man I much admire, sets my ambition all afire, I must improve some more; yet I know how to end this verse, within two weeks things would be worse—than what they were before.

Thousands Of Spain's Workers Are In Prison

SPAIN, having passed through the agonies of civil war, is now undergoing what promises to be a lengthy process of reconstruction. Never having been blessed, or should it be burdened, with a high standard of living, present conditions are lower than prior to the war. With more than 300,000 "political" prisoners still in concentration camps and prisons and a consequent shortage of labor, with the iron hand of Franco's militaristic Government bearing heavily upon it, the country south of the Pyrenees stands as an object lesson on the futility of civil war.

In the current magazine section of The Christian Science Monitor, W. Horsfall Carter has an informative article on Spain's reconstruction program. He paints all sides of the picture, the dark shades side by side with the lighter tones. Of living standards in the battle-worn country, he writes: "Senor Serrano Suner, the minister of the interior, admits that the country faces shortage of necessaries such as sugar, milk, and olive oil. The olive groves of Aragon, damaged in the fierce fighting of the last two months of the civil war, have no adequate substitute as yet in other regions. Sugar, too, is being imported in substantial quantities.

"These articles of everyday consumption, as well as many other needs of the poorest household, such as potatoes, are, of course, rationed. The amount of meat allowed per head is no more than 3½ ounces per week. Sausage meats, ham, and canned foods are available for those who can afford them. Rice dishes and soups of a strange variety of ingredients constitute the chief fare for a large number of households. Bread is plentiful enough, fortunately, though it entails the importation of wheat to the value of some $35,000,000.

POOR HARVESTS

"The orange, rice and olive oil harvests last year were unsatisfactory, partly because the fields were not planted, but mainly because of a deficiency of labor, this being due as much to the huge number of working-class persons serving prison sentences on charges of complicity with "the reds" as to the actual loss of man power in the war and by exile."

Transportation, naturally, is one of the main problems facing Gen. Franco. There is a 40 per cent diminution in rolling stocks on the railways and a large measure of unrepaired destruction on the roads. Among ordinary commodities luxury goods such as cosmetics are all but non-existent. Mr. Carter says: "Prices are nominally only 20 per cent or 30 per cent above these ruling in 1936, but with rents, rates, and taxes taken into account, cost of living amounts to about double the pre-war figure, and this despite a drastic system of restrictions and controls designed to keep costs down and to restrain profiteering."

What industrial recovery is taking place appears to be in public works on a small scale in the north of Spain, where the damage was greatest, electricity plants in Aragon and the mines in Murica. In the Provinces of Seville and Cordoba, the fief of the independent-willed General Quiepo de Llano, some valuable work has been done in the way of working class dwellings but as the author says: "The paternalistic 'radio general' was ousted last summer from his domain and sent in virtual banishment on a military mission to Italy."

ITALIAN INFLUENCE

Italian influence, says Mr. Carter, has increased in Spain since the end of the war, at the same time that German influence has decreased. Here is an interesting note in this regard: "The wreckage of Barcelona's port has scarcely been touched, and it would almost seem as if the story of Italy's determination to blot out the rival to Genoa were true." Of Gen. Franco's actual program, the article states: "General Franco must realise what a heavy and continuing task he is up against. Publicly he faces up to the facts with the good old Spanish custom of a portentous and high-sounding program. On January 11, 1940, a 10-year plan of reconstruction was proclaimed—with a budget allocation of some $380,000,000, of which $150,000,000 are earmarked for roads and railway repairs, another $150,000,000 for hydraulic works—irrigation, building of dams—and the remainder for harbor works."

There is apparently scope for the production in Spain of cotton and other industrial fibres, tobacco, dry vegetables, timber and paper pulp. Silk, for instance, is now being fostered by the planting of mulberry trees in the Province of Murcia for silkworm breeding to offset the present importation of silk worth 75,000,000 pesetas. Spanish soil contains nitrates and phosphates for fertilizers. Their extraction would save the country 160,000,000 pesetas a year. The plan of campaign, says Mr. Carter, as originally conceived was thrown out of gear by the outbreak of the present war, which has cut off the German market. It was to be the German barter system. Spain was to be geared to fit into this new conception of world trade.

Meanwhile there is a new readiness on Franco's part to come to terms with the French and British commercial interests, at a time when the democracies are still derided in the press. The commercial pact reached with France provides for a clearing system to be operated every three months so that an equivalent value of goods in trade between the two countries and there is no question of credits.

• Trust Germans With Sea Power?

WHEN the British Ambassador, Lord Lothian, observed not long ago that "the real prize" for which the Nazis "are contending is not territory but sea power" it may have seemed to some an example of insidious propaganda. If so, it is interesting to find the Nazis doing their best to confirm him. British sea power has been rapidly moving to the forefront of their own propaganda in the last few days. As a Berlin dispatch to the Herald Tribune puts it:

Germany will try to break Great Britain's rule of the seas by encouraging neutral countries to seize strategic British naval bases, as well as insisting after the war on British naval disarmament, it was revealed today in German political circles.

These invitations to "neutrals" to help themselves to such British bases as Gibraltar or Singapore are understandable as cheap and very obvious bids to Italy and Japan. But they seem a singularly double-barreled sort of propaganda in so far as any other neutrals are concerned; for they force every neutral state to ask itself more seriously just what would happen if British sea power were demolished. Every trading nation knows perfectly well that the idea that the British fleet in peace time exerts any "strangling" effect whatever on themselves, on the Germans or any one else is fantastic. Its power is of significance only in the event of war or threats of war; in war, it may exert a severe pressure on neutrals—as Mussolini is learning in the matter of the coal shipments—but the Germans are using what sea power they possess even more ruthlessly against neutrals.

Besides, unless we are to follow the Nazis in looking forward to a future in which war will be the more or less normal and perpetual condition of mankind, such incidental pressures brought on neutrals after war breaks out are not of first importance. The vital thing is the role of the British fleet in preventing the outbreak of war or in deciding its issues if it comes. Here the British fleet has unquestionably buttressed a world system of a sort generally favorable to Great Britain. Has it been particularly unfavorable to any one else? Would even Mussolini, if it came down to it, really prefer to see the Royal Navy on the bottom and its world supremacy being exercised by his somewhat erratic fellow dictator?

Would the Scandinavian neutrals prefer a world in which there was no British sea power to check Nazi ambitions concerning themselves? Would the United States be more comfortable for its absence? Since the first enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine this country, while it has had its differences with the British, has not infrequently benefited by the existence of their naval preponderance; and while today we might still be able to defend ourselves without it, there is no attraction in the idea of its being replaced by a German naval supremacy further fortified by co-operation with Japanese and perhaps Soviet Russian navalism. "If Germany," said Lord Lothian, "can compel us to surrender our fleet and the naval bases whereby fleets may travel all over the globe, Germany will then be on top of the world." Surely it is not wise of the Nazis to make it so plain that this is no British propaganda, but a statement of exactly what they intend to do.

• Ships That Pass Out Quietly

WAR came close to New York harbor when the Queen Elizabeth steamed in, and again when the Mauretania and the Queen Mary steamed out. Those who saw the Queen Elizabeth knew that it wasn't from lack of trying that the Germans hadn't sent her to Davy Jones. The Mary and Mauretania have gone out into what ultimate danger we don't know, but almost certainly into danger. We won't know where, unless one of them slips into another American port. If you query Bermuda, Halifax or Liverpool about these things, the censor's reply is crisp and pointed.

It used to be a lark to go down and see one's friends off when a liner sailed. The band would be playing. Passengers would be trying to find both their hand baggage and their proper statercoms, which wasn't always easy, all things considered. Visitors would be trying to find their way out. There were singing, much handshaking, some kissing. At the last moment the big whistles nearly lifted the top of your head off. The passengers knew where they were going and about when they would get there, and they could telephone Aunt Caroline in Topeka if they got lonesome.

These sailings were different. The Mauretania went to sea at night, in a rainstorm, with no music, no cheering, no confetti, no streamers and only navigation lights and running lights showing. The Queen Mary gave the ferryboat commuters a show, but all they saw was a gray flank and a dozen seamen or so. The Mary wasn't putting on an act. This was serious.

War, which may seem remote in the shadow of the Maginot Line, was real in the river and the upper bay. Those who saw these ships pass will think of them often. Most will hope the day is not too far off when they will return with their bands playing and broom out with flags from stem to stern. If their fate is otherwise, we shall remember the valiant ships and the valiant crews, leaving safe harbor to face worse dangers than the ancient ones of storms, uncharted shoals and the rough lee shore.—New York Times.

CHURCH OF OPEN DOOR

TEN YEARS AGO the key to the Church of the Ascension, at Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, if not thrown away was retired from any hour of day or night against any the function of locking its doors at passer-by who might wish to enter it for rest or meditation or prayer. How many men and women have accepted this invitation nobody knows, but the Villager reports that a tally of visitors between 8 o'clock in the evening and 8 o'clock in the morning kept since 1933 shows this record:

Year	Visitors
1934	7,500
1935	9,000
1936	10,500
1937	12,500
1938	12,500
1939	13,000

The parish marks today the one hundredth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of its present beautiful place of worship. Its history is filled with interesting incidents, none of them more interesting than the obvious success of the experiment of the open door initiated by Rector Aldrich, the ultimate fruit of which is not disclosed to man.—New York Sun.

THE REALIST

A young friend of mine (reports a correspondent) is to be called up in the group of 23's, and his mother was speaking feelingly to the family of the coming parting. "I hope my boy, that you may be sent back safely to us all," she said solemnly. Then up spake little brother Willie. "And if you don't come back Jim, can I have your golf clubs?" — Manchester Guardian.

HE IS A FACTOR

Some British statesmen regard Mr. M. K. Gandhi as a fraud and a humbug. This may be the case, despite his canonization at the hands of the American Sunday supplements. But a few million fellow-citizens think the Mahatma is genuine. This is the fact to be reckoned with.—Brantford Expositor.

"Oh," she gasped, blushing, "I've got the wrong hand."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit .... For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit....

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his....For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live....

Importance Of Woman's Influence In Home Stressed At W.I. Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 28 — (ENS). — The importance of a woman's influence in the home is beyond all comprehension, according to the views expressed by Mrs. James Waters, who addressed members of the Seymour East Women's Institute at their monthly meeting. Mrs. Waters took as her topic "The Influence of a Woman on the Home and Community," and voiced the opinion that the subject was like the ripples caused on the surface of the water when a pebble was thrown "so our words and actions cause ripples for good or evil in life's ocean on which we travel day after day."

In the early days of childhood a mother has the power to instill a strong character, good habits of purity, obedience, truth, duty, work, play, cleanliness, orderliness in boh words and thoughts. Most powerful of all is the example made by proper home training, while angry words in the home or lack of true courtesy create the opposite effect. "The boys and girls committed to our training to-day are themselves the commanding influence in the world ten years later, and we must ourselves learn to be patient, tactful and kind."

Must Work for Peace.

"Our influence on the community as an individual may be insignificant, but as a group it is tremendous. On the liquor question the Institute was able to raise its voice in disapproval to be clearly heard," she said. In the world of to-day women can and must raise their voices for peace. She also felt that youth needed more help spiritually, mentally and socially through the church and Sunday School. Youth needs guidance in choosing its path.

Mrs. Waters concluded by saying that influence by mere neighborliness was another strong force not to be ignored, "for a kindly act or smile is a kind work after all."

During the business portion of the meeting Misses Mary Murphy and Mary Fisher were named as delegates to attend the lectures in Agriculture and Home Economics at the Girls' Conference in Guelph on May 8, 9, and 10. Miss Phyllis Elmhirst was appointed alternate delegate. It was announced that a special collection for the Central War Charities Fund would be taken at the next meeting. Mrs. Reg. McCulloch reviewed the contributions already made by the branch for war work and these included 34 pairs of sox, 14 quilts, 9 scarves, 4 hot water bottle covers, 7 ice bags, 2 sweaters, 2 pairs of boottees, all of which had been made since January 1.

An outline of programs for the year was presented for approval by the committee in charge of this work.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. James Waters, and included a vocal duet by Mrs. Chapter and Miss Jordan, "Jesus is My Neighbor"; and a piano solo by Phyllis Elmhirst. The committee in charge of the refreshments served lunch at the conclusion of the meeting.

Nearly 760,000 pairs of leather gloves were made in Denmark last year.

1,600 Warplanes Sent Allies States Reveals

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP)—United States aircraft plants, an official report disclosed today, have delivered about 1,600 warplanes to British and French fighting forces in the last 14 months and are rushing production on orders for 2,700 more.

These initial European war contracts were generally regarded as forerunners of a large-scale Allied program for purchase of 8,000 more ships at an estimated cost of $1,000,000,000.

Aviation spokesmen, after conferring with army and navy officials here yesterday, voiced confidence that aircraft plants could handle the expected heavy increase in foreign buying "in a manner affording complete protection to our national interest."

They predicted also that the big buying program would materialize in view of the war department's decision to permit the export of latest model United States military craft. Heretofore, the Allies have been slow to place additional orders, contending that anything but the latest planes would be obsolescent by the time mass deliveries were made.

Secretary of War Harry Woodring explained the new export policy to the House military committee yesterday, and the arrangement won its general approval.

There remained a possibility, however, that a similar senate committee might decide to examine the effect of foreign plane orders on national defence requirements. A vote on an investigation proposal was fixed for today.

$300,000 Backlog.

The data on aircraft war purchases to date, as compiled by War, State, and Treasury Department sources, showed a $300,000 backlog on Franco-British orders for planes, engines, and propellers as of February 29.

The report said that, in all, foreign purchasers had 3,364 military planes on order at an estimated cost of $247,565,500. Engines on order totalled 10,123, costing $66,845,000, and there were contracts for 9,530 propellers at $18,221,000.

Unfilled orders of the principal nations were:

Canada: 12 planes, $883,000; 144 engines, $1,392,000.

Finland: 2 planes, $147,000; 65 motors, $628,000.

Sweden: 295 planes, $21,708,000; 446 engines, $4,311,000.

Other countries: 269 planes, $19,795,000; 514 engines, $5,968,000.

Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War, told the House Committee that by the end of this year the industry's capacity would be between 30,000 and 40,000 complete aircraft as contrasted with the 3,643 output of 1938.

Women Take Up Men's Duties In England As War Measure

With every available bit of manpower doing soldiery and filling in on jobs suitable to only men, women are being pressed into service to a greater and greater extent in England. Dr. Faith Polies, watched by Dr. Boycott, is shown at work with a microscope, LEFT. They are but two of the number of women doctors who have been appointed to the Royal Army Medical Corps. The first time in history females have filled these roles. The women hold the rank of lieutenant and are being trained for work in France. Rosemary Smith, 16, CENTRE, has taken over the job of postman in Glynde. The man who held this post has been called to other duties. Miss Thala Bowman, a tap-dancer, RIGHT, has gone back to the land and is seen here driving a tractor.

Man Aged 98 Votes

HASTINGS, March 28 (ENS) — Oldest voter in a large district surrounding Hastings in the Dominion election was 98-year-old William Raycraft of Hastings who marked his ballot without the assistance of anyone. He explained the only assistance he needed was the use of his glasses which he rarely uses except at voting.

Obituary

JOHN W. KINDRED

ZION, March 28.—(ENS)—The funeral of the late John William Kindred, who passed away on Wednesday was held from the family residence in Otonabee on Good Friday.

Mr. Kindred was in his 75th year and had lived all his life on the farm near Zion, where he was born. Held in high respect by all, he will be sadly missed by his many friends and neighbors. A large number of friends and neighbors attended the funeral in spite of the bad road conditions, and there were numerous beautiful floral offerings. Mr. Kindred was a member of Zion United church and the I.O.O.F.

Members of the immediate family are one son and daughter, Charles and Jean, both at home, a sister, Mrs. T. S. Brackenridge of Little Britain, and a brother, Charles, of Belleville, also one grandchild, John Donald Kindred. Mr. Kindred's wife the former Annie Brackenridge of Westwood, and a daughter, Grace, predeceased him some years ago.

Rev. George Murray of Keene conducted the funeral services at the home and at Little Lake cemetery, where interment took place. Pallbearers were Messrs. Frank Graystock, Clarnce Swan, Harry Rutherford, Leo Fitzgerald, John Thompson and Harold Dixon.

Storing of motor vehicles because of rationing of gasoline is costing the British Government $18,000,000 a year in horsepower taxes and over $9,000,000 in gasoline taxes.

Successful Dance Held By Hastings Club

HASTINGS, Mar. 28—(ENS). — Despite bad road conditions, the ball sponsored by the Hastings Boosters' Club in the newly finished Town Hall here on Monday night was a success. More than 150 attended from a redius of ten miles although there was but one road open out of Hastings for car travel. Considerable anxiety was held for a time when the orchestra from Peterborough, which left the city at 6.30 in the evening, had not showed up at 9.30. A few minutes before ten o'clock they arrived and explained they had been detained on the Hastings-Norwood road when the car battery jumped clean out of the car and landed on the road. The car had to be towed into Norwood for repairs and then a long, round-about route to Havelock, Campbellford, and Hastings was followed in order to avoid the badly drifted Norwood road. A group of soldiers from the 14th Battery at Cobourg had to make the trip to Port Hope, Peterborough, Norwood, Havelock, Campbellford, and then to Hastings. The usual route direct to Hastings would only mean 30 miles.

The Government of Eire is being urged to pay farmers $10 bonus for every additional acre they till this this year.

Havelock Couple Wed 50 Years Are Honored

HAVELOCK, March 28—(ENS)—Many congratulatory messages were received by Mr. and Mrs. David Hogg of Havelock who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday. Two of this village's oldest and most respected residents, the couple were honored by a surprise reception and tea, planned by a few of their close friends, to mark the occasion.

Those who assisted Mr. and Mrs. Hogg in receiving the guests were Mrs. Thomas Cumming, Mrs. J. Leask, Mrs. F. Watson, and Mrs. B. Post.

For over forty-two years Mr. and Mrs. Hogg have lived in Havelock, having moved to Belmont from their farm at Roseneath a year and a half previous to that. Mr. Hogg retired fourteen years ago, after having served as local C.P.R. express carter for thirty years, during which he also handled the mail delivery for twenty years. During this period Mr. Hogg was a familiar figure on the local streets, and especially do citizens recall to mind his faithful old white horse, "Jack," which assisted him in his daily routine. Now in his 83rd year, Mr. Hogg is fond of reading and enjoys the radio. Mrs. Hogg, who is approaching her 85th birthday, still manages to do her own housework, and is remarkably active. She also enjoys the daily newspaper, and the radio newscasts.

Born in Alnwick township, Northumberland county, Mary Jane McCracken, was first married to James Cumming, and from this union, one son, Thomas Cumming of town, is her only surviving fally. Mr. and Mrs Hogg were married on March 15th, 1890, her husband having been a native of Hamilton Plains district, three miles south of Harwood.

Both staunch members of the Church of England, Mrs. Hogg said that she was confirmed at the age of 13. For some thirty years, Mr. Hogg was caretaker and sexton of St. John's church here where both were active workers. Speaking of the early days, Mr. and Mrs. Hogg recalled the amount of work it required to keep the twenty-four lamps in the church, trimmed and clean, contrasting it to the present electric system.

Special Easter Services

Special Easter Day services conducted in the Havelock United church on Sunday were largely attended. In the morning, Rev. Andrew McLauchlin preached on "The Choice that Changed the World," concluding a six-week series of sermons on the "great choices of the last week."

Lilies and floral tributes were placed before the memorial alter by relatives and friends of departed members of the congregation.

Special anthems were sung by the choir and a fine vocal solo "The Holy City" was rendered by Miss Edith Roberts.

In the evening an entirely choral service was rendered by the junior choir under the direction of their leader W. Platt. Assisting were Mrs. R. Campney, organist, Miss K. Anderson, pianist, and Mr. Kenneth Hill, violin.

Beginning with "Onward Christian Soldiers" as the processional, the service was as follows: Doxology; invocation; "Welcome Easter Day," an anthem by the choir; prayer by Rev. A. McLauchlin; "Seeking the Master," anthem by chair; "O Story Sweet," vocal solo by Miss Lois Thompson; "Easter Blessing," vocal trio, Miss Jean Peters, Miss Jacqueline Puffer and Miss Helen Anderson; "The Dawn of Life," anthem by choir; responsive reading, leader Wallace Buchanan; "The Dawn of Easter," verses trio, Miss Marguerite Little, Miss Marjory Duncan, and Miss Leota Brisbin; "The Cross Bearers," recitation by Bobby Jack; "The Song Unending," verses by Miss Marguerite Little, Miss M. Duncan, Mrs B. Clarke, Miss J. McAdam and Miss V. McGowan; pantomine hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," Miss Jean Peter, duet by Miss Lois Thompson and Miss Ruth Peters; "There Is a Green Hill," vocal duet, Allan and Ross Gobeen; "We Come With Singing," verses quartette, Miss P. Southward; "O Blessed Cross," vocal duet, Miss R. Peters, Miss R. Southward; "The Victor Comes Forth," choir anthem; "The Light of Easter," serves, Miss B. Clark, Miss E. Iles, Miss Evelyn Iles, Miss J. McAdam, Miss V. McGowan; "The Glorified Cross," hymn by Allan and Ross Gobeen, Ralph Young, Doug. Every Voter Out Despite Drifts In Downeyville

DOWNEYVILLE, March 28—(ENS)—The worst snow and wind storm old timers ever witnessed passed through this part of the country over the week-end. It started Friday and continued without a break until Tuesday. There were no mail, bread, or cream trucks from Thursday until Wednesday.

There is not even going for teams and sleighs. A few went to church Sunday and the only way to go was to walk on the drifts. The snow plow with two trucks and several men shovelling had to quit after the plow broke. Election day all the men were out with shovels and teams to try to get out to vote with horses. In some places the drifts were ten feet high on the main road and they had to go into fields where the snow is also very deep.

The high winds also put the telephones out of order and many people were isolated. The neighbors in this locality had to share provisions, coal oil and everything as long as it lasted. Several people who came home on Thursday to spend Easter could not get back as there was no road to Omemee or Lindsay from Downeyville. A few came to Lindsay from Toronto and Sudbury and had to turn around and go back.

It was thought for a while they could not get the ballot boxes out of Lindsay but two men walked from the city Monday with the two boxes, one for Downeyville and one for Kings Wharf. They trudged the nine miles and were so tired they had to stay in Downeyville all night.

Edward Perdue walked seven miles from King's Wharf to Downeyville for the ballot box, to meet the men from Lindsay. Despite the road conditions every vote was polled.

QUAKER ACES AND ST. JOHN'S GRAB GIRLS' CAGE LOOP TITLES

Beat Westclox And 'Y' Gym In Final Series

Quaker Aces and St. John's captured the senior and junior Ladies' City League titles over "Y" Gym and Westclox in a play-off double header at the Y.W.C.A. before the year's largest crowd, Wednesday night.

Both were two out of three series and in each case were concluded in two straight, as the champions left little doubt as to their right to the titles. The Aces finished in second place well behind their opponents in the finals but in the play-offs played their best basketball of the campaign, to wallop the "Y" team in the first game and finish it off with a second clean-cut win.

St. John's and Westclox played through the year approximately on even terms and went into the final an even choice, but St. John's play-strong offensive basketball in both games to win convincingly.

A large factor in determining the result in the second Aces' triumph was the exceedingly potent tying up of "Y" Gym's ace scorer, Ruth Dalliday, by Elinor Kirn, who shadowed the losers' star all night. St. John's won their title by the strong all around playing of the whole squad. The losing "Y" Gym team will be presented with the cup for the team running second to the senior champs.

St. John's played most of their basketball in the second half to run up their 9 point margin, after they had barely held their own, 8-6, in the initial period. The champions played a fast passing, fast-breaking style of basketball and after the halfway mark completely dominated the play to run up a 10-3 edge, and decisively settle the issue. Westclox made it a battle all of the way.

St. John's captured the runners up cup last year in falling to the champion Aces and now hold the junior cup for one year.

C. Clark, A. Bowler, T. Laws and H. Harte-Maxwell stood out for the winners as the whole team played well, and A. Flynn, B. Saunders, and V. Britnell starred for Westclox. The teams:

Westclox (9): A. Flynn 1, J. Hair, D. Dawson, C. Metcalfe, M. Goldie, J Crowe, M. McFadden, P. Wolstenholme, I. Vivash, V. Britnell 2, B. Saunders 6.

St. John's 18—E. Clark 2, E. Foster, A. Bowler 6, D. Groombridge 2, H. Douglas, F. Gynane 2, T. Laws 4, H. Harte-Maxwell 2, E. Harte-Maxwell.

Referees—H. Smith and J. Cooper.

A Tight Tilt

Aces had a tough battle with "Y" Gym before emerging with a narrow 8-5 victory and the title for the second straight year, as the losers made it a real battle before bowing out. The winners took their three-point lead in the first half and despite a rally, they clung to it through the hard-fought last period.

Both teams stressed defensive, rather than offensive basketball and one of the year's lowest scores was recorded. At the half it was Aces 4, Y Gym 1, and from that point in it was anybody's game as each team missed enough scoring chances to greatly change the result. Aces had a little the better of the play offensively and managed to hold off a rally in the late stages to earn the victory.

"Y" Gym could have won the game by sinking more than the one they made of their five free throws, while Aces missed all three. P. Lawless, S. Alexander and D. Weese were the big guns for the winners and R. Dalliday and B. Flynn leading the losers. One of the real stars of the game though was doubtlessly "the shadow" E. Kirn. The teams:

"Y" Gym, 5:B. DeMaio, R. Dalliday 5, S. Florence, S. Zakos, S. Zacks, B. Flynn, R. Sullivan, F. Craig.

Quaker Aces, 8: P. Lawless 4, M. Hooten, D. Weese, J. Fowler, E. Kirn, V. Wood, S. Alexander 4, M. Duncan, A. Grady.

Referees—W. Thirnbeck and J. Cooper.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

When asked yesterday who had nominated him for an O.B.A executive spot, Bill Kay said: "I don't know; it's all news to me." But his name is listed from Peterborough, Ken Colling of Bella Villa being the only other nominee in Central Ontario. Mr. Kay said he didn't expect to permit his name to stand, as an Ontario Baseball Association executive had to spend a lot of time running around his district and aiding in re-organization work. He said he couldn't spare sufficient time to do the job right. However, Bill may attend the O.B.A. convention a week from this Saturday in Welland—along with R. A. Elliott of Deloro—as he has done before, to renew old ball friendships, and mayhap he might reconsider.

* * * * * *

While on the subject, we can't help recalling that Bill, when he was on the O.B.A. executive four and five years ago — Max Swanston took it for a few terms after Bill retired, and now Max has given it up here—did a lot of good promotional work for the game. Not only in Peterborough but over a wide area. It took a lot of travelling up north, down east, along the lake front, up Lindsay way and, of course, around the city. The game, undoubtedly, has slumped lately—counter attractions, more cars, higher cost, etc., all contributing, and we dunno if it will ever be as big a sport in this section as it was a few years back. But it can be built up considerably, we believe. And we'd like to see Bill take hold.

* * * * * *

Return To Senior

Nor is it out of place—with senior re-organization about to begin here—to recollect that Bill Kay mainly was responsible for the return of the senior game to this city back in 1931. The senior Petes had folded two years before and an intermediate loop, the E.P.L., was having a rather flourishing time down in the Exhibition Grounds. The Examiner came out that spring of '31 boosting for a senior club again to give the fans the best and gain Peterborough some inter-city advertising. Bill sacrificed his good intermediate Raybestos squad to form the nucleus of a senior crew, giving the equipment, too, and that's how the senior Petes returned to the wars. Bill was pretty unpopular with some of the E.P.L. moguls for a time over his move, but they later got over it and all was okay.

* * * * * *

Ere leaving the diamond sport, we note an interesting item from Buffalo. The class "D" Pony Loop meets Monday to adopt a 110-game schedule from May 7th to Sept. 2nd. Clubs in are Olean, Niagara Falls and Batavia of N'Yawk, Barford, Pa., and Hamilton and London of Ontario. They'll even form a Pony League Baseball Writers' Association. This minor pro circuit is sponsored (without much fuss or publicity) by big league ball clubs, as a training ground for future stars. No worry about money at the gates, excellent baseball and plenty of it for the fans—yep, it seems to us a swell setup for smaller centres.

* * * * * *

Hooray, It's Here!

Kitchener Greenshirts will tangle with the Petes at 8.30 tomorrow (Friday) night in the Brock St. rink. The first game of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" finals, and what a crowd will be out to jam the arena that eve! Not since 1926 has the local club played off in a final championship series, above junior—and even then fans here had to trek out of town to see the playoffs. This unusually cold dip in weather recently—maybe a tough break on the voters—is a swelegant break for puck fans of this town, as it gives 'em a final playoff to see. The prices are up a bit (and should be for finals), as the club needs the dough for its many long trips, but hockey fans can't kick at that. They're seeing the best two "A" teams in Ontario fighting it out for the puck title. And they'd pay a lot more if it meant an excursion to Oshawa for a locals' home game, if the ice had failed here. The ice is in okay shape.

As ye 'Shirts eliminated Owen Sound by a 4-1 count last p.m. in the Trappers' own lair, those smooth-passing and fast Kitchener puckists will be plenty potent 'gainst the Petes here. They go good away from home, with big Gamey Lederman—ex-pro star—softening up rivals on the defence, but the Petes beat 'em here last trip in the round-robin series. So it shapes up as one swelegant scrap, with all the chips down, and both sides definitely playing for keeps. The Buckland bunch are het up over prospects of grabbing off an O.H.A. championship within the next few days, and the fans up and down the main stem have been jittery over it for a week. Looks like a memorable melee in the sports history of this city—and it looks like a sellout crowd. Ducats are on sale now.

Names And Numbers

Here are the Greenshirts (cum numerals): Goal, Bindernagel (1); defence, Simon (2) and Lederman (3); centre, Bauer (7); wings, Grau (6) and Vrooman (8); alternates, Kuntz (10), Lorentz (12), Huber (11), Hause (4), Clair (5) and Fehrenbach (9). All the Petes are okay again and Coach Buckland will have a full squad to select his lineup from tomorrow. Just to refresh fans' memories, the Petes beat the 'Shirts here by a 5-2 score but in Kitchener the locals lost a 2-1 thriller. Since no sun gets into the Brock arena, the ice has remained plenty firm all week. Fans are urged not to smoke at tomorrow's game as there'll be a real mob on hand and no one wants to be peering at the third period action through a pea-soup fog, eh? Petes will likely play back in Kitchener on Monday—and 'tis expected the series is best two out of three.

Ladies' Basketball League wound up before a big crowd last night in the Y.W.C.A. with Quaker Aces winning the senior championship and St. John's taking the junior title. Both are worthy champs, winning their playoffs in two straight in convincing manner. Aces nudged out an 8-5 nod last gloaming o'er the gallant "Y" Gym damsels—who put up a fine showing all year and went down battling—whilst the Saints swept through Westclox 18-9 yester eve neatly, the Armour Hill gals fighting hard but unable to keep up the scoring pace. Thus endeth another excellent season with the gal cagers, the only team of lasses left locally being the strong Orfuns, who have an L.O.B.A. contest here at seven Saturday night in the Y.W. 'gainst the classy St. Catharines colleens.

Hither and Yawn: Whitby intermediate puckists knocked off Powassan 7-0 last p.m. to cop the O.H.A. semi-final round....Local "Y" junior swimmers will take part in a big swim meet at Toronto Central "Y" on Sat'day, several clubs being represented....Waterloo copped a 4-3 junior "B" round-robin from Oshawa Bees in Kitchener last night....Rolling in the Raybestos bowling league last eve in Duffus', Les Burton hit 813 with a neat 377 single....Campbellford proved their right to the T.V.L. title yester evening at home with an 8-7 decision over Norwood Hornets.... All those Thump Valley Loop playoffs were tighter than a fat woman's corset and viewed by big crowds....Lot of 'phone calls here last night and today for the Kitchener-Owen Sound score....So the Petes get a game this week here despite the messing around of Secretary Hewitt; it isn't his doings that ends the 'Shirts-Trappers series so soon or keeps ice in the Brock....This must be the latest there has ever been an O.H.A. playoff contest in Peterborough, March 29th—and also after Easter.... They're still curling, too, at the Charlotte St. emporium....POME: In nineteen hundred and twenty-six, the Petes did up and win—it's 1940 and here they are, on the prowl for a title again!

Swimming Shield Goes To R. Rogow

At the meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Junior Swimming Club last night Ralph Rogow was awarded the monthly handicap shield for the month of March during which he collected a total of 18 points for ability and attendance. The trophy was presented to Rogow by Alex Fitzgerald who wished the club every success in their meets and expressed his keen interest in the way the lads were coming along.

Jim Brown, who swam a good race in the 40 yards back stroke handicap to win the night's event from Rogow, placed second in the month's standing with 16 points. Warren Marshall was a close third in the event while Don Pinch, last month's shield winner, was fourth in the race and third in the March standing with 10 points.

After the meeting refreshments were served and a vote of thanks moved for Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Smith for their kind donations. No score was kept for the supper but the table looked barer than the Sahara at the finish.

New members who were out for the club workout were Gordon Blackwell, Burton Young and Bill Gardner and an invitation is extended to any boy 15 and 16 years to join with the club and receive coaching in speed swimming.

Complete results for the 40-yard back stroke event were as follows:

First heat: 1, Rogow; 2, Marshall; 3, A. Brown.

Sydney, Blue Devils Clash Saturday

(By the Canadian Press.)

Kirkland Lake Blue Devils have exacted their revenge for the beating they took from Toronto Goodyears a year ago in the Ontario senior hockey finals.

The Blue Devils, beaten 3-0 in games last season by the Goodyears, scored a 6-2 victory over the Toronto team last night, winding up the best-of-five games Ontario final without a loss. Goodyear's only consolation was a 1-1 draw in the second game.

By their victory the Northern Ontario team qualified to meet Sydney Millionaires, Maritime champions, in the Eastern-Canada semi-finals of the Allan Cup playdowns. The teams will meet in a two-out-of-three series starting at Toronto Saturday.

Millionaires qualified for the semi-final by beating Hull Volants in three straight games. The Volants protested to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, charging Sydney had used ineligible players, but their protest was rejected.

Cyclones Beaten

Meantime, Sherbrooke Red Raiders neared the final round of the Quebec playdowns by beating Joliette Cyclones, Quebec's intermediate champions, 11-6 in the first game of a total goals series. Second game will be played tomorrow and the winner will meet Montreal Royals for the provincial title.

In the junior playoffs, the Dominion champion Oshawa Generals forced a fifth and deciding game in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" final by beating Toronto Marlboros 4-2. Oshawa won the first game of the series but dropped the next two. The deciding game will be played at Oshawa Saturday.

Only Eastern amateur game tonight will be at Quebec where Verdun Maple Leafs, last season's Eastern junior finalists, will meet Quebec Aces in the provincial final. Quebec won the first game of the total-goal round 4-2 and are favored to dethrone the Leafs.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Mar. 28 — (AP).—Scooparade: It's a fact that Lee Eavold turned thumbs down on a June title bout with Joe Louis—Mike Jacobs nearly swallowed his store teeth when Lee told him he'd rather whip another good guy first....We don't blame him for taking care of himself as long as possible—but then there's the angle that opportunity and the postman may not ring twice....Anyway, with Billy Conn on the shelf for another six month's, Lee's postponed fight with Bob Pastor may be put on as an outdoor show in Detroit this summer....Another major sport (can you guess which?) is beating the brush for a man who can swing a big stick a la Judge Landis.

"The dogs do bark."

Reason La Berg passed up the mid-south tournament (which she won last year) to hurry back home, was tootsie trouble....For some reason most femmes on the grape fruit circuit have been complaining of their dogs this season....Joe Louis has reservations on an 11.45 Detroit plane to-morrow night, just to give you an idea....By the way, that shiner Joe is sporting is the first he ever received in a training camp....The U.S.G.A. didn't like it a little bit when Bud Ward, United States amateur champ, flew 3,000 miles from his home port, at Spokane to the St. Augustine pro-amateur tournament....(The brass hats think it might have been a publicity stunt)....Old Wes Ferrell has just about cinched a berth with the Dodgers.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The curling season for 1939-40 opened on December 27, 1939, and barring a few nights (when the ice was a little sticky) we have been carrying steadily on ever since. It has been one of the best in many years, and yet not withstanding all that, eight rinks come out last evening and enjoyed their favorite winter pastime. Just how long we will continue, we don't know.

Looking over the records it looks as if it is a dead heat between Bob Martin, Harold Darling and Cyril Crowe as to who has played the most games this season. These boys never miss.

We have been told that the ladies are holding their annual banquet and meeting a week from tomorrow.

Many of the boys have been disappointed regarding Charlie Westbrook's new book on "How to Curl, and Why." Charlie tells us that he did not figure on such a long season and therefore has to add a couple of chapters so as to cover everything during the season.

As the season is about over we would like to say a few words regarding the new and younger players who for the first time curled this season. It is not the intention to single out any one in particular; but we find that the new "leads" almost to a man have taken hold of the sport in no uncertain manner. That they have, by regular attendance, been a great asset to the club. They have by their ability and by their willingness to learn proved that this sport is for young men as well as for men of all ages. They have conducted themselves as real gentlemen off the ice and as real sports on the ice. It has been a pleasure to have, in a small way, assisted these newcomers, and our hope is that they will all be back next season and each bring along with him another new player.

Last night's winning skips were: M. Cruthers, V. Currie, George Green and C. Westbrooke.

Title Holders Win 8 to 7 From Norwood

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 28—(ENS). — Campbellford's battling titleholders of the Trent Valley League asserted their right to the championship before close to eight hundred spectators at Davidson's Arena on Wednesday night, when they defeated 8-7 the speedy Norwood Hornets, whom they eliminated from the playoffs.

After a ragged opener in which the Hornets paced by Puffer and Hill dominated the play and snatched a 3-1 lead, the contest settled down to a speedy, rugged and aggressive battle with lots of heavy body-checking and a bit of tripping thrown in for good measure as the teams fought a sizzling game that was almost too much for Referee Ennis to handle. There was plenty of whistle tooting during the middle chapter as the home crew fought their way to the top with a comfortable 7-4 lead, and even though the Hornets were awarded five of the six penalties the Sunocos capitalized but once on their advantage.

The summary:

First Period.

Campbellford, Blake 7.40
Norwood, Puffer 8.15
Norwood, Rogers 10.26
Norwood, Hill (Webb) 17.35
Penalties—None.

Second Period.

Campbellford, Godden (Wilkes) 4.30
Campbellford, Kelly 8.00
Campbellford, Blake (Free) .. 12.15
Campbellford, McIlrath 12.56
Norwood, Richardson 15.55
Campbellford, Hendy (Free).. 16.15
Campbellford, Couch (Kelly),. 19.35
Penalties—Hill, O'Leary, Kelly, Weir, Rogers 2.

Third Period.

Norwood, Puffer (Rogers) 2.00
Norwood, O'Leary 5.50
Campbellford, Couch (Hendy), 6.56
Norwood, Puffer (Hill) 9.20
Penalties— Hendy, O'Leary, and Wilkes.

The teams:

Norwood — Goal, McMaster; defence, Rothwell, Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, N. Rogers, F. Hill; alternates, Brady, O'Leary, Weir, W. Rogers, Richardson.

Campbellford — Goal, R. Turner; defence, Wilkes, Hendy; centre, W. Blake; wings, Free, Godden; alternates, Kelly McIlrath, Couch, Atkinson.

TORONTO TIREMEN ARE ELIMINATED FROM THE ALLAN CUP SERIES

Blue Devil Win 6-2 Ousts Goodyear Squad

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., March 28.—(CP)—Having revenged their defeat by Toronto Goodyears in the playdowns last year Kirkland Lake Blue Devils considered themselves embarked safely today on the Allan Cup trail.

Blue Devils shellacked Toronto 6-2 last night in the fourth game of the all-Ontario final to take the title with three victories and a tie. Kirkland Lake now meets Sydney Millionaires, Maritime champions, in the Eastern Canada semi-finals. The teams meet in a best-of-three series starting at Toronto Saturday

Dick Kowcinak, formerly of the championship Trail club, gave Blue Devils the lead in less than three minutes last night. From then on the Northerners were never headed. Cooper added another five minutes later.

In the second frame the winning team's defencemen took the scoring action away from the forwards. Doug Boston banged a brace of markers past the Toronto netminder and Butch Stahan added another to put the result beyond doubt before the third period started. In the last 20 minutes Mel Snowden, another puckman from Trail, ran the Blue Devil count to six before Imlach put Goodyears in the scoring summary. O'Flaherty added the second Toronto tally in the last few seconds of play.

The game lacked the spectacular thrusts and bodychecking of the first three games. Both teams adopted a cautious style for the first half of the game and the 1,400 fans had little to cheer about.

Rangers Hopeful Of Win In Fifth Game

BOSTON, March 28—(AP).—Late in the National Hockey League's regular season Muzz Patrick scored a goal for New York Rangers. Excited by the unusual sensation he declared, "If I can do it, nothing can stop us."

And that seems to be the attitude of the Rangers as they head for Boston and the fifth game of their best of seven series with the Bruins in the Stanley Cup play-offs. For it was Muzz's goal Tuesday night that evened the score for the series at two games apiece — and gave the Rangers a new lease on life.

While Muzz was being hailed as hockey's newest hero, Dit Clapper was kicking himself all over the place, for the game-winning goal was unintentionally deflected into the net by Clapper.

Bruins are certain they'll be able to swing the pendulum in their favor in tonight's meeting in Boston, where they have been almost invincible throughout the season—and absolutely so during the play-offs.

The Bruins, in addition to getting a trouncing Tuesday, also got an idea of big town inhospitality. Among the souvenirs they carried back to the hub were an assortment of metallic nuts, several marbles, insulators, a cigaret lighter and a lip-stick, all tossed on garden ice by Manhattan fans who were anxious to show the home lads that they could do anything the Boston fans can.

Hogan In Final With 3-Stroke Lead On Sarazen

GREENSBORO, N.C., March 28.—(AP)—If Ben Hogan ever marches in a parade, he's a cinch to be drum major.

Since the first round of the North-South open wa sfinished at Pinehurst last Thursday, Ben hasn't been in any wore spot than a tie for first place. In six rounds of tournament play, he has been under par five times.

Today, going into the last 36 holes of the $5,000 Greensboro open tournament, he held a three-stroke lead over Gene Sarazen and Ralph Guldahl.

If anyone catches him in the two rounds today over the Sedgefield County Club course, most bets would ride on Guldahl. When big, sloped-shouldered Ralph walked off the 18th green yesterday after a 67 that was four under par and tied him with Sarazen at 140, he seemed happy about his game.

"That's the best round I've played since I won the Masters Tournament at Augusta last spring," said the two-time U.S. open winner. "It really wasn't sensational golf, though the score might look that way. All I did was keep out of trouble, and that's the main and important thing on these courses."

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press).

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 28—(AP).—Bill Terry of the Giants is speaking:

"If I could win 77 games with the humpty-dumpty team I had last year, I don't see any reason in predicting less than 90 victories this year—and that'll put me high up in the pennant race. Why shouldn't we be a better team? We're better at second and third, have a chance of improving in the outfield and have a better first baseman."

The "better team" plays Cincinnati Reds today, weather permitting.

SEBRING, Fla.—The Yankees came here today to take on the Newark Bears, after barely escaping with their lives yesterday at the hands of the Kansas City Blues. It was the first time the Yanks had put their complete machine on the field but Lefty Gomez was disappointing and the Yanks had to rally to win.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The outlook is more and more than Pee Wee Reese will start the season at shortstop for Brooklyn Dodgers, who play the Red Sox today. Manager Leo Durocher, following a doctor's orders, hasn't used his ailing arm at all since he returned from Baltimore, and with Reese hitting a neat .429 in the spring series, it looks like he should fill the bill.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Some of the Detroit Tigers who haven't been doing so well this spring were more nervous than ever yesterday when Donald Barnes, president of St. Louis Browns, dropped in to watch the Detroit-Washington game at Orlando. Barnes had been visiting his son who is a student at nearby Rollins College. As far as is known, no deals were made.

ORLANDO, Fla.—There's still a chance that Zeke Bonura may wind up in a Washington Senators' uniform before the season opens. The big first baseman who has permission to make a deal for himself, turned up again yesterday for another conference with Owner Clark Griffith.

Few See Paychek Lasting Full 15

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP).—The mourners' bench hung out the "S.R.O." sign today as the fistic clan peculiar to heavyweight championship bouts hit town loaded down with sympathy for Johnny Paychek in his golden shot at Joe Louis tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

Experts, fight managers, promoters, fighters, hangers-on and just plain fans from all along Bash Boulevard were unanimous in their belief that Louis' 10th defence of the richest bauble in the science of s.. mbling ears meant just another victory for the Bomber.

One or two (count 'em) thought there was an off chance the Des Moines hopeful might last for the 15-round route if he got by the first two rounds and could keep up his speed. The rest were certain not even his prized fiddle and a football helmet would keep Johnny awake for long once the Bomber started pitching. For the warriors, meantime, this was a day of relaxation and concentration. That is, for Johnny it wa srelaxation and concentration; for peaceful Joe, his training over, it was just relaxation. Louis leaves the concentrating department to Trainer Jack Blackburn because the relaxing taxes so much time.

Ontario Final Begins Here Tomorrow Night

Kitchener Greenshirts and the Petes tangle here tomorrow (Friday) night at 8.30 in the Brock in the first game of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" finals. The 'Shirts pulled up to a first-place tie and a final playoff berth with the local squad last night when they beat the Trappers 4-1 in Owen Sound, and the Ontario championship is at stake in the series opening here tomorrow night. A record crowd of city and district—and possibly fans from a long distance off—is anticipated tomorrow night here, with the rink likely sold out before game time. Tickets are now on sale, at slightly advanced rates, since this is a final playoff series and definitely the last hockey game to be seen here this year.

It was considered a real lucky break that the weather turned cool enough this week to permit the game being played here on good ice. Both clubs are fast, clever and hard hitting, and a swell puck fray is a sure thing. The locals are hard to beat here but a local loss would be close to a catastrophe at this time, and the speedy local crew will be out there battling their heads off tomorrow evening.

Wings Prepare Last Ditch Stand Tonight

DETROIT, March 28.—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings on the verge of elimination from the National Hockey League play-offs, are ready for a last-ditch stand tonight against the powerful Toronto Maple Leafs.

If the Leafs can duplicate their 2-1 victory scored Tuesday night at Toronto, they will play in the final for the Stanley Cup for the third successive year. Two years ago the Leafs lost to Chicago; last year to Boston. This year they meet the winner of the Boston-New York Rangers series.

From Captain Ebbie Goodfellow down to the newest rookie the Red Wings were in fighting mood for tonight's game, convinced they can even the series with Leafs and return to Toronto for a third game Saturday night.

Detroit hasn't defeated the Leafs at Toronto in years, but managed to get one victory over Conny Smythe's team here this season.

Confidence of the Leafs dropped a peg after Tuesday's close game at Toronto, but they still are heavy favorite with their high-powered offense led by Syl Apps and Gordon Drillon.

Hydro Dance Is Held At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28—(CNS)—Topping all previous records for attendance and gaiety the annual Hydro dance, held in the Masonic Temple on Monday evening, surpassed all previous records made by this organization, whose dances here are regarded as the social event of the season. Despite roads blocked by snow in many sections the attendance was well above the average with revellers from many neighboring towns indulging in the art of terpsichore to the music of Doug Hutchinson and his Aces.

The Temple was cleverly decorated with the Hydro colors, blue and white, and maintaining their usual reputation for novelty dances, the guests were given a galaxy of paper hats, horns, and other novelties.

Early in the evening bridge was played in the lounge, with Mr. Russell Long, who was in charge of this part of the affair, presenting the prizes as follows—High score, Mrs. R. Jones, Havelock, and Mr. A. G. Thompson; 5th high, Miss M. Hay and Mr. R. Long; 10th high, Mrs. R. Campney, Havelock and Mr. C. W. Palliser; low score, Mrs. A. E. Burgiss and Mr. A. E. Burgiss; Mrs. G. E. Ironside won the travelling prize.

Observers with field glasses on shore also thought they could discern three figures moving on the ice a few miles from shore before darkness fell, but nothing definite was learned.

Some of the search parties ventured as far as seven miles on the treacherous ice, while rowboats were laboriously shoved across the ice to a trip of open water on the other side, but were not launched before darkness fell.

Adding to the anxiety of relatives was the doubt whether the ice was strong enough to hold up the plane if it had been forced to descend on the ice. Their main hope was that the landing had been close to the island shore and that the occupants had been able to get safely back on the island.

Ici On Parle Francais

And if you have forgotten your high school French that means "French spoken here." For this is a French loudspeaker, ready to do the talking if "hot words" develop along the Western front this spring. The gun is a 155 mm. long-range piece. Something on the style of the high-angle weapons used by the Russians to rock the forts of the Mannerheim Line—a procedure that finally made them untenable.

"The Conservatives maintained that more should have been done and more promptly and that it would have been so done if they had been in office. Owing to their lack of capable leaders they were not able to put up an alternative government of their own for Canada to choose, and they advocated instead the formation of a National government to be composed of men of all parties, for the sole object of winning the war.

"Unfortunately no one was able to say who the members of this government would be or to offer any convincing argument to show that they would be any more patriotic, any more capable or any more energetic than the ministers whom the country was urged to turn out of office.

"As the result showed, even the voters who were inclined to be critical and distrustful of the present ministers preferred to leave the conduct of the war in their hands rather than transfer it to they knew not whom.

"This preference was probably a decisive factor in the Liberal victory. Other causes contributed. Whereas the Liberals had a strong and well-knit organization in every province, the Conservative party had not recovered from the smashing disaster of 1935.

"Not In Bennett's Class"

"In particular its five years in opposition had not thrown up any effective leaders. Dr. Manion is personally popular and has fighting spirit, but it is impossible yet to put him in the same class as such former leaders as for instance Sir Robert Borden or Mr. R. B. Bennett.

"There was no one on his side to give him the effective support which Mr. King received from Mr. Lapointe, the leader of the Quebec Liberals in the Federal parliament. To judge by the result, the co-operation of Mr. Hepburn in Ontario seems to have been rather a hindrance than a help.

"And to make matters worse, the Conservatives mismanaged their campaign. They had a legitimate ground of complaint in the hasty way in which the prime minister sought dissolution when they proposed to criticize in parliament the administration of the war departments, but they spoilt their case by bringing wild and exaggerated charges and by making all sorts of irresponsible promises to attract support.

"Mr. King, on the other hand, refrained from any appeal to party or sectional feeling. He made very few speeches, and in them, ardent Liberal though he is, he was more concerned to play the part of prime minister and national leader in time of crisis than that of party leader fighting a general election."

way to Russia.

"There is strong reason to believe that some of these materials have been getting through to Germany—and, failing preventive measures, much more would get through in the future."

The Daily Mail said British and French statesmen, including Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Premier Paul Reynaud, expected to meet "somewhere in Great Britain" for immediate talks "to review methods of speeding up the war."

The paper commented:

"Both in Great Britain and France, the demand is urgent for action on sound lines to end the present state of 'sitdown war.'

"Leaders of the Allied Governments are keenly aware of this and the need, while being careful of avoiding action for action's sake, for keeping ahead of any of the complicated moves by which Germany is waging war."

Patrol Hurts Sub Work.

One active but little publicized British phase of the war—the coastal air patrol system—was credited meanwhile by neutral observers with halving the commerce-destroying effectiveness of German submarines.

Calling the Royal Air Force coastal command the sharpest new weapon employed against the submarine menace, one expert said it had "reduced by 20 per cent" Germany's chance of striking a body blow at Allied shipping such as that of April, 1917. Flying a mixed collection of bombers, scouting planes and fighters, the coastal command pilots have travelled more than 7,000,000 miles since the war began.

The pilots, many of them first Great War veterans, daily scan 3,000,000 square miles of sea crossed by Britain's vital shipping lanes.

The coastal command has attacked 60 of the more than 100 submarines it has sighted, and believes it has sunk 15 to 20.

Coastal planes have escorted more than 700 convoys without incident. They also have spotted many mines of the surface type.

Several times the planes have caught submarines "in the act" of attacking merchantmen. Because the planes' bombs are not as penetrating as depth charges which ships can carry, destroyers are called to such a scene whenever possible.

Nazi Sub Seized

OSLO, March 28—(CP).—A German submarine which became stranded in Norwegian waters two miles off Odden was interned with its crew today at the port of Mandal, on the southern tip of Norway.

A Norwegian warship towed the submarine into harbor.

The German minister to Oslo asked that the submarine and crew be freed on the grounds that the vessel took refuge in territorial waters because of bad weather and engine trouble.

The Norwegian admiralty, however, ruled after an inquiry that the submarine was stranded due to an error in navigation and that engine trouble resulted from the stranding.

The Norwegian news agency said the submarine was the U-21, one of a group of 24 coastal type undersea craft built in 1935-36 with a standard displacement of 210 tons. Some of the vessels were reported to have been fitted experimentally with new type machinery.

Press Urges Protest

Arbeiderbladet, chief organ of the Labor (government) party, said today Norway must protest sharply against British "violations" of Norwegian territorial waters.

"British papers claim that German warships use Norwegian waters for warlike operations, but Chamberlain admitted in the Commons a week ago that there is no evidence for the claim that German submarines caused three sinkings outside the west coast of Norway in December, and after that time the British Admiralty never saw German warlike operations in Norwegian territorial waters," the newspaper said.

"Great Britain has consequently not the slightest reason for the violation of Norwegian neutrality.

"The truth is that violations which may have been performed have by British warships and aircraft. The Altmark affair happily is up till now the single case where British war action was executed on Norwegian territorz, and we earnestly hope that the British government will admit its mistake in that case."

"Other warlike actions never went farther than two attempts, and we may perhaps hope that the British government will not approve them. Such attempts are very dangerous for Norway, and Norway has therefore to protest against them and defend itself against them according to its ability, because we do not want to be drawn into the war between the great powers."

In The Pacific

BALLOA, Canal Zone, March 28—(AP).—The British liner Mauretania, stripped of her furnishings and bound on a secret war mission, sailed out into the Pacific Ocean today for an unannounced destination after a cautious trip, which took 9¼ hours through the Panama Canal.

The 35,739-ton liner steamed away at 1 a.m. EST, her crew lustily singing "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

A chorus by the Public School pupils was accompanied by Mr. C. S. Morgan; piano solo by Mr. Morgan; tableau, Miss Amelia's Chances, given by eight boys and two girls; duet by Jean and Audrey Fair. The Scottish song "We'd Better Bide A Wee" sung as a duet by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge with piano acompaniment by Mr. Morgan while the scenic reading was given by Jean and Roger Hanbidge with Agnes and Allen Downes in costume. Hastings Woman Fractures Skull

HASTINGS, March 28 (ENS) — Mrs. Charles Peters, Hastings, an aged resident of the village, received serious injuries around 5 p.m. on Tuesday, when she fell down the stair steps. Dr. W. N. Campbell who was summoned found Mrs. Peters in a very serious condition, as she suffered a fractured skull, fractured arm and lacerations on the face, and it was necessary to remove her to the hospital in Peterborough.

Donation To Scouts

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28.—(ENS)—A donation of $15 is to be given the local Boy Scout troop to assist them in carrying on their work it was announced by the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon Monday. The contribution was recommended by the chairman of the boys' work committee, Dwight Bennett, who pointed out that there had been so many appeals for funds for war work lately it was likely the Scouts would experience some difficulty in getting the support they deserved so much.

City Continues Publishing Civic Salaries

Publication of civic salaries in the auditor's report will be continued by the effect of Alderman Cotton's deciding vote at last night's meeting of the finance committee of the council.

Those who voted for continued inclusion of the salaries were: Aldermen Wilson, Ovens, Stocker and Bradburn.

And for the exclusion were: Aldermen McCanan, Roy, Dutton and Mayor Hamilton.

"You're on the spot again, Bob," Aldermen Ovens called to the chairman.

Alderman Cotton was apparently doing some quick thinking for a moment of two, and then said "I think we had better continue them as they are.

The committee ordered the printing of 200 copies of the auditor's report. The price was said to be $4.75 a page. Mayor Hamilton suggested that some of the pages could be left out, causing no loss in effectiveness of the report. He said that the financial details of Anson House should not be included.

"It is true that we do make an appropriation to that institution, and it was all right for the auditor, Mr. Humpage, to go over the accounts, but I don't think we should publish that part of the audit any more than there should be a public audit of the House of Providence."

The committee agreed with Mayor Hamilton on that point, and it was decided to leave out those pages.

Report Termed A "Joke"

Alderman Stocker declared that the auditor's report was a "joke" as a result of the omission of the names of all the employees of the Utilities Commission and their salaries.

Mayor Hamilton said that the salary list could be omitted with a further saving of space and cost. He asked City Treasure Shaver for his opinion.

"You don't see the salaries in the reports of other cities," Mr. Shaver said.

"The Utilities passed a resolution that their salaries not be included in the report," Alderman Stocker said. "Some years ago when I exposed the Isolation Hospital outfit, I went to Frank Adams, the city treasurer at that time, and got the auditor's reports for seven or eight years. I spent half a day or more on them, and no one dared question my statements."

Alderman Dutton proposed that if the salary pages were left out a note in the report could explain that the information was available from City Clerk Armstrong.

"It would create a suspicion," Alderman Stocker commented.

"People might get the idea we were trying to hide something," Alderman Bradburn remarked.

"If we keep on cutting it down, the report won't be worth anything to the public," Alderman Stocker said.

The motion to omit was by Alderman Dutton and Mayor Hamilton; and the amendment to continue publication of the salaries controlled by the council, and also the Board of Education, was by Alderman Stocker and Alderman Bradburn.

Hon. Dr. Manion Wires Fraser

"Congratulations on your great victory. We are all proud of you. Best regards"..... (Signed) S. C. Mewburn.

General Mewburn was the adjutant general of the Hamilton military district at the time Mr. Fraser was an officer of the Hamilton Highland regiment. Afterwards he became minister of militia in the war-time cabinet of Sir Robert Borden.

County Plows Kept Busy Bucking Drifts

An epic struggle lies ahead of the County of Peterborough's engineering department in its attempt to open county roads with the plow. For the snow that blankets the country today is no light, fluffy variety but a heavy, sodden mass, that must be attacked by sheer weight. To see a snowplow at work on county roads is to see a machine of great power bucking, bucking, driving ahead a few feet, backing up, charging once again. And all the while men are running ahead, breaking up the solid mass as best they can with hand shovels.

It is no ordinary snow-cleaning task that faces county workers now, but one that will tax their strength to the utmost before they have ended it. Snow is packed on the roads like blocks of ice, so deep that a path behind the plow shows steep banks that tower to the height of cars. These tops are being knocked off and thrown back away from the roads by gangs of county workers.

Little work is being done on most township roads, and the majority will probably be blocked for some time to come. A spring thaw will likely make them impassable even for teams. Lacking large enough or plentiful enough snowplows, the task of clearing the roads seem an impossible one.

Becoming Passable.

County roads, however, are gradually becoming passable with crews of workers on the job as late as midnight many nights. On election day they did their utmost to open roads in the district to polling booths, spreading their activity over most of the county—a road here and a road there, as fairly as they knew how.

It is no easy job that lies ahead of men at work on roads in this district, despite the fact the days are sunny. Indeed, that very fact makes their job the more difficult because the snow has become much heavier. If they manage to open all county roads in Peterborough, they will have accomplished a herculean task.

Sick Man Taken From Island

Carried on a handsleigh from Davis Island to the mainland at McCracken's Landing yesterday afternoon, Wellington Matthews of Alberta's Peace River District, is reported some better today. The sick man was marooned on the Stoney Lake Island for a week and medical aid could not be reached because of blocked roads.

Yesterday a County of Peterborough snowplough bucked its way to McCracken's Landing from Warsaw and last night for the first time in a week cars and sleighs travelled down the road to Warsaw.

In the week that saw the community snowbound, Mr. Matthews' illness was a grave worry to his brother-in-law and his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Crowe, who could not obtain medical aid for him.

Mr. Mattews' conditions is reported to be much better today and he has been moved to Warsaw where the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Joseph Matthews, is to be held today.

Board Of Works To Purchase New Road Grader

Purchase of a motor grader from Dominion Road Machinery Company for $4,200 was approved by the Board of Works last night, and sent on as a recommendation to the council.

Bids for a machine of this type had been received from various companies, and were considered by a small committee of the Board whose detailed report was submitted last night.

The motion by Alderman Dutton and Alderman Cotton authorized Alderman Wilson, chairman, and City Engineer Parsons to make the purchase providing they are satisfied with the grader after they have inspected one at the factory or elsewhere.

The Board also decided to buy a special Ford truck at a cost of $1,463 for the streets department.

Letting of a contract for fuel oil was held over until tonight. The bid of H. R. Scott Limited of $2.35 a barrel f.o.b. siding for cement was approved.

Sale Of Bibles Has Increased

KEENE, March 28.—(ENS). —Although the roads and weather were not at the most inviting last Sunday, yet it did not hinder many from attending the Easter services at Keene United church. The music was very much in keeping with Easter and well rendered by the choir and male quartette. The sermon was based on the text, "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection." Christianity is a religion of joy which is based on Christ's triumph over the forces of sin and death, said Rev. Mr. Murray. "In this mad world of to-day the church of Jesus Christ is going on triumphantly Despite the anti-God movement in Russia and Germany, Christianity is far from languishing there. The sale of Bibles has increased by fifty to seventy per cent. Surely this is an omen of good things."

Analyst's Report Awaited By Police

Charged with allowing drunkenness on his premises Chris. McGrath appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning and was defended by T. J. Carley K.C.

The police intimated that there would have to be another adjournment as the report of the analysis of the liquor had not been received.

"I don't see how an analysis would help you in this case," said Mr. Carley. "He is charged with permitting drunkenness and in that case the beer out of the bottle and not the beer in it would be what would matter."

"It might help if we were to lay a charge of keeping for sale," replied Chief Constable Newhall.

"That wouldn't be a very friendly act," said Mr. Carley, smiling. The case was adjourned until April 8, and several other cases of illegal consumption went over to the same date.

Fraser Majority Over Glover Stands At 139

Minor changes were revealed in seven polls today when the Examiner checked returns received from the D.R.O.'s on election night against the figures now in the hands of the returning officer, Vincent Eastwood and this cuts Gordon K. Fraser's majority from 158 to 139.

In the new totals Rollie Glover, Liberal candidate picked up ten more votes and Mr. Fraser lost 9, adding 19 to Glover's total.

As it stands now there is but one poll out, this being Peacock's house at Fortescue, 11 miles from Kinmount. A telephone call to the operator at Kinmount this morning failed to get the figures, but the operator said the mail from Fortescue would get into Kinmount today for the first time in four days and returns should be received in Peterborough on Friday. There are only twelve votes in this poll.

Results of the soldier vote will be received by telegram by each returning officer of the various ridings on Tuesday, April 2nd, and when these are in the complete picture will be available.

The total for each candidate as compiled at noon Thursday is Fraser 9,590 and Glover 9,451.

MANY CHIMNEY FIRES.

Close to 70 chimney fire calls have been answered to date this month according to Fire Chief George Gimblett. Chief Gimblett said that no fire has proved dangerous yet, but repeated his warning that at this season of the year householders should be careful to keep their chimneys clean and so avoid possible disaster. "They have to be cleaned in the fall if they are not cleaned now instead," he said. "They might just as well be cleaned now and trouble will be avoided."

INDUSTRIAL DINNER.

In an effort to do something for "this industrial city," Alderman Bradburn, chairman of the manufacturers' committee, suggested last night a dinner meeting to which the managers of Peterborough's industries would be invited. He proposed that it would be a means of stimulating friendly relations with the manufacturers of the city and of obtaining their assistance in trying to attract new industries. His idea was adopted in a resolution by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman McCannan.

HIS LUCKY DAY

Michael Martin, well known window cleaner does not know whether to sue somebody or just forget it all with a little prayer of thanksgiving. He was standing at the corner of George and Hunter yesterday when the bus came by and heavy rear dual wheel ran over a piece of ice the city grader had torn up. The ice hurtled through the air and Mike ducked instinctively. The piece of ice struck him squarely between the shoulders throwing him against the bank. Today he says if he had not dodged the ice would have struck his head, but all the injury he has is a stiff shoulder.

Provincial police and traffic officers here have been notified that there will be no period of grace after the end of this month in regard to motor licenses, and that motorists who try to drive without their new markers after that date are to be prosecuted. Many car owners have not yet secured their licenses and there will likely be a record rush tomorrow and Saturday.

A SEPTEMBER MEETING.

Alderman Dutton turned over six pages in his diary Wednesday night to make a note of a public meeting to be called for September 11 to consider the organization of Community Chest. It was suggested in a letter from Miss Muriel Morrison, secretary of the Children's Aid Society. The date was set by the finance committee of the council in a long reach beyond summer.

Snow Is Piled 12 Feet High

When Owen Murray of the 1st Line of Smith township tried to get his car out of his laneway Wednesday afternoon he found that snow towered high above it in the path he had cut through. Measured, the mass of snow stood 12 feet about the road.

All the 1st Line of Smith is deep in snow, although a roadway for teams has been cut through by farmers residing there. One drift three hundred feet in length and of an average depth of 12 feet, has been dug out so that farmers may reach one another. So wet and heavy was the snow that workers lifted huge solid blocks of it, one after another, and the finished job looks as though the road had walls of white granite rising straight up from the narrow roadway.

Farm Hand Puts Out Fire In Burning Home

HASTINGS, March 28.—(ENS).—Damage by fire and water in the estimated amount of $1,000 was caused by fire in bedroom at the home of Fred Barry, two miles south of here, about 10 o'clock this morning.

Covers rolled back off a bed were believed to have come in contact with a stove pipe and to have caught fire. Donald Gratton, 18 year old farm hand, was credited with having saved the home from total destruction. He crawled into the smoke-filled upstairs room and threw pails of water on the flaming bed clothes, and finally had to be dragged from the room.

Mrs. Barry said she remembered having turned back the bed covers this morning, and it was possible that they might have come in contact with the stovepipe that passed through the room. Smoke pouring out of the window was noticed by Mr. Barry when he was out in the barnyard. An alarm was sent by telephone through the neighborhood for volunteer helpers, but the assistance of most of them was not required. It was believed that the fire had been smouldering upstairs for half an hour before it was noticed.

MIGHT HAVE STAYED AWAY

From Mount Julian comes a hard luck election story of how four residents of that district tramped through the deep snow out to the school house on the Apsley road to cast their votes and then discovered on the way back that they had split even, two voting for George S. White and the other pair for Rork Ferguson. "We could have stayed at home and saved a five mile tramp through snow up to our knees," one of the men remarked in telling of the incident.—C.

THOSE BIG FEET

They say that policemen have large feet, but here is a story about a local football played whose name is synonymous with "swamp" or "bog"—but whose name a reporter is pledged not to reveal—who must wear shoes larger than any two coppers would need.

Last night a young lady, a visitor to Peterborough, who will remain anonymous, wanted to go skiing and friends tried all over town to get her a pair of ski boots. They had no luck, though, for every pair in the city seemed to be in use. Finally she got the football star's and in desperation piled on all the socks she could find in the house before stepping into the boots and tieing the laces. But when she started to walk in them the boots remained where they had been and her foot came free, socks and all.

At last she hit upon a novel idea. She put on her own walking shots, piled socks over them, stepped into the big fellow's boots and went skiing satisfactorily. It was more than a satisfactory arrangement, for when she went to a dance later on in the evening, she just removed the huge ski boots and all the socks and there she was in shoes ready to dance.

White's Lead Stands At 211

Two more polls in the Hastings-Peterborough riding reported today bringing the results in from 99 out of the 100 polls in the riding and George S. White's majority is now 211 as the two totals gave Ferguson an edge 18 to 15.

The two polls were Oak Lake where Ferguson received 11 and White 13 and Dan Wood's residence in Lake township where Ferguson got 7 and White 2.

The only poll outstanding now is poll number 65 in Methuen which has a total vote of 21.

Sale Of Lots Recommended

Sale of another group of lots owned by the city was recommended by the property committee of the council Wednesday night.

Their locations, prices and buyers were as follows: A lot on the north side of Ware street to Howard J. Ralph for $125.

A lot on the east side of Kent street to David Wood for $50. One on the south side of Romaine street was listed at $200. A foundation was put in there years ago, and still will have to be removed, it was said. Mrs. S. Winterbottom offered $160 for this property, and the committee finally agreed to sell it to her for $175, splitting the difference, if she wants it at that cost.

An adjoining lot on the south side of Romaine will be sold to Anthony Thompson for $200.

Walter Simmons is willing to pay $50 for a city lot east of 136 James street in Ashburnham.

Alex R. Mitchell has agreed to pay $150 for a property on the north side of Douglas Avenue.

Robert B. Harvey wants a lot on the north side of Dufferin street, Ashburnham, for $125.

All these lots are recommended for sale at the prices listed by the committee on the advice of W. J. Henry, city assessor.

Given 2 Months In Jail On Liquor Count

Pleading guilty to the illegal sale of liquor, Thomas Reid was sentenced in police court this morning to two months imprisonment in the county jail.

"I have already been locked up a week and spring is coming on when a man will have a chance to get some work," Reid told the court in pleading for leniency.

"Will you give up selling liquor?" asked the court.

"Never again for me," replied the accused. "I never did sell much any way."

Reid's arrest came after a Toronto man had been robbed of a large sum of money by a soldier and had complained to the police. As a result Reid's house was searched and he was charged with illegal sale.

Two other men, charged with illegal consumption were find $10 and costs and a third secured a week's adjournment.

Bail Is Reduced To $3,000 For Newington

When the case of Donald Newington of Marmora, charged with the illegal possession of gold was called before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning his counsel Ralph Standish intimated that he would elect to be tried by judge and jury.

The crown was not ready to go on this morning and Newington was remanded until April 4, the bail being reduced to $3,000.

"Will you order that the case must go on then," asked defence counsel. "We do not want to bring witnesses from Timmins if there is to be another remand."

Magistrate Langley complied with the request and announced that the preliminary hearing must proceed on the date set.

MacAlpine Lead In Lindsay 53

According to the Lindsay Post, the majority of Colonel C. D. H. MacAlpine, defeated National Government candidate, was only 53 in that town, as compared with the usual 1,000 majorities T. H. Stinson used to pile up.

Every poll in Mariposa township, eight of them, gave Bruce McNevin, Liberal a majority. The vote in Oakwood, for example, was 225 to 89 and Little Britain 194 to 87. All six polls in Ops township went to McNevin, Reaboro, fairly close to his home, counting 134 to 54. The three polls in Fenelon Falls all swung to the Liberal candidate, in one of the sharp surprises of the Victoria-Haliburton voting.

Three of the five polls in Eldon gave McNevin majorities, and the other two were close. Lorneville electors gave him a 141-75 count. Emily township went largely for McNevin, featured by 173-22 at Downeyville. At Woodville the vote was 141-92 against MacAlpine.

Incidentally, Col. J. A. Dewart and T. J. Carley spoke at Oakwood where the vote was 225 to 89 for McNevin. Mr. Carley also spoke at Fenelon Falls and at Manilla where McNevin won by 126 to 56.

2 Boys Let Go After Getting Severe Warning

Although he allowed them to go on suspended sentence, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., was severe in his condemnation of the conduct of two local youths, Donald Pellow and Stanley Lewington who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to stealing oil and waste from the journal boxes of C.N.R. box cars.

It was explained that the stolen waste had been used as fuel to heat a "shack" which the accused and other youths have been frequenting. The place is located on the east bank of the Oonabee some distance north of Inverlea Bridge.

"This is a border-line case and I am not sure that I should not sentence these men," Magistrate Langley said after Crown Attorney McElderry had stated that the accused had no previous records and that he would be satisfied with suspended sentence.

Numerous Thefts

C.N.R. Constable Ray Morden told the court that the railway had been bothered considerably by such thefts. The danger was, he said, that hot boxes developed after the oil and waste had been removed and a wreck was quite likely to follow. Recently it had been found necessary to change the wheels on one car that had been on the siding near the shack in question. The condition of the journal boxes in that particular case was not discovered until the car had reached Hoard's Station.

The de-railing of a box car east of the Locks' bridge recently Constable Morden said, had been due to the stealing of the oily waste from the journal boxes. In that case the car had come from Midland.

In allowing suspended sentence in Lewington's case and announcing that Pellow would be similarly treated tomorrow morning when his father appeared to go on his bond Magistrate Langley pointed out to the two the dangerous nature of their action. "It might well happen that a brakeman might be on a car, from the journal boxes of which the waste had been removed and he would be killed in the resulting accident," the magistrate remarked.

The value of the oil and waste stolen amounted to $17.86, the court was informed.

Cooking Sale Is Held In Campbelford Hall

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28.—A very successful cooking sale and tea was held in the parish hall Saturday afternoon under auspices of the A.Y.P.A. The affair was planned as part of the young people's annual drive to augment their funds, and was particularly well attended owing to the large number of holiday visitors who were in town for the week-end. Mrs. C. Newman was general convener and her assistants were Miss Joyce Pryke, Mrs. Alex Kennedy and Miss Doreen Beatty. Easter decorations predominated at the tables that were placed down the centre of the hall artistically covered with mauve and yellow crepe paper. Mrs. Newman presided at the tea table which was centred by a large vase of Easter lillies, while Misses Maisie Lloyd, Jean Pryke and Helen Wood assisted in serving. The candy table was in charge of Misses Doreen Beatty and Marian Higginson and Mrs. A. Hollings and Miss Yvonne Hollings were at the cooking table. Mrs. E. Farrell played a very popular role by reading tea cups during the afternoon.

Waltzing Gophers

LONDON, Mar. 28 — (CP Cable) —A serious scientific report that Canadian-born gophers at the London Zoo have just begun waltzing sent reporters and photographers hurrying to record the phenomenon to-day.

But the spry, near-albino gophers didn't waltz.

Said Superintendent Vevers: "May be it was an amorous display because it is the mating season."

Said Columnist William Hickey: "Or may be they had heard the election result."

Flier's Story

New York, March 28 (CP).

PAUL MAYER, a German aviator of the First Great War with a pocketful of medals for bravery, arrived from Holland aboard the liner Zaandam today with the prediction the German army will revolt in July or August.

"I look for an uprising by the army in July or August," Mayer said. "If there is a big battle the men who fought in the last war will not go on any longer.

"Things are terrible in Nazi Germany. There is nothing to eat but carrots and potatoes and one-half pound of meat a week for each person. A week before we left warm water baths were banned."

Mayer said that with the connivance of Nazi officials in Berlin, he was able to smuggle his wife and children—Hegla, 13, and Robert, 12—across the border into Holland.

Atlantic Airmail

COPENHAGEN, March 28—(CP-Havas).—The Berlingske Tidende said today that a new North Atlantic airmail service will be inaugurated May 1 between Bergen and America.

The line will make one flight monthly until 1942 and one flight weekly thereafter. The cover will not exceed two kronor (about 46 cents' where the letters do not weigh more than five grams (slightly over 1½ ouncees.)

Here On Monday

The Peterborough Canadian Concert Association will conclude another successful season with the appearance here on Monday evening of Raya Garbousova, who is considered by many critics to be "the greatest woman 'cellist of the day." Miss Garbousova will be accompanied by Lev Shorr in a brilliant program including compositions by Henri Eccles, Boccherini, Weber, Tschaikowsky, Ravel, and Klengel.

Northern Ireland is urging the growing of more flax this year and will fix an "attractive" price to interest them.

Color Tells

Washington, March 28 (AP) THE wide-vision eyes of aerial color cameras may prove to be one of the most effective weapons of warfare yet invented.

Color photography makes the art of camouflage a doubtful defence, officials of the Army Air Corps said today, because it makes visible a range of colors which cannot be distinguished by the human eye or in ordinary black-and-white photography.

Gun emplacements, troops, supply trains and trenches which now are carefully concealed by nets, branches and colored cloth snap into sharp relief on a color photograph.

Test color pictures made by the United States Air Corps brought out camouflaged buildings and other details of the landscape which were invisible on black-and-white pictures.

$1,500 Bull

WAUKESHA, Wis., March 28—(AP).—Montvic Chieftain 10th, a prize bull consigned by Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Ont., brought one of the highest prices in years at the national blue ribbon Holstein sale when it sold for $1,500 yesterday to the Northern Illinois Holstein Artificial Breeding Association.

Ninety-two head of cattle were auctioned for an average price of $228, about $10 a head lower than last year's spring sale.

Edmonton Nips Regina By 6-2

EDMONTON, March 28—(CP).—Edmonton Athletic Club took a 2-1 lead in games in the best-of-five Western junior hockey semi-final by defeating Regina Abbott-Generals 6-2 last night in the third game. They play here again Saturday.

The Alberta champions, who lost to Oshawa Generals in the Dominion final last year, won the first game of the series 6-4 but lost the second to the Saskatchewan representatives 5-3.

Edmonton had the game well in hand all the way with Elmer Kreller and Bruce MacKay sharing individual honors with two goals each. Bill Maher and Ken Reardon fired the others and Grant Warwick and Jack Cook scored for Regina.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XXX

Dancing was going on later in the drawing room to loud blasts of orchestra music from the radio when Janis slipped out and hurried to the nursery. Nettie, plainly exasperated, sat rocking the fretful baby.

"I'm terribly sorry, Nettie," Janis told her. "Let me take her." She gathered her feverish little daughter in her arms, began walking the floor with her. She laid her auburn curls lovingly against Mary Jane's tiny blond ones, tears dropping unheeded down her cheeks. It was all so unfair, so unnecessary. And she had thought Rock would settle down and make a real father! Oh, how wrong she had been! How very very wrong!

Then suddenly, she asked herself a serious question. Was she—in trying to shield that ideal man out in Bridgecliff—was she sacrificing her own child? Surely, no child could be sanely brought up in an atmosphere such as Rock was creating in this home. Even now he was carving out his own defeat, and she and Mary Jane were bound to suffer with him, go down to defeat with him. She sighed wearily and handed the baby back to Nettie.

Jilly Shows Up

Janis returned to the drawing room just as Jilly Morse was making a nicely timed entrance with Jack Young, her manager. Janis knew the famous Jilly's attitude. She had come here as a favor to Rock. Certainly no one would expect a famous star like herself to hobnob at dinner with this bunch of bit-players, extras and hangers-on. Dull black satin outlined Jilly's marvellous slimness and accented the vivid lipstick on her pale face, her glowing amber eyes. Jilly was dangerous and knew it. Every gesture, every smile she bestowed on the eager-eyed men who immediately surrounded her, told her so.

But it was to Rock she turned now, after listlessly shaking hands with Janis. "Darling—do take me where I can get a whiff of air—it's simply stifling here."

Janis understood. Jilly didn't intend to waste words or silly pretty airs on the riffraff in this room. She had come to see Rock—exclusively.

Janis knew from Rock's laugh how flattered he was. He quickly linked an arm through Jilly's and led her out to the terrace.

Wet glasses were being set carelessly on valuable furniture, burning cigarettes would also take their toll. Just as had happened in Mary Black's Beverly Hills house. But now Janis was beyond caring. Rock was paying an exorbitant price for this penthouse. It was what he wanted to live in; these guests were the type he wanted around him. So let him settle for all the damage. It would cost him plenty. If he didn't spend his money for this, it would be spent for something else. He was hopeless.

Murder in Her Heart

She was abruptly aroused from this apathy by the peculiarly acting Lucinda. It was merely a happenstance that Janis saw Lucinda snatch a sharp brass paper-knife from a desk, conceal it in the folds of her black net skirt, then make for the terrace as if she were up to something out of the ordinary. The expression on Lucinda's face was terrifying, and Janis, highly concerned, quickly followed her.

All too soon Janis realized where Lucinda's jealousy of Jilly Morse was leading her. She was stealthily creeping toward an end of the terrace, where a couple on a bench were closely clasped in each other's arms. The dim light from a nearby lantern, showed Jilly's face tight to Rock's, sickeningly clear.

Janis saw the glint of brass when Lucinda raised the knife.

"Lucinda! Lucinda!" she cried, frantically racing up to her.

Lucinda wheeled angrily, thrust her hands behind her.

"What—what do you want?" she blubbered, backing up to the wall inclosing the terrace.

Jilly and Rock were both on their feet now, apparently astounded by the peculiar scene being enacted behind them.

"What the dickens!" thundered Rock.

"I—I only wanted to show Lucinda something," breathlessly explained Janis. "Come, Lucinda."

Lucinda looked like a stone image standing there in the shadow. But Janis heard something hit against the stone wall, knew the knife was falling swiftly to the street below.

Lucinda said almost meekly, "Let's go, Janis."

Rock demanded, "Just what are you two trying to pull?"

Lucinda evidently had the advantage. Rock plainly could find no words to extricate himself from this three-cornered difficulty. His wife, Lucinda, the old attraction, and Jilly, the new, made a problem the solution of which was beyond even his inflated egotism.

But for the moment Janis was more concerned over the violently trembling Lucinda than over her philandering husband. His performance did not in the least surprise her, but what Lucinda had attempted was something else again.

Janis managed to get the poor, quivering creature that was now Lucinda unnoticed through a rear door in the drawing room. She helped Lucinda into her wrap, called a taxi, and sent her home. She neither condoled nor censured her. She was only thinkful she had been able to prevent tragedy in this place she called home.

Rock and Jilly Leave

She braced herself and determinedly joined the guests. Rock and Jilly had disappeared. Jack Young's face was dark with anger and chagrin. He soon made his excuses and left the house. With Rock gone, the women acted bored. Then soon bade Janis a hasty good-night and hurried away with their escorts.

Janis bore up until the last guest went out the door. Then she sent the servants away and sank to a divan, trying to get things untangled in her mind, trying to reason with herself. It was 3 a.m. by the Venus-figured electric clock on the mantel, and another night of her life had been wasted, another day begun.

She was so nervously exhausted that breathing was difficult in this smoke-filled, foul-aired room. She went to the French doors and opened them wide. She stood there looking down at the city's hundreds of twinkling neon signs and street lights, automobile headlights flashing here and there like falling stars; a blur of exotic twinkle soon to be washed out completely by to-day's golden sunshine. One element giving way to another, one affection overtowering another, making bitter wounded hearts. Lucinda, Jilly, herself—what was it all about?

She finally weaved into her bedroom and flung herself face down on the lace-covered bed. She wanted to cry, but there were no tears in her eyes. She slept at last in a trance-like state, more injurious than recuperative to her frazzled nerves. It was like falling into a dark deep cavern where there was nothing to cling to, no one to hear a cry for help.

It was exactly an hour after this when she was aroused by a loud pounding on the front door. The servants were all asleep in the rear of the house and could not hear the noise. Janis, finally realizing this, got up and staggered out to the hall, switching on lights as she went.

She cautiously opened the door as far as the night-chain would allow. She blinked in fright at the two policemen standing beneath the porch light.

"Mrs. Conover?" one of them inquired.

"Why—yes. What do you want?"

"There's been trouble — an accident. Car ran into a train. Your husband—we took him to the hospital—but he and Miss Morse—"

Janis' cold fingers managed to unhook the chain. She said unsteadily: "Come in—please come in."

They stepped inside, and the second man offered, kindly: "If there is anything we can do—take you to the hospital—"

"Yes—I'll get a wrap," Janis said, and wondered how she could be so calm in this hour of horror.

The Clouds Roll Away.

Janis returned from the hospital thoroughly shaken. She had been too late to grant forgiveness either to Jilly or Rock had they desired it. She had prevented tragedy earlier that night on the terrace, but had not been allowed to prevent it a second time a few hours later.

Perhaps it was fate, but this appalling catastrophe had made her number with pity and a sort of awe. It seemed that when your time came, you passed out. Or had Jilly and Rock hurled themselves at the hereafter in reckless abandon?

Extra newspaper editions were soon on the street and gave a detailed account of the collision of speeding car and train. They pictured Jilly and Rock in flattering poses, recently taken by the publicity department to exploit the hit, "Wild Love."

The telephone rang constantly. Janis shut herself in her room, avoiding all calls. She gave orders that no one should be permitted to enter the house, felt it would be impossible to talk to people, specially to keen-minded reporters who might uncover too many embarrassing angles in Rock Conover's private life. Even Rock's funeral must be strictly private to keep away emotionally unbalanced women fans.

But finally a knock came on Janis' door that stirred her into action. None of the servants knocked like that.

She jumped up expectantly, called tremulously: "Come in."

Stephen Black entered quickly. He saw her standing there, her lower lip quivering, her face tortured by suffering. "My dear," he said gently, and held out his arms.

She rushed to him like a child needing protection. Her arms went around his neck, her head to his broad shoulder. He caught her to him, held her close against his heart. Great sobs shook her, all her painful tension was at last released.

He waited for her to wash away the regrets, the disapointments, the searing bitterness of many long dreary months. He waited until he was sure that the depths of his love for her had touched her profoundly. Then he kissed her tear-washed lips with the rare reverence he could give this woman above all others.

"My darling," he murmured against her tangled auburn curls, "my own darling."

(The End.)

France Seeking Cavalry, Draught Horses

OTTAWA, Mar. 28 — (CP). — The Dominion Agriculture Department has been advised by representatives of the French Government that they expect to purchase horses in Canada for cavalry purposes and of the light draught type with inspections taking place the middle of May, it was learned here last night.

Actual purchasing likely will be done through French Purchasing Boards operating at the larger railroad centres in Eastern and Western Canada. Department officials did not know the exact number of horses required, but it was learned from other sources that it likely will be several thousand of each class.

Buyers will seek horses of the cavalry type between five and ten years, standing fifteen hands one inch to sixteen hands and weighing from 970 to 1,100 pounds. Light draught requirements will be horses from five to ten year sold, standing fifteen hands to fifteen hands two inches, and weighing from 1,100 to 1,200 pounds.

Desired proportion of the two types is 60 per cent. cavalry and 40 per cent. light draught. Officials indicated little difficulty is anticipated in obtaining all horses required from Canadian farms.

(A French purchasing mission has been engaged in buying horses and mules in the United States for several months, with its operations centred in the St. Louis area. No figures have been issued as to the number of animals purchased.)

British Air Hero's Name Withheld

Only the British censor knows why the name is withheld, but the young man on the LEFT here is one of the outstanding air heroes of the war on the Western front up to now. He is 21, a New Zealander pilot in the Royal Air Force, and was photographed as above chatting with a colleague as they loaded up machine-gun belts. The young pilot was flying over Germany's Westwall recently with a sergeant as his gunner. German Messerschmitts attacked and shot the gunner, but the New Zealander flew the plane and used the guns, bringing down one German plane, driving the other off. He brought his own ship safely home to base.

LOOKING TO SUMMER

By ALICE ALDEN

DON'T miss the little cotton shops from now on, and the cotton corners in the big stores. Such dresses as today's, made in gay, cool fabrics are assembled by the dozen, and at the smallest prices, for house and outdoor life. This one for young things is in a floral bayadere-striped lawn. It buttons down the front from a square neckline, and has a self-belt with detachable gardener's pockets attached. Pretty enough for afternoon bridge sessions and movies in town, it looks smart with almost any little hat. The white felt bonnet is perfect or you might prefer a white pique beret.

Outlines Purpose Of Girls' Work Board

The Girls' Work Board, composed of the leaders and teachers of all girls' 'teen-age groups in the city, met Wednesday evening in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A., with Mrs. A. Huffman presiding.

Miss Elizabeth Walker spoke of how the Work Board can help the teachers and leaders of 'teen-age girls, explaining that a number of leaders are not familiar with the purpose of the Board and why it meets each month, and emphasizing that it was up to its members to let this purpose be known. Outlining the reasons why this Board is of help to teachers and leaders, Miss Walker said that it is interdenominational; it meets regularly to pool ideas and receive encouragement; it's aims are to emphasize unity in groups—there is a difference between union and unity, she said. In concluding her remarks, Miss Walker declared, "We can only be of service in direct proportion to the interest taken by the leaders."

Miss Walker, who was thanked by Mrs. Huffman, will speak next month on "Teaching Tactics"—how to approach the 'teen-age girl from a teaching angle.

Various topics in connection with 'teen-age girls' work were on display following the speaker's remarks.

Final plans were made in connection with the Girls' Rally on April 20, and it was decided to hold study groups in handcraft, music, dramatics, devotion and personality. Capable leaders have been chosen for the various groups. Miss Harriet Christie of Toronto is director. Members were reminded of a meeting for leaders in the Y.W.C.A. on April 3.

Refreshments were served afterwards under the convenership of Mrs. J. Collis.

Crude Social Notes Offend

Amused smiles greet this pitiful little note—yet the writer, a newcomer in the neighborhood, had so hoped she'd make a good impression!

A pity when with a few pointers on good form, English, vocabulary, it's easy to write letters that charm.

Perhaps — though you wouldn't begin a letter with a crude "Dear Friend"—you have wondered about correct beginnings.

Start formal letters with "My dear Mrs. Smith," informal letters with "Dear Mrs. Smith."

Or are you vague about your English, carelessly chop a subject "I" from a sentence? Do you scratch out a mistake, hope it won't be noticed? Correct such faults, for you're judged by them.

And you write more easily if you avoid such stilted phrases as "honored to accept." Write simply, "I shall be glad to come."

And all your letters — to new acquaintances, old friends — have added sparkle when you know how to dress up everyday events.

With the pointers in our 32-page booklet, write letters that are correct, charming. Gives sample letters for many business, social occasions, advice on vocabulary, English, etiquette.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GOOD LETER-WRITING MADE EASY to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Your slim young daughter looks for comfort in her clothes. She wants something that's made to have a good time in....and you want her to have a dress that will stand hard wear, yet keep her looking fresh and neat and smart. A blouse and jumper outfit is the ideal solution to your problem. It is cut wide for roominess as well as for style. The simple draw-string blouse is easy to wear, easy to launder. You should make the other blouse version, too—a long-sleeved design with a dainty "little girl" collar.

Style No. 3192 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires ⅞ yard of 39-inch material for blouse; 1⅞ yards 39-inch or 1¼ yards 54-inch for jumper.

We Noticed

....If you don't want to flaunt a red dress, a small touch of it is enough to catch his eye. Just that spot of color at lips and nails will keep you from doing a fade-out. But the brightest color in your life, like the brightest moment, has to be watched with care.

....Why do we wear red? Psychologists tell us it's because red gets more attention than any other color. The man-of-the-moment actually "sees red," when more soothing colors simply aren't noticed at all. And he responds to it, so the psychologists say, in spite of himself.

....That we'll all be doing some close harmony in reds this spring. The red notes in a mostume (and because of lipstick and nail polish we're invariably "in the red") can be our best friend if they're in harmony, or our worst enemy if they're in discord.

To clean playing cards, place them on paper or a tray, sprinkle with talcum powder, and rub with a piece of clean soft dry cloth.

Darn socks and stockings on the cross; they will not wear out so quickly, as the bias threads will take more strain.

Making Table Spring-Like In Spite Of Snowdrifts

By MARY MOORE

At the moment a little Spring fever would be most welcome—the sun is blazing directly on the thermometer outside my window and it will not budge a line above 20 above—the wars have done more than upset civilization—they've disturbed the good old dependable subject of "weather."

To make the table Spring-like in spite of the snow-drifts I made

Rhubarb

For 1 lb. of rosy rhubarb boil together 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar. White heating wash and chop rhubarb into 1-inch pieces—do not peel it. When boiling drop in the washed rhubarb, let boil up for 1 second, then cover, reduce heat to as low as possible for 2 minutes, then stand off heat and let finish cooking off heat, covered. Serve hot or cold. If kept in icebox keep tightly covered or rosy color will fade.

If you have to coax your folks to eat their salad, here is a little item that can be made into individual moulds and form part of a fruity salad platter.

Pineapple Jelly Salad

One tablespoon packaged gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup canned crushed pineapple (do not use fresh), 2/3 cup grated mild cheese or packaged cream cheese, ½ cup whipping cream, lettuce, mayonnaise (pimientoes or green pepper may be used with this). Sprinkle genatin on top of cold water and let soak 5 minutes, then stir it into the boiling water. Add sugar and salt. Add lemon juice, and pineapple and cool. When it begins to stiffen, beat in cheese with egg beater, fold in cream which has been beaten fluffy but not stiff, turn on bed of lettuce, garnish with rings of green pepper, or strips of pimiento, or ripe or stuffed olive—or surround with border of orange sections. Pass mayonnaise.

A request has come in again for Emem's Mayonnaise—those of you who have it will please excuse this repetition:

Emem's Mayonnaise.

One and one-quarter cups chilled salad oil, 2 eggs or 2 or 3 yolks, 1 teaspoon each, salt, mustard and sugar, juice of 1 lemon. Beat eggs or yolks well in cold bowl, and add dry ingredients. Then begin adding cold oil 1 teaspoon at a time until ¼ cup is added, beating thoroughly between each addition,—then begin adding 1 tablespoon at a time—beating thoroughly between each addition. At this point the mayonnaise has definitely begun to emulsify, and oil may be added 2 tablespoons at a time, being sure you beat in each addition thoroughly before another is added. When 1 cup of oil is added you may begin adding the lemon juice just a little at time as you add oil, until both are all used.

Vinegar may be used in place of lemon juice, but is not as delicate—a little paprika and pepper may be added to the dry ingredients.

In permitting myself to dwell on canned pineapple I do so because canned pineapple retains much of its fresh vigor even when canned, and we need all the vitamins we can assimilate this late Spring:

Pineapple Ice Box Cake

This amount will serve 16—this is an especially suitable dessert to make to serve to a large number of people—for it may be prepared one or two days ahead of time.

One cup granulated sugar, 1 No. 2 can grated pineapple, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ⅛ cup butter, 2 cups confectioner's sugar, 2 dozen lady fingers (or 1 small angel food or sponge cake from bakery), ½ pint whipping cream, 1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, and if desired serve with extra whipped cream c. cream cheese and ½ cup shredded toasted almonds and candied cherries.

Cook granulated sugar, pineapple and cornstarch until thickened. Arrange halved lady fingers or cake on bottom of sheet cake pan—preferably glass or enamel—and cover with a layer of the butter and confectioner's sugar beaten together into a spready paste. Add a layer of the pineapple mixture. Repeat the three layers. Whip the cream, sweeten and flavor as desired, add the gelatin which should be soaked in the cold water and heated until dissolved. Put the cream mixture over the rest of the ingredients in the pan. Chill at least 12 or 18 hours. While this is usually served with whipped cream I prefer it with cream cheese and shredded almonds or toasted cashews.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—What are some of the fundamentals which should be taught to children in order to develop a pleasing personality in them? My youngsters are mere babes, but I am anxious to begin their training early in order to save them from a handicap under which I have always suffered, and that is being an unintentional snob.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer:

At any rate you are a wise mother, because not one woman in a thousand ever seems to think it necessary to pay the slightest attention to her children's social development and teaching them the fine art of how to get along with other people. Yet on nothing else does our happiness and success in life depend so much as upon our ability to make and hold friends. People will do things for us because they like us that they would not do because it is due to save our lives. Ninety times out of a hundred our fortune or failure is determined by whether we make a pleasing impression on those with whom we come in contact or irritate them.

To be a good mixer is a talent that generally comes by nature, but there is no doubt that a satisfactory synthetic approach can be taught children if their mothers will take the trouble to inculcate into the youthful minds the qualities that make for popularity and eliminate those that cause us to be poison to our fellow travelers.

The first of these is, of course, to teach a child good manners, which, after all, are just the elementary virtue of considering the rights and comforts of others. The child who has been taught from his infancy up to be courteous; to show deference where it is due; never to push or grab or try to get the best of everything for himself; who speaks as politely to the poor and unfortunate and old as he does to the prosperous will always be liked and will always have a tremendous advantage over the boor.

Children can be taught to be pleasant. I know one mother who never lets her children snarl. Not long ago I heard her say to a little 3-year-old, "You smile when you say that." And I thought that in a world that is overfull of sour, disgruntled, whining and complaining women that that little girl who had been taught in her babyhood to wear the smile that won't come off and to speak cheerfully would be as welcome as sunshine wherever she went.

Children should be taught how to give and take in the family and in play and made to realize that they cannot make everybody play their game. It is the little girls who take their doll rags and go home if they can't run the show who get divorces and break up clubs when they are grown. And the boys who won't play if they can't be captain are the ones who never can keep jobs as men.

Children should be taught the amenities of polite society, how to enter a room, how to talk and how to listen, how to shew little courtesies to the aged, how to show attentio nto some stranded girl or boy at a party, how to do the thousand little things that help make life easier and pleasanter for others and that bring in such great rewards to the doer.

And all of these things can be taught to the child, for it is just as easy to acquire good manners as bad.

DEAR MISS DIX—The first two years of our marriage were made miserable for me by my husband's infidenities. He just seemed unable to settle down and give up other women for me. There were bitter arguments, but I still loved him and strove to keep uor home together.

Finally we decided that perhaps if we had a child it would help matters, but before the baby was born I had to leave him because I felt I would become absolutely demented if I had to witness any more of his affairs. The baby came and with it my husband's transformation. He became the most domestic of men, crazy about the baby and me, and does everything in his power to make us happy and comfortable.

But—and here is the irony of fate—now that my husband is devoted to me I find that my affection for him is all gone. He realizes this and we are considering divorce. He is willing to support me and the baby separately if that will make me happy. Will it, I wonder? Is it likely that I can again find my love for my husband, or is it an impossibility? A WIFE.

ANSWER:

Who can explain the vagaries of a woman's heart, or tell why she can love a man through neglect and ill-treatment, and then cease to love him when he turns into a model husband? Or who would dare prophesy about what turn her affections will take next?

My guess is that after all the excitement and the turmoil and the jealousy of her husband's former loves that kept her pepped up and on her tiptoes, even if it did cause her to shed barrels of tears, is over, that she finds just ordinary domesticity, with husband on the other side of the fireplace every night, a trifle flat. Darby isn't as interesting as Lothario, and so she imagines that she has ceased to care for him. She has lived so long in her emotions that she is bored by not having something to keep her stirred up.

And my further guess is that if she will just give herself time to get used to having a husband who is behaving himself, she will like it. Maybe a husband who has gotten over his taste for wild women and decided that he prefers his wife, who loves the baby and makes a good living, doesn't furnish many thrills, but he is a mighty comfortablt thing to have around the house.

But one thing I am sure of, and that is that no woman who has a child has any right to deprive it of a father's love and care and influence and take away from it the security of a home and the privilege of having two parents instead of only one—unless she has far better cause for leaving her husband than that she has merely lost her taste for him.

This woman has no case in court. She forgave her husband his infidelities while he was committing them, and she has no right to punish him by taking away from him now the child he adores and that is his sheet anchor to all that is good in life. He treats her with kindness and consideration and provides for her well. She brought a child into the world to solve her own problems. Now it is her duty to give that child the blessing of united parents and a peaceful home. And she will only find happiness if she quits vivisecting her emotions and tries to be a good wife and mother.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a girl of 19 and have two children. I have been very happily married until about a month ago, when I met a man of 50 with whom I have fallen desperately in love. He is my dream man, but he has a wife and five children. His oldest daughter is older than myself. He is willing to divorce his wife and marry me, as he returns my love. I have told all of this to my husband and we have both agreed to abide by your decision.—HELEN D.

ANSWER:

Well if you abide by my decision, you will certainly try to do something about this brainstorm you are having before you bring catastrophe upon eleven people. Surely you must have heart enough and principle enough not to be willing to buy your own happiness at the price of wrecking so many lives.

Haven't you enough sanity left to see how foolish and wrong what you are contemplating doing is? Can't you see that this man has only a temporarily fascination for you, and that he is only flattered by a girl younger than his daughter falling in love with him? That if you two who are so different in age married, you would have nothing in common and would tire of each other within a month? Can't you realize that a woman who would forsake a good husband and her little children, and a man who would leave his faithful old wife and many children could bring nothing to a marriage of loyalty and honesty and a sense of responsibility that would make it last?

And what about your babies and the man's five children who would be so ruthlessly orphaned? Could you be happy with the knowledge of the misery you had brought upon them forever in your mind? I think not.

Forget this silly episode and stick to your good young husband and your children, and let this ancient Lothario stand by his own family.

DOROTHY DIX.

Horsfield's Millinery Shop, 444 George North, and draw on one of her classic Stetson hats (she is the only milliner in town who carries them, by the way.) I can guarantee the first glimpse of yourself in one of these models will do bolstering things to your morale! The flowers that bloom in the Spring appear in exceedingly lovely variations at this shop, of course, but for that well-bred elegant look one is apt to turn back to these pliable felts that are fashioned of spirited lines from their intriguing crowns to the clean-cut sweep of their brims. Miss Horsfield is also showing chic straw versions in a multiplicity of new weaves that would add zest to any maiden's day!

With Spring actually in sight around the proverbial corner, you don't need to wear yourself out rushing about town in a frantic effort to assemble your Spring wardrobe—just wend your quiet way to the second floor of the C.D.S. Store where charming clothes await you on every hand. Should your fancy turn to a suit—expertly man-tailored or with soft, dressmaker detail—you can find one here, or have it made to order. There are good-looking coats, and a truly grand selection of frocks. By special arrangement, Mr. Jamison tells me, fashion's best sells are rushed to his store from Toronto—each week there is a new and delightful choice—rarely are two styles alike, and best of all, they come to us just as soon as they appear in Toronto stores. If you desire a minimum of worry and expense in assembling your Spring costume that will total up to a grand maximum in style, then this is the place to shop.

Right up to the minute with all the news of hair-styling for 1940 are the operators at the Paris Beauty Salon, 184 Hunter West. They take your hairdressing problems seriously, and head you into Spring with new confidence in your good looks. A problem which these clever hair-stylists cope with to delightful perfection is the new "up in the front, down at the nape of the neck" style, which is so youthful and flattering and yet requires skill to manage. Exciting news, also, is the fact that these operators received instruction during the Toronto Hairdressers' convention from a Hollywood hair stylist whose fame is widespread because of his skill in foundation haircuts. They will design a haircut which enables you to handle your own hair easily once it has been set—you may coax the waves backwards or forwards into any hair-style you prefer, confident that it will remain sleek and shining for hours at a time. 'Phone 5311 for appointment as Lothario, and so she imagines that she has ceased to care for him. She has lived so long in her emotions that she is bored by not having something to keep her stirred up.

And my further guess is that if she will just give herself time to get used to having a husband who is behaving himself, she will like it. Maybe a husband who has gotten over his taste for wild women and decided that he prefers his wife, who loves the baby and makes a good living, doesn't furnish many thrills, but he is a mighty comfortablt thing to have around the house.

But one thing I am sure of, and that is that no woman who has a child has any right to deprive it of a father's love and care and influence and take away from it the security of a home and the privilege of having two parents instead of only one—unless she has far better cause for leaving her husband than that she has merely lost her taste for him.

This woman has no case in court. She forgave her husband his infidelities while he was committing them, and she has no right to punish him by taking away from him now the child he adores and that is his sheet anchor to all that is good in life. He treats her with kindness and consideration and provides for her well. She brought a child into the world to solve her own problems. Now it is her duty to give that child the blessing of united parents and a peaceful home. And she will only find happiness if she quits vivisecting her emotions and tries to be a good wife and mother.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a girl of 19 and have two children. I have been very happily married until about a month ago, when I met a man of 50 with whom I have fallen desperately in love. He is my dream man, but he has a wife and five children. His oldest daughter is older than myself. He is willing to divorce his wife and marry me, as he returns my love. I have told all of this to my husband and we have both agreed to abide by your decision.—HELEN D.

ANSWER:

Well if you abide by my decision, you will certainly try to do something about this brainstorm you are having before you bring catastrophe upon eleven people. Surely you must have heart enough and principle enough not to be willing to buy your own happiness at the price of wrecking so many lives.

Haven't you enough sanity left to see how foolish and wrong what you are contemplating doing is? Can't you see that this man has only a temporarily fascination for you, and that he is only flattered by a girl younger than his daughter falling in love with him? That if you two who are so different in age married, you would have nothing in common and would tire of each other within a month? Can't you realize that a woman who would forsake a good husband and her little children, and a man who would leave his faithful old wife and many children could bring nothing to a marriage of loyalty and honesty and a sense of responsibility that would make it last?

And what about your babies and the man's five children who would be so ruthlessly orphaned? Could you be happy with the knowledge of the misery you had brought upon them forever in your mind? I think not.

Forget this silly episode and stick to your good young husband and your children, and let this ancient Lothario stand by his own family.

DOROTHY DIX.

Question—As a constant reader of The Examiner, I never miss the lovely recipes and help you are giving us through that page.

But now I have a little problem which I would like you to help me with: On Easter Sunday evening I am giving a musical and would like to serve lunch afterward to 15 people—please suggest appropriate refreshments.—M.G.

Answer—Your letter did not reach my desk until Easter Saturday so it was impossible to have my reply reach you in time for your party. It's an ideal question from my viewpoint and I'm sorry my reply could not have been timely.

Refreshments for an Easter entertainment.

Daisy Salad

The whites of hard cooked eggs are cut into petal-like strips — 8 from each egg and arranged on lettuce to form a daisy. The yolks are riced and placed in a pile to form centre of daisy. Pass mayonnaise and garnish each salad with stuffed prune.

Devilled Egg Salad

Using one hard cooked egg for each serving, cut each egg in halves lengthwise, remove the yolks and mash them with a little mayonnaise, and in this case finely chopped parsley or chives or green onion—just a little—season with salt and pepper. Replace yolk mixture in whites and place two halves in a nest of lettuce. A nice "Nest" is made by shredding lettuce finely and piling it on the edges to form a nest. Pass mayonnaise tinted pink or green with vegetable dyes.

Many bakeries will tint white sandwich loaves any shade you prefer—yellow is very pretty when the filling is snowy white. Mash a small Baumert or Philadelphia cream cheese and to it add an equal quantity of chopped blanched almonds—season with salt and pepper. The bakery will slice sandwich bread for you ¾ or ½-inch thick and remove the crusts—all of which saves you many minutes in preparation.

Grape Sponge

Two tablespoons gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups cream, 2 cups grape juice. Soak the gelatin in the cold water and dissolve it over hot water. Stir in the sugar and grape juice and when the mixture beings to thicken, fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Pour into moulds (or stemmed glasses or 1 large mould) wet in cold water, and let stand in cold place until firm. Serve with

Custard Sauce

Two cups scalded milk, yolks 3 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat eggs slightly, using a fork, add sugar and salt; stir constantly while gradually adding hot milk. Cook in double boiler, continue stirring until mixture thickens and a coating is formed on the spoon, strain immediately and chill, and flavor. If not taken from heat quickly enough when it thickens it may curdle—if so, beat with rotary beater.

We shall be glad to hear from you again, whenever we can be of help in time.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 29.

The planetary configurations for this day are read as extremely benefic. with strong prospects of fulfilled ambitions and aspirations in every direction. It is a time for reaching for high goals, and toward social, sentimental and humanitarian objectives. In business there is promise of the co-operation of those of the misery you had brought upon in power and financial security, whose friendship will be assured and greatly worthwhile. Romance also figures for the eligible. But in all there is an aura of intrigue, collusion, or subtlety, operating for good or ill, according to the way it is manipulated.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a door in which benefic astral forces will be found the open sesame for attaining high goals and fondly-cherished hopes and wishes. In business the friendship and co-operation of the mighty should be cultivated. In social, emotional and philanthropic avenues the signs are propitious, especially

The vitamins are needed for steady nerves and vitality.

Only in Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast can you get such an abundant supply of the 4 important vitamins A, B_1, D and G, and all the vitamins of the amazing vitamin B complex.

Eat 2 cakes a day. See if vitamins in fresh yeast can't help you get back in your stride, feel brisk and active again!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

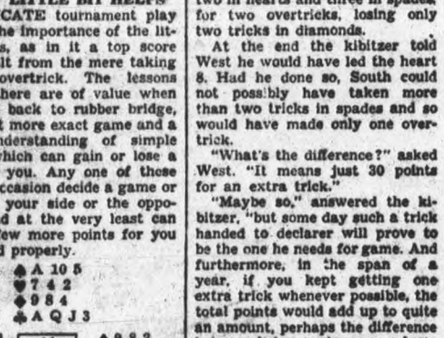
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS

DUPLICATE tournament play teaches the importance of the little things, as in it a top score may result from the mere taking of an overtrick. The lessons learned there are of value when you turn back to rubber bridge, with a bit more exact game and a fuller understanding of simple factors which can gain or lose a trick for you. Any one of these may on occasion decide a game or slam for your side or the opponents, and at the very least can mean a few more points for you if handled properly.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

When West led the spade Q, a kibitzer, who is a veteran duplicate player, whispered to him that leading a suit with that holding might cost his side a trick. South won with the K and, sure enough, had a finesse established against the J. Finessing both clubs and diamonds twice, he made six tricks in those suits, two in hearts and three in spades for two overtricks, losing only two tricks in diamonds.

At the end the kibitzer told West he would have led the heart 8. Had he done so, South could not possibly have taken more than two tricks in spades and so would have made only one overtrick.

"What's the difference?" asked West. "It means just 30 points for an extra trick."

"Maybe so," answered the kibitzer, "but some day such a trick handed to declarer will prove to be the one he needs for game. And furthermore, in the span of a year, if you kept getting one extra trick whenever possible, the total points would add up to quite an amount, perhaps the difference between being a winner or a loser on the year."

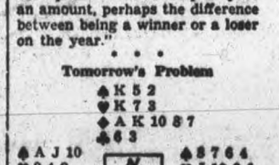
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If North bids 1-Diamond on this deal, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, how should West plan his defense?

Dogfight Downs Nazi Planes One R.A.F. Craft

LONDON, March 28—(CP)—The Air Ministry announced today that two German aircraft were shot down in flames yesterday in combat with Royal Air Force craft near Metz on the Western front.

The official account said one R.A.F. fighter plane was shot down but that the flier escaped by parachute.

It described aerial activity in the neighborhood of Metz as showing "marked increase."

The account said a formation of seven German reconnaissance planes escorted by fighters was intercepted by an R.A.F. unit.

"Several combats took place and our fighters, having broken up the enemy formation, forced the enemy to abandon his reconnaissance.

"One of our patrols encountered a formation of nine enemy fighters. In the ensuing fight two enemy aircraft were seen to go down in flames."

Troops On Move.

PARIS, March 28—(CP-Havas)—Sudden and possibly significant German interest in Allied troop strength and defence positions along the northern border region of France was reported today by military sources.

A series of Nazi reconnaissance flights staged over the area since Monday night revived forebodings of a possible German offensive through Netherlands and Belgium. French army sources pointed out, however, that there has been no appreciable change in the disposition of German troops massed near the Dutch and Belgian borders since last fall.

Some Nazi troops have been moved from the right to the left bank of the Rhine, it was said. The move involved relatively few men, however, and the general picture remained unchanged.

Most of the land operations over the past 24 hours have developed along the Western wing of the front. Artillery batteries on both sides were particularly active along the 12-mile front between the Moselle and Nied Rivers.

Rogers Sees Vote Reply To Critics On War Conduct

KINGSTON, Ont., Mar. 28 — (CP). — Defence Minister Rogers cited his re-election in Kingston as an answer to criticism which would not be misunderstood by the people of Canada.

"There was no bitterness in my heart at any time during the campaign," Mr. Rogers told followers in his committee rooms after his return to Parliament was indicated last night. "You citizens who supported me so well to-day know what the victory means, not only to this riding but to Canada as a whole.

"I hardly know what to say in words of appreciation to you for this great victory. Hundreds of you voters forgot your political affiliations and voted for the party which you thought could best carry on Canada's war effort."

Mr. Rogers was returned by a majority of 2,115 in the civilian vote over Col. T. A. Kidd, National Government candidate and former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

Coalition Cabinet

HELSINKI, March 28 (AP)—The formation of a new cabinet, again headed by Risto Ryti, was announced today.

Ryti, who headed the Finnish delegation which made the recent peace with Russia, in addition to being premier, is the foreign minister.

The new cabinet was officially described as a coalition government uniting all parties for the heavy tasks of reconstruction.

Demonstrating Mass Murder Bomb

Demonstrating the power of his "mass murder bomb," Inventor Lester Barlow showed a U.S. naval and military committee that the explosive would be safe to handle. He placed a half pound of it under two big logs with the ABOVE results. A liquid-oxygen-carbon bomb, the inventor claims that his new weapon could spread certain death within a 1,000-foot radius and would keep enemy warships miles from American shores. This picture was transmitted from Baltimore by phonephoto.

Religious Drama Is Presented Omemee Church

OMEMEE, March 28.—(ENS), — Miss Jane Curtis entertained a number of friends at a party on Friday evening. Contact, Chinese checkers, and crokinole were played. Those present included: Anna Brown Wilma Bradley, Ethelmae Earle, Jacqueline Stone, Rosina Brockley, Freida Tremblay, Myrtle Rowan, Vernon Hunt, Russell Weir, Keith Bradley, Charles Shaw, Brackley Shaw, Mons Brooks, Geo. Mills and John Deyell. At the close dainty refreshments were served.

Easter Services.

A large congregation was present at Trinity United Church on Sunday evening for the special Easter service. Following the regular worship service, conducted by Rev. R. M. Patterson, a short religious drama entitled "The Challenge of the Cross," was presented." In the dimly-lighted church the Evangel, Miss Christina Connell took her place at the pulpit and said, "I invite you one and all to take up the Cross and follow after Him." Those taking the part of the disciples who went forward and offered to bear the Cross were: Misses M. Fisher, M. Rea, E. Sherin, D. McConnell, E. Earle, and R. Deyell. The first five disciples were rejected because some chose to select their Cross, another wanted to hide it, and still another wanted to wear it openly and so appear boastful. But the sixth disciple, Miss Roberta Deyell, who came slowly down the aisle singing "I am coming, Lord, coming now to Thee," was accepted. Then all the disciples gathered at the front and when each in turn had accepted the Crosses that had been previously offered to them, they sang "Jesus, I my Cross have taken," and in the last verse were joined by the congregation to conclude the service.

The drama was interspersed with hymn singing by the choir.

The flowers in the church, sent by Lady Eaton of Toronto, were lilies, white carnations, and daffodils.

Y.P.U. Meets.

The regular meeting of the Y.P.U. of Trinity United Church was held on Monday evening in the basement of the church. Christina Connell, the Christian Culture convener, was in charge. Quiet music was followed by the call to worship given by Roberta Deyell. The Scripture reading found in Mark 14, 26-42, was read by Marion Rea. Christina Connell then read a chapter from "The Nazarene" by Sholen Asch, dealing with the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane. The business period was in charge of the president, Richard Vaughan. It was decided to hold the Young People's meeting at eight o'clock instead of seven-thirty. The topic based on the Life of St. Patrick was ably presented by Miss Connell. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Millbrook School Staff, Pupils Sponsor Red Cross Tea, Dance

MILLBROOK, March 28—(ENS).—Red Cross funds benefitted to the extent of considerably more than twenty dollars from the enjoyable afternoon tea held by the staff and pupils of the Continuation School on Thursday from four to seven o'clock, parents and friends being well represented in the large number of guests who attended.

Mary Armstrong was cashier, and in the receiving line in the upstairs hall were Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., principal, Miss Shirley Buckingham, B.A. and Mr. Walter Zeigler, B.A., completing the staff. The large class room where tea was served presented a lovely spring-like appearance, tulips and daffodils being used in the bud vases on each of the twelve daintily-laid tables. The Easter season was well typified in the stencils above the blackboards, and in the freehand drawing of fluffy "Mr. and Mrs. Chicken," with the word "greeting" facing the entrance doorway.

The large serving table was done in a color scheme of pale green and gold, and the girls serving wore dainty aprons the same colors. Mrs. J. W. Wright and Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, vice-president of the local branch of the Red Cross Society, poured tea. A musical program, under the direction of Allen Brown, was presented at intervals throughout the afternoon, the numbers including whistling solos by Bea McDowell; piano solos by Robina Tate; violin solos by Allen Brown; the Highland Fling gracefully danced by Nan Fallis and Dorothy Harker, two pupils who also received the incoming guests at the tea room door; piano solos by Audrey Wood; quartette, Barbara Argue, Eleanor Bigelow, Nan and Bea Fallis.

A number of girls looked after inviting the guests to the cloak room to remove their wraps, and the cashier also attended to the registrations, everyone being asked to write their names in the book for that purpose, probably one hundred or more being thus listed. The tea took the place of the annual at home which the Continuation School has staged for the past two or three years. The happy event was topped off with a dance for the pupils at the conclusion of the more formal part of the afternoon and evening.

Special Service

Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson took the address for the second of the community Holy Week services, held on Thursday evening in St. Andrew's United Church, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., presiding, and the Rev. Raeburn Gibson, of Grace Prebyterian church, reading the scripture.

Following the general theme of "The Cross" Rev. Mr. Simpson took up "The Comfort of the Cross," emphasizing its ancient meaning of be strong, and the strength which it imparts in time of testing and sorrow, as our Saviour was strengthened (comforted) for His approaching trial and for Calvary, after the agony in Gethsemane. The other aspect of the comfort, that of salvation through faith in Christ as a personal Saviour, was dealth with in the concluding portion of the deeply spiritual address.

The concluding service was in St. Thomas' Anglican Church on Good Friday at 7:45 p.m., with the talk on "The Conquest of the Cross," being given by Rev. Mr. Gibson, and the rector presiding, with Rev. Mr. Sisco reading the lesson. Mrs. H. W. Johnston played for the hymns on Thursday evening, and Miss M. L. Collins on Good Friday.

Chief Of Allied Armies Leaves Royal 22nd Message Of Victory And Freedom After Tour Of Great Aldershot Setup

ALDERSHOT, England, March 29 (CP Cable).—Combat units of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force were inspected at field manoeuvres under wartime conditions and on the parade square today by General Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies, and General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff.

To the martial swing of such airs as the "Maple Leafs" and the British Grenadiers, they reviewed the first and second field regiments of the Royal Canadian Artillery and the Royal 22nd Regiment on the drill square. They also plodded over a wooded hillside that had been converted into a veritable no man's land by machine-gun fighters of the Toronto Scottish.

The French general spoke in his native tongue to the French Canadians of the Royal 22nd and left with them a message for the whole division.

"When finally you leave France to return to your homes," he said into a microphone that boomed his voice over the broad parade ground, "you will leave as men who have assured freedom and peace to the whole world."

Noted Canadians Present

Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the C.A.S.F., greeted the distinguished military leaders at divisional headquarters. He was flanked by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, and Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, senior officer of Canadian military headquarters in London

After he had presented members of his staff, motorcars carried the official party through the far-flung encampment. The visitors saw the Canadians on route marches, deploying through fields in training exercises, and digging trenches on the plains.

A group of small boys on the roadside, recognizing the French war lord and the British general as they drove by, snapped smartly to salute.

As they reached the drill ground of the artillery units, the battle flag of the C.A.S.F. senior formation, honoring Canada, Britain and France side by side, was broken from the staff at the reviewing base. General Gamelin raised his eyes to inspect the standard bearing the Union Jack, Maple Leaves and Fleur de Lys, flown in his honor.

After the artillery brass band had played a general salute, the compact French general and the massive British chief of staff, who dwarfed him and all others, walked between the ranks to inspect the Canadians. Then the field regiments with Brigadier J. C. Stewart at their head, swung past the reviewing base in troop formation as the visiting generals took the salute.

The Toronto Scottish, their steel helmets camouflaged with sprigs from trees, were conducting a manoeuvre against an imaginary enemy attack when the distinguished soldiers pulled up at the roadside.

Lieut.-Colonel C. C. Thompson conducted the party over the hillside, piloting members safely be-

Nazi Destroyer Fleet Said Ordered Out To Clear Skagerrak And Norse Coast Of British Patrols—'Hope So', Says Navy

Danes Report German Warships Showing Activity

LONDON, March 29 (CP Cable) —Danish reports of German fleet movements in the Skagerrak, which divides Denmark and Norway, lack confirmation here, but naval authorities expressed hope today that they are true.

"There is nothing we should like to see more than the German fleet emerging from cover," a naval authority declared.

He added there had been occasional German patrols in the Skagerrak but nothing on a large scale.

Paris Reports Movements

PARIS, March 29 (CP-Havas) — Crediting his information to Copenhagen sources, Henry Bidou, military writer for L'Intransigeant, reported today that a fleet of German destroyers is enroute to give battle to British naval units lying in wait off the Norwegian coast for German freighters. The writer said an engagement seemed "inevitable."

Bidou, emphasizing Germany's dependency on Scandinavian ore, said Berlin is alarmed by the British blockade along the Norwegian coast. Two German freighters already have been torpedoed, he pointed out, and another ran aground and was wrecked while attempting to hug the coast.

"Information from Copenhagen says that the German admiralty has sent destroyers to clear these dangerous waters," he added. "Under these conditions a meeting in force between the advance units of the high seas fleets seems inevitable."

PREPARE FOR BALKAN WAR

ANKARA, March 29 — (AP). — Turkish military quarters today declared that a full agreement has been reached with British and French army, navy and air force chiefs on plans for tripower cooperation in case war comes to the Balkans or Near East.

Officers of the three countries were said to have drafted minute plans for all phases of military activity at their recent meeting in Aleppo, Syria, and to have agreed to further strengthening of British-French armies in the Near East.

At the same time, all French and British envoys to the Balkans and Hungary prepared to return to their capitals for conferences on the situation in southeastern Europe and the Near East.

It was reported that in case of war with Germany and Soviet Russia in the southeast, the British-French-Turkish forces would strike immediately at Russian oil fields.

Last Minute News Flashes

MOSCOW — (AP). — Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff to-night declared before Soviet Russia's "Parliament" that "our position is neutrality in the war" and "the safeguarding of our land."

WINDSOR — (CP). — Delayed by death and tragedy on the icy wastes of Lake Erie, where the Pelee mail plane crashed with the loss of three lives on Wdnesday, first news of Tuesday's vote on Pelee Island reached J. S. Piner, returning officer for Essex South, to-day. The two Pelee polls increased the majority of Murray Clark, M.P.-elect for Essex South, by 36 votes.

NORTH BAY — (CP). — Word reached here to-day from the snow-bound village of River Valley of the mass wedding last Monday of four couples. Those married included the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bigras of Desaulniers-Derimen, Germaine, Godfrey, and Gasper.

Old Ross Rifles Are Dusted And Sent To Sea To Defend Merchant Ships, Explode Mines

LONDON, March 29. — (CP Cable)—The old Ross rifle has come into its own again after being stacked up in British armories since the early days of the first Great War.

Hundreds of the Canadian-made rifles have been distributed to merchant and naval vessels as a defensive weapon and as a target rifle for exploding mines.

The old Ross rifle, now being used as a target rifle for exploding mines from firing points aboard British merchant and naval vessels, was a familiar weapon to Canadian soldiers in the early stages of the first Great War.

At that time it was standard equipment for Canadian soldiers but later was discarded, because

Allies Charged As Hostile By Molotoff

MOSCOW (By Radio to London), March 29—(AP).—Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff in a report tonight on foreign policy before the Supreme Soviet charged France and Great Britain with "many instances" of hostility to the Soviet Union.

"The hopes of British and French rulers to use the Soviet Union in war against Germany have been frustrated," Molotoff said.

"The policy pursued by the Soviet Union," he said, "is obviously not palatable to the British and French whose nerves are not in good order."

Molotoff claimed that "during the past five months there have been many instances of Franco-British hostility toward the Soviet Union."

Manion Digs Out Conservative Label Once More

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP). — With smoke of the Dominion election fight clearing away, the Capital settled down today to preparations for the wartime session of the new Parliament. Final returns trickled in to upset elections in some constituencies and the National Government party reverted to its former name of National Conservative.

The hugh Liberal following in the Commons was reduced from 178 to 176 last night, when belated turnovers in two seats elected one Conservative candidate, on the basis of civilian returns, and put another in the doubtful list.

2 Seized Soviet Contraband Ships Are Turned Over To French Navy

LONDON, March 29.—(CP)—The Ministry of Economic Warfare announced today that two Soviet ships seized in far eastern waters on suspicion of carrying contraband destined for Germany are being turned over to French authorities "for administrative reasons."

The ships are the Selenga, 2,492 tons, and the Vladimir Mayakovsky, 2,261 tons. Both had been taken into port of Hong Kong.

Although Reuters News Agency had reported from Hong Kong the release of the Selenga, the official statement said neither of the two vessels had been freed.

Both freighters had been stopped while en route to Vladivostok, Russian Pacific port, because it was suspected they were carrying cargoes for Germany. The Selenga carried tin, antimony and wolfram and the Vladimir Mayakovsky was reported laden with copper from the United States and more metal from Mexico.

Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador here, had protested to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax on Wednesday against the detention of the two vessels. He argued that they were government-owned and therefore not subject to contraband control. This thesis was rejected by the British, however.

The announcement said:

"The Soviet ships Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky which were

Bishop Wells Sees National Registration Of Every Man, Woman For Post To Serve

OTTAWA, Mar. 29 — (CP). — Lieut.-Col. A. G. Wells, Bishop of Cariboo and principal Protestant Chaplain of the Canadian Active Service Force, said here yesterday that "when the smoke of election has faded away, the leaders will be in a position to say that we must have a national registration of every man and woman for the position they can best serve."

"It would be fatal to take away all the loyal men and allow the trash, who have accumulated from coast to coast, some of whom place Russia before the country that has made them its citizens, to remain at home and reap the benefits," he told the Ottawa Women's Club.

"What the other democracies say they believe in—decency and democracy—our men are dying for and the statesmen of our country should make provision for a long, hard struggle."

He said Canadians would be called upon to bear the greatest strain any civilization has ever had to bear and "when the time comes, we must have the determination and courage to see it through."

Raider Attacks Convoy All 5 Bombs Miss; Air Marshal Changed

LONDON, March 29—(CP). — Great Britain and France, newly bound in a firmer alliance for war and peace, were determined today to seize the initiative from Germany on every front, particularly in the related fields of diplomacy and economic strangulation.

The war of bombs and bullets continued on the comparatively minor scale of aerial duels and attacks on shipping, but informed quarters said the Allied Supreme War Council planned more frequent sessions similar to that of yesterday.

First fruit of the conference came in the summoning home for consultations of the British and French envoys in South-eastern Europe, foreshadowing a strong drive for diplomatic ascendancy over Germany in the vital Balkan area.

The consultations are scheduled for early April, and Sir Percy Loraine, British Ambassador to Italy, is due to attend.

A friend of Germany, Italy is keenly interested on her own account in the Balkans, which British observers see as the next "double spot."

These observers said the Allies do not intend to be caught napping by any German attempt to thwart the blockade by diplomatic penetrations, particularly in Rumania.

One Leaky Spot.

Allied attention also was directed toward Scandinavia — Germany's northern door—and toward means of dealing with Soviet Russia. With spring thaws in the Baltic, Germany was believed likely to try to increase her imports via Scandinavian routes. The allies are concerned over reports that German freighters are nullifying the far-flung blockade by edging down the Norwegian coast regularly.

Britain is sharpening her aerial weapons to help the fleet tighten its blockade of this zone.

Both Britain and France were described as inclined to preserve diplomatic relations with Russia on at least the present status, despite a French squabble over the Soviet ambassador and British detention of Russian ships in the Pacific.

In this connection, significance was seen by many onlookers in the release by Britain of the Russian

League Will Aid Finns Rebuild

GENEVA, March 29 — (AP). — After six days of unofficial consultations in London and Paris, Joseph Avenol, secretary general of the League of Nations, today informed the Finnish government that the League will give "all possible assistance" in the reconstruction of Finland.

A Finnish note, addressed to the League March 21 and published today, asked that "material and humanitarian assistance be continued by the League and its members in order to bring about complete restoration of the country as speedily as possible with a view to guaranteeing its future."

The reference to a guarantee for the future was interpreted in some League quarters as meaning the Finns want Allied help in building a new Mannerheim line and strengthening Finnish armaments as a safeguard against any future Russian attack.

Avenol's reply was sent in the form of a telegram to Premier Risto Ryti and a formal note handed to Rudolf Holsti, Finnish minister to Switzerland.

Tornado Kills 30

Napeonville, La., March 29 (AP) THE Louisania Light and Power Company received reports here today that a tornado had struck the small settlement of Pierre Park, 20 miles distant, and killed about 30 persons.

A. J. Howard, company official, said he received advices that the tornado struck about 11 a.m. and demolished the church and many homes in the village, inhabited by fishermen and trappers. Doctors and nurses sped to the village. The population of Pierre Park is about 600.

6 Harbor Pilots, 3 Boat Crew Victims Of Collision With Inbound Freighter

Two Survivors In Hospital Suffering Shock Three Others Able To Continue Duties After Crash Sinks Tender In Darkness

HALIFAX, Mar. 29 — (CP). — Naval vessels and lifeboat crews searched the waters of outer Halifax Harbor to-day for the bodies of nine members of the crew of the pilot boat Hebridean, rammed and sent to the bottom last night by an incoming freighter.

Two survivors were in hospital suffering from shock and immersion in the icy waters. Three others had returned to duty a few hours after the collision.

Six of the dead were harbor pilots. The other three were the engineer, cook and a boatman aboard the Hebridean. Two pilots who were on the little pilot vessel when the freighter struck her, were the only ones aboard saved. The other three survivors—a pilot and two boatmen were on their way to the freighter in a tender when the accident occurred.

The dead were: Pilot Carl and Lorne Dempsey, brothers, James Dempsey, their first cousin, Claude Martin, James Renner, Lionel Pelham, all of Halifax City, Lawrence Thomas, Halifax, cook; Matthew Power, Herring Cove, engineer, and Roy Purcell, Portuguese Cove, boatman.

Pilots Tupper Hayes, Roy Sullivan and Carl Himmelman and Boatmen Walter Power and Edward McLaughlin were saved. Himmelman came here from Lunenburg, N.S., the others are Halifax residents.

Whole Thing A Mystery

Hayes and the two boatmen had cast off from the Hebridean to meet the freighter when she crashed into the pilot vessel. Sullivan and Himmelman, who were believed to be asleep, were either thrown into the water or managed to make their way to deck and jumped before their vessel went down. But just what happened remained unclear. Doctors said neither was in condition to talk. One had a temperature of 102—and rising—and the other was suffering greatly from shock.

Hospital official and others who had been in touch with the men said it was doubtful if the men could add anything even if reporters were allowed to see them.

Hayes, Power and McLaughlin, all of whom were some distance from the pilot ship when the freighter tore a gaping hole in her, had gone back to duty on another pilot vessel.

They, with Sullivan and Himmelman, were picked up by the freighter whose identity was not disclosed because of wartime regulations. She cruised around the spot for awhile, notified shore officials at Halifax and then headed up the harbor to an anchorage.

Its crew refused to discuss the collision other than to state they had known nothing about it until they heard the shouts of the men in the water.

Splendid Visibility.

Captain John Holland, coxswain of the Duncan's Cove lifeboat crew, said he had put to sea with nine men after being ordered to the disaster scene by the Department of Transport.

"It was a perfect night," he said.

Pole Documents Incriminate U.S. Berlin Hints

BERLIN, Mar. 29 — (AP). — Sixteen documents which German authorities said were found in the archives of the Polish Foreign Office in Warsaw were handed to the press by the Berlin Foreign Office to-night with the authorized comment that they shed "a most interesting light on the part which American policy played in bringing about the present war."

President Roosevelt and Joseph P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassadors to London and Paris, were named in the documents. Some of them were represented as confidential reports by the Polish Ambassadors to Washington, London and Paris and the Polish Minister to Stockholm.

Among them are what are represented as a letter by Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Secretary; a letter by the Polish General Staff; a report by the Polish Commercial Attache in London on a chat with Ambassador Kennedy.

All the documents were accompanied by photographic reproductions of the alleged originals.

Pilots Stunned Over Loss Of Nine Pals

HALIFAX, March 29—(CP).—An atmosphere of stunned silence and bewilderment hung over the pilot office in the old Halifax Customs building today.

From Captain D. A. Reside, superintendent of pilots, down, the men in the pilot office weren't talking much. When they did answer questions it was in an abstract sort of way.

"How could it have happened," was the question being asked.

Freighters approaching Halifax harbor at night are required to show a special light, meaning, "I want a pilot." Then, in the regular course of events, the pilot boat comes within a quarter of a mile of the ship, and sends a pilot aboard in a tender.

The telephone in the pilot house range incessantly all morning. Some called with messages of sympathy; others wanted to know about relatives; some others to apply for the vacancies as harbor pilots.

There were two pilot boats serving Halifax harbor before today's disaster—the ill-fated Hebridean and

Blackout Costs 4,769 Lives In Five Months

LONDON, March 29.—(CP)—Statistics on British traffic accidents published today disclosed that government efforts to reduce the toll of dead and injured from blackout accidents were meeting with some success.

From Sept. 1, 1939, to Jan. 31, 1940, a total of 4,769 persons were killed in accidents with the high for the five-month period in December, when 1,155 were killed. Starting in January a regular decline was shown in the figures. During January 619 were killed, 536 less than in December but 134 more than January 1939. In February the total dropped to 416, about 40 less than in February 1939 and 200 less than January this year.

Traffic experts attribute the decrease to government measures reducing the automobile speed limit and to the use of daylight saving time in February.

Government restrictions have stopped plans in Jamaica to greatly enlarge the number of acres devoted to sugar cane.

Nazi East Indies Fleet Loads To Try Blockade

AMSTERDAM, March 29.—(AP). —(AP)—At least 20 German merchantmen laid up in Netherlands East Indies ports since the outbreak of war have started loading cargo and making other preparations to said.

Their plans are being kept secret but speculation is rife in the East Indies that they will attempt to run the allied blockade and land their cargoes at Vladivostok for transport through Soviet Russia.

Germans were reported to-day to have made large purchases of rubber, copra, palm oil and other raw materials.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Batavia identified three of the German vessels as the Nordmark, 7,750 tons; the Rendsburg, 6,200, and the Vogtland, 6,608. The dispatch said the ships had been painted grey and their names obliterated.)

German ships are scattered at various East Indies ports in Sumatra, Java, Batavia and Celebes. Before being permitted to sail, the vessels must pay port fees and other charges.

Industries Over Ontario Continue To Show Steady March Ahead

TORONTO, March 29.— (CP).— Industrial conditions in Ontario continue to show improvement, according to the weekly labor report issued to-day by Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor. Fitting out has already started on lake boats, with expectations of a heavy transportation season on the Great Lakes. War orders are still reaching many centres, with consequent increase in employment.

Brantford reports that improvement in iron, steel and textile establishments is being maintained with war equipment orders recently received increasing production and staff level.

At Chatham, construction of a new Hydro line has taken up some labor.

Port William reports work has started on the fitting out of lake boats. Textile plants are still busy at Hamilton. Rubber plants at Kitchener are working steadily, while metal trades also are busy.

Leather shoe factories are working at top speed.

London reported textile, shoe and lumber companies are all very busy. Demand continues at Oshawa for experienced machinists, tool and dye makers. An electrical plant at Peterborough is close to its 1937 level and employment is generally picking up.

Electric firms at St. Catharines are busier than they were at this time last year, although this is considered the quiet period.

At Sarnia, industrial conditions continue to show improvement and a number of former employes have been recalled to various industries.

Tip From F.D.R.?

Washington, March 29 (AP)

PRESIDENT Roosevelt scheduled another conference today with Sumner Welles and State Secretary Cordell Hull to discuss European conditions as Welles found them on a visit to the British, French, Italian and German capitals.

The White House indicated that the rigid rule of secrecy announced during the Roosevelt-Welles-Hull meeting yesterday still would apply unless Mr. Roosevelt consented to discuss the conversations at a press conference set for late today.

O'Dwyer Sends Out 8-State Alarm For 2 Triggermen Of Murder Gang

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—An eight-state alarm for two desperate alleged triggermen of Brooklyn's murder, Inc., described as "likely to shoot it out rather than surrender," was sent out today by District Attorney William O'Dwyer of King's county.

The alarm called for the arrest of Louis (The Duke) Maione, an alleged lieutenant of the death syndicate, and Vito Gurino, said to be one of the gang's sharpshooters.

O'Dwyer said the two fugitives were wanted for questioning about a prison-hatched plot to assassinate an important eye-witness in the 1937 slaying of George Rudnick, a police informer stabbed 54 times in a Brooklyn garage as a warning to other "stool pigeons."

O'Dwyer said the target of the plot was Angelo Catalano, a Brooklyn house painter and bookmaker's agent.

The order for Catalano's execution, he said, was sent out from Tombs prison by a prisoner held in the investigation of Murder, Inc., the Brooklyn killers-for-hire ring which has been linked with at least 35 gangland slayings.

O'Dwyer said Catalano was saved by his arrest as a material witness in the Rudnick murder.

Three of the men involved in the Rudnick slaying—Harry (Happy) Maione, Frank (The Dasher) Abbadando and Harry (Pittsburg Phil) Strauss—were arraigned on first degree murder charges today. All pleaded guilty.

Land Settlement Of Versailles Held Very Fair

The most perplexing problem that will follow the conclusion of World War II will be the establishment of an international order under which the nations of Europe will be able to live at peace with sixty or seventy millions of Germans, declared W. G. Riddell, lecturer in modern history at the University of Toronto. He was speaking at noon today at the Empress hotel to luncheon Kiwanians.

Some system must be developed with more disciplinary teeth in it that had the League of Nations, he believed. While praising the League's high idealism, he saw its failure as the result of its inherent inability to demand that problems leading to conflict must be settled by the nations concerned. If the League had been able to demand, on threat of disciplinary action of some sort, that solutions to conflict between nations be found, then only could it have been successful, he said.

He defended the settlement achieved under the Versailles treaty as being the most fair that Europe had ever experienced founded as it was on the underlying principle of self determination. "It gave Europe its best promise to date of a lasting settlement," he declared.

Dr. Riddell outlined events that had led from the conclusion of World War I in 1918 to the outbreak again in 1939.

His summary of the peace treaty that ended conflict in 1919 showed Germany to have been dealt with less harshly than that country later attempted to attribute to it. Losses and penalties inflicted were not severe, he claimed. Germany lost one-eighth of her territory, but that included former French territory, Alsace-Lorraine; other territory was on her old borders, important but not essential; and colonies she lost were of little economical importance to her. "On the other side, Germany survived as a nation, intact in all its essentials," something that might well not have happened. The economic settlement he found to be the most severe, yet pointed out that when it became obvious that it was impossible of fulfillment, it was abandoned by the victors. He pointed out, too, that Germany's financial collapse following the war had been due in large measure to the fact that she had thrown all her resources into the war, and not as a sole result of reparations demanded.

Until 1930 Germany attempted by peaceful means and by cooperation to return to her place as a great power. But with the rise of Hitler's government in 1933, that policy changed and the country embarked on an a moral policy—a policy that gave no honor to international agreement. When the sweep of that policy became evident to Great Britain and France, when those powers realized this nation intended to grasp not only economic but political control of all Eastern Europe, then only did they find it necessary for their own protection to go to war again.

Children's Coughs Quickly Relieved

It is hard to keep the children from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad; have on too much clothing and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; they get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night. The mother cannot watch them all the time, so what is she going to do?

Mothers should never neglect the child's cough or cold, but on its inception should procure a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is so pleasant to the taste the youngsters take it without any fuss.

Three Dead In Plane Crash

Pilot Tom Higgins and his two passengers, Marie Tessier and Sam Kovinsky, met instant death when the airplane in which they were flying from Leamington to Pelee Island crashed in a blinding snowstorm. Searchers found the wreckage of the plane, ABOVE, with the pilot and passengers still in it with the engine shoved into cockpit. This picture was transmitted by phone-photo from Leamington.

The Premier-Foreign Commissar spoke at a joint session of the two Houses of the Supreme Soviet, the Russian "Legislature," which today began a session to ratify the peace treaty with Finland, create a "Karelian-Finnish Union Republic" in territory gained from Finland, and to hear the 1940 budget.

"Soviet-German relations," Molotoff said at the outset, "were firmly proved in the Polish campaign."

He said Russian losses in the conflict with Finland were 48,645 killed and 158,863 wounded, while Finnish losses were much greater.

The Royal 22nd Regiment were drawn up on parade when the motorcade drew up, to be met by a guard of honor.

After the regiment had presented arms, Generals Gamelin, Ironside and McNaughton and others of the official party walked between khaki ranks as a band played the Maple Leaf. Then the group took their places at the saluting base while General Gamelin spoke to his "comarades de l'armee Canadienne."

"French - speaking Canadians!" the Allied commander began. "It is not without emotion that we hear you speak our language, the tradition of which you have preserved so well. We have not forgotten your predecessors who came to fight in France and we are happy to see how you are training yourselves to follow in their footsteps.

"When you land on French soil you will discover that behind the political pacts which bind us, the heart of France beats in unison with yours and you will find men who, like you, want not only to defend their fatherland but also to assure all peoples the right to be free."

As General Gamelin finished, Lieut.-Colonel Percy Flynn ordered the Royal 22nd to give three cheers for the commander-in-chief of the Allied armies. General Ironside removed his cap with the others and joined in the cheers.

The visit ended in historic Wellesley House, where General McNaughton was host at luncheon.

Of the Ross rifle, the official history of the Canadian forces in the First Great War says:

"The Ross rifle lived up to its reputation as a target weapon, accurate and effective in the hands of a marksman; but unfortunately it also lived up to and enhanced its record for jamming and a rifle which jammed in such circumstances was damned.

"Adverse reports upon it were sent in by a number of battalions; hundreds were thrown away by the men as they found Lee-Enfields dropped by British casualties on the battlefield."

the Nauphlia. Both were Nova Scotia built schooners of 96 tons, 92 feet in length. The Hebridean was built in 1928.

Before the war, 20 pilots manned these boats in two shifts. Six pilots had been added to aid in handling wartime traffic, but the list is now back to its pre-war status.

The system was for one boat to lay off the harbor-mouth for a week, the other remaining ashore. Then, the positions would revert for a week. Pilots on the "out" boat handled incoming traffic, and those ashore handled outgoing.

The remaining pilot boat was sent out today three hours after her sister ship went to the bottom. She will remain outside the harbor until a suitable ship can be found to relieve her.

No Time To Talk

HALIFAX, March 29.—(CP)—Tupper Hayes, one of the five survivors of the ramming of the pilot boat Hebridean, was in too big a hurry to get back aboard another pilot boat today to tell his father of the tragedy which took nine lives in Halifax harbor this morning.

"I wasn't talking to him," Pat Hayes said, "but his boarding mistress told me he was pretty badly shook up. However, he went back aboard the other pilot boat."

Tupper Hayes has not been without his share of the experiences that are every-day occurrences in the life of a harbor pilot. Several times he has been carried across the Atlantic when heavy seas prevented him from returning to the pilot boat.

Veteran Fills In.

HALIFAX, Mar. 29 — (CP). — A sad, weather-beaten old man prepared to take to sea to-day to help fill the breach caused by the tragic deaths of six of his comrades.

He was Frank Thomas, dean of Halifax pilots. All six of the pilots who died in the Halifax Harbor disaster early to-day served their apprenticeship with him. He has been in the pilot service in Halifax for 46 years, and is still active.

"I thought they were only joking when they told me about the tragedy," said Thomas. "My first reaction was one of thankfulness that my ship, Number One, was not on duty last night. I couldn't believe that so many of the boys were gone. Just about all of them were like younger brothers to me."

He said seven new pilots had been taken on in Halifax since the outbreak of war, and there would be a shortage now. Thomas himself was called out for emergency duty to-day.

He is no relation of Lawrence Thomas, one of the missing.

Trent Girls Club Sponsors Tea

TRENT RIVER, March 29 — (ENS)—An unique event took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl Greenly when members of the "Amicus Club" held their first afternoon tea, from two to six o'clock.

This newly organized club consists of a membership of eleven girls, who have held meetings each Saturday afternoon for nine weeks, at which they received instructions along many lines, on making fancy sandwiches, macaroons, and several other varieties of fancy cakes, salads and other tempting dishes served at functions when the club girl entertains.

The executive consists of local leaders: Mrs. Earl Greenly and Mrs. Roy Longmuir; president Miss Debra Longmuir; treasurer, Miss Thelma Lewis; and secretary, Miss Vaughn Brown. Following are the members—Viona Brownsell, Cleela Lewis, Jeryne Brown, Shirley Hutchinson, Clara Chaplin, Laureena Wight, Annie Logan, Faye Hubble.

During the afternoon a display of record books, containing recipes kept by each member, was held The tea table looked attractive with an ecru lace table cloth. Easter favors on a mirror centre-piece and tall lighted red tapers decorated the tea table. Tea was poured by Mrs. Earl Greenly, wearing a dress of old rose and blue with a white flower corsage, and Mrs. Roy Longmuir in a blue and mauve ensemble. Members of the club, along with the president, waited on the guests.

The menu, all of which was made by the girls, consisted of the following: ribbon and pin-wheel sandwiches of banana and peanut butter, pin-wheel sandwiches of olives cheese open faced, dream cookies, fork oatmeal cookies, butterscotch cookies, sugar cookies, pickles, mints and tea.

The successful result of their first attempt at such an event reflects much credit to the girls and their local leaders. The invited guests included members of the local branch of the Women's Institute. Miss Jean Scott, of Toronto, home economics coach, was expected to be in attendance but was inavoidably absent and plans to make a visit to the club sometime between April 29 and May 4.

An authorized German source said the 48-page collection "throws a most interesting light on the part which American policy played in bringing about the present war."

All chiefs of bureau of American news associations and newspapers were summoned to the Foreign Office at 6 p.m. (noon EST) to receive the documents.

The collection was supplemented with what were said to be photographic reproductions of the originals.

The correspondents were told that no elucidations were necessary—they should read for themselves.

Weather Stalls Front Fighting

PARIS, March 29—(CP-Havas).—Bad weather again stalled fighting on the Western Front in the past 24 hours, military authorities said to-day.

German artillery continued to comb the woods between the Sarre River and the Vosges Mountains, but no infantry clashes occurred.

Few airplanes took off, and of those that did, one German Dornier-17 crashed accidentally in Northeastern France, killing its crew. The accident was attributed to motor failure.

The Dornier was one of a number of German planes that carried out two reconnaisance flights over northern and eastern France.

Clipper's Visit Rouses Censors

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 29 —(AP)—Bermuda's air mail censorship staff, disbanded when Pan-American clippers abandoned this port of call in mid-month, was reassembled hastily yesterday morning when the Atlantic clipper, westbound, made an unexpected call here.

A total of 1,628 pounds of mail, half of it German, was removed from the plane and taken for examination. It will be placed aboard the next plane bound for the United States.

The stop was ordered for refueling, because head winds had reduced the supply.

It was the first mail-carrying clipper to land in Bermuda since Pan-American omitted it as a port of call on March 15.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, March 30.

A day in which very definite progress is to be made in the way of stabilizing the affairs and marching on to security and success is indicated by the lunar aspects as well as mutual configurations. The latter suggest the employment of tact, diplomacy, strategy, and intrigue rahter than open and direct methods and technics. This is due to the possibility of the opposition of those in power and authority. In all, industry, perseverance, steadfastness, sound ideas, and practical programs are assured enduring results.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of opportunity for putting the affairs and the fortunes on a solid foundation, with perseverance, application, fidelity, sound plans and workable projects winning against possible opposition from superiors, employers or others whose support is desired. Strategy, cleverness, intrigue, or subtlety are factors for enduring success and security.

A child born on this day may have all the solid and practical arts and skills and realize attainment of sound aims and ends by strategy, tact and diplomacy. Elders may be generous with gifts, bequests, or other benefices.

R. M. Glover Is Given Watch By His Friends

The Canadian General Electric Company received an order amounting to $1,900,000 from the Canadian government before was was declared, R. M. Glover told the group of friends who presented him with a wrist watch "as a mark of our affection" at luncheon in the Champlain Hotel today.

"During the last five years when Senator Duffus represented this riding, approximately $5,000,000 was spent here," Mr. Glover continued. "We did not mention during the campaign the fact that a very substantial order was awarded to the Canadian General Electric Company. It was just one of those things which you did not think it would be wise to mention for the purpose of gaining political advantage even during the election. There was the possibility of sabotage against a company that was engaged in that special kind of work, and it was the prudent thing not to mention it. However, I think it is only fair now to give you the information which I have, that the sum of almost five million dollars was spent in this city and country."

Alderman Gordon presided at the luncheon meeting which he arranged, and called on Mayor Hamilton to make the presentation of a wrist watch to Mr. Glover, and also to bear as a gift from his friends a wrist watch for Mrs. Glover as an appreciation of her quiet and sustaining support in the campaign.

"We all had a great admiration for Rollie Glover before this campaign," said Mayor Hamilton, "but we think even more of him now than we did, if, indeed that is possible We knew that even when things go against him he always showed real sportsmanship, and he has displayed it in a splendid way since Tuesday. We are proud to have been associated with him in this election, as we have always been in the past."

"This is altogether a surprise to me," Mr. Glover said in acknowledging the gifts and personal references. "I went into the campaign on a short notice, and I did the best I could, and I took the verdict as the people's decision. I know that I got many, many votes from citizens whom you could not know about, and I appreciate their support more than I can say. I am deeply grateful for all the support I received, and especially to those who in so many ways did what they could to help. Although Peterborough is not represented in the government, we can still keep on trying to make it a better and happier place in which to live.

We conducted a clean campaign, and I can find no words to thank those who helped in carrying on the major part of our effort."

Mr. Glover's voice broke as he thanked the assembly for their kind remembrance of his wife. "I don't want you to think that my feeling is caused by the result of the election. It is not that, but at a time like this you can't help but think of those who turn out to work, and some how perhaps I let them down."

The gathering to a man called out dissenting "no, no," as Mr. Glover concluded his little impromptu speech.

"If Mr. Glover hasn't all the ballots he needed, he has all the friends that any man could hope for. No one stands higher in this riding than he does," Alderman Gordon remarked.

New Allied Front Reply To Nazi

LONDON, Mar. 29 — (CP). — Yesterday's meeting of the Allied Supreme War Council was "a final reply to all attempts to sow discord" between Great Britain and France, the Daily Mail said to-day.

"The Allied front becomes firmer," the newspaper said. "In war they ifght as one nation. After the war they will work together. There will be no separate peace with Germany on the part of either Allies. The two nations will not even discuss peace terms until the questions of security and guarantees have been settled.

"This clause is of unprecedented importance. It means that the

Fortescue Poll Gives Fraser 7

The last poll in West Peterborough to send in its result of Tuesday's voting gave a majority of two for the National Government candidate.

The electors in subdivision 35 at Fortescue in Cavendish township marked seven ballots for Gordon K. Fraser, the Manion candidate, and five for R. M. Glover, Liberal.

This return was received today by Vincent Eastwood, returning officer for this riding, but he has still to hear from the poll at Beraford in South Monaghan where, according to the Examiner's information Tuesday night, the vote was 63-46 in favor of Mr. Fraser. Officially, therefore, the final count is not yet available.

The present majority for the National Government candidate is around 140. Final totals will not be known until Tuesday, when the civilian vote here will be complete, with the returns from the soldiers to be added.

Apsley

Apsley was a busy village on Tuesday with people coming to vote at the Town Hall, and a great many staying on into the evening to listen to broadcasts of the election results.

The Apsley Women's Institute held their weekly card party on Tuesday evening at the Library building. Six tables of euchre were played. The ladies' high prize was won by Miss Melva Erwin, and the highest gentleman's by Mr. Harry Reed; consolations, Mr. Bob James and Miss I. Young. Some of the ladies served lunch. The hostesses for this party were Mrs. W. Lean and Mrs. McMullen.

The war service club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. Newberry. A large number of socks, 65 pairs in all, with 2 sweaters, 2 scarves and 8 or 10 pairs of mittens were packed ready to send to the Red Cross headquarters in Toronto for shipment to the boys overseas and in Canada.

Miss Jean Scott and Miss Ruth Nichols of Peterborough are spending the Easter vacation at their respective homes near Loon Lake.

Mrs. Skelcher and children are spending a few days with Mrs. C. McColl.

Warns Against Accepting Checks

J. E. Anderson, K.C., Crown Attorney, warned Lindsay citizens against accepting cheques from strangers. He said many had come to his office asking for advice when they had been victimized by cheque-artists and he said, in many cases, he could do nothing. "Persons who accept post-dated cheques are taking a very grave chance since a charge of false pretenses cannot be proven in the event the cheque proves worthless," he said. Mr. Anderson explained that the act provided for cases in the past or present but makes no mention of the future. "When a man gives you a post-dated cheque he is saying, in effect, that he has no money in the bank now but he hopes to have when you present the cheque for payment," he said.

Bill Irwin, young Kirkfield man and well known district athlete, is resting comfortably in Ross Memorial Hospital after an operation for appendicitis, today, but he owes his life to the efforts of some 50 men who shovelled and plowed a road to his home in time to get him to the Lindsay train at the Kirkfield Station. Suffering from acute appendicitis, an operation was imperative and had to be done at once. The weary men arrived at the station with the sick man just as the train arrived.

An 85-year-old hobo, who called himself "Old Joe", passed through Lindsay Wednesday night on his way to Peterborough. Calling himself a "weather forecaster" he predicted that Spring had arrived and that the backbone of winter had been broken. "You will find it raining within the next 24 hours," he said, "and the snow will be all gone in a week."

The old man, dressed in ragged clothing, said he had been a hobo since he was a man of about 20. "I have travelled this whole country and part of the United States as the guest of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. although they didn't know it," he said. He explained he was walking the highways now because he wasn't nimble enough to jump freights. "I have seen more of the country than many people with money but I haven't seen it from the windows of passenger coaches," he declared.

MRS. ELIZA ANN MAXWELL

Only two days after she had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Eliza Ann Maxwell died unexpectedly Thursday evening. She was 72 years of age.

Mrs. Maxwell left her home at 708 Armour Road the day before yesterday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Harry Starr, Carlisle avenue. A sudden illness seized her and she had to remain there, where death overtook her last night.

Mrs. Maxwell had been in poor health for some time past but her death was a severe shock to her many friends. She was a woman of unbounded courage, who bore her afflictions with cheerfulness. Her brilliant personality and genial nature made her a host of friends who will mourn her passing. She was a woman who possessed a great many sterling qualities in far more than ordinary measure, and Peterborough is the poorer through her passing.

Born in Ireland, in the County Fermanagh, she was a daughter of the late William Dean and Ellen Noble. She came to Peterborough 55 years ago from Ireland and had lived here since that time. She was a member of St. Luke's Anglican church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Harry Starr, Mrs. Oliver Green, and Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery, all of Peterborough; one son, Noble Maxwell of Peterborough; one brother, George Dean of Liverpool, England; and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Thompson of Lisnaskea, Ireland. Her husband, William Maxwell, died in 1917.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Starr, Carlisle avenue, to St. Luke's Anglican church for service at 2 o'clock, Rev. G. J. Bousfield officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

JAMES VINCENT O RIELLY

HASTINGS, March 29—(ENS)—Funeral of the late James Vincent O'Rielly of Toronto, who died at his home, 41 Ferrier Avenue, after an illness of five weeks, was held from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. John Sullivan of Hastings, to the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in Hastings, where the Libera was sung, prayers were said, the remains blessed and the sermon preached by the pastor, Father P. Costello. The late Mr. O'Rielly had been in a state of failing health for some months, but kept up at business as salesman for the Moyer School and Office Supply Company in Toronto until his fatal illness.

He leaves to mourn his sorrowing wife; one son, Emmett; one sister, Mrs. John Sullivan of Hastings, and one brother H. C. O'Rielly of Toronto. Floral tributes were received from Miss B. Bartley of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Shields of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McGuire of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons of Toronto, and from the firm for which he worked. The many spiritual offerings from friends and neighbors were consoling testimony of their esteem for the late Mr. O'Rielly.

Rev. J. V. Masterson of Peterborough, cousin of the deceased, assisted at the graveside services.

The pall-bearers, all members of the Catholic Order of Foresters of which the deceased was a member, were as follows: James Gibson, Ben Gibson, Timothy Walsh, William Armstrong, Paul Bailey, J. L. Doherty.

Among out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral were Miss Rita Coffey, Miss Madaline Gibson, Mrs. Jack Finlay, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Masterson, Patrick Masterson, all of Toronto; Casey Masterson, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Masterson, Mr. and Mrs. Hervert Masterson, , all of Peterborough; Mr. John Dunlay of Campbellford; Messrs. Hugh and Edward Oulehan of Grafton.

DAVID HEASLIP.

BAILIEBORO, March 29.— Following a brief illness of only a few weeks' duration, the death occurred on Sunday of David Heaslip, a well-known citizen of Bailieboro, in his eighty-fifth year.

Deceased was born and brought up on what is known as the Gore of Hamilton Township and never at any time did he live farther away than eleven miles from Bailieboro. He was a son of the late John Heaslip and his wife, Elinor Wood, and was one of a family of nine children, six sons and three daughters. Of these one brother, Thomas in B.C., Mrs. Armstrong, eighty-three years of age, Bailieboro, Mrs. E. B. Neil of Toronto and Mrs. John Simon of Port Briton, survive.

Davis Heaslip was predeceased by his wife some ten years ago. Most of their married life was spent in Bailieboro except for a few years they farmed in Hope township. Coming to the village Mr. and Mrs. Heaslip were proprietors of the Union hotel until it was destroyed by fire. He then conducted a butcher shop, and was a cattle buyer for Mr. Giddy of Port Hope. He was a great lover of horses and indeed kept a few good ones around him until quite recently. Mr. and Mrs. Heaslip were married sixty-four years and celebrated their golden wedding aniversary in 1935. This pioneer gentleman will be greatly missed, as was his kind wife.

Besides the brother and sisters already mentioned the other immediate srviving relatives include one son, John of Bailieboro, three daughters (Ida) Mrs. Gooderham, Winnipeg, (Gladys) Mrs. Westlake and (Pearl(Mrs. Joseph Hill, of Toronto. Two children predeceased their father. There also survive seven grandchildren and eight grandchildren.

Deceased was a member of Christ church, Bailieboro and was always ready to give assistance in any good cause. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

The funeral took place on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from Christ church, which was well filled for the service and was conducted by the minister, Archdeacon Simpson. In his address Mr. Simpson spoke very feelingly of the contribution Mr. Heaslip had made to the community and his faith in his Bible and Prayer Book. The hymns used were favorites of the deceased.

The pallbearers were selected by the deceased and were brother members of the C.O.O.F., of which the deceased was the last chartered member. Bearers were Charles Fisher, Reg. Perris, James McCamus, Gerald Armstrong, Fred Wood, Walter Boon of Toronto. The lodge preceded the funeral coach to the Bailieboro cemetery, the bearers walking on each side of the coach.

The service at the grave was in charge of Bros. Reginald Armstrong, Chief Ranger and Chaplain Walter Boon of Toronto and Thomas Welsh, C.F., Toronto, when the last rites were said over their departed brother member.

The lodge with almost impossible roads, was out in almost full strength to do honor to one of their number.

MRS. HANNAH HILLIER.

Mrs. Hannah Hillier died on Thursday at her home at 92 McDonnel Street, after an illness that lasted for three months. She had lived in Peterborough for the past 12 years, since the death of her husband, James Hillier. Formerly she had lived at Odessa, where she was born, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wiseman.

Surviving are three sons, Adam Hillier of Kingston, and Fred and Frank Hillier, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the late residence, Rev. W. McArthur of Bethany Tabernacle officiating. Interment will be made at Wilton, Ontario.

How a Department Runs

It is an open question as to what extent a cabinet minister is actually in control of his department. We say that because it so often happens that a member of parliament is selected for cabinet preferment without any previous experience in or knowledge of the work over which he is appointed to preside.

We were looking in the Parliamentary Guide in connection with a report that Hon. Dr. Manion considers it necessary to go away for a rest. He is a man of 58 and has been going day and night for seven weeks of campaigning, and when he goes on the platform he does not spare himself. He is the type of speaker who burns up a good deal of energy on every appearance.

In the list of appointments we find that when Mr. Meighen reconstructed his cabinet he selected Dr. Manion to be Minister of Soldiers' Civic Re-establishment. Later on he was appointed Postmaster-General in the Meighen ministry, and in 1930 in the Bennett government he was named Minister of Railways and Canals. In between times Dr. Manion was named in 1927 as a member of the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

There are other men who have had somewhat similar experience, but we use the case of Dr. Manion because he was referred to in the day's news. His experience had been that of a physician and surgeon, and his administrative training appears to have been limited to a term as alderman in Fort William. His services as physician and surgeon overseas may have given him insight into the needs of returning soldiers, but there was nothing in his previous experience to suggest that he should be Minister of Railways and Canals or Postmaster-General.

It must be that in all departments there are deputy-ministers and trained men of senior rank who have the affairs well in hand, and who are actually responsible for the successful operation of the department, but of them we hear little. The man who is named as Minister comes into public notice, but the machinery in the department is already operating nicely under the control of men who know all about it.

Not So Urgent

The election was not long over before there were rumblings in Ontario. Mr. Hepburn had put himself out of line with Liberals in the province by his attitude toward Prime Minister King. The belief was expressed in these columns several times that Mr. Hepburn could not split the Federal Liberals, but that he could split Ontario Liberals, and it looks as though something like that had taken place.

Toronto papers are running the usual interviews from people who occupy positions in the Liberal organization, and apparently there is a deal of dissatisfaction. It is one of those situations where it is easy to follow the line straight through. Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Drew joined hands to censure Prime Minister King and his war effort, and they did so under the name of the Ontario Legislature. The voters on March 26 indicated they had not paid much attention to Mr. Hepburn, as 55 of the 82 seats in this province went Liberal. Following that to its logical conclusion Liberal thought might well come to the conclusion that it was time for a change in leadership in Ontario. They would want something in this province which would accurately reflect their attitude as expressed on polling day.

Even though the situation exists as outlined here, we do not believe it comes under the general heading of being urgent. The Provincial Legislature is not entrusted with the conduct of the war, although judging from many of the addresses at the last session one might have come to the conclusion that our entire effort was centred in Toronto. The voters have pretty well taken the starch out of the provincial critics, and there are important matters facing the Dominion. More important for the moment than straightening out the Liberal leadership in Ontario. It may seem urgent to some, but it hardly qualifies in war years as something which cannot wait.

It Can't Be Done

The Financial Post advocates that we have a "pay-as-you-go" war policy for Canada. We know something of that scheme as applied to municipal financing in Peterborough because we used it on our relief expenditure. We have not piled up any funded debts that way for future taxpayers to liquidate.

But there are limits to the plan in a municipal sense. If there are local improvements to be undertaken and the payments have to be spread over a period of years the debenture plan is the only method which can be used with the approval of the Municipal Board.

We fear similar limitations will apply to Federal financing of a war effort. Undoubtedly in the previous war we borrowed too much money. While the war was on we were not paying the bills. This time we started paying war taxes about as soon as the conflict was under way, but we doubt whether we can do that to such an extent that we will have no added debt.

In 1919, the year after the previous war was over our expenditure for pensions, re-establishment, land settlement and war and demobilization had risen to $465,009,439. In order to settle such an account right on the spot it would have meant that each resident would have been called upon to contribute $46.50, that is on the basis of 10,000,000 population, or a family of five $232.50. And that would have been on top of all other taxation which such a family would have been meeting. We are quite certain it could not have been done in 1919, and equally certain it cannot be done in 1940.

There is much about the plan which is sound as can be, and we should follow it as far as possible, but in the following care is needed not to dry up the taxpayer to the point where we encounter that stubborn old law of diminishing returns. The taxpayer must live even while he is paying taxes. "Pay-as-we-go" is a good old rule but it's not safe for war financing in its entirety, because in war the nation has to go whether it can pay for it at the time or not.

She Downed The Editor

It seems to take a day or so to dig sufficiently into election returns and find familiar faces among the fallen. Mrs. Doris W. Neilsen is the new member for North Battleford, Sask., and as it was a straight fight between the lady and Cameron McIntosh, B.A., it means that Mr. McIntosh is out.

And right there appears to be a story. The new member, Mrs. Neilsen, is a graduate of a London college. For twelve years she has lived in a settlement belt near North Battleford in the two-room log cabin which her husband built, and he was a war veteran. He had to cut the trees to make the home, and in the years in between three children have arrived to make it merry.

Cameron McIntosh has a newspaper, the North Battleford News, and he has perhaps fallen into the habit of thinking he was in the House to stay. His riding is a big and a far-flung sort of affair, and Mr. McIntosh has been returned these past fifteen years. One of his hobbies was introducing resolutions favoring a distinctive Canadian flag, and he has been mentioned as a possible appointee as Librarian at Ottawa.

Mrs. Neilsen was a candidate of the Unity party, and she will be the one and only representative in the House of Commons. The fact that she was a pioneer living under pioneer conditions probably was in her favor in a riding where so many people have been doing—and still are—the same thing. Mr. McIntosh had been used to returning with comfortable majorities, but on this occasion the lady had a lead of 1,177, and for the first time out that also looks to be fairly comfortable.

The Auditor's Report

When the Finance Committee of the City Council was in session it was decided to proceed with the publication of the auditor's report, and to include therein the list of salaries paid to employees in all branches of civic service. There was a division of opinion, but Ald. Cotton, in casting the deciding vote for publication of salaries was on safe ground. One can secure government blue books and find there the complete salary list. Perhaps such publicity is one of the penalties paid by those who work for a municipality or a government, but when public money is involved there is no other safe course to follow.

The average auditor's report is not one which appeals to the public. If there are but 200 copies printed it means the circulation is limited. There are cities where the annual reports have been written in such a way that they form more of a year book, which brings comparative statements of each year into existence and tells the inquiring citizen just about what he wants to know. Tells him if this service or that service is costing him more than it used to, and how his taxes now compare with those in other years and so on. To a considerable extent such information is available in the Peterborough report.

The average citizen is not interested in reading through pages of figures, and with all due respect to him he often enough does not have a clear idea of what they are all about. Most of us are in that class. It would take some work and effort to change the regulation auditor's report into a more popular year book of the city's progress, but we believe that when accomplished it would meet with general approval.

Why Bring Her In?

The President of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association delivered his address in Toronto, and his theme was that the salaries of school teachers were too low. In time of war it is necessary to maintain strength on the home line, and one way to do that would be to have efficient and contented teachers to teach the children properly. Perhaps that is a good argument, but after thinking it over we came to the conclusion that it failed to register conviction.

We learn too that many of the teachers in Ontario schools are "being paid less for their work than girls were getting for binding the covers on the school books." So often we have seen arguments of that kind presented. Sometimes the comparison is made with the man who is working on the street, but this time it has swung to the girl who puts the binding on school books, and it is difficult to see why the comparison is used or what force there is in it.

The young lady who binds books knows a business; probably she had to spend some time learning it, and it may be that during seasons when there are few books to bind she may be idle. She gives value for what she receives in wages and she is in no way connected with the teaching which is done with the books on which she puts the binding.

Undoubtedly it would be better if school teachers of the lower salary standard could be brought up into the land of better pay. We heard that very point discussed by a gentleman from the country only a short time ago, and he put it this way:

"There are school teachers who are working for poor employers in some parts of the country, and by that I mean there are farming districts where money is not plentiful and where the farmers are doing without a good many things which they need. In that way the farmers themselves who are actually the employers of the teacher because they have to pay the bills, are hard up, and that's one reason why salaries are not higher."

But we are certain the girl who puts bindings on school books has nothing whatever to do with the salaries of teachers. She might well ask to be left out of the argument.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mr. King picked a day for voting when roads were blocked, but after the returns came in it seemed as though they had been blocked for the National Government party.

Russia now claims that much of its military equipment was "stolen" by the Finns. Perhaps that sounds better to Stalin than "captured."

Romeo St. Pierre withdrew from the contest in Quebec East so it would be more difficult for Hon. Ernest Lapointe to be elected. Romeo would not be much of a hand at picking winning horses, for Mr. Lapointe went in easily enough.

Ann Sheridan, who lives in Seneca Falls, N.Y., objects to being waited on and looked after so much. She is 108 years of age and feels she is old enough to look after herself.

Twenty years ago a man rode on a train in Illinois and did not pay the 36 cents due for the ride. He settled the bill the other day. The passenger apparently had a short ride but the bill had a long one.

Thieves in Ottawa cut into a strong box and took $4.65 in silver, and overlooked $20,000 in negotiable securities. If only half of the election speeches were right it must be that such oversight seldom takes place in Ottawa.

WEE ANGUS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Wee Angus reads the sporting page, with him most times it's all the rage, the prize ring takes his eye; he reads such stuff clean through and through, and figures what he's going to do, when he is six feet high.

¶ He cuts out pictures of them all, and pins them up around the wall, with fists in battle style; he reads about the purses too, and what they have when they are through, and marvels at the pile.

¶ There's cash in that, a good deal more, than trying to run the corner store, the man who ran it failed; he was in debt and so far stuck, Wee Angus says it was just luck, they didn't have him jailed.

¶ In summer when he's on the farm, and helps his uncle round the barn, he heard a tale of woe; he said they didn't get on very well, no money in the things they'd sell, the prices were too low.

¶ He read a story yesterday, they'd put one fighting man away, he took the count of ten; and everything was in a blur, they couldn't make him speak or stir, he lay with mangled men.

¶ His eyes were closed and black and blue, his jaw required a stitch or two, six teeth were not secure; Wee Angus read the story through, he's not decided what he will do—his ring career's obscure.

French Premier Not Very Tall, But A Fighter

DURING the first three years of the World War France had four different Premiers—Viviani, Briand, Ribot, and Painleve—but in November 1917 Clemenceau ("The Tiger") planted himself solidly in the saddle. Last November, when the French Chamber voted Premier Edouard Daladier virtual dictatorial powers to rule by the decree—subject to ratification within one month by the Chamber if in session — it seemed that France might be spared the political shifts of the last war and that Daladier would last at least "for the duration."

Last week, however, France became the first belligerent to drop its pilot in the present conflict. The Premier resigned following a secret debate in which he was criticized for the Allied failure to aid Finland in time and for the slow progress of the war against Germany. On the vote of confidence the count was 239 to 1 in favor of Daladier, but nearly 300 Deputies showed disapproval by refusing to vote.

German propaganda immediately broadcast that the French upset was a sign of political disunion—"a sort of 'Gotterdammerung' (Twilight of the Gods) among the French." And to some extent the "twilight" was a victory of Nazi secret propaganda in France, which for months had been trying to undermine Daladier's position by whispering campaigns, phony questionnaires, and other tricks. Although this wasn't weighty enough to bring on the Cabinet change, it did help disorganize opinion about the war.

When Daladier refused to form a new cabinet, President Albert Lebrun turned to Paul Reynaud, Daladier's brilliant Finance Minister who has put France on its feet economically. Reynaud's reward for this achievement has been the reputation in Nazi propaganda as a dangerous "agent of the City of London' 'and a reputation in France as the most brilliant new man in politics—a "tough little mountaineer with a hard head for business."

REYNAUD hails from the French Alpine village of Barcelonette, is only 5 feet 5, and looks far younger than his 62 years. He is so dapper that at a Hoover campaign meeting in New York in 1932 the crowd mistook him for former Mayor Jimmy Walker and shouted: "What are you doing here, Jimmy?"

A lawyer by profession, Reynaud is a moderate conservative politically and some thing of a lone wolf not afraid to bite. He resigned from the Flandin Democratic Alliance because of the pro-German sympathies of its leader during the Czech crisis, and bitterly opposed the Munich "settlement." And he kept a map on his office wall showing the progressive stages of German expansion in Europe.

Within 24 hours after his designation by President Lebrun, Reynaud had formed a new government. Daladier remained at the Defence Ministry, Reynaud himself took over Foreign Affairs (Daladier had held both posts). Vice Premier Camille Chautemps, Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi, and Colonial Minister Georges Mandel also kept their posts, while Laurent Eynac succeeded Guy La Chambre as Air Minister. Justice Minister Georges Bonnet — Foreign Minister at the time of Munich and consequently no popular hero—was left out.

For the first time since the Popular Front of 1936-38, Socialists were brought into the government. Three became Ministers — one, Georges Monnet, in charge of Blockade, got a seat on the Inner War Cabinet which is to meet thrice weekly—and two were made Under-Secretaries. This attempt to bring in more parties was a source of weakness at the outset, since both the Flandin and Marin groups, the staunchest Right-wingers, refused to co-operate.

However, Reynaud in his first statement as Premier pointed out that his Cabinet, like Clemenceau's famous World War setup, had 22 members and said that he would "faire la guerre" (make war) according to The Tiger's vigorous example. And the appointment of the War Cabinet of seven as well as of a special economic committee was designed to get around the unwieldiness of the large Cabinet. The War Cabinet, which will bear the brunt of the work, was made up of Reynaud, Chautempts, Daladier, Monnet, and the Ministers of Colonies, Finance, and Armaments.

But trouble lay just ahead. On March 22 Reynaud faced a Chamber that was noticeably cool. In a statement of policy remarkable for its brevity—it took only four minutes to read—the new Premier warned: "To win is to save all. To succumb is to lose all." In the vote of confidence that followed a heated debate 268 Deputies supported Reynaud, 156 opposed him, and 111 abstained—giving him a majority of only one.

The Cabinet went into a two-hour huddle, then announced its "duty" to carry on. The French press generally approved the decision to prevent a further crisis. And by this week Reynaud's majority had risen to seventeen. The real test in this shaky situation, however, will come when the Chamber reassembles after the Easter recess.

Letters To The Editor

DREW AND DISRAELI

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In your editorial headed "Drew and Disraeli" in the Examiner of March 27 you refer to the almost invariably misquoted and hardly ever fully quoted description of Gladstone by Disraeli. Perhaps the full story of the occasion and an accurate quotation of what Disraeli actually said may be interesting and it has some slight analogy to political happenings in Canada today.

In 1878 after the Russo-Turkish War, Disraeli and the Marquis of Salisbury went to Berlin to a conference where certain settlements were made in international affairs. They returned to England applauded as the apostles of the newly-coined phrase "Peace with honor."

Gladstone did not agree with the conditions and said so, and it was at a banquet in his honor at the Riding School at Knightsbridge Barracks in London on July 27, 1878, that Disraeli in his speech made the statement which was to become famous.

Referring to the then recently concluded Berlin convention and putting it to the British public as a jury he said: "Whom do you believe to be most likely to enter into an insane convention — a body of English gentlemen honored by the favor of their sovereign and the confidence of their fellow-subjects. Managing your affairs for five years, I hope with prudence and not altogether without success, or a sophisticated rhetorician inebriated with the exuberance of his own verbosity and gifted with an egotistical imagination that can at all times command an interminable and inconsistent series of arguments to malign an opponent and glorify himself."

His biographer wrote "there was not much evidence of statesmanlike dignity in the phrase which Disraeli actually used," but they are certainly in a higher plane than the "dyspeptic son of Mars" variety.

Yours truly,
C. H. I.

GOD IS LOVE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I am not writing this letter in a spirit of controversy but in Christian charity to take exception to the mention of and belief in an angry Father included in the Easter poem by Mr. George Leader. My friend, there was no angry Father, for do we not read in John 3:16 that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son," etc., and as regards our God being reconciled what do we read in 2nd Cor., chapt. 5; verses 18, 19, 20, namely that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself. What a difference. The power of the cross is the love that is in it, and God the Father was in the Son as He said, "The words I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, He doeth the works." Remember His words to Philip in the same chapter, "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father?"

Archdeacon Farrar in "The Messages of the Books" has this to say of the text in John's Epistle "God is Love" he says "That little sentence has brought to the world more comfort than all the world can bring beside. And from it springs at once the clear truth for us to grasp and the certain test for us to apply, that every offence against the law of love is a sin, and that every form of hatred whether it be in the form of murder, malice, slander, or the animosities of politicians or the lie of the calumnator or jealousies of religionists, all and every form of hatred is a positive proof that we are not of God and not of Christ for sinfulness is the life of Christ and sinlessness means obedience and love.

When Christ for us is Christ in us we shall know the truth of this. It has been well said that Christ died of a broken heart. I remember a sacred song which ran:

He died of a broken heart for me
He died of a broken heart;
Oh wondrous love it was for me
He died of a broken heart.

Sorrowfully I add another verse to the above:

He dies of a broken heart today
By millions crucified;
Oh Saviour may we once more know
Thou hast the grace defied.

WEST DRAYTON, ENG., THANKS PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Through the medium of your paper, The First Aid Post Staff, and Mrs. Robinson and myself (Mr. Robinson) wish to express our appreciation for the wonderful bale of Red Cross supplies sent to the West Drayton First Aid Post by the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion of Peterborough, Ont. To receive a bale like this direct from Canada is something to be proud of. Everyone here is delighted. I may state is became possible through Mrs. Cooke of Peterborough and Mrs. Robinson (her daughter) of West Drayton, Eng. Mrs. Robinson is busy, too, making comforts for the troops. We came to England about seven years ago and it seems strange to me that England should be at war again after twenty-five years.

During the last war I was with the 93rd Battalion in Peterborough having lived in Peterborough a number of years, I recall some good old times in the Armouries. I wonder how many remember "Ole Cole" and his ventrilocal doll and how "Ned" Hardy used to try and work it and plaster it with jam. I can see Ned smiling now as he reads this. But there are quite a few of the old 93rd passed on now and behind all the fun those who did not come back were not forgotten. And then there were the football teams. Who don't remember the Brintons, All Saints, the Nomads and St. James' and last but not least Tommy Moffat. Yes, I had some good times in Peterborough and my wife and myself hope to be back when things get a little more normal.

But things are not so bad over here. We still get three or four good meals a day and it is surprising the number of Canadians one runs into even in peace time. Well I guess I will ring off now by thanking once again all those who took part in supplying the contents of the bale, packing and despatching it. My wife and myself will be pleased to hear from anyone who cares to write.

Yours sincerely,
C. ROBINSON.

• Spain Is Cool Toward Hitler

LONDON—Perhaps the greatest disappointment to Nazi Germany and the greatest relief to Britain and France has been the cool, aloof attitude of Franco Spain.

Hitler counted on two things from Spain:

1. Regardless of British sea power, he hoped Germany would get iron ore, copper and mercury from Spain in payment for war supplies General Franco received from Germany during the civil war.

2. He believed General Franco would adopt such an equivocal, if not semi-hostile attitude, that France would find it necessary to divert several hundred thousand troops to watch the frontier between France and Spain.

On form, Hitler's expectations were not without good ground. He had intervened in the civil war on Franco's side after signing a non-intervention agreement with Britain and France. His Condor Legion, air squadrons, and technicians played a considerable part in fighting the republican government of Madrid.

In January, 1939, Franco made a cultural agreement with Germany, so that, by study, each nation would have a closer and friendlier knowledge of the other. In April, 1939, Franco signed the anti-Comintern pact.

So Franco was shocked beyond measure at news that Hitler and Stalin had signed a pact.

Then Franco had his next surprise, for France dissolved the Communist party, as it entered the war, and suppressed Red activities. France sent as ambassador to Spain Marshal Petain, the hero of Verdun, who is well-liked in Spain and who smoothed the way to closer relations.

The old-time friendship between Spain and Britain was also resumed. Britain has always been the principal buyer of Spanish oranges and sherry.

The final blow for Franco came when Russia made war upon Finland, and Hitler kept the ring clear for Stalin by holding up Italian supplies for the Finns and threatening Sweden and Norway.

The Franco regime had reasons to be grateful to Finland. During the civil war, the Finnish minister in Madrid took under his protection many friends of Franco and preserved their liberties and lives as long as he could.

The new Falagnist paper, "Alcazar," organized a reception to the Finnish minister to show Spanish sympathy for Finland's cause.

Just before the European war started, the Germans organized a trading monopoly to get minerals Germany needs. Part of this was to be in payment for German war material furnished during the civil war. Part was to have been paid for by the barter system.

There was a fleet of German freighters in Spanish ports ready for loading. They are still huddling there. Many of them have no cargo because the war has put a stop to the whole trading scheme. Apparently, no new Spanish minerals will go into German shells.

Federation Of European States On Economic Basis Only Hope For Future After War

Europe's only hope for the future is that at the end of the war a loosely-knit federation of states on an economic, but not a political, basis will be established, Miss Julia Matouskova, Czecho-Slovakian refugee, told an audience at the Y.W.C.A. Thursday night.

Former General Secretary of Y.W.C.A. in what was Czecho-Slovakia she left her country when Germany marched in, and she is now an associate educational director of the association in Canada. A graduate of famed Prague university, and of equally famed Vassar college in the United States, she told in eloquent form the story of her little country's existence and fate.

She had no illusions that a United States of Europe, with a central government such as the United States of America boasts, could be formed from the wreckage that will be Europe after the end of World War II. For, she pointed out, too long have peoples there lived their own national lives, too firmly rooted are their traditions and their separate cultures. Only will it be possible, and absolutely essential, to insist that all states relinquish some of their sovereignty. "Those states have existed for too many thousands of years to be moulded into one," she said.

Hapsburgs No Solution.

To those who see a panacea for all European troubles in the effusive Central European aspirations of the Hapsburgs, she gave vigorous denial. "The Hapsburgs are not a solution," she declared, "so far as Czecho-Slovakia is concerned. They are not our dynasty. We are Slavs, they are Germans." She called to mind that Archduke Otto is to visit Toronto shortly, and asked her listeners to remember her words when he spoke there in favour of such a solution. "People are going to say the Hapsburgs would be a good solution to the problem of Central Europe. We answer unhesitatingly, no!" she declared.

Miss Matouskova told of the experiences of Czechs with the Hapsburgs in the 17th century. Few people, she claimed, realize that the modern state of Czecho-Slovakia, lies on the same ground, contains the same Slavic people, as did the old state of Bohemia that was in existence as far back in history as 1,000 years ago. Nevertheless, such is the case, and in the 17th century it was absorbed into the old Austrian Empire, ruled over by the Hapsburgs. Racial differences, differences of religion—the Hapsburgs are Roman Catholic, the Czechs predominantly Protestant—cultural differences, political differences, all made for dissatisfaction and thousands emigrated to other lands, "just as they are doing today," she said, claiming that the result would be the same if the Hapsburgs were to rule there again.

Supports Peace Treaty.

She told of the work of the late Jan Masaryk, founder of the modern Czecho-Slovakian state, in enlisting the support of President Woodrow Wilson at the Peace Conference that ended the Great War. And she came out bluntly in support of the Versailles Treaty that followed. "We Czecho-Slovakians very much object to the widespread opinion that the Versailles treaty created artificially, these states such as ours. These people wanted to be free." Mistaken too, she said, is the idea that the treaty patched up countries by grouping opposing races when it suited their purpose. "The Versailles treaty did quite a good job in drawing national lines," she said. "Only three per cent remained under foreign rule in all Europe. That is a very small percentage as compared with Europe before the war, or since the rise of Hitler."

But even that decent arrangement, she declared, was not able to do away with minority groups, for they still existed in every country, from France to Russia, and including Switzerland, Denmark, Finland, and all the others. Nor is it possible ever to do away with those minority groups, she believed. "It is our conviction that democracy is the only way in which justice cain be accorded to small groups that differ nationally, racially, politically, or religiously, from those in whose countries they find themselves," she said. Totalitarian states by their very nature she ruled out as impossible for the welfare of small groups of people who wish to maintain their own way of living.

Case of Jews, Poles and Czechs

For proof of that point she turned to modern Germany, citing the case of the Jew, the Pole, and the Czech at the present time. All are faced with a policy of extermination in order that those separate lines may be broken down. She related that in Prague after the German seizure, Czechs were forced to register at branch offices of German federal headquarters. They were told that there was plenty of work, but that all of it was within the borders of Germany proper. Groups were transported to widely separated points in Germany to take over work in factories and in fields, in order that Germans might be free to enter the army, and in order that the Czech people should cease to exist as an entity. The same is now true, she claimed, of Poles, and so the people of both those countries are actively helping Germany against the Allies, willynilly.

She saw great hatred for Germany resulting from World War II, both by participants and by neutrals who, because of Hitler, must keep on guard and run themselves into bankruptcy by the cost of keeping an army prepared. Germany will face complete isolation—and that is one thing that cannot be permitted lest the war be fought in vain, she declared.

New Profession Needed

It was upon that claim—that understanding and co-operation must come after the war—that she made her plea of the evening: a plea for a great force of "international missionaries." The world must have a new profession: a profession whose qualifications shall be devoted idealism backed by sound economic training. These men must be willing to sacrifice from ten to twenty years of their lives in seeing that co-operation is really given a chance in the Europe that shall follow the peace. "A peace plan won't work without those people," she declared. "You can't just lay down ideals and take it for granted that they will work out. There must be referees." And in that work she saw the neutrals of this war playing a great and necessary part, for only they will be able to bring a certain amount of calmness and impartiality to the task.

The lecture was sponsored by the Educational Committee of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. T. J. Carley occupied the chair.

The Press Goes Esthetic With Scented "Ads"

Something new in advertising—a perfumed advertisement—made its appearance in a St. Louis newspaper last week. The "ad" bore the aroma of the product advertised, a brand of perfume. And here is how it was done. At LEFT you see a pressman pouring scented ink into the press fountain on which the "ad" was printed. At RIGHT, a young lady takes a sniff of the ad and decides she likes the aroma. We shudder to think of the consequences should the cheese manufacturers decide to follow the perfumer's example.

Plainville Electors Resort To Horses

PLAINVILLE, Mar. 29 — (ENS). The electors at this constituency certainly earned their right to vote on Tuesday after travelling over the roads they had. The polling booth was in Louis Buttar's home at Plainville. The county plough cleared the county road from Cobourg to Gore's Landing three times on Monday, but was unable to keep the road open. Voters coming from Gore's Landing travelled by sleigh through the fields east of the county road and from the west travelling was done in fields each side of the road with snow up to the horses' backs. But they came, showing pioneer spirit, will triumphed over weather hindrances, and each one did his bit for his candidate.

The Young People's Union held its weekly meeting at the Herriott home on Tuesday evening. Bill Benson was convener of the program. Miss Mary Herriott gave the topic, "Embarrassing Moments."

Says Fire Loss Can Be Cut By Using Spray

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29 — (ENS):—Claiming that losses from fires during threshing operations had exceeded half a million dollars in the past five years, Carl W. Caskey, inspector, Fire Marshal's office, Toronto, told the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen who met in Cobourg Thursday afternoon for their fourteenth annual convention that this loss could be cut to five per cent. if a water spray was used at the base of the blower.

Mr. Caskey, who was one of the principal speakers at the convention which was attended by more than one hundred delegates from this district, declared that greater care in the past five years had resulted in losses being cut by $80,000.00.

Other speakers during the afternoon session were Charles Poynton and William Anderson, Provincial engineers of the Department of Highways, both of whom emphasized the damage done to low cost bituminous roads by tractors with cleats. Mr. W. A. Fraser, M.P., was guest speaker at the banquet held in the evening.

Membership Doubled.

The joint executive meeting of the Eastern and Western branches expressed themselves as being in favor of even greater co-operation and pointed to the fact their organization had more than doubled its membership in the past three years. Already affiliated with the Ontario Chamber of Agriculture, the executive appointed W. J. Dawson of Peterborough to act as a voting delegate in the Chamber. Peterborough was named as the seat of the convention next year and arrangements were made to extend the meeting for two days. Officers for the Eastern section were elected as follows:

Wooler School Case For Supreme Court

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29 — (ENS).—The County Council will take their case involving payment of $1,760.00 claimed by the Wooler Continuation School to the Supreme Court of Canada, it was announced Thursday at a special session called by Warden W. H. Morrow. The fight which had been dragging through the courts since last fall was recently re-opened when the Ontario Court of Appeals reversed a decision previously given in favor of the county, and should the judgment be sustained by the Supreme Court a precedent that might cost considerably more would have been established. The special session was held in camera.

Albions Well Up, Leading Wolves 4 Points

LONDON, Mar. 29 — (CP Cable). —Easter holiday games brought little revision of positions among championship contenders in the United Kingdom's regional soccer groups. Full schedules are carded in the various competitions for the week-end.

Brilliant play by West Bromwich Albion in its last three contests netted the Midland leader 12 goals, while its defence was pierced only three times. The victories boosted the Albion's total to 34 points, four more than the challenging Wolverhampton Wanderers, but the Wolves have two games in hand. The Wanderers play at Walsall to-morrow and Northampton Town is visitor at West Bromwich.

Two losses in a row may cost Newcastle United the North-east group title. The team now is in second place three points behind Huddersfield Town, host to Leeds United on Saturday. In the North-west, Bury remains out in front with a slight margin over Preston North-End. Both contenders are likely to pick up points. Bury from Southport and the rival Preston from Blackburn Rovers.

West Ham United and Crystal Palace lead London and Southern English squads competing in South C and South D divisions. The Hammers clash with Chelsea at Stamford Bridge and Crystal Palace will meet tough opposition at Bournemouth.

Three victories in a row for Queen of the South have tightened up the race for the Scottish West championship. Holiday games resulted in the Dumfries club drawing a tie with Rangers for first-place honors and both teams are likely to take maximum points to-morrow in home games. The Light Blues tackle Morton and Queen of the South entertains Queen's Park.

Hornets Perk Up To Whip Bears

(By the Canadian Press.)

As scrappy a team as they come Pittsburg Hornets are back in the running to-day for the International-American Hockey League championship.

The Hornets were beaten soundly by Hershey Bears in the first game of their semi-final playoff series, but they fought back last night for a 4-2 victory that forced a deciding game in the best-of-three series.

Winner of the third game will meet Providence Reds for the league crown. The Reds blanked Indianapolis Capitals 2-0 last night in the decided game of their best-of-five round.

Little Sammy McManus and veteran Tony Aurie shared the glory in the Pittsburg victory. Both had a hand in three goals, with identical records of a goal and two assists.

Lorne Duguid and Harry Currie were the other scorers for the Hornets who took a 2-1 lead in the first period and were never headed.

Harry Frost and Terry Reardon scored for Hershey.

Indians are again to be employed on South African railways.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

TAMPA, Fla., March 29.—(AP).—Ival Goodman, Cincinati Red's crack outfielder, still is the target for injuries. The slugger, who was lost for a good part of last season as the result of an injury in the all-star game, was left behind when the Reds went to Havana recently for fear of something happening. So yesterday he was "pinked" on the back of his right hand by one of Cliff Melton's fast balls and will be on the shelf a few days.

SARASOTA, Fla.— Boston Red Sox will break camp to-day after playing their Louisville farm hands. After being rained out of two consecutive games, Manager Bucky Harris is eager to subject his pitching staff to another minor league test before the club heads northward in the company of the Cincinnati Reds.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Fears of certain young Detroit Tigers that they might be traded "down the river" to St. Louis Browns apparently were ill founded. Donald Barnes, president of the Browns, was in town but not to buy or trade. He was reported seeking to lure the Tigers to San Antonio, Tex., for training next spring—to give the Browns Big League competition at their home camp.

HAVANA, Cuba.—Lyn Lary is the latest player to get a chance at St. Louis Cardinals' wide-open third base slot and it is believed the veteran will get every break now that some of the rookies have been weeded out. Lary made his first appearance against the Cuban all-stars yesterday as Don Padgett also broke into the line-up as catcher.

Westwood Team Given Banquet

WESTWOOD, Mar. 29 — (ENS). —The members of Westwood boys' hockey club were honored on Wednesday evening in Wesley Hall by the members of the Women's Institute at a banquet. The boys were successful in winning the Edwards Cup in the recent East Peterborough Rural League—an unusual feat of being winners for three successive years and now becoming permanent holders.

The table, accommodating fifty guest swas decorated in a yellow and green color scheme, with the coveted trophy occupying the centre place. Cut flowers and yellow and green candles in silver holders completed a beautiful arrangement. A sumptuous meal was served to the boys and their lady friends, and also to the members of the Asphodel Council, who with their wives or lady friends were special guests.

Following the banquet the boys were welcomed and congratulated by the Institute president. Mrs. J. Clysdale. A toast to the King was followed by the National Anthem. Speeches were given by William Renwick, manager, Walter Mortlock, William Green, Everett Morris, Bert Mortlock, Col. Hilliard Neilson, James Healey, Edward Sargent, and James Humphries.

The guests then adjourned to the Town Hall, where progressive crokinole was played. Winners of prizes were: Mrs J. Clysdale for ladies and E. W. Sargent for gentlemen. The carrying prize was won by Bruce Graham. An hour's dancing was enjoyed, and brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Those attending included: Mr. and Mrs. J. Clysdale, Col. and Mrs. H. Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Renwick, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mortlock, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barrie, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. W. CITY BOWLING NEWS

Close scores featured last night's City League games at Duffus Alleys. Tom Curvin, the veteran anchor-man for Duffus had the big individual count, 854, and was the only man to hit over 800. George Walton with 362 toped the six big singles which were dished out. Bill Harris and Tom Bagnall hit 314, Charlie Low 305, Ossie Price 302 and Tom Curvin 302.

Duffus' chalked up another three points when they edged out Grafton's. Capitol Grill's 3 to 1 win over Jay's put them in third place, Gordon's took all four counters from Lock Works while Grants 3 to 1 decision over C.G.E. temporarily stopped the latter teams' onward march of the last few weeks.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

And so, ladeez and gentulmen, you'd better hurry along if ya haven't already got your ducats for the big playoff fray along the Rue Brock tonight. With little rhyme but a lot of reason, we'll put it this way, whilst whistling "The Red River Valley":

From this valley the puck scene is fading,
'Twill be missed muchly after tonight
In the year's biggest rubber blitzkreig,
The Kitchener-Petes' playoff fight.

Come and sit in awhile then this evening,
Yes, come bid these finalists adieu;
Make haste ere the ice box is sold out—
Take a hot tip from Scribe O'Perdue!

* * * * * *

It's Kitchener Greenshirts vs. the Petes tonight in the first of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" finals—and the last game to be seen on local ice this semester, seeing as how it'll be April next week. Running true to form (they don't think any more of money than we do of our left leg) the O.H.A. ordered it to be a three-in-five series! But why not best in seven, or five out of nine? We trust it's over by the time baseball starts. Second game is Monday in Kitchener, then back here (or maybe in Oshawa) on Wednesday and back to Kitchener again the following Friday. Ho, hum.

* * * * * *

When We Were Young

One can't help recalling tonight the heyday of Irvin Bailey, Frank Collins, Biff Ranger, Snap Parker, Bert McLeod, Joe Dwyer, et al, the old bunch of Petes who brought fame and puck glory to Peterborough over a decade ago. What a lineup that was! And what a lineup they had out on Brock from the arena and down George St. to the bank! A grand gang who made hockey history here; but the bunch you'll see garbed in local livery tonight are also making puck history in this town.

* * * * * *

Cash customers in the Brock Avenoo this eve will see a faster team of Petes than the 1936 champs. No, don't get us wrong, we simply mean that the modern trend in hockey calls for sustained speed. In the old days, there were no forward passes, few subs and consequently the fastest player was a tired guy before the end of the game. Nowadays, complete new teams (but for the goalies) are tossed out on the ice every three or four minutes, and the boys just hustle at breakneck speed from start to finish. It's streamlined hockey now, calling for more speed and not as much stamina. There are also rousing bodychecks now to lend interest.

* * * * * *

It's The Petes' Year

It is many years since such a fast-stepping, classy young band of Petes has been gathered together—and 'twill be many more again. This is the Petes' year. Coach Frank Buckland has an ace goalie in Ray Harding; okay defencemen in Don Crowe, Drake Jopling, Jack Gardner and Jim Ellis; and a fine flock of forwards in Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon, Art Heal, Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin, Joe Blewett, Jack Jopling and Les Burton. With Earl McNabb the extra goalie. All fast, rugged, full of fight, young and ambitious. And they have hockey brains. A mighty classy crew.

* * * * * *

Nor will the locals coast by without showing all their wares tonight. Not by a coal-bin full—not against such smart gees as the Messrs. Bindernagel, Simon, Lederman, Bauer, Grau, Vrooman, Kuntz, Lorentz, Huber, Hause, Clair and Fehrenbach. Keep your eyes peeled on Nos. 6, 7 and 8 (Grau, Bauer and Vrooman) on the first line, and the ex-pro, big Gamey Lederman (No. 3), on defence. We get sympathetic pains every time he hits a guy! Yeah, the Greenshirts are good, in fact both squads are of provincial finalist calibre—and the packed rink of payees will see a lulu of a playoff classic here tonight. Or we'll wax the moustache and get a job of gigolo-ing it. Heavens!

* * * * * *

Toronto Dead Centre?

Vic McKenty of the Kitchener Record writes: "After getting one glimpse of the Petes and Greenshirts in action here on March 8th, Twin City fans found themselves hoping these clubs would meet in the O.H.A. finals. That hope became a reality the other night when Greenshirts won a 4-1 victory in Owen Sound to oust the northerners and qualify for the finals against Petes. These teams are tied for the top spot each with 13 points. To show how evenly matched they are, the goal totals prove it. In eight games Greenshirts scored 39 times and had 20 goals scored against them. Petes scored 37 in eight games and also had 20 registered against them." Announcing the five-game final series, the Kitchener columnist says that a fifth game, if necessary, would undoubtedly be at Maple Leaf Gardens, which is almost dead centre between the two cities. But is it correct to call Toronto "a dead centre"?

* * * * * *

Big basketball offering here this week-end will be the L.O.B.A. playdown encounter between two classy girls' teams Saturday eve at seven in the Y.W. gym. If's St. Catharines against the local Orfuns, and rates a big crowd of hoop followers as these are among the best ladies' cage clubs in the province. Dunno yet when the men's City Loop finals get under way, as some of the finalists are on St. Paul's O.C.B.A. team, which may play a semi-final match in Toronto this week-end—if they don't again hit an executive snag. Basketball season here is nearing an end.

Railbirds Look The Millionares Over

TORONTO, March 29 — (CP). — Railbirds at Maple Leaf Gardens will get an opportunity today to size up Sydney Millionaires and Kirkland Lake Blue Devils, who open their best of three game series in the eastern Canada senior amateur hockey semi-finals here Saturday night.

For Blue Devils, it will be merely a light work-out, as they already have had an opportunity to get the feel of the Gardens. They played the first two gamees of their all-Ontario championships against Toronto Goodyears there—and found the rink much to their liking.

Following Kirkland Lake, the Maritime champions will skate on the ice for a stiffer work-out as they have been idle since they ousted Hull Volants from the Allan Cup playdowns in three straight victories.

The possibility of brother-versus-brother act being staged in the first game faded as managed Doc Ames of Kirkland Lake announced that Jo Jo Graboski would probably miss the first game of the series because of a shoulder injury that kept him out of the last two games his team played against Goodyears.

Graboski's brother, Tony, younger and huskier, has been the backbone of the Maritime team.

Eight carefree skiers drove out to some hills near a place called Bethany last Saturday to see what they could find. The trip out was easy and inside of an hour and a half they were gliding swiftly and silently down the tortuous trails having a wonderful time. A breeze was blowing but they didn't care. They met some people who said they had come from a place called Toronto, and together they skied up and down, in and out, swiftly, slowly, gracefully, awkwardly. It was grand. A wind was blowing but they didn't care. They gathered around the big stove and ate hot-dogs, chocolate, dough-nuts and had a wonderful time. A gale was blowing but they didn't care. Then they all jumped into a sleigh and drove noisily down to the village as the sun was setting beyond the hills. They said goodbye to their new-found friends from the big city and started for home. A cyclone was blowing but they didn't care. Some very wise old sage said the snow was drifting but they didn't care. They could get through.

So they started. Yes. Six o'clock they started. They shoveled; and the wind blew, harder and harder. The snow drifted; higher and higher. They pushed, shoveled; and the wind blew. Nine o'clock came, at which point our know-it-alls had covered exactly three miles. Defeated, they turned back and were taken in with proverbial southern hospitality after burning up the wires to Peterborough, far beyond the snowdrifts.

Came eleven o'clock with a glorious turkey dinner at Fallis', a masterpiece in culinary art. Came bedtime; when the perfect host and hostess intervened to save the day, none other than those friends from Toronto with who our weary wanderers had been skiing. Yes, it was a little crowded but they didn't care. They already had four guests so what did eight more matter? Then came Swissy and the Veil, the Lady in Red, Auld Lang Syne, The Lady with the Downhill Profile and so far into the (Evening?)

Morning, and no snow plow. More skiing, and it was wonderful skiing. Wonderful people. The wind was still blowing but, Ah! they were beginning to worry. Back to the village and still no word of the snow plow. No one even knew where it was. Four of our little party said their good-byes and set off cross-country for the open highway; and to find the snow plow. Two miles, no plow. Four miles, no plow. Six miles, still no plow. Cavan. Ah! at last like a giant liner riding a heavy sea came the plow. Our four adventurers ingnominiously completed their journey thumbing their way to town. The other four? They returned the following day after the road was finally opened; as did our friends from Toronto. The wind was blowing, but they didn't care. So went the week-end at Bethany.

The Laurentian trip? Sorry, but the lead type melted after we set it up so it will have to wait until we can get some asbestos paper or perhaps you already have the story from an eye-witness.

Calgary Sweeps Smokies Out By 6-1

WINNIPEG, March 29.—(CP). — Calgary, which has never won a western senior hockey championship, is represented in the western final this year by a team strong encugh to knock over the present holders of the world amateur title in three straight games.

Calgary Stampeders battered Trail Smoke Eaters down to 6-1 defeat at Calgary last night to sweep the best of five series. Smoke Eaters, who won the Allan Cup in 1938 and toured Europe last season, winning the world title in Switzerland, were outclassed by the Alberta champions who won the first game 3-0 at Trail and the second 5-2 in Calgary.

Trail's protest of the first game on grounds Calgary played an ineligible man was thrown out by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association executive. I was ruled that Joe Shannon, who played a year ago in Nelson, B.C., made his home in Calgary and could not be regarded as an "import." Stampeders have four other "imports"—the limit permissible.

Port Arthur Bear Cats, 1939 Allan Cup champions, seem certain to be Stampeders opposition for on home ice they scored a second consecutive 6-1 victory over the Saskatchewan titleholders. Third game of the best-of-five series will be played in Regina to-morrow.

Port Arthur juniors did not fare so well. Opening a best-of-three western junior semi-final series from with Kenora Thistles, Manitoba champions, the Ports lost 5-4 when Vin Jorgenson of Thistles broke a tie with just 11 seconds left to play. The second game will be played here to-morrow.

The other western junior semi-final continues at Edmonton to-morrow between Edmonton and Regina.

DETROIT WINGS ARE OUSTED, NEW YORK RANGERS BEAT BOSTON

12-Minute Fight Features Leafs 3-1 Win

DETROIT, March 29—(CP).—Toronto Maple Leafs awaited an opponent for the Stanley Cup finals today for the third time in three years, but the National Hockey League never before witnessed a scene such as marked their entry to the last stage of the play-offs.

The Maple Leafs stepped through the semi-finals last night by defeating Detroit Red Wings 3-1 in a game that ended with what every authority in attendance called the wildest free-for-all in the league's history. The Leafs took the best-of-three round in straight games.

From the bitter battle of wrestling, fist-swinging and hockey, Hank Goldup of Toronto club emerged as the hero with two goals. Robert (Red) Heron scored the other Toronto goal, while Syd Howe got Detroit's counter with 40 seconds to play.

Gus Marker

After Howe's goal the battle started, though there had been flare - ups all night. Gus Marker of the Leafs and Sid Abel of Detroit collided at the Toronto blue line.

"He high-sticked me and I give him the butt end in the tummy," Gus said afterwards. "Then people piled in."

All Join The Fray

Players dropped their sticks to fight. Over the boards piled those who had been on the benches. Captain Red Horner of the Leafs and centre of much of the early scrapping, came off the penalty bench.

Paired off, the combatants slugged one another from one end of the rink to the other. Then melees of four, five and 10 players would develop. A fresh fight would start and some of the duellists would drop what they were doing to rush to the new battle.

It stopped after 12 minutes because everybody got tired. Referee Teddy Graham, a former Red Wing player, wiped off the ice-chips his clothes had gathered while he sprawled in half a dozen melees. Then he conferred with Frank Calder, the league president, and the other official on the ice, Linesman Donie McFayden.

Every player had come over the boards—there were 17—drew a $25 fine. Abel and Marker got misconduct sentences and Horner, for coming from the penalty bench where he had been serving a tripping term, got a $25 fine, another minor penalty and his second misconduct penalty of the night.

Red Horner

"Sure, I have fought with players all over the league and I've been cut open and I've led the league in penalties for years," Horner said. "But I've never seen anything like that before."

No Sticks Used

Coach Dick Irvin of Toronto said: "We were lucky that we didn't come out of that thing with a lot of serious injuries that would have put a tremendous handicap to us for the finals. The only decent thing that can be said about that free-for-all was the fact that no player swung a stick. They dropped their sticks and gauntlets and fought with bare fists."

Trouble started in the second period. Alex Motter of Detroit and Horner came together early and Motter swung at the Toronto captain. They were pulled apart and given penalties.

At the penalty bench Motter harangued Horner and the red head dropped him with a right to the temple that raised a huge bump. Again they were pulled apart, but a woman spectator clouted Horner from behind with her hand bag and he had turned around to strike out again when he saw who his antagonist was.

All Ready

F. JOPLING

Hockey Playoff Is On Here Tonight At 8:30

Sports history will be made here tonight when Kitchener Greenshirts and the Petes mix in the first of their three-in-five O.H.A. intermediate "A" final playoff games at 8.30 in the Brock Street arena. It will be the latest an O.H.A. final was ever staged in Peterborough, and the first time since 1926 that the Petes' intermediates (or seniors) have reached the Ontario finals. A record crowd is expected to jam the building this evening to see these provincial finalists clash in the biggest game of the year, and it promises to see fur flying from start to finish.

Blinding speed, classy hockey and some stiff bumping will be dished up by these smart and well-matched finalists in a hockey classic. Breaking even so far this winter in two games, it is just a tossup which club will cop the pennant by a close score. Both teams are at top strength for this game and the strongest lineups will take the ice at the start. The advance sale of tickets, even at playoff rates, is huge and it should be a sellout crowd by game time.

Lone Pratt Goal Sees Rangers Whip Bruins 1-0

BOSTON, March 29—(CP).—New York Rangers, individually, set down the value of Babe Pratt's latest goal today in the neighborhood of $800, by far the highest valued of the few the big baby-faced defenceman from Kenora, Ont., has scored in his few seasons as a professional hockey player.

The $800 is approximately the difference in playoff money for each player on a team in the Stanley Cup semi-final and the players on a club in the final. And there wasn't a Ranger around town who wasn't absolutely, positively certain the Blueshirts would be in the final against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Pratt did for the Rangers last night what the betting men and thousands of fans thought wasn't possible. He smashed home a goal after four minutes and 27 seconds of the third period, giving the Rangers a 1-0 victory over the champion Boston Bruins on their home ice, and a lead of three games to two in their best-of-seven semi-final.

Babe Pratt

The sixth game will be played Saturday night in New York, where the Bruins have won only once in 11 games and have been shutout in their last three starts.

44 Scoreless Minutes

For two periods the teams, who had won two games each before the home fans, traded checks and rushes evenly. As usual the odd play burst past the defences at either end and, as usual, goalies Frank Brimsek and Dave Kerr had turned the opposition back. That went on for 44 minutes.

Then the Bruins made the mistake of leaving Pratt partially unchecked by the crease. Alex Shibicky fed him a 10-foot pass from the left boards and Pratt put it through Brimsek. It was the third straight shutout for Kerr in the series.

The Bruins came out of the fray, a thrilling, hard-bumping 60 minutes, in worse shape than when they went in with Desse Smith and Mel Hill so seriously injured they could not play. Before they were through, Art Jackson fractured two bones in his right ankle and captain Dit Clapper wrenched his left ankle.

The Bruin management recalled centre Terry Reardon from Hershey Bears of the International-American League to replace Jackson for Saturday's game. It is probable that Clapper and Smith will play then but Hill, injured in the second game, will remain out of action because of an injured leg.

Lindsay Curlers End Season With A Banquet

LINDSAY, March 29—(ENS).—More than 150 Lindsay curling enthusiasts attended the annual curling banquet held in Marsh Memorial Hall Wednesday night to wind up winter activities and to present cups and prizes to rinks which triumphed during the season. President James Mackey reported that 413 rink games were played during the year and nine bonspiels were held. The Lindsay club sent 67 rinks to outside competitions and entertained 78.

The rink skipped by Graydon King was presented with the J. D. Flavelle Memorial Trophy for having won the club championship. Stuart A. Flavelle made the presentation. Personnel of the rink was: Dr. W. A. Woodrow, Al. Perry, Bruce McCarty and Skip King.

President Mackey presented to his son, Lynden Mackey, skip of the Ontario Junior Tankard winners, the trophy. It is unique in records of the Lindsay club that a father presented his son with a trophy. The personnel of the junior tankard rink was: Neil Deyell, Allan Henry, Jack Beal and Skip Mackey.

Verdun Captures Quebec Crown

(By the Canadian Press.)

There's a note of similarity to this season's Memorial Cup playdowns in Eastern Canada and those of a year ago.

When Verdun Maple Leafs won the Quebec crown last night they became the third junior team in the East to retain their district title, and there's a strong possibility that Oshawa Generals will make it four out of five.

The Maple Leafs, who beat Quebec Aces 5-1 last night and 7-5 in the two-game total goals series, joined Charlottetown Royals and Perth Blue Wings as repeat performers.

Only the North Bay Trappers, dethroned as Northern Ontario champions by Dome Porcupines, are definitely non-repeaters.

Perth already has accounted for Charlottetown in the first round of Memorial Cup play, just as they did a year ago. They hope the coincidence won't go too far, however, for in the next round they meet the Maple Leafs who put them out last season.

The Quebec-Verdun game was the only one in the East last night, either in junior or senior series. The senior playdowns continue to-night at Verdun where Sherbrooke Red Raiders meet Joliette Cyclones in the second game of the Quebec semi-final.

Raiders won the first game of the total goals round 11-6 and by winning, or protecting their margin to-night, will qualify to meet Montreal Royals in the Quebec final.

Confident Joe Books Seat For 11 p.m. Train

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP).—There's a reservation on the 11.45 p.m. train to Chicago to-night in the name of J. Louis.

The same J. Louis—the "J" stands for Joe—has a date to defend his heavyweight championship against Johny Paychek of Des Moines at 10 o'clock in Madison Square Garden for the entertainment of some 15,000 customers and the benefit of the Finns.

There were few boys and girls—if you could find any at all—willing to wager against Louis making his train connection. Yet there was a growing belief among the inner circles along cauliflower causeway in the last 24 hours that maybe Paycheck might make enough trouble and delay the Bomber enough to force him to cancel his compartment.

Promoter Mike Jacobs figures the fight will pay as well as the Godoy-Louis festivities Feb. 10., which drew less than $2,000 short of $90,000. Whatever the total take this time, the Finnish relief fund cuts in for 10 per cent of the gross. Then Louis, who draws down his usual 40 per cent, is going to turn over 7½ per cent of that and Paychek will donate 2½ per cent of his 20 per cent purse.

Arabs and Jews Serve Together For One Cause

Arab and Jewish recruits, side by side, receive rifle drill instructions from a British non-commissioned officer at a training depot in Palestine. Officially known as Palestinians, these Arabs and Jews have formed an auxiliary military pioneer corps in which they train together for transport and other duties in any part of the world. For the first time in history they have forgotten all racial and political differences and have volunteered in large numbers for service with the British army in Palestine. This is the first picture to show them side by side, united for one cause. The first section of this corps has already arrived in France.

Sales On Cattle Are Draggy, Vealers Steady

TORONTO, Mar. 29 — (CP). — Cattle trade was dull on a light supply on the Toronto Live Stock Market this week. Asked prices were too high to suit buyers. Hogs, lambs and sheep were steady.

Cattle prices advanced 15-25 cents on a light opening run, but weakened at the close with spots 10 cents or so lower. The sales until Wednesday showed the advance over last week's closing level, but the Thursday trade left 250 cattle unsold out of an offering of 450 head, after some sales had been made at slightly lower levels. Weighty steers sold at $6.50-$7.50 with a few tops at $7.60. Butcher steers and heifers were mostly $6.75-$7.50, with a few tops at $7.60. Butcher steers and heifers were mostly $6.75-$7.35, with tops at $7.50 and lowest sales at $6. Butcher cows brought $4-$5.50, with canners and cutters at $3.25-$3.75. Bulls ranged from $5-$6 according to quality. Fed calves ranged from $7.50-$9 cwt.

A few common to medium stockers sold at $5.50-$6.35. Good Holstein milkers and springers sold at $75-$85 each, with others downward to $50 each.

Veal calves were steady to strong at $11-$11.50 for choice, with a few closing tops at $12. Common lights sold downward to $5.50.

Hogs opened and closed at $9 off trucks for bacons and $12 dressed. A few sales were made on Wednesday at 10 cents above the general market level.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 2,200 Western lambs. Lamb prices were steady at $11 for the bulk of good Westerns with one load at $11.15 and one at $11.25. Sheep sold steady at from $3-$6.75 cwt. according to quality.

Havelock Drive Nets 'Army' $100 In Funds

HAVELOCK, March 29—(ENS).—The Salvation Army "Red Shield Campaign" which was conducted here last week, concluded with the total subscription amounting to $100. In charge of the Havelock drive were Chairman H. T. Mathison, and committee member T. P. Lancaster, H. Watson, C. Coon, W. Forsythe, and G. Denike.

W.M.S. Meets.

Visitors from Norwood augmented the attendance at the annual thankoffering meeting of the Knox Church Women's Missionary Society. Welcoming the guests, the president Miss E. E. Chase, conducted the opening exercises.

An interesting talk on "Missionary Work in Africa," with illustrative lantern slides, was given by Mrs. W. A. McFarlane of the local Faith Mission, who with her husband experienced several years' service as missionaries on the dark continent. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Wm. Martin and Mrs. Kinnaird led in prayer. Mrs. R. Tedford of Norwood contributed a fine vocal solo to the program, entitled "I'm sure I shall not pass this way again." The meeting concluded with a hymn, and prayer led by Mrs. McFarlane, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess members.

Women's Association.

Encouraging reports were received from all three groups, when the Women's Association of the Havelock United Church assembled for their quarterly meeting. The organization as a whole assembled in the church basement, with the president, Mrs. T. Easterbrook, in the chair.

Using Easter as the theme, the devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. McLauchlin. During the regular business it was decided to hold a "Mother and Daughter" banquet on May 10th.

An interesting program included a solo by Miss Helen Price, entitled "Easter Day"; a reading, "By Faith," Mrs. James Freeman; monologue, "An Inventor's Wife," Mrs. William Smith. A novel "silver dollar contest" on the subject, "What do you know about Havelock," was won by Miss E. Wright, and the second prize captured by Miss E. Haig.

At the conclusion of the meeting, close to seventy members and guests sat down to a sumptuous hot supper, prepared for the occasion by the west-end group, of which Mrs. Weese is the leader.

107 And He Lives

Fort Erie, March 29 (CP)

PHYSICIANS in this border area are frankly puzzled over the fact that 36-year-old William Huron who has been confined in hospital here the last fortnight suffering from a blood infection has survived a temperature of 107.

His physician, Dr. A. S. Hammond of Fort Erie North, said today previous medical experience indicated a temperature of 106 is the absolute maximum which an ordinary person can survive. Dr. Hammond added that Mr. Huron's temperature today has dropped several points but remained at a high 107 an entire day. Blood transfusions have been administered in effort to aid recovery.

U-BOAT CAMPAIGN NO PUZZLE TO KRUSCHEN

Despite loss of 50,000 packages

The recent loss of 50,000 Giant Packages of Kruschen Salts at sea has interfered only slightly with Canadian supplies. Other shipments have been landed and distributed thinly but evenly among drug stores across Canada.

Those who suffer from rheumatic pains, headaches, blotchy skin, indigestion and other troubles usually caused by constipation—and those who know and like to enjoy "that Kruschen feeling" are urged, under the circumstances, to get their Gaint Packages at once while they last. It is not known when they will again be made available to the Canadian public.

The Kruschen Giant Package is a bargain. It contains a regular bottle plus a free trial size bottle. You may use the trial size bottle first and if not satisfied return the regular bottle unopened and get your money back. But act quickly. Your druggist has a limited supply.

3 to Try Blockade.

A clue to the importance of the Orient in the blockade against Germany was supplied in a Reuters, British news agency, despatch from Batavia, Dutch East Indies. It said three German steamers, the 7,750-ton Nordmark, the 6,200-ton Rendsburg, and 6,608-ton Vogtland had loaded full cargoes of produce and were being painted grey in the expectation that they would dash for Vladivostok, Russia's important Pacific port.

The Admiralty announced that a German plane dropped five bombs on a convoy in the North Sea last night, but did no damage.

The German news agency, DNB, had declared that the attack dispersed the convoy with a number of bomb hits and that a French destroyer also was "successfully" attacked in the English Channel.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Edgar R. Ludlow-Hewitt, who organized the spectacular British air raid on the German Island of Sylt last week, was promoted to Inspector-General of the Royal Air Force.

In Gaspe, Quebec, where election of Maurice Brasset, Liberal, had been indicated, the result was changed to "doubtful" when the returns from Magdalen Island came in and put J. S. Back To Conservative

Hon. R. J. Manion, National Government party leader said here that the party label will be dropped and National Conservative used again by those followers who sit in the next parliament.

"The National Government was proposed to meet an emergency situation," he said here. "But the people didn't want it. I said in my campaign speeches that once the emergency was over the National Conservative party would emerge united and unashamed."

Dr. Manion likely will take a short holiday before making any plans about his political future. Prime Minister Mackenzie King also might take a short vacation before meeting parliament early in May.

The first cabinet session since the election was held yesterday but only a bare quorum of minister were able to attend and the next council will be next week. There were no announcements. Before the meeting, the prime minister received Sir William Glasgow, new Australian High Commissioner.

"The Allies have no intention of imposing their will upon Europe when the war is over. They must and will co-operate in reconstruction, but their unity will not be exclusive. Other nations will be invited to assist in evolving a new order.

"Here is a peace aim of incalculable value to a free Germany. It is a pledge that the new Europe will be built upon a democratic foundation."

Action the Word.

"M. Reynaud," said The Times, "cannot have been left in any doubt that the desire for more active conduct of the war which has been expressed so unequivically in France is shared to the full on this side of the Channel.

"As an example of the need for action he pointed to the Balkans. In this spirit the War Council decided in the first place to make clear to the whole world that the unity of the Allies is now so firmly established that nothing can shake it. That is not merely a contribution towards winning the war, but will constitute, after the war has been won, a sure and stable foundation of lasting peace.

"It is in this atmosphere of assured and confident unity that the Supreme War Council must have discussed questions which have been made urgent by recent developments, such as the position created by the setback to Finland, the Allies' relations with Russia and with Italy and with other neutrals, the need for more effective application of the blockade in order to prevent Germany from continuing to draw supplies through neutral countries, and, as a particular case, the necessity of checking what seems to be illegitimate use of Norwegian territorial waters by German shipping.

"Visibility was remarkable and the sea was calm."

The lifeboat arrived on the scene to find a naval craft already engaged in the search.

"We hunted for more than two hours," said Captain Holland, "but couldn't find even a chip of wood. It seemed impossible that a disaster had occurred only a few minutes before."

He said the spot where the ships collided was about three miles southwest of the mouth of inner Halifax harbor, and three miles northeast of Chebucto Head.

Meanwhile, doctors from Halifax were hurried to naval and other vessels ordered out to search in the faint hope one or more of those aboard the Hebridean might be found struggling in the water. One of the physicians, Dr. Kenneth Hayes, whose father had been a pilot, was related closely or remotely to practically every man aboard the pilot boat.

Pelham was his brother-in-law. Several others were cousins.

The majority of the men aboard the Hebridean were married and had families. The Dempseys alone had 32 persons in the three families.

The Hebridean was one of two pilot boats which maintain in turn a steady vigil at the entrance to the harbor, in storm or calm. The vessels, auxiliary schooners, beat in and out the harbor mouth awaiting incoming ships, all of which—with the exception of naval vessels whose tradition is to come in on their own—must take on a pilot.

Counties Council To Continue School Fight

COBOURG, March 29 (Special)—Counties council of Northumberland and Durham held an emergency session yesterday afternoon to decide what step next was to be taken in regard to the Wooler School litigation. Most recent development in the tangle over who was to pay for transportation of outside pupils to the school was a recent decision handed down by the Ontario Court of Appeal in favor of the Wooler Board. Yesterday the counties council decided to continue the fight and to take it to the Supreme Court of Canada. The original claim of around $1,700 has long since been exceeded by the accumulated court costs but the case is regarded as a test case which will have a bearing on similar situations all over the province.

Met In Camera

The proceedings of yesterday's meeting were held in camera but it was announced after the meeting by Warden W. H. Morrow that the council had decided to take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada. The warden pointed out that the council was not closing the door to any overture that the Wooler School Board might make but if anything in the nature of a settlement was forthcoming, the first move was up to Wooler. The council went into the whole matter very thoroughly and the motion to take it to the next court was readily seconded and received almost unanimous endorsation.

The dispute had its origin in 1937 when costs of around $1,700 for transportation of outside pupils to Wooler Continuation School. The council refused to pay it when Wooler Board billed it. The argument on the matter arose several times and a lawsuit was threatened.

Offered To Settle

Last year the counties council offered to settle the whole affair by payment of $1,000 to Wooler School Board but to no avail. Wooler Board sued in the Supreme Court of Ontario and Mr. Justice Greene handed down a decision dismissing the claim. The Board took it to the court of appeal for Ontario where Mr. Justice Greene's judgment was not sustained. The appeal court took the view that Wooler Board could bill the counties under the School Act in its status of a public school. The special schools committee of the counties council, and the warden, interviewed the Dept. of Education a few weeks ago but didn't have the School Act clarified to the extent desired. As the matter stands now, the Supreme Court of Canada will be asked to interpret the School Act as it applies to Wooler.

The Rambling REPORTERS

A BEE IN HER BONNET.

Helen Graham, 406 London Street, knows now the meaning of the expression "a bee in her bonnet."

Yesterday she was skiing at Jackson Park and was wearing not a bonnet but a parka—probably the modern equivalent. Returning home, she started to remove the headgear when a bee flew out and stung her. She's at a loss to know where it came from, since snowy, treacherous March is not one in which bees are found anywhere, let alone in bonnets. It would have been easy to understand had she been wearing one of those Easter hats with all the fresh flowers in the crown.

Young People Meet At Knox

More than 125 delegates from Peterborough county are expected for the sessions this afternoon and tonight at the spring convention of the Peterborough Presbytery Y.P.U. being held at Knox United Church.

Deliberations got under way this morning after Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, B.A., B.D., minister of Knox Church, had extended a cordial welcome to the young people, and Robert Spence of Lakefield United Church, president of the Presbytery, replied to the address.

Rev. M. C. Parr, George Street United Church, led the special discussion on items of vital interest to everyone, namely, "Christian Youth and Perplexing Problems of Today."

War Problems.

Discussion centred around the problems arising out of the war and on the personal contribution each member might make toward winning the struggle.

It was the feeling among the delegates that the proper Christian attitude toward conscientious objectors should be one of tolerance rather than persecution. While the delegates certainly would not condone the attitude of such people, nevertheless they felt that a person should not be ostracised from society because of anti-war views.

Mr. Parr in his talk contended that dancing under proper auspices and environment was rated as wholesome recreation but on the other hand jitney dancing at poorly supervised dance halls was not conducive to high morals.

He also voiced the general idea of opposition to lotteries in all forms and no discussion followed to indicate any opinion in opposition to this view.

Twenty-five delegates registered for the morning sessions and the ones from distant points were served hot coffee in the basement of the church, all having brought box lunches.

This afternoon, Bruce Dawson of Millbrook, president of the local Y.P.U., and past president of the Presbytery, presided, and the feature item on the program was a debate between Bensfort Y.P.U. and Norwood Y.P.U. members on the subject, "Resolved that our present practice of Christmas giving be abolished."

Rev. A. McLaughlin, Havelock; Rev. Clarence Ferguson, Bethany, and Rev. F. W. Craik, Peterborough, are slated to give addresses. Reports of the nominating committee and election of officers is also on the list.

This evening a banquet will be held in the church and the convention will conclude with an address, "Christ In Me," by Rev. C. G. Park, M.A., of Whitby United Church.

Permit Necessary For Wood Yard

Sam Abbott's woodyard at Donegal and Dublin street, operating without benefit of permit and in spite of remonstrance of residents, has been discussed by the Board of Works as a result of a petition from the neighborhood objecting to its location.

"I don't blame the residents for complaining," City Engineer Parsons commented in his report to the Board Wednesday night, but did not agree with the idea that the area be restricted.

"We already have seven restricted areas," Mr. Parsons said. It transpired that Mr. Abbott had begun making use of the property as a woodyard without applying to the city for permission, and no action of any kind was taken until the people appealed to the council to do something about it.

The decision of the committee was that Mr. Abbott will be instructed that h must now and belatedly apply for a permit, and it was understood the other evening that on making that application Mr. Abbott will be informed that a permit will not be granted to him.

Agent Cuts Bid, Tender Then Accepted

Renewal of the city's public liability insurance with A. W. Wilson and Company, of Toronto, agents for Lloyds of London, recommended by the legal committee of the council Thursday night on the deciding vote of the chairman, Alderman Gordon.

Mayor Hamilton had moved, seconded by Alderman Roy, that the lowest tender, $2,202.11, be accepted. That sum was quoted by both Vincent M. Eastwood and Stanley A. Darling, separate agents for the Union Insurance Company of Canton; and the motion was directing that the business be awarded to Mr. Eastwood.

A. E. Wilson and Company have had the city's public liability insurance for six years. Their bid was $2,750, and it was explained that $500 was included in that amount for property damage. A statement of claims for the last nine years indicated that the company had consistently lost on their Peterborough business, and Alderman Gordon commented that the two low tenders were made for the purpose of trying to "chisel away the business" and that in view of the Wilson company's experience the low bids were not fair.

Made Up By Adjusters.

Alderman Gordon declared that the difference would be made up, not by the companies themselves, but by their adjusters in contesting claims at every possible point. The city's relations with the Wilson company had been agreeable, and during the six years they had evidently been considerate of the citizens who met with accidents and applied for indemnity. Alderman Gordon referred to several young bond and insurance men about town, saying that they could not get any of the business of the City Trust Commission of which Vincent Eastwood is chairman.

Alderman Roy contended that the committee had received a low bid of $2,202.11, that it was received from reliable agents and a strong company, and that as a matter of plain business he was going to support it.

Mayor Hamilton was briefly but emphatically in favor of the low tender from Vincent M. Eastwood.

Aldermen Ovens and Stocker were in favor of continuing the business with the Wilson company, and finally to clear up the point of price, Alderman Gordon invited W. Evans, representing A. E. Wilson and Company, back into the room, and told him the committee wished to know whether he would accept the renewal on the basis of $2,202.11.

Cuts His Price.

"If you give me the order I shall be glad to do so," Mr. Evans replied.

"That's all," Alderman Gordon said. His argument was that the low bid had been made in an effort to get the business away from Wilson and Company, that it was ordinary price-cutting, and if it was all right on the part of one agent, then it was also proper by another agent.

Alderman Roy urged that Mr. Eastwood be given a chance to meet the committee again.

"It seems to me absolutely unfair not to hear him," Alderman Roy stated.

"I declare the amendment carried," Alderman Gordon answered, and that ended the affair which now goes on to the council for approval.

Alderman Stocker favored Wilson and Company because they had given every satisfaction to the city, and Alderman Ovens said it seemed only fair to him that the company should be given the business this year in the possibility that claims might be light after six successive years of losses.

Young Transients Are Given 10 Days

Two young transients, Clark Ashust and Bernard Graham who were arrested a few nights ago while loitering in the neighborhood of the C.P.R. freight sheds and who pleaded guilty in police court next morning to a charge of vagrancy were each sentenced to ten days imprisonment in the county jail.

Neither youth had anything to say when the magistrate put the usual question to them before imposing sentence.

The police had secured the record of the two youths and it was revealed that both boys had been in trouble before.

Percy Township Couple Honored

HASTINGS, March 29—(ENS).—A delightful surprise birthday party was planned for Wednesday evening by Mrs. Wallace Orr and Mrs. Donald Pollock in honor of Mrs. H. M. Orr, who on that day celebrated her 72nd birthday. The day previous, Mr. and Mrs. Orr observed their 38th wedding anniversary so the party served the double purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr, both highly respected residents of the Campbellford Road, were married in Percy township 38 years ago, and have since resided on the farm where Mrs. Orr came as a bride, and where their two children, Grace (Mrs. Donald Pollock) and Wallace were born.

Brothers and their wives of Mrs. Orr were invited to the surprise party but on account of the snow-filled road, only Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fairman were able to attend.

The home was decorated for the occasion and the table was attractive with its birthday cake adorned with seven candles, one for each decade.

Tweed Couple 60 Years Wed On Sunday

TWEED, Mar. 29 — (ENS).—On March 31, 1880, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham, Hungerford Township, Ida Graham was married to William H. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Craig. On Saturday, March 30, Mr. and Mrs. Craig will celebrate their diamond wedding at their home here. A reception is being arranged by friends.

Mrs. Craig is the eldest of eight children, her father being Thomas Graham and her mother Mary Ann Porter. Her parents came to Canada from Ireland during the war of 1837-38, arriving in Hillier in 1837, and coming to Tweed in 1840.

Mr. Craig was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Craig of the Lodgeroom.

The officiating clergyman at the wedding sixty years ago was Rev. F. Walker. Of this marriage one daughter, Mrs. George Stokes, now of Belleville, was born. There are four generations in this family, being Mr. and Mrs. Craig, their daughter Mrs. Stokes of Belleville, granddaughter Mrs. J. M. Wilson of Belleville, and great-grandson John Stokes Wilson.

Mrs. Craig, who observed her 78th birthday on March 6, was born in a log house three miles west of this village. Mr. Craig celebrated his 86th birthday last New Year's Day. His father came from County Armagh, Ireland, in 1840, and was one of the original settlers of this district.

Mr. Craig remembers clearly early events in the history of Hungerford Township; the advent of the two local railway systems and the establishment of the first permanent road to Belleville, the county seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig retired from the farm 20 years ago and since that time they have resided in this village. Mr. Craig was active for many years in connection with Farnsworth's Methodist Church, while Mrs. Craig was interested in the work of the W.M.S. and kindred organizations. Sixty years ago Mr. Craig was a member of Hungerford Township Council for 12 years and at the present time is secretary-treasurer of the Men's Bible Class of Tweed United Church. He has been a member of Tweed Orange Lodge for 65 years and during that time has missed but one Orange celebration on July 12. For 40 years he has been a member of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland. He is Past Grand Master for Eastern Ontario and has held office for four years as director of ceremonies in the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario. In addition, he has held office in Tweed Masonic Lodge for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Craig have one daughter, Mrs. George F. Stokes of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig are both enjoying good health and are looking forward to meeting their friends on Saturday.

Plane Riddled Fliers Tell Of Tilt Over Sea

LONDON, Mar. 29 — (CP). — Three British airmen last night brought their bullet-riddled Hudson patrol plane to a safe landing and told how they damaged one of two German Dorniers they attacked over the North Sea yesterday afternoon.

They believed the damaged German plane was unable to get home.

"We were on normal patrol about noon," the pilot said. "About 160 miles over the sea, I turned to the pilot-sergeant and said: 'There are two planes.'

"We climbed into the sun in order to take them by surprise. They were two Dornier machines, flying in single formation toward Germany.

"We were much faster and attacked at about 3,000 feet. We dived toward them at an angle, and when they saw us attack they dropped toward the water and flew low over the sea, which provides the best camouflage.

"For half an hour we attacked and flew off to get into position. The Dorniers replied to our fire, but made no attempt to pursue us and kept on their course."

The sergeant, who served as second pilot, took up the story: "As we approached we saw the rear gunner in the hindmost Dornier climbing into his gunpit. It was an open pit, and we saw he was a young fellow with fair hair.

"The pilot opened fire, and we got him. He fell forward and we saw him hanging over the edge."

The British gunner, who was the third member of the Hudson's crew, continued: "When we left the fight, smoke was pouring from the Dornier, and I doubt whether it could get home.

"It was, I think, during the sixth attack we made that they hit us."

The British pilot resumed: "We were in a steep climb when a burst of fire caught our port engine, and so we immediately turned back.

PRINT PERFECTION

By ALICE ALDEN

PARIS IS playing up to the American woman's love of prints, contributing such amusing motifs as penguins, seagulls, kittens, chicken tracks and miniature red apples. Our own designers offer competition, specifically in a series of label patterns which are as wearable as they are eye-catching. The jacket dress shown, worn by pretty Mary Martin, brings up that familiar slogan of good to the last drop. The one-piece frock, with skirt fulness starting at a low hipline, is cut in accord with the long-torso vogue of the season. A very short bolero, much like those in every French collection, is self-collared under velvet. This is an ensemble which will take any kind of hat. The one shown is white straw with quills circling the brim.

C.G.E. Foremen Entertain Their Ladies At Annual Banquet

Members of the C.G.E. Foremen's Association entertained their ladies right royally at the Empress Hotel Thursday evening, when the annual banquet was held. Daffodils nodded a gay welcome at tables occupied by approximately 150 gentlemen and their ladies, and afterwards a program of Toronto talent provided an hour of sparkling entertainment. The guests were welcomed in a brief address by Mr. C. A. Salmonsen, C.G.E. works manager.

Handsome cup and saucer favors wrapped in bright tissue were handed to every lady, and fine draw prizes, including a pen and pencil set, a table lamp, and a silver bowl of red roses, were won by Mrs. George Worboy, Mrs. Alex. McGregor Miss Marjorie Cox, Mrs. Wm. Anderson.

To accordion music by Reg. Slocum, several popular songs were briskly led by Percy David, comedian, whose witty remarks kept the audience in constant good humor. Miss Mickie Connelly was the talented young dance soloist. Miss Frances Wells, A.T.C.M., was at the piano for the dance numbers and several comic selections sung by Percy David, in an amusing impersonation of a "cop." The "talkative trickster," Reg. Slocum, drew many a gasp of wonder from his audience during a smooth performance of magician stunts.

DOROTHY DIX

To be good daughter-in-law you must follow these rules. Here's some advice on how new bride can keep happiness in the family.

A young woman who is going to be married asks if I will give her some suggestions about how to be a good daughter-in-law. Well, of course, being a good daughter-in-law requires a bit of doing, as the English say, because it calls for all the major and minor virtues, the self-abnegation of a saint and a diplomacy slick enough to run the League of Nations without friction. And, alas, youth seldom possesses these qualifications. If a woman could wait to be a daughter-in-law until she is 60 or 70 years old and had had a lot of experience in meeting difficult situations and gained a lot of wisdom about managing people she would be able to cope with the daughter-in-law proposition. But, unfortunately, it is mainly undertaken by ignorant little flappers, so it is no wonder that they so often bungle the job. Nevertheless, the relationship between a young wife and her husband's mother can be made a crown of joy instead of a pain in neck, and perhaps the following tips may help some bride to win her mother-in-law's affections.

Play safe. Get off to a good start. Don't go to live with your mother-in-law if you can possibly help it. That will save both of you from getting wounds that will never heal as long as you live. Two women who love the same man have to be pin-feathered angels and above all human weaknesses to live together in the same house without getting on each others nerves. Absence makes the heart grow fonder of our in-laws, and the more we live apart the better we get along with them.

Don't go into your husband's family with a chip on your shoulder. Don't regard your mother-in-law as your hereditary foe whom you are bound to hate at sight and whose every word and act you view with suspicion. On the contrary, make up your mind that you are going to be friends with her and make as great an effort to win her as you did to win her son. Show her affection. If you will be even human to her, she will be ready to kiss your feet in sheer gratitude.

Don't try to separate your husband from his mother. Don't be jealous of his affection for her. Don't flaunt his love for you in her face. Don't act as if every time he went to see her he was being unfaithful to you. Don't get peeved every time he has a private conversation with her or gives her a few dollars or shows her any attention. There is nothing for which a man is so grateful as for his wife being good to his mother. And don't forget that you can have no better ally than your mother-in-law in any argument with your husband.

Don't get humpy every time your mother-in-law makes any suggestion to you. You can learn a lot from her. She may not have a college diploma as you have, but she has acquired a wisdom that the schools don't teach in a half century and more of living. She may not be up on the latest fads in child culture, but she has raised half a dozen children to fine man- and womanhood. She had never studied domestic science, but she is a wizard with the pots and pans that you will never be. It will pay you to sit at her feet and listen to her advice instead of snubbing her and hating her for interfering with your affairs.

Treat your mother-in-law as you do your own mother. Confide in her. Tell her your hopes and plans. Go to her with your sorrows and joys. Urge her to visit you. Make her feel that the grandchildren are hers. That is the way you do to your own mother. Don't push your husband's mother outside of your family circle. You have no idea how she yearns to be within it and how it breaks her heart to see her daughter-in-law building up a wall between her son and his children and her.

Be grateful and show her that you consider her your greatest benefactor. It takes a lot of suffering, a lot of work, a lot of anxiety to turn a boy into a good husband and the wife who gets him should be down on her knees before his mother thanking her for the greatest favor that one woman can do for another.

Be tender. Be gentle and patient with her because it is very pitiful to be old and lonely and to have to live in other peoples' houses and to be left desolate after all of your children have gone away from you. The woman who still has youth and love and a husband and children and is mistress of her own home should out of her wealth be generous to her mother-in-law after her husband is dead, her home broken up and her children so busy with their own lives that they half forgot Mother.

Be a good wife. Make your husband happy and his mother will love you for it. Don't work him to death for your extravagances. Don't poison him with bad cooking. Don't terrorize him by your nagging. His mother won't think you foolish when you baby her son and fuss over him as she used to do. She will just thank God he was lucky enough to get you for a wife.

Just do these things to your mother-in-law and she will boast of you in the market place. For to possess a kind and loving daughter-in-law is as much of a distinction as it is to own a string of matched pearls, and a lot rarer.

We Noticed

....We've seen some lovely new Spring chapeaux crowning the pretty heads of a number of Peterborough's feminine sex, but on the other hand we've also noticed a number of be-flowered bonnets which should have looked chic, but somehow—didn't.

....Speaking with a well known milliner a day or so ago on the subject of why some women just don't have any "hat-sense", she gave us a few worthwhile tips on the right hat to buy for certain types which we feel are worth passing on:

...."The older, gray-haired woman will find sailor hats flattering. Turbans, too, providing they dip over one eye and show the hair at the side. If you are very young, and your forehead is not low, try a chignon turban, but make no mistake," she emphasized, "this type of turban was made for the young, and for the young only."

...."The woman whose face is round and full," she said, "should wear a hat with high, or at least medium-high crown. Berets—not too large—are perfect for the long narrow face. Hats with round lines are best for long, broad faces. Turbans with fullness all around are ideal. So are pillboxes if they are round, not oblong."

Queen Mary of England sent 50 flannel shirts to the Finland Fund.

FASHIONS

You've no excuse for not looking your best around the house, when comfortable and easy-to-sew dresses like this one are yours for the making. It features a slenderizing and practical button-front, and a becoming yoke treatment. Crisp white pique accents are fresh and efficient looking. Make the dress of a cheerfully checked washable material. It may have a round neck or turn-over collar if you prefer, and you may take your choice of long or short sleeves.

Style No. 3211 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, ¼ yard contrasting.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Present Operetta, Jack and Beanstalk

Dramatization of the old fairy tale, Jack and the Beanstalk, as an operetta with a powerful love angle brought entertainment to a large audience at the Collegiate auditorium Thursday night, and turned the spotlight of approval on Miss Queenie Hope, Macfarlane Avenue, who not only wrote the play but acted as co-director in presenting it. The play was presented by St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. and the entire cast of 46 people deserves high commendation for the clever work in taking the audience on a trip into the land of make-believe. The theme of the story follows the fairy tale without deviation but the added touch of romance which threads its way through the three acts makes one laugh and grieve with the hero of the play, Jack, who finally finds joy with his sweetheart and his romance has the "lived happily ever after" ending.

The magnitude of Miss Hope's effort is more truly appreciated when one realizes that she not only wrote all of the dialogue for the three acts, much of it in lyrical form, but she also composed several of the songs used in the play. She was given able assistance by Mrs. Eveline Foster, well-known pianist, who arranged the music for the new songs and was musical director of the presentation. Miss Hope's sister, Mrs J. Forbes, designed all of the costumes, and she was assisted in making them by Mrs. R. Pammett, Mrs. R. Harvey, Mrs. Wm. Davies, Mrs. A. Long, Mrs. M. Delong, and Miss E. Stewart.

All dances in the operetta were originated and directed by Miss Leone Comstock, talented and finished dancer, who combines with her dancing talent the ability to teach dancing to others. The group and solo dance numbers fitted gracefully into the play, adding a zip and punch that was needed.

Rev. G. J. Bousfield, pastor of St. Luke's Church, was chairman for the program, and in his introductory remarks he paid high tribute to the genius of Miss Hope in dramatizing the fairy tale, and to all others who assisted in the difficult undertaking.

Setting In Austria.

The story has as its setting the Tyrol section of Austria, and the opening scene begins on a melancholy note with Jack, the hero, played by Jack Davies sitting on a bench near his humble home, lamenting the fact that he and his mother have been left penniless, after the Evil Giant, Elmer Pearse, had killed his father and stolen the family gold. Jack is haunted by visions of their former wealth when the Magic Harp borne by a dancing girl with five other gaily togged maidens flit across the stage in the background, and six nattily attired guards with sloped swords parade past and sing a marching song. A taunting bellow of laughter from the distance reminds Jack that the Giant is responsible for the visions.

Sing-Song, Jack's servant, played by Ralph Mason, provides the humor throughout the entire play, and his acting is marvelous. Sing-Song is a Chinese, wears a pigtail and has the urge to sing but unfortunately his voice lacks melody. He refuses to leave Jack in his time of need and his witty remarks in typical Chinese sing-song style brings many laughs from the audience.

The Good Fairy (Eileen Biddle) finding Jack and his mother friendless, brings them a true friend in Sue, played by Rita Butler, and tells Jack that his family will have no rest until he has destroyed the Evil Giant. The Giant hates Jack and steals Sue, taking her away to the castle.

Two songs in this act, "Sing Yourself a Blue Song," by Jack, and "Love Song I Bring to You," by Sue, are both well done. Jack, garbed in Tyrolean costume of plumed green hat, smart red tunic and mountain boots, makes a pretty picture as he holds his sweetheart's hand and sings "Sweetheart Now I Have You."

Day At Country Fair

The second act is a day at the country fair, where there are booths, the Medicine man, Cec Hope, who has a snake, salve and medicine for every ailment. Miss Muriel Krant is the Gypsy Fortune Teller, Miss Eva Patterson, the fat Lady, William Hill, the bearded lady; Elmer Pearse, the human skeleton; Roland Krant, the fire eater; Margaret Bell and Jessie Bell, siamese twins; Florence Tice, the talking doll; Robert Stickles is the wild man and Bic Sedgewick is the side show barker. Bernard Pammett is ventriloquist and Miss Mary Kingsbury as the Gypsy Dancer filled her role in top style. The two clowns, Grin and Chuckle, played by Lloyd (Daddy) Curtis and Arthur Sayers, steal the show with their pantomine and comedy. In this act Jack and his faithful servant bring the family cow, an aged beast, to the fair in an attempt to sell her and raise money that is badly needed. They bring the cow down through the audience and up on the stage while the audience roared approval. Alas the act must end on a sade note for Jack's offer to sell the cow only brought ridicule from the fair goers and finally he trades the cow to a poor old lady for a bag of magic beans. Gordon Minty, as the cowboy Minstrel sang two songs "The Medicine Man" and "If the Gypsy Tell You So," with the entire cast as a supporting chorus.

The cow does a neat dance as the curtain goes up for the third act, and Jack and Sing-song are amazed that their cow has returned. Their amazement grows when they find the beans have produced a bean stalk that is a magic ladder to the sky. They climb the beanstalk which leads to the Giant's castle; Jack finds his sweetheart, and the giant's wife, a kindly lady (Mrs. Ray Pammett), helps the lovers in their plan to vanquish the giant. It is Sing-Song who administers the coup-de grace when he places a chair in front of the towering giant and when the giant topples to the ground, Jack slays the giant with the latter's club, and all ends happily.

In the second act 6 dancers garbed in white satin military uniforms, resplendent in silver braid and royal blue helmets, liven things up with a rythm dance chorus. A highlight of the third act is a adagio by Miss Leone Comstock, assisted by Miss Jessie Pattison. A corp de ballet of 12 with gossamer white costumes and flower wreaths form a dancing semi-circle that is very effective. In the first act a ballet group of six in smart crimson costumes do a neat dance routine that drew marked applause.

Jack's mother is played by Mrs. M. Delong and the two fairies who assist the Good Fairy are Iris Forbes and Beverly Hughes. All three have the silver and net costumes and transparent wings.

The assisting chorus was Mrs. Wm. Davies, Mrs. H. Moore, Miss Bertha Pammett, Messrs. H. Laing and A. Kirkcaldy. The Giant's Guards, Floyd Curtis, William Hill, Bernard Pammett, Vic Sedgewick, Arthur Sayers, and Robert Stickles.

Everyone of the actors in the minor roles deserve special mention, particularly Mrs. Ray Pammett, as the Giant's wife, Mary Kingsbury as the Gypsy dancer and Muriel Krant as the fortune teller.

Mrs. Floyd Curtis and Miss Queenie Hope were directors.

After the final curtain lovely bouquets were presented to Miss Queenie Hope by Beverly Hughes and to Miss Leone Comstock by Iris Forbes.

SPRING'S BLOSSOMS

By ALICE ALDEN.

YOU'VE been hearing about skull caps, often called calots, but here's one that's different. Lana Turner, looking seductively sulky, gets by with it beautifully. The cap is practically covered by silk straw blossoms, as pretty as any you've ever seen blown from an apple tree, and as light on the head. More of them are gathered into a cone rising in front of a gold hatpin with crystal drops. The Hollywood actress wears this confection with a black dinner gown. It would go equally well with spring's black and white afternoon prints, assuming, of course, that the wearer takes as much care with her coiffure. That's the important point about small hats, tailored or flowery.

Giddy Bird Clusters Deck New Spring Bonnets

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Fashion Writer.)

Whether milady chooses a tiny sailor, or a jaunty visor brim to completely hide one eye, or perhaps a high posed bonnet to frame her curls, she will wear her hat gaily as befits its giddy clusters of birds, ribbons, flowers and flying veils.

Down-in-back silhouettes are the mode, but the hat itself appears to be tip-tilted down over one eye, high up over one ear, and often a precariously posed bird on to tip-top of the crown accentuates this "impudent" new mode. For never has youth and gaiety and frivolity so dominated the millinery worn in the Spring parade.

High Crowns! Low Crowns!

Variety is greater than ever, too! Vivacious little sailors with perky ribbons and tremendous floating veils will walk beside demure bonnets so tiny that they might have been borrowed from grandmother herself. And wide-halo-brims perched back on the head to entirely frame the face, will be seen with jaunty little visor-brims pulled down over one eye. Thick supple edged hats and softly draped toques, oval turbans draped richly of new pastel jersey, and peak-crowned "baskets" stacked with bright flowers or fruit clusters!

Low crowns look new this 1940 season, especially on the rounded or irregular shapes deftly worked to give just the right line to head and face. New designing technique more than ever "drapes to fit" the features and shape of Milady's smartly coiffed head.

Veils Become Enormous!

Loops and bows, drapes and streamers give new importance to the veils worn this Spring. Velvet ribbon bows and charming little bouquets give old-fashioned charm to some of the hats. Others rely on contrasting veils swathed about the crown, or richly embroidered for elaboration. Tiny nose veils droop below small sailors, while long floating wings of veiling hang in airy streamers from other types.

Flowers and birds and feathers are more than ever apparent, for almost no hat is without one of these. And there are a few daring ones with hanging clusters of cherries, or massed bunches of bright fruit to give an amusing decoration. Roses, especially soft primroses, are back in fashion again. And morning glories! And pansies!

Do You Know?

Muslin curtains will wash over and over again if treated kindly. Make a warm lather with soap flakes and squeeze curtains gently in it. Rinse in warm then in cold water and starch. Stiffening keeps them clean longer.

Add a dessert spoonful of golden syrup to apples when stewing them instead of sugar; this makes them delicious and also thick.

Wiping down walls and ceilings frequently will keep them in good condition and prevent clinging soil. You don't really need a special wall brush. Simply make slip covers for broom or floor brush of white cotton flannel. When soiled, they are easily removed, put to soak and washed in the regular manner.

Hastings Personals

Hastings L.O.B.A. held a successful euchre on Wednesday evening in the Orange Hall, when 8 tables were played. Prizes were awarded as follows: Lady's first, Mrs. M. Brownsell; lady's second, Miss Isabelle Beamish; gents' first, Mr. Guy Wellman; gents' second, Mr. Ford Beavis. Lucky chair, Mr. S. Linton.

Following the euchre refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed.

CHAPTER ONE

ROMANY HAILE, at the end of what she was determined should be the last idle summer of her young life, looked up from the radio magazine she was reading and saw that she was no longer passing through fields of corn and wheat.

At last, Chicago! Her amazing gray-green eyes with the black sweeping lashes were a little deeper and darker with her inner excitement. A faint tinge of pink touched the sun tan of her oval face.

In the suitcase beside her was her diploma from Indiana university, and in her purse five dollars. Aside from that, she told herself whimsically, her assets were nil. Unless you took into consideration the fact that she was beautiful and twenty.

Powdering her small, slender nose, and adding a little more red to full, tender lips, Romany reached up and took down the dark green feathered pancake hat Aunt Cecelia had sent from Paris. She sat it upon her sleek, jet black hair with a flourish. A silly but divine chapeau.

As she stood up in the closely fitting grey-green jacket and matching swing skirt that barely touched her knees, it could be seen that she was tall and slender, long limbed and graceful.

Stepping off the train, Romany selected her bag and hat box from the porter, waving away a redcap who reached for the luggage. She was certain she needed the few pennies much more than he did, even if she didn't look it. The colored man gave her a disappointed look and shrugged, turning his attention to a fat man with two sample cases.

Down the platform Roman paused at the station door looking for the familiar face of her best friend and college room mate, Charlotte O'Neil. But Cholly did not seem to be there. At that moment her eyes fell upon a young man with a microphone who had stepped quickly forward and motioned to her.

She recognized him at once as Brent Nelson, announcer and master of ceremonies of the "Hello Stranger" program. Romany would have hurried away, but an assistant had his hand on her arm. There was no escape, without being rude. Nelson smiled, shaking her dark green gloved hand:

"Welcome, stranger! Will you say a few words for us?"

Romany swallowed, quickly getting her bearings. Afraid of a microphone? Ridiculous! That was what she had come to Chicago for. The famous announcer was turning on the full power of his charm to put her at ease.

"Our first customer this evening, folks, is a beautiful young lady. Very very beautiful. Jack, run home and get my book of superlatives! May we have your name, please?"

Romany found her voice.

"Romany—Romany Haile."

"Lovely name—Romany. Gypsy. And lovely black hair and a sun tan to go with it, too. A shame we haven't got television over here at the station. Where are you from, Romany?"

"Leeville, Indiana."

"Nice little town. I've been through there. On your way to school somewhere, I'll bet."

"No, I graduated from Indiana university this spring."

"Well, bless my old whiskers!" Nelson beamed and shook her hand again. "My old alma mater! I must have been getting out of Indiana U just about the time you went in. You can take it from me, folk, we grow the most beautiful co-eds in the world out around Indiana. Why did you come to Chicago, Miss Haile? To visit?"

Romany by that time was feeling quite at home. She smiled, wrinkling her nose, and Brent Nelson's susceptible heart beat a little faster.

"You musn't laugh at me," Romany lowered her voice, "and I'll tell you."

"Laugh! I should say not," Brent assured her. "Come on, tell us."

"Well," Romany confided, "I came to Chicago to get on the radio."

The crowd roared.

"It certainly didn't take you long," Nelson chuckled. "Is this your first experience before a mike?"

"The very first."

"Well, Romany, we pause to predict right here that it won't be your last. You have a lovely speaking voice, poise, beauty—everything it takes, I should say, to break into radio."

There was applause from the audience.

"Thank you, Romany sighed. "I hope you're right."

"What branch of radio are you interested in?"

Romany looked a little self-conscious.

"I want to be a dramatic actress."

"Fine! You'll make it," Nelson assured her. "I bet you get that yen playing in the dramatic club at Indiana."

"I'm afraid I did," she admitted.

"So did I," the announcer laughed, and was interrupted by an alarm clock going off in a box beside him.

Romany looking surprised, stepped back.

"The prize!" Nelson reached into his pocket and took out an envelope "This is your lucky night, Miss Haile. You get the thirty-five dollars that Haller's Desserts presents on this program every Saturday evening."

"Thirty fi—five dollars!" Romany was so thunderstruck that Nelson laughed heartily as the crowd applauded. She thanked him when she caught her breath, unable to believe her good fortune.

At that moment she looked up to see Cholly jumping up and down with excitement close by. Nelson extended his hand again:

"We thank you very much, Miss Haile, for this Haller interview, and may we tell you we'll all be hoping your dreams come true in Chicago. If you're ever around the Interstate Broadcasting building, run in and say 'Hello,' and we'll talk about Indiana U. How's that?"

"I'd love it—and thank you," Romany smiled and hurried away to join Charlotte.

"Cholly!" She held the envelope out. "You look in it. I'm afraid it isn't real."

Cholly embraced her excitedly.

"Aren't you the lucky thing? I just can't believe it! And you were wonderful, Romany, really you were! I'd have choked to death. You were so natural."

"Was I really?" Romany asked breathlessly. "Oh, I hope so! Isn't Brent Nelson wonderful? I'd no idea he was so handsome."

"He is terribly good looking for a blond," Cholly agreed. "But I like 'em tall and dark."

"You wouldn't be thinking of Terry O'Rourke," Romany handed Cholly the hatbox and they walked out of the station.

"That same." Cholly shook her red curly head dubiously, and her blue eyes grew a little more tender. "The Irish divil! And he hasn't changed a bit."

"If he had" (Romany fished for her handbag) "you probably would have another boy friend. It's the maternal instinct in you, my child."

They settled in the back seat of the bus that was to take them to Aunt Cecelia's apartment on South Shore drive near Seventy-second street.

"Explain that last crack," Cholly turned to Romany, half smiling. "What do you mean, I probably would have another boy friend?"

Romany looked down at the serious little round face with the adorable freckles bridging the tip-tilted nose, and a warm feeling of affection or her old friend swept her. She touched her hand fleetingly.

"Oh," she said wisely, "if Terry weren't such a child, and you didn't have to worry all the time about whether he was going to get into some kind of a mess, you'd snap out of it."

"I—don't want to snap out of it," Cholly looked out the window unhappily. "I love him. He—he's just exactly like Pop. The sweetest thing that ever lived, but he doesn't take anything seriously."

"You're just like your mother," Romany sighed. "I spent last evening with

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEARN THE SIGNALS

EFFECTIVE defensive play is impossible without a knowledge of the standard signals by both partners and the proper use of them. While the declarer runs a suit, a discard from another suit by your partner does not mean that he wishes that suit led. The height of the card determines the nature of his message. If you read it as the lowest he could hold in the suit, he wants you to lead something else. If you read it as higher than his lowest, he suggests your leading it, especially if he follows it with a lower discard later.

West did not feel like risking a vulnerable overcall of the 2-No Trumps, especially since he saw a No Trump game looming up and a good chance to beat it. He refrained from doubling, for fear of chasing the opponents into a profitable escape.

In order to make sure his partner returned a spade, if ever in the lead, and to cover the chance that she also might be blank in clubs or have only a singleton, he decided to lead his club tops. To attract attention, he led the A first, then the K, and for his third lead picked the high club 9 to indicate a shift to the higher-ranking spades.

Declarer, of course, won the third club, then led the diamonds. On the first West discarded the heart 2 to discourage a lead of that suit, then the 4 to confirm it, next the spade J and finally the spade 10 on the fourth diamond, which East won. That practically made six consecutive signals for the same thing, but East returned the heart J, so declarer got three tricks there and was down only one. If East had led a spade, it would have been set three more. Then came a lesson in signals.

If South happens to get into 6-Spades, doubled by East, on this deal, and West leads the club K, how should declarer play for it?

Relief Session Expected Soon

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP). — Conferences between Federal and Provincial officials probably will be held in the near future regarding the division of unemployment relief costs between the Federal and Provincial Governments.

As yet no meetings have been arranged, but now that the Dominion election is over Labor Minister McLarty and officials of the Labor Department soon may meet with Provincial relief officials, it was said at the Department to-day.

The policy of the Government, as announced by Mr. McLarty recently, is to continue assistance to the provinces for unemployment, but, in view of the financial demands of war, to limit it to necessity.

The present agreement governing unemployment grants from the Dominion to the provinces expires on March 31, and the Act under which it was authorized also expires on that date.

It will be impossible to renew the Act until Parliament meets, sometime in May, but agreements might be arrived at in advance of the session and in anticipation of the passage of a new Relief Act. At present the Dominion contributes 40 per cent. of relief costs, while the provinces also pay 40 per cent. and the municipalities the remaining 20 per cent.

At Toronto E. A. Horton, Ontario Director of Unemployment Relief, said the Ontario Government was ready and anxious to proceed with consideration of a new agreement.

Easter Tea Held Hastings W.A.

HASTINGS, March 29—(ENS).—Easter lilies, chrysanthemums and petunias made charming decorations for the Easter tea held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss D. Plant, under the auspices of St. George's Women's Auxiliary.

The reception room was filled with ladies and a few gents, who were welcomed by the hostess, Miss Plant, and the president, Mrs. Wm. Stocks. Mrs. R. King took charge of the receipts at the door.

An exceptionally attractive tea room, arranged in the dining room, was a cheerful place as the luncheon was served around the four individual tables with their prettily embroidered cloths and centred with vases of petunias.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Wm. McGrayne, Mrs. J. Dainard, Miss C. Williamson, Mrs. W. Gillespie and Mrs. E. Radford, who so ably served over fifty guests.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnston and little daughter, of Fenelon Falls, are visiting for a week with the latter's mother, Mrs. A. E. Spooner.

Miss Mary MacDonald of Chatham is spending Easter week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. MacDonald.

Mrs. Samuel McGee left on Wednesday for Toronto, where she will accompany her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Andrew McGee on a motor trip to California, and be a guest of her sister, whom she has not seen for 30 years.

A teal shot in Eire bore a ring stating it belonged to the Museum of Natural History in Leiden, Holland.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

France's Colonial Troops Tune Up

Among the best fighters under the French flag are these colonial troops from North Africa, shown during field manoeuvres behind the Western front. This wall-climbing is special training they receive in the event that they get close enough to the Siegfried Line to apply such tactics to the German casemates and pill boxes.

Gambling and Illegal Acts Rampant Says Pastor Hitting Ontario Heads

TORONTO, March 29 — (CP). — Gambling, violation of the Lord's Day Act, bootlegging and other illegal and anti-social activities are rampant, Rev. John Coburn, field secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada said in his report to the board's annual meeting here today.

He charged the Ontario Government had refused to assume its responsibility for law enforcement and had treated certain representatives of the churches and other organizations with contempt.

There is "an undiguised and persistent flouting of Christian public opinion by the Premier of Ontario and his Government," Mr. Coburn said.

"It is the task of the Church to create a Christian public opinion that will not tolerate such conditions. This calls for a more intelligent aggressive and more inclusive evangelism."

Dr. Coburn said the plight of unemployed single persons should be faced immediately.

"The Christian Church should insist that this problem be faced and dealt with effectively," he said. "Hundreds of men are not only sufferings physically but are deteriorating mentally and morally through present intolerable conditions."

Little Choice to People

The situation regarding temperance work in Ontario is "exceedingly unsatisfactory," he reported.

"The government has had the law so amended as to almost entirely deprive the people of any voice in the conditions that shall prevail in their own community. In a most undemocratic way the Liquor Board has forced beverage rooms on communities in defiance of overwhelming public opinion.

"Liquor drinking, drunkenness, brawling and highway accidents have increased."

Dr. Hugh Dobson, the board's Western Canada representative, told the board that there is contrition and repentance among many over the fact that "we have not more eagerly taught the people a better way to adjust international affairs."

He said the sense of the folly of war is heavy on the world, and that the attitude toward war is not the same today as it was 25 years ago.

Aim To Hibernate?

Atlantic City, N.J., March 29. DETECTIVE CAPTAIN George Scheerer reported thieves had taken "fifty pounds of sleeping powders" from a loading platform. Captain Scheerer said the drugs, consigned to the county hospital in Northfield, were sufficient to "put half of Atlantic City (pop. 56,000) to sleep."

Deplores Wait for War To Bring Self-Sacrifice

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP).—In the 20 years of peace between the two great wars, the world lost sight of spiritual values with the result that democracy tottered upon the brink of disaster, Sir Gerald Campbell, high commissioner for the United Kingdom, said here last night in an address before the 15th annual banquet of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

"Why must we wait for war to bring out nobility of spirit, self sacrifice and enthusiasm?" Sir Gerald asked the 300 nurses from all over Ontario. "In peace most people were selfish and material, looking with distrust upon each other, but with war came a great change overnight.

"Remark the willing sacrifice of goods and person in the interests of our cause. Notice the sympathy and understanding which has sprung up among the democratic countries both neutral and belligerent. What a pity, too, that so much money available in wartime could not be available in peacetime for the welfare of those in need."

After being idle for 15 months, a British film studio will produce a new version of "Tilly of Bloomsbury."

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

One-half cup shortening, 1 egg, ½ tsp. soda, 1½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup peanut butter, 1 large bar milk chocolate.

Cream shortening and add peanut butter. Combine well. Melt chocolate and add 1 well-beaten egg. Then add flour, salt and soda which have been sifted together. Drop small spoonfuls on a greased floured pan, and press with a fork to make a cross. Bake in a moderate oven about 12 to 15 minutes.

CHOCOLATE ICE-BOX COOKIES

One-half cup butter, ½ teaspoon soda, 1½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sour milk, 1 large bar milk chocolate.

Cream shortening, add melted chocolate bar. Then add flour, salt and soda which have been sifted together. Add milk. Form in a roll and chill well in a refrigerator. Cut in slices and bake in a moderate oven. If desired, add a cup of chopped nuts to mixture.

RICE CRISPIES

Take a 15 cent Milk chocolate bar and melt it in a double boiler, stirring quickly. When it is a smooth paste, remove it from the heat. Then add 1 cup of rice crispies, stirring thoroughly. Place little drops of the mixture on a piece of wax paper, and put it in a cool place.

MOCHA ICING

One-quarter cup butter, dash of salt, 2 cups icing sugar, 3 teaspoons strong coffee, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons cocoa.

Wife Preservers

If you fasten the medicine dropper to the bottle of medicine with a rubber band you will save time and energy you would otherwise expend in looking for it.

Cream butter until soft. Gradually stir in 1 cup sugar. Then add vanilla and salt. Then add remaining sugar and cocoa alternately with strong coffee beating until smooth after each addition, and adding sufficient coffee for proper consistency to spread.

CHOCOLATE ICING

Two cups icing sugar (sifted), 3 tablespoons cocoa, ¼ lb. butter, 2 tablespoons boiling water, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon milk, 2 drops almond flavoring.

Cut butter into icing sugar, add cocoa and other ingredients. Mix mixture until it is a light, creamy paste.

FROSTING

Two teaspoons grated orange rind, 6 tablespoons orange juice, 3 tablespoons butter, dash of salt, 3 cups icing sugar, 2 ounces (melted) baking chocolate, 2 tablespoons scalded cream.

Place rind in juice and stand for 10 minutes. Then strain. Cream butter and salt together. Add ½ cup sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add melted chocolate and blend. Add remaining sugar alternately with orange juice, beating until smooth. Add hot cream and beat well, adding enough cream to make it a nice spreading consistency. This makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of 9 inch layer cake.

CHOCOLATE SQUARES

Beat up 2 eggs, add 1 cup brown sugar, add one-third cup butter and ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup cocoa. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, heaping cup chopped nuts. Butter and flour pan. Bake in over, 350 deg., 15 to 20 minutes.

EGGLESS CAKE

Sift 2 cups cake flour, add two-thirds teaspoon baking soda, add ¾ teaspoon salt. Sift together 3 times.

Cream 6 teaspoons Jewel shortening and blend in 1½ cups brown sugar, also one-third cup cocoa.

Add dry ingredients alternately with two-thirds cup sour milk. Stir well to blend, and lastly, add one-third cup boiling water. Bake in a square tin, greased and floured, in a moderate oven, at 325 deg. for 50 to 60 minutes. Frost with any desired frosting.

COCOA CAKE

Half cup butter, 2 cups light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups cake flour, pinch salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup sour milk, ½ cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ cup cocoa, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream shortening to a thick cream. Add sugar gradually and cream well. Add beaten eggs and beat until light. Sift flour once with baking powder and salt. Add to mixture alternately with sour milk and beat well after each addition. Mix soda and cocoa with boiling water and add to cake mixture. Add vanilla. Bake in oven 350 deg. for 35 minutes. Use an 8 by 10 cake tin, or two 10-inch layer cake tins.

Wife Preservers

A little butter or glycerine rubbed around the rim of the saucepan in which you scald milk will prevent the milk from boiling over

WALNUT SLICE

Ingredients for shell—One-half cup butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1¼ cups flour.

Mix and put in bottom of buttered pan. Bake for ten minutes until top is a light brown. (Slow oven).

Ingredients—3 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup cocoanut (shredded fine) or 1 cup raisins (chopped), 1 15 cent milk bar melted.

Mix all these ingredients together well, as they occur on the list, and put on top of bread shell. Bake in a very slow oven until brown. Use tin 11 in. x 7 in. x 1½ in.

MINA'S BRAZIL NUT AND CHERRY MERINGUES

One-half cup cold egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Add salt to whites and beat very stiff using whip, not rotary beater. Whisk in 2 tablespoons sugar at a time until ½ cup is added then beat until it is stiff enough to cut clean with a knife. Then add the remaining sugar by sprinkling it over top and beating just enough to mix it in. Then add ½ cup each sliced candied cherries, ½ cup sliced Brazils (or almonds) which have been blanched, and roll into balls with powdered sugar on your hands. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. until golden and when removed from oven they will retain their shape.

PINEAPPLE CUP CAKES

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, (butter and lard mixed will do), 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring, 2 eggs, separated, 2-3 cup crushed pineapple (mixed juice and pineapple). Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening until soft and smooth, and gradually add sugar, creaming until fluffy; add flavoring and beat in well beaten yolks. Add flour alternately with the pineapple, beating until smooth after each addition; fold in beaten whites. Turn into unbuttered fluted paper cups (about 2-3 full) and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. About 20 cup cakes.

These are delicious when frosted with butter frosting using well drained pineapple crushed in place of cream for moistening the mixture. Top with sliced maraschino cherry, or sprinkle frosting with toasted shredded cocoanut while it is still soft.

GINGERBREAD FINGERS

This is merely gingerbread cut in lady finger strips—split and spread with creamed yellow or white cheese or plain butter frosting. Put together sandwich fashion. (These are good when filled with cheese to serve with any fruit dessert.)

SOFT SUGAR GINGERBREAD

Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons ginger, two-thirds cup thin cream. Beat eggs until light, and add sugar gradually. Mix and sift dry

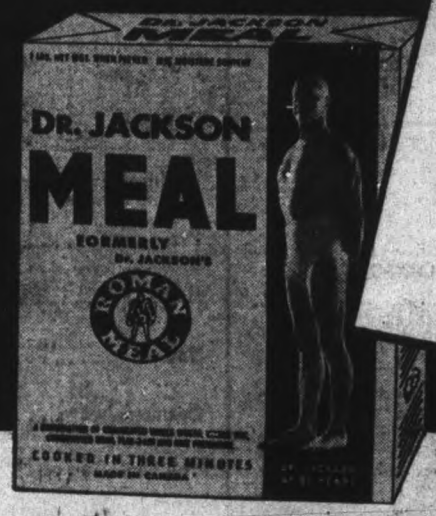
A challenge to Health-minded People



Give Dr. Jackson Meal this 30-day Breakfast Test... Then try again the cereal you had been using and SEE HOW GLAD YOU ARE TO GET BACK TO DR. JACKSON MEAL.

Who is Dr. Jackson?

At 40 years of age Dr. Jackson was a complete physical wreck, given but a few months to live, by the great Sir Wm. Osler. He was rapidly going blind and crippled. It was then Dr. Jackson invented Roman Meal (now Dr. Jackson Meal) to see if a complete change of eating and living habits would rejuvenate his body. He lived entirely upon Roman Meal for months taking systematic exercise in the fresh air. Today in his 81st year, Dr. Jackson has the strength, stamina and resistance of a trained young athlete and challenges physical degeneration, old age and sickness to attack him. Read his challenge to you in this advertisement.

Why am I so confident?

● I challenge you to make your next 30 breakfasts of Dr. Jackson Meal and fruit—and drink only Kofy-Sub, my alkali-forming, iron-rich beverage. Do this for 30 mornings—and take stock of your general health. THEN go back to your former cereal for a few weeks—and again check up.

Why do I make this challenge with so much confidence? Here's why: Dr. Jackson Meal is not a sweet, highly processed, denatured food that people taste and say "Nice"! This cereal is scientifically designed to give the human system what it needs. It must be chewed—that starts the saliva flowing to digest the starch element in food. It contains whole rye and wheat for vitality, and bran which supplies the needed roughage for bowel activity. In addition, it contains Flax-o-Lin and rice polishings which no other cereal has, rich in nerve-building mineral salts and vitalizing germs, and acting as a natural laxative.

This is the food that enables me and thousands of others to enjoy a full life of boundless strength and energy, and resistance to colds and disease. Because I am so confident it will do wonders for you I issue this challenge — 30 breakfasts of Dr. Jackson Meal (or my similar cereals, Lishus or Bekus-Puddy) and fruit if you want it, drinking only Kofy-Sub — the richest alkali-forming mineralised drink that I know of. Do this and you will feel so "different", so full of pep and purpose, that never again will you be content with "nice" soft and denatured foods.

Accept my challenge. See for yourself if I'm not right!

Add the prepared fruits except the citron, which have been dredged with the ¼ cup of flour mixture, the strawgerry preserves, toasted whole or chopped almonds, and grape juice. Last add soda dissolved in hot water and mix well. Grease and flour 2 large or 4 medium sized bread pans. Pour in a layer of batter, then a layer of citron, then another layer of batter, filling the pans three-quarters full. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr for about 3½ hours, or cover the pans closely with wax, parchment or transparents moisture proof paper and steam 2 hours; then remove paper and bake 2 hours at 275 deg. Fahr.

The recipe for Light Fruit Cake contains 5 eggs and yields about 3½ lbs. cake. It is unusual for its candied green cherries and candied lemon peel to give the only color.

ORANGE BREAD

Rind of 2 large or 3 small oranges put through food chopper, just enough cold water to cover rinds, 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 well-beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups all-purpose flour. Let rinds stand in water to just cover for 1 hour, then cook until tender—about 20 minutes. Add the sugar and cook until syrup is quite thick, and add butter and let cool. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; beat egg and add milk to it. Add flour mixture alternately with milk mixture, and stir until all are well blended. Pour into well greased 1-lb. baking powder tins, filling cans only 2-3 full—(using 3 cans)—let stand 5 minutes, then bake about 40 to 45 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Let cool in cans—keep cool until ready to pack into Christmas baskets. Put on covers and label ting by wrapping in neat strip of fancy Christmas wrapping paper — sticking cut edges with paste neatly, just as a can is labelled. This bread should not be made any more than two days ahead of the time it is to be dispatched, because if it is kept closely covered for too long at room temperature it will begin to mould.

Wife Preservers

If cream will not whip, add a little cornstarch or the white of an egg.

BURNT SUGAR CAKE

Before mixing the batter, ½ cup sugar is carmelized for flavoring. Stir over fire till melted and light brown, then slowly add 1-3 cup boiling water (it will spatter but continue stirring). Boil a few minutes to reduce to ¼ cup thick syrup, then cool it.

Cream 1½ cups sugar with 2-3 cup butter. Add 2 beaten yolks, 1 cup water or milk. Add 2 cups flour, the cooled syrup and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix, then add ½ cup flour sifted with 2½ teaspoons baking powder. If the syrup was not thick enough a little more flour may be needed, but do not make batter very thick. Fold in two stiffly beaten whites. Pour into 2 large buttered and floured layer cake tins and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes.

YELLOW FRUIT CAKE WITH CANDIED FRUITS

½ cup sultana raisins, 1 cup seeded raisins, ½ pound candied cherries, ½ pound candied pineapple or mixed French fruits, ¼ pounds candied citron, orange and lemon peels, 2 ounces preserved ginger, ½ pound blanched almonds, 1 cup orange juice, 1 cup butter, 1½ cups granulated sugar, 6 egg yolks, 3 cups pastry flour, 2 tablespoons rosewater.

Wash and divide the seeded raisins, and flour all raisins lightly; shave the candied pineapple, citron and peels very thin; cut the cherries in half; blanch and chop the almonds. Add the orange juice to the candied fruits and let stand several hours.

Cream the butter well and gradually work in the sugar; beat the egg yolks very light and add them. Sift in the flour gradually, mixing well; add the candied fruit mixture, the finely cut ginger, the flavoring and the raisins. Turn into pans prepared by lining with three thicknesses of white paper cut to fit and the last one buttered. Bake three hours in a slow oven, 300 degrees F.

GRANDMOTHER'S GINGER POUNDCAKE

Cream 1 cup shortening with 1 cup sugar until very light and fluffy. Add 1 cup golden corn syrup and beat it in very thoroughly. Sift 3½ cups cake flour with ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, and 1 tablespoon fresh ginger. Add alternately to the creamed mixture with ½ cup cream. Beat until smooth. Separate 4 eggs and beat the yolks until they are thick and lemon colored. Fold them lightly into the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry.

The success of a poundcake depends on the proper beating of the eggs for its lightness and fine, even texture). Fold the combined eggs into the beater as carefully as possible. Pour into greased and paper lined eight-inch tube pan or into square pan about 7 x 7 x 4. Bake in slow oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for about 75 minutes. Cool and store in covered tin unfrosted until ready for use. However, if you wish to serve it immediately frost with very rich uncooked butter frosting—beaten until your arm aches—and decorate with little flowers—stems and leaves of angelica and flower petals of little sections cut from candied cherries. Poundcake should be sliced very thinly.

RUSSIAN STRATA CAKE

(Canadian Style)

One lb. butter, 1 lb. sugar, yolks 10 eggs, 1 lb. flour, whites 10 eggs, ½ teaspoon mace, 2 tablespoons brandy, or 2 teaspoons true vanilla. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and continue beating; then add yolks beaten until thick and lemon colored, whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry, flour, mace and flavoring. Beat vigorously for 5 minutes. Bake in 3 layer cake tins buttered and floured, for about 25 minutes at 300 to 325 deg. Fahr. (For loaf pound cake bake 1¼ hrs. at 300.)

When done cool on cake cooler and slit each cake into 2 or 3 layers depending on the thickness. Spread between layers.

GOOD CHOCOLATE ICING

If you happen to have wondered how that particularly bland and creamy chocolate icing is made, you will welcome this recipe: 2 squares bitter chocolate, 2-3 cup scalded milk, few grains salt, 2 egg yolks, 2 teaspoons melted butter, icing sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Scald milk in double boiler and stir slowly into melted chocoate; add salt. Pour hot mixture slowly ove. slightly beaten egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Add butter. Cool. Sift in icing sugar until icing is of consistency to spread. Add vanilla.

CHOCOLATE CAKE MARSHMALLOW FROSTED

Two-thirds cup shortening, 2 cups granulated sugar, 4 egg yolks, 1 scant cup freshly-mashed potatoes, ½ cup milk, 2 squares chocolate, 1 2-3 cups flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, 4 egg whites, 1 cup walnut or pecan meats.

Cream the shortening and gradually work in the sugar. Beat egg yolks well and add them, beating well. The mashed potato (and always remember that it must be put through the ricer or well mashed, and put through a sieve while hot so that there will be no lumps) is beaten very light and combined with the mixture.

Melt the chocolate over hot water; add the milk. Sift the baking powder, salt and spices with the flour—we always sift our flour once before measuring it and three or four times afterwards.

Alternately add small amounts of the dry ingredients and the liquid to the first mixture, beating well after each addition.

Beat egg whites stiff and fold them, and the nutmeats (which you have prepared by coating them lightly with a little of the flour), into the batter.

Wife Preservers

To saute is to panfry or brown in a small amount of fat.

Bake at 375 deg. Fahr in two layers or if you prefer, at 350 deg. Fahr. in a loaf pan. You can grease your pan or line the bottom of it with two layers of white paper, cut to fit.

Put together and frost on top.

YOKAN (JAPANESE CAKES)

These are customarily served with tea. Two lbs. red beans (I presume kidney beans are meant), 2 lbs. sugar, and 2 oz. gelatine. Boil the beans for 3 hours and when quite tender rub through sieve, mix with sugar and gelatine which has been dissolved in one-third cup water and melted over heat, and simmer these all together for 7 hours. (Many Canadian cooks agree with me that the best method to accomplish this long cooking is in top of double boiler.) The mixture is then poured into very shallow moulds and served cold or when needed.

(UKRAINIAN HONEY CAKE)

One-half cup honey, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup cooking oil, ¼ teaspoon soda to counteract acidity of honey, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2½ cups sifted flour, 3 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon cloves, shredded or blanched almond (¾ cup). Cream honey and sugar with the oil very well, then add beaten yolks, then sift in flour, baking powder, soda, salt and cloves, beating very well. Add vanilla and almonds, then fold in whites. I added ¼ cup milk while sifting in the flour—I think the cake would be rather firm without it. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. in loaf or sheet pan.

BUTTER CAKES

This is a blood sister to the much-coveted recipe for these famous cakes, which became so because they were the window specialty of a restaurant chain.

Two cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or other good shortening, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cakes yeast, 4½ cups sifted flour. Scald the milk and add the salt, butter and sugar to it. Cool this to lukewarm, then add the yeast and stir until yeast is dissolved. Then sift in the sifted flour and beat until smooth, which will take about 2 minutes. Put in clean bowl and stand bowl in pan of warm water, about 70 deg. Fahr., and stand on radiator or where temperature of water will remain constant. You may have to add a little boiling water from time to time. Let rise until very light, about twice its size. Drop from large spoon onto a medium hot griddle, not as hot as for griddle cakes. Bake until bottom crust is brown, then turn and bake on other side. It takes about 10 or 15 minutes to get a crunchy crust on both sides. Split while hot and dot with butter to serve while still piping hot. If some are left, split, toast, butter and serve hot.

TUTTI-FRUITTI WHIPPED CREAM

Whip heavy cream very stiff—to it add chopped candied or drained maraschino cherries, and blanched almonds shredded or shredded peeled Brazils—to 1 cup cream use 3 tablespoons each fruit and nuts and about 2 tablespoons sugar. Serve cake at table—and add cream just before passing.

SO BA (BLACK CAKES)

One lb. soy bean flour, yolk of 1 egg, a little salt, and enough water to make stiff paste. Mix well and knead and let stand for ½ hour. Roll as thinly as possible.

UNCLE JOHN'S DANISH PASTRY

Put in bowl 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon mace, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon vanilla or juice and grated rind 1½ lemons, ¾ cup sugar, lard size of egg, 1 pound 12 oz. bread flour, 2 cakes yeast, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix eggs with butter then with 1 pint lukewarm milk or water, in which yeast and sugar have been dissolved (temperature of liquid about 100 deg. Fahr.) Salt is the last added to yeast mixture, although professional bakers do not do this. Roll out this dough without waiting for it to rise for it begins to "proof" while you work with so much yeast and warm liquid. Using 1 pound butter and 5 ounces other shortening dot all this over 2-3 of the rolled out dough—dough should be about 2½ feet long by 1 foot wide and ½-inch thick. Fold plain end of buttered portion as far as it will go, cover this with right hand one-third of dough. Dredge with what seems to be an excessive amount of flour, for when rolling is started butter squeezes out of the edges, and pin must be well floured—a heavy pin with handles that turn when you roll is necessary too—for the dough is elastic and does not roll easily. Roll to original size—2½ feet by 1 foot — and fold until dough has been folded to make twelve layers—keeping it dredged with flour throughout folding to kep butter from oozing through. Roll again, fold over and chill.

Now work half the dough at once. Roll out ½-inch thick. They may now be made up in several different shapes. Dough may be sprinkled with raisins and chopped nuts (brazils, pecans, almonds or walnuts), rolled up like flattened jelly roll and cut off some thing like cinnamon rolls. Instead of standing them on buttered pan cut side down, using handle of wooden spoon press a deep crease lengthwise of bun parallel with cut side—this makes the folds open and brings the fruit and nuts to the top. Let stand on buttered pan until about double in size in warm place and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 10 or 12 minutes, then turn off oven until done—about 5 minutes. They may be brushed with an "egg wash"—which consists of the yolk of an egg and same amount of evaporated milk beaten together and brushed over top of buns before baking.

To make pineapple cornucopias cut rolled out Danish pastry into rectangles about 4" x 2½"—put 2 teaspoons pineapple jam in centre, fold corners overlapping to make an elongated diamond. Bake as above.

Dough may be spread with raspberry jam, rolled like jelly roll and cut off in 1-inch lengths and baked cut side down, as described above.

CARAMEL KRISPS

Boil 1 1-lb can unopened condensed milk (not evaporated) in a kettle covered with water for 3 hours to caramelize it. Remove from heat and chill, then open and mix with 16 oz. package of Rice Flakes or Krispies or Corn Flakes or Puffed Wheat and 1 cup broken pecans or walnuts. Form into balls on a greased baking sheet and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes. Heavily buttered heavy waxed paper on bottom of pan facilitates removing them.

CORN FLAKE COOKIES

Two cups sugar, ½ cup shortening, lard and butter or all butter, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup raisins, 3 cups corn flakes (crispened), 2 teaspoons baking powder, 5 cups cake flour. Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, then add soda to sour milk and add; sift in flour and baking powder, then add remaining ingredients. Bake slowly in form of drop cookies on buttered cookie sheets (about 325 or 350 deg. Fahr.)

CARAMEL NUT FROSTING

One cup light brown sugar, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 1-3 cup water, 2 egg whites, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup nuts. Heat and stir sugar and water slowly till dissolved, then boil to thread stage (230 deg. Fahr.) Beat the whites till stiff and slowly pour the syrup into them, beating constantly. When quite cool pour the frosting into a double boiler and beat over the boiling water till the mixture starts to crystalize (or grain) as it is stirred; then add nuts and vanilla. This is known as twice-cooked frosting and is delicious because of its creaminess.

ORANGE CUSTARD CUP CAKES

One-half cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, grated rind of 1 orange, 1 cup milk, 2½ cups cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder. Cream the butter with half the sugar, and beat the egg yolks with the rest. When both mixtures are light and delicate, combine them, add the orange rind, then alternate the milk and flour sifted with the salt and baking powder, beat well and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and bake in tiny slightly flaring muffin tins well buttered. When cool cut off tops scooping out as much as possible, then fill with an orange custard (see below), replace the cap. Top with a thick boiled frosting put on roughly and decorate with chopped orange peel or candied orange peel.

ORANGE CUSTARD

Beat 1 egg well, then add 1 tablespoon soft butter, ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and ¼ cup milk. Then add the grated rind of ¼ orange and the juice of the whole orange. Cook over boiling water till thick, then cool before using. Double this amount if all the cup cakes are to be filled.

BETTY'S TOFFEE BAR COOKIES

First Layer—½ cup butter, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup flour. Soften butter, beat in sugar, then add flour and spread mixture over bottom of ungreased 9-inch pan. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Slightly cool and spread next layer on top and finish baking.

Second Layer—Two eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped nuts (toasted almonds preferred), 1 cup shredded cocoanut. Beat eggs well, add sugar and vanilla. Add flour, baking powder and salt softened together, then add nuts and cocoanut (this may be omitted) and spread over warm first layer. Bake at 340 deg. Fahr about 30 minutes. Before cooling, cut into 27 bars (1 x 3 inches).

PECAN TARTS

Three-quarters cup of sugar or honey or maple syrup or brown sugar, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, 3 tablespoons coffee (when brewed), 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup warm milk or water, ½ cup raisins or dates, 2-3 cup pecans, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and ground cloves, 2 eggs, yolks and whites separated. Mix in order given. Fill unbaked tart shells 2-3 full and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. This filling may be poured into unbaked pie shell. It is rich and delicious.

MARSHMALLOW FILLING

30 marshmallows, 1 egg white, 1½ cups confectionery sugar, 3 tablespoons cold water.

Put 15 of your marshmallows in the top of your double boiler and place over hot water to soften. While they are heating, cut the remainder of the marshmallows in small pieces with your scissors or knife (kept from stickiness by repeated dipping in sugar).

When the first marshmallows are softened, add the unbeaten egg white, sugar and water and beat over boiling water for seven minutes, using your Dover beater.

Remove from heat and fold in the cut-up marshmallows; continue to fold the mixture over and over until it is stiff enough to hold its shape.

When the top of the cake has been spread with the marshmallow cream (we like to spread it very roughly with the back of a spoon) a very little melted bitter chocolate may be poured over it in hit-or-miss fashion—or a little of the chocolate may be grated over the white surface; or broken nut meats could be scattered on it.

EMEM'S APPLESAUCE CAKE

One cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon mace, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup seeded raisins (these may be omitted), 1 cup unsweetened strained applesauce, 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda. Put in saucepan all ingredients except flour, baking powder and soda. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat, let simmer 3 minutes, then cool. Sift in dry ingredients. Beat 3 minutes. Bake in well buttered loaf pan at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes. This cake will keep moist for more than a week. The spices may be varied—if you do not use raisins, add about 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind. Serve hot with

APRICOT LOAF

Two eggs unbeaten, ½ cup milk, 1 1-3 cups brown sugar, 1-3 cup soft butter (not melted), 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ½ lb. chopped dried apricots (if these are steamed 5 minutes they are softer when baked). Put the unbeaten eggs and all other ingredients in a mixing bowl together (without any previous mixing or the texture of loaf is changed), and beat 3 minutes Bake in buttered loaf cake pan in moderate oven 35 to 40 minutes (about 350 deg. Fahr.)

To make Frosting—Cook together ½ cup water and 1¾ cups brown sugar and pinch salt until it will spin a thread, then beat while pouring slowly over 2 beaten egg whites, until of spreading consistency.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

One cup butter, 1 cup white sugar, 5 eggs, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon lemon rind, 1 cup candied green cherries, ½ cup candied lemon peel, 1 cup blanched almonds. Cut the candied cherries into thin slices and cut the lemon peel in slivers. Dredge these with about 3 tablespoons of the flour, so that

NOTED HOME ECONOMIST SHARES HELPFUL BAKING SECRETS

Martha Logan, Swift's Culinary Expert and Meal Planner, Offers Peterboro Women These Practical Tips.

(1) GENERAL RULES FOR PASTRIES

Level all standard measurements.

Keep all pastry ingredients cold if possible. If Jewel warms and softens during cutting-in, chill before adding water.

A small amount of baking powder may be sifted with flour and salt—as a help to the beginner in getting a light paste.

Cut Jewel into sifted dry ingredients, using knives or a pastry blender, or rub in quickly with chilled finger-tips.

For flakier crusts, keep part of Jewel in large bits—for closer paste, cut in Jewel finely or rub in lightly.

Sprinkle water over surface, a little at a time.

Roll in lightly-floured canvas, with rolling-pin covered with a child's ribbed white cotton stocking-leg—to prevent the rolling-in of extra flour. Chill paste if soft, rather than add extra flour. Results are helped when paste goes from deep chill of refrigerator, directly into very hot oven, 450 degrees to 475 degrees.

(2) LARGE CAKES AND ICINGS

Use standard 8-ounce measuring cup, and measuring spoons.

Level all measurements.

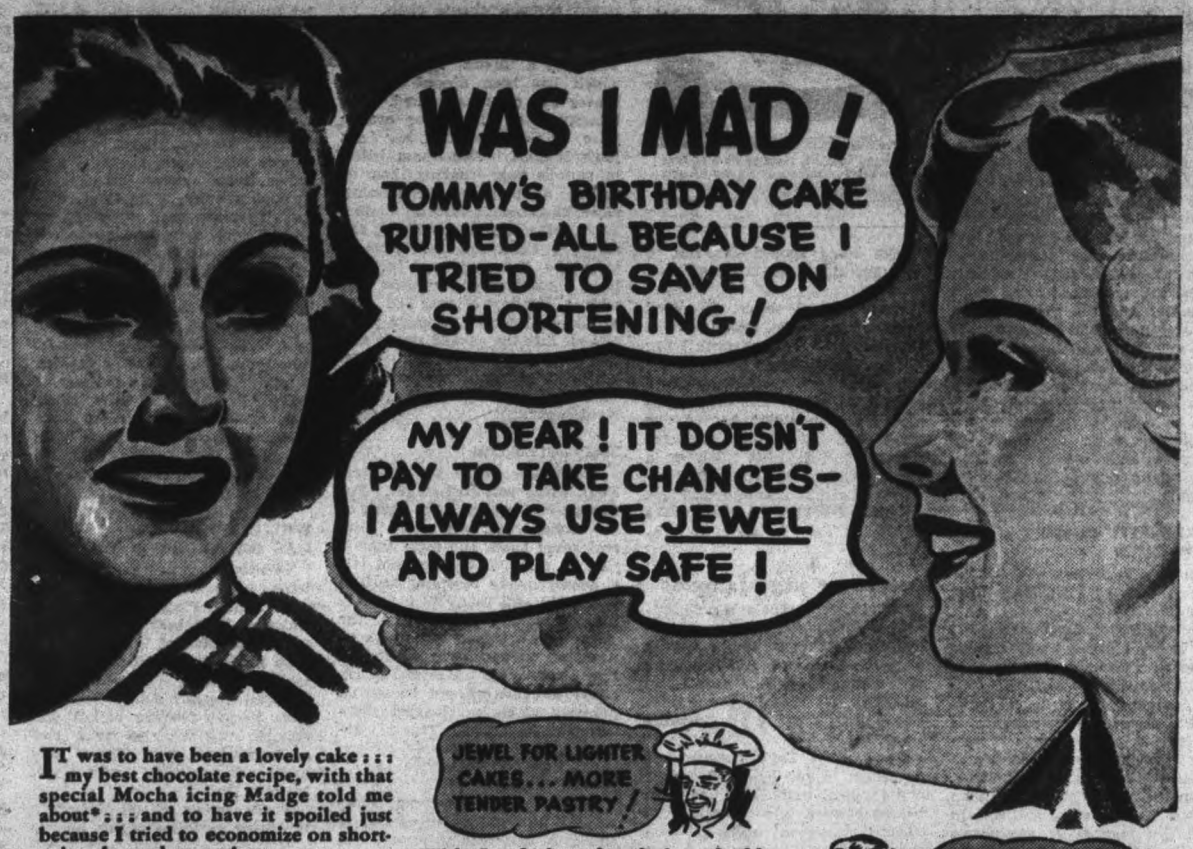
Have all ingredients at as nearly same temperature as possible. (Jewel Shortening, because it keeps so well at ordinary temperature, can be always ready for cake-making.)

The foundation of a cake's texture is laid when the shortening and sugar are creamed together and eggs added. It is at this early stage that most of the beating should be done. Because of the already creamy consistency of Jewel Shortening, it dissolves the sugar quickly, and can easily be beaten very light and fluffy.

Avoid over-beating of ordinary cakes after addition of flour.

Sift flour, and stir up other powdery dry ingredients, before measuring. It is well to sift light dry ingredients together several times after measuring.

Cook Jewel cakes 3 minutes in pan, before turning onto wire rack to cool. Avoid draughts.



IT was to have been a lovely cake . . . my best chocolate recipe, with that special Mocha icing Madge told me about* . . . and to have it spoiled just because I tried to economize on shortening, burned me up!

The ingredients alone in that cake cost 32 cents, not to mention my time and labour, and after all's said and done, my "saving", through using inferior shortening, represented less than one cent!

With Jewel, there just isn't a shoddy baking result in sight! Sensibly-priced, pure Jewel Shortening creams faster to make finer-textured cakes. Pastry is more tender . . . biscuits are fluffier . . . puddings, lighter, and "deep-fries" are tastier than you could possibly imagine!

Jewel is so perfectly bland that you're sure of the genuine home-made flavour in any of the thousand-and-one dishes you may choose to make with it. That's why you should jot down JEWEL on today's shopping list.

Your dealer will tell you why thousands upon thousands of Canadian women, all the way from Halifax to Vancouver, have found that Jewel gives results as fine as any shortening, regardless of price! Swift Canadian Co., Limited.

*MOCHA ICING

1½ tbsps. cocoa

Cream Jewel with about ½ cup icing sugar. Add egg yolk. Sift remaining icing sugar with cocoa, cinnamon and salt; add to Jewel mixture alternately with coffee. Beat until smooth and creamy. More icing sugar may be added if preferred.

TRY JEWEL IN THESE TESTED MARTHA LOGAN RECIPES!

Jewel Pie-Paste (No. 1)

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup Jewel shortening (Jewel makes easily digestible pastry)
Cold water.

Sift flour and salt together. Cut in Jewel finely or work in quickly with chilled finger-tips. Mix in gradually only sufficient water to make a stiff dough which, when mixed lightly, may be cleaned easily from bowl. Chill if possible. If paste softens in warm room, always chill rather than work in more flour.

Note: (a) ½ teaspoon baking powder may be sifted with flour, if desired. (b) 1 teaspoon sugar may be sifted with dry ingredients.

Rich Jewel Pie-Paste (No. 2)

Prepare same as "Jewel Pie-Paste, No. 1," but increase Jewel to 2-3 cup and cut it in rather coarsely. Or cut in half of Jewel finely and second half coarsely.

Note: For occasional special purposes, amount of Jewel may be increased.

Flaky Jewel Pie-Paste (No. 3)

2 cups sifted flour
1-3 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup Jewel Shortening
Cold water.

Sift flour and salt. Cut in half of Jewel finely. Gradually mix in sufficient water to make a paste which when lightly mixed may be cleaned easily from bowl. Roll 1-6 inch thick; dot with half of reserved Jewel (which has been kept chilled). Dredge lightly with flour and fold in thirds from sides and ends. Roll and repeat, to use remaining Jewel. (With the new, purely-vegetable Jewel there's never a hint of "shortening" taste). Chill.

Easy Semi-Flake Jewel Paste (No. 4)

2 cups sifted flour
2-3 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup Jewel Shortening (Jewel makes more tender the crusts than the real "costly" shortenings).
Ice-cold water.

Sift flour and salt; cut in Jewel rather coarsely. Set aside ¼ of mixture. To remainder, add gradually just enough water to make a paste which when lightly mixed, may be cleaned easily from the bowl.

Roll 1-6 inch thick. Sprinkle half the reserved Jewel-and-flour "crumbs" over 2-3 of paste surface. Fold paste in three, to enclose crumbs—then fold over each end. Roll and repeat to use remaining crumbs. Chill if possible.

Sour Cream Raisin Pie

Jewel pie-paste No. 2 (or No. 3 or 4)
1 cup seeded raisins
1 cup crushed maple sugar
1 cup hot water
1 cup thick sour cream

Simmer raisins, maple sugar and water together for 15 minutes. Cool slightly, then combine with cream. Turn into pan lined with Jewel paste. Cover with upper crust, in which eyelets have been cut. Dampen, seal and crimp edges. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, about 30 minutes.

Lemon Meringue Pie

Jewel pie-paste No. 4 (or No. 2 or 3)
9 tablespoons sifted flour or 4½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

2 egg whites
4 tablespoons powdered sugar

Make pie shell. Stir boiling water into combined flour, granulated sugar and salt. Stir, and cook until mixture thickens and no raw flour flavour remains. Stir into egg yolks. Stir over boiling water until egg thickens. Remove from heat and add butter, lemon juice and rind. Cool slightly; turn into baked pie shell. Cover with lightly-piled meringue of the 2 egg whites and sugar.

Crunchy-Crust Cake

2½ cups sifted cake or pastry flour or 2 cups and 2 tablespoons sifted hard-wheat flour
⅔ cup granulated sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg
¼ cup Jewel, the sensibly-priced, superfine Shortening
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup sweet milk

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and spices. Cut in Jewel Shortening finely. Add eggs and milk; beat smooth. Turn into Jewelled and floured 9 x 12-inch pan. Cover with crumb mixture below, and bake in moderate oven, 350 degree, 40 to 50 minutes.

Crumb Mixture: Combine ¾ cup brown sugar with 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon salt. Rub in ¼ cup Jewel Shortening and add ¾ cup chopped nuts.

Honey-Applesauce Cake

1 cup Jewel purely-vegetable Shortening
¾ cup honey
1 cup applesauce (sweetened)
2 cups sifted cake or pastry flour or 1¾ cups sifted hard-wheat flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon grated nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup broken walnuts
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon boiling water

Cream Jewel slightly and blend in honey. (By actual test Jewel creams faster than the costliest type of vegetable shortening). Add applesauce; combine well. Add raisins and nuts to sifted flour, salt and spices; add gradually to Jewel mixture. Stir in soda, dissolved in boiling water. Bake in Jewelled and floured loaf pan, in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 1 hour.

Honey Frosting

1½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup hot water
½ cup liquid honey
2 egg whites.

Boil sugar and water together until syrup will form a long, very heavy thread (270 degrees). Stir in honey slowly and remove from heat. Beat egg whites stiff; pour in syrup slowly, beating continuously until frosting will hold shape.

the pieces of fruit do not stick together. Blanch the almonds by pouring boiling water over them, draining and slipping off the skin.

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually, and cream until the mixture is smooth and fluffy. Add the eggs which have been beaten together for about 5 minutes. Add the ramining four (minus that taken out for dredging) sifted with the baking powder, folding it in gradually. Add the grated lemon rind and juice. Add the fruit and nuts, mix well, and turn into two loaf tins, approximately 9 x 5 x 3 inches, which have been lined with white paper and greased. This must be baked slowly at about 325 to 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1½ hours. The heavy white paper prevents cake becoming too brown on bottom.

INEXPENSIVE PLAIN FRUIT CAKE

(Flavor and texture of this cake are especially good considering the cost.)

One cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 3½ cups flour, 1 cup milk, 3 eggs, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, ¾ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 lbs. seedless raisins, 1 lb. currants, ½ lb. broken walnut meats, grated rind of 1 lemon. Cook raisins, and currants in about ½ cup water, drain and add hot to batter last thing. Cream the butter, and sugar, then the well beaten eggs, and sift in sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Add nuts then hot fruit and rind. (The hot fruit keeps the cake lighter and prevents fruit sinking.) Bake in 2 loaves for 1¼ hours at 300 deg. Fahr. Or steam 2 hours then bake 1 hour.

CHRISTMAS CHERRIES

Not because they are cherries but cookies—and because they are uncommon and uncommonly good.

One-half cup shortening, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, separated, ½ teaspoon true vanilla, 1 tablespoon grated fresh orange rind, 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup sifted flour, ½ cup chopped walnuts whole or halves of cherries, candied. Cream the shortening, add the sugar and cream well. Add the beaten egg yik, vanilla, orange and lemon rind, and lemon juice and mix well. Chill. Roll into small balls about ¾ or 1 inch in diameter, roll in the chopped walnuts, and place on greased baking sheet, pressing a half cherry in top of each, thus flattening the cookie slightly. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes—this makes about 33 cookies if pressed down enough to make them 1½ inches in diameter.

CHRISTMAS HERMITS

Three-quarters cup shortening, (preferably butter), 1 1-3 cups light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1½ cups seeded raisins, ½ cup finely sliced candied citron peel, ½ cup broken pecans. Cream the shortening, add the sugar gradually, and cream until the mixture is smooth. Add the beaten egg and mix well. Sift together the flour, baking powder and spices and add gradually to the butter and sugar mixture. Add the fruit and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets and bake at 360 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Dates may be substituted for raisins. This makes about 40 cookies 2 inches wide.

CINNAMON STARS

These are made similar to true macaroon formula — ground almonds in a meringue. They make excellent Christmas tree decoration (if you place a loop of white string in each cookie before baking)—and are so airy the children may be allowed to eat them without too much worry for their appetites being spoiled—it's fun to eat something off the tree you know.

1 cup plus 3 tbisps. powdered sugar, 1 tsp. graded lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg white, ¾ cup ground blanched almonds ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Fold the sugar, lemon juice and lemon rind into the stiffly beaten egg white. Add the almonds and cinnamon. Roll ⅜ inch thick on a board sprinkled with powdered sugar and cut into star shapes. Place on greased baking sheet and bake at 325 deg. Fahr for about 10 minutes.

CHOCOLATE NUT DIAMONDS

This is not particularly a Christmas cookie——for it is best served two or three days—within a week at least—of making. But it is more of a confection than a cookie and makes such a pretty contrast on a cookie plate I advise you to make them.

Two square Fry's unsweetened chocolate, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup chopped walnuts, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup flou 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, teaspoon salt. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler, add the eggs beaten with the sugar; sift in dry ingredients, then add walnuts and melted butter last. Mix well, and spread thinly on pan 8" by 16" or on two 8 in. by 8 in. pans, spreading to about one-quarter inch thickness. Bake in oven of 350 deg Fahr. and then allow to cool. Leave in pan for frosting. (See be low).

Frosting for chocolate nut diamonds—Melt 2 squares Frys unsweetened chocolate in top of double boiler, add to it 1 cup icing sugar, 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Remove from heat at once, and when chocolate nut diamonds are ccol, spread thinly with frosting. Let cool thoroughly in pans before cutting into diamond shapes with very sharp knife.

Candy

MRS. MIDDLETON'S SOFT CREAM FONDANT

Four cups sugar, 2 cups cream. Stir and heat slowly till dissolved; then, without stirring, boil slowly to 235 deg. Fahr. no longer. Without scraping the pan, gently pour syrup onto buttered slab and leave until perfectly cold before handling. Now knead the candy—the more it is kneaded the finer grained the finished product will be. Then roll into about 6 inch lengths 1 inch in diameter. Do not let stand more than 1 day before covering, as this fondant becomes soft after coating.

CREAM TAFFY

Two cups sugar, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ cup cream, 1 cup water, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-16 teaspoon soda. Mix together, put over heat and boil to 290 deg. Fahr. without stirring. Cool and pull until of right consistency to press into sheet about ¼ inch thick by 6 inches long and any width. Cut it off in just wide enough widths to surround rolls of fondant.

Immediately roll around fondant and dip into chopped nuts. Wrap in waxed paper to chill, but do not leave in cold room.

GUM DROPS

Make Japanese jelly as follows (purchase Agar-agar-sea-weed at the druggist's): One lb. granulated sugar, ½ lb. (about 1 cup) white corn syrup, flavoring, coloring, 1 pint of cold water, ⅛ oz. (¼ cup) granulated agar-agar. Soak Agar-agar in the cold water for 2 hours or longer, then stir over low heat until completely dissolved, then strain through cheese cloth. To this add the sugar and syrup and cook to 220 deg. Fahr. or until it will spin a thread from a fork which has been dipped into it. Flavor and color as desired. One tablespoon of lemon or orange juice, or any berry or other fruit juice is good. Tint these jellies in various ways—making them as varied as possible. Peppermint, clove, cinnamon, sassafras, wintergreen, rose and other flavors are suitable. Color them all colors to suite the flavoring put in. To form them spread a shallow pan with a one-inch layer of corn starch—and with a thimble press moulds into the packed starch and into these pour the gum drop paste. When cold roll in heavy sugar syrup and then in granulated sugar.

MAPLE CREAMS

Boil maple syrup to 321 deg. Fahr. (very soft ball stage). For fine grained creams pour 1 pint of the cooked syrup into each of several small bowls (no more than 1 pint in each)and when cold stir it evenly, never stopping, until it is creamy and ready to pour into pan or moulds. Never use the same bowl or spoon twice without washing, as the grain on it will spoil the grain of the second batch. Large amounts cannot be stirred properly. Nuts or chopped cherries may be added. This is delicious and soft.

MAPLE FUDGE

Boil 2 cups maple syrup, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter and ¼ cup milk or cream until soft ball will form when dropped in cold water. Cool and beat until creamy. Add nuts; shape into balls and flatten into patties or roll out and cut into squares.

DARK CHOCOLATE FUDGE

(Use candy thermometer for perfect results).

Mix together in a saucepan 2 cups brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, grated pinch of salt, 1 cup strong coffee and ½ cup cream. Stir ingredients until well mixed. Cover until the mixture comes to a full rolling boil. Then continue cooking uncovered to 238 deg. Fahr.—to soft ball stage for those who rashly attempt this without a thermometer. Remove from heat, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 tablespoon butter. Set in pan of cold water and cool to lukewarm, then beat until the mixture becomes light in texture and creamy. Add ½ cup chopped nuts, walnuts, brazils or pecans—or 8 marshmallows cut into small pieces with buttered scissors. Pour into buttered pan, when the candy begins to stiffen, and decorate top with nuts or pieces or marshmallow or chopped candied cherries. When firm cut into squares. Do not remove from pan until quite cold.

Christmas Dinner

TURKEY STUFFING

One average size baker's loaf of white bread fresh, 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, plus 1 teaspoon freshly rubbed sage, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper, 1 cup very finely chopped celery, ½ cup melted butter, the lightly beaten yolk and white of 1 egg—chopped parsely, 1 tablespoon grated onion, a few chopped blanched almonds are optional, but do add greatly to the flavor. Mix in order given—do not moisten the crumbs—they are fastest removed from loaf with fork. Do not pack tightly into turkey, but sew in tightly.

GIBLET GRAVY.

Pour off 6 tablespoons fat from pan in which turkey was roasted, sprinkle into the fat ⅓ cup flour, and stir until well blended, then add salt and pepper if needed—this should probably be withheld until liquids are added, then gravy can be tasted. Add 4 cups liquid—that in which giblets were cooked, and water from vegetables plus a little of the pan gravy skimmed free of fat. Stir until it thickens, then add chopped (not ground) giblets and stir well. Now taste, and add salt and pepper if needed.

ALMOND PASTE

One pound blanched almonds, 1 teaspoon orange flavor water, 2 pounds icing sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon almond essence. Put almonds through grinder, using finest cutter. They are hard to grind, but adding a few drops of the required oils facilitates the grinding. Mix sugar well with the ground almonds, then add beaten eggs and both essences. Sprinkle board with icing sugar and knead the almond paste with hands for about 10 minutes in all, just as in making bread. Roll out to exact size of cakes. Brush all of cakes lightly with white of egg to make paste stick and press almond paste down firmly on top of cake. Allow to harden overnight before putting on white icing.

WHITE ICING (FOR CHRISTMAS OR WEDDING CAKES)

Two unbeaten egg whites, lemon juice, icing sugar, 1 tablespoon corn syrup. Place unbeaten egg whites in bowl, beat in 1 cup icing sugar, add juice of ½ lemon, then beat in sufficient icing sugar to make the icing consistency of whipped cream. Add corn syrup (this keeps frosting moist) and enough icing sugar to make it of spreading consistency. Spread very evenly over almond paste about ½-inch.

There are two schools of thought regarding pudding sauces just as they are far graver matters in —I am told a clear highly flavored sauce is the only kind of an epicure would touch. On the other hand one strong minded clique says the rich creamy sauce that grandmother used to make is the only kind worthy of the rich plum pudding under it. You fight it out—I give you both types.

GRANDMOTHER'S PLUM PUDDING SAUCE.

One cup white sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup boiling water. Cream butter, add sugar and beat in well, then add beaten egg and beat in well. Add water slowly and keep hot in double boiler. Make this as late as possible before serving. (Hint: a little rum or brandy and freshly grated nutmeg may be added by those in the know).

EPICURE PUDDING SAUCE.

Base: One-calf cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter, few grains salt. Mix sugar and cornstarch, add water gradually, stirring constantly; boil 5 minutes, remove from heat, add butter. Variations: As soon as sauce has been made as above either of the following additions may be made: 1½ tablespoons rum or 2 tablespoons brandy or 1 tablespoon vanilla or ½ teaspoon mixed spices —nutmeg, cloves and cinamon.

"Piquante Dressing" for almost any type of green salad has been on my mind for a few days—I mentioned serving avocada salad in one of our Christmas dinner menus—and think this dressing would go nicely on it too. It perfect for head lettuce in wedge slices of leaves or for a tossed

EASY PUFF PASTE

One cup bread flour, 1 tablespoon lard, cold water, ⅞ cup butter. Work the lard into the flour using the finger tips. Moisten the dough with cold water, pat it out on floured board and roll out oblong or square keeping corners as square as possible. Dot the paste with small pieces of butter, using one-third the quantity, dredge with very little flour, fold from ends towards centre, then double making four layers. Roll out. Repeat these processes until all buttered is used. Chill thoroughly, cut into desired shapes, chill thoroughly again, bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, reducing heat to 400 to finish.

PUFF paste may be baked in sheets and cut into oblongs. Spread the bottom one with pineapple jam, cover with second oblong, cover this with rich butter frosting or whipped cream, put on third oblong and cover with whipped cream or rich butter frosting and sprinkle top with finely chopped blanched almonds or pistachio nuts. Lemon filling may be used instead of pineapple jam. Cut the whole into "Napoleons" 2 inches by 4 inches. Puff paste may be baked in tart shapes and filled with any desired filling.

Add gradually to the yolk the juice of 1 medium sized orange, strained, then add the beaten white and whip to a froth. Pour into 5 or 10-ounce glass and fill glass with whole cold milk—serve immediately.

FRESH PEACH CUSTARD PUDDING

Sift together 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, and ½ teaspoon salt. Add ½ cup Graham flour and ½ cup sugar and then chop in ½ cup butter (or ⅓ butter and ⅓ lard). Stir in enough sour or buttermilk to make a stiff dough. Roll to about ½-inch thickness and line a deep pie pan. Peel and stone and cut peaches in eighths, and press these into dough. Sprinkle with 1-3 cup cinnamon and bake until nearly done at 400 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven and pour over a custard mixture of 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 egg, well beaten together. Bake until custard soaks in and top is golden. This is good hot, but better cold we think.

ALMOND PUDDING WITH PEACH SAUCE

For the pudding—4 tablespoons butter 1-3 cup sugar, ½ cup molasses, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk, 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¾ cup almonds blanched and preferably roasted, ¼ teaspoon salt. Then add 2 tablespoons lemon juice before serving.

Do not serve it when you are serving potatoes with the main course.

APPLESAUCE JELLO

Dissolve one package of lemon jello in 1 cup boiling water. Then add 2 cups fresh sweetened applesauce and pour into bowl and chill. (slow oven) for about 30 minutes, or until custard is set. Single casserole takes about 35 minutes. The above is delicious for small children who need to be coaxed to eat eggs; it is easily digested and its appearance is appealing to invalids with indifferent appetites.

RASPBERRY WHIP CANAPE

Mash very ripe raspberries and fold into sweetened, stiffly whipped cream. When cold and set turn out on plates and surround base with narrow fluting of whipped cream; or serve in patty dishes and pass plain cream.

COOKED RICE

Wash the rice thoroughly in cold water so as to free it from all loose starch which tends to thicken in boiling, and so clogs the rice. Salt should be added always to the boiling water, as otherwise the rice will be insipid and tasteless. Put 1 cup rice in a large saucepan of boiling salted water (about 2 quarts) and from the minute the water begins to boil again (after rice is added) allow exactly 13 minutes (just as closely as you would time an egg) Then pour the rice through a sieve, pour cold water over it, let it drain well and toss it lightly with a fork before serving to break up any lumps. Every grain will be separate, dry and quite hot.

BHOONEE KHICHREE ("CRISP" KEDGEREE)

To our taste this form of Kedgeree is tastier than plain kedgeree—it is usually served with mango chutney.

Remove the onion from the pan and in the same butter in which the onion was fried put the rice and lentils and cook till all the butter has been absorbed. Then add the ginger and all other seasoning ingredients, cover with hot water, put the lid on and simmer very slowly till all the water has been completely absorbed. Stir or shake to keep it from burning. Remove whole spices and serve with the fried onions strewn over the top

SHRIMP CURRY KOFTA

This method of making shrimp curry is one of the specialties of a favorite movie star—whether that makes it any more delicious or not I do not know—however, her method of making it in a chafing dish at table at parties does sound alluring.

Ordinarily in India the meat of the curry is made into forcemeat balls, but with shrimps especially this spoils their pretty shape, and essence of the curry can be retained in the accompanying sauce: 4 tablespoons butter (or mustard oil) 3 oz. meat stock (or canned clear consomme), 1 tablespoon ground or grated onion, ½ teaspoon ground chili powder, ½ teaspoon turmeric, ¼ teaspoon ground garlic, 1 teaspoon ground mixed herbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ tablespoons fine breadcrumbs, 1 egg. The chopped shrimps (or other meat such as chicken, beef, pork, lamb, crabs, etc), 1 lb. would be mixed with these ingredients and formed into balls and simmered. But our method is to add the shrimps uncooked or canned to the above sauce plus 1 cup stock and omit the egg, simmer over very slow heat until sauce coats shrimps nicely. (See alternate recipe.)

SHRIMP CURRY (CANADIANIZED VERSION

One pint cooked shrimps, 2 or 3 onions, ½ lb. tomatoes, 2 cloves, garlic, ½ tablespoon curry powder, 4 tablespoons butter, salt. Fry the sliced onions and garlic in the butter and when brown, mix in the curry powder and salt. Quarter the tomatoes and add them, crushing them with a spoon, so as to press out the juice. Add 2 tablespoons hot water, the shelled shrimps and simmer for 20 minutes.

Other vegetables besides tomatoes can be used—for instance lentils or egg plant.

CIDER JELLY MOULDS

To eight measuring cups of fresh cider add the grated rind of one lemon and boil slowly for 5 minutes, strain, to 4 tablespoons gelatine add 1 cup cider and let soak for 5 minutes, pour the strained hot cider over it when ready and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add the juice of 1 lemon, pour into moistened small moulds and chill. When ready to serve arrange around ham on platter, and serve one mould on each.

You will note we suggest serving the "salad course" iced. A clever innovation by my hostess was placing plenty of ice in a very large (14-inch) spherical vase of light amber glass in the centre of the table, surrounded by candles—it was so pretty filled to the top with curly celery hearts and wafer thin slices of carrot which had curled at the edges—and between them all large ripe olives in contrast. A little salt had been added to the ice water—no more was necessary. It was very popular and not a sliver of anything was left in it when the party was over.

PEANUT BRITTLE HOME-MADE ICE CREAM

Put one pound peanut brittle through food chopper. Beat 1 quart of whipping cream until stiff, gradually adding 1 cu ppowdered sugar and 2 teaspoons vanilla, and when all is stiff, the ground peanut brittle. To make this smoother 2 teaspoons gelatine may be dissolved in ½ cup water, stood in boiling water and stirred until clear. Add before adding peanut brittle. Freeze in freezer or in trays of electrical refrigerator.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES

Pick over, wash, drain and hull strawberries in the order given—berries should be ripe, choice and clean. Weigh them. Fill sterilized glass jars with berries. Make a syrup of three-fourths the weight of the berries of sugar—and water, allowing one cup to each pound of sugar. As soon as syrup reaches boiling point, reduce heat and let boil gently 15 minutes, then pour over berries to overflow jars. Let stand 15 minutes, when air will have shrunk out of the berries and more berries must be added to fill jars. Screw down sterile tops. Stand on trivet in kettle of cold water, heat to boiling point, and keep just below boiling point one hour. Tighten tops when done, but do not unscrew them for any reason. (Raspberries may be preserved in the same way.)

STRAWBERRY SUNSHINE

Two pounds strawberries (about 3 pints), 2 pounds sugar. Spread cleaned berries in alternate layers with the sugar in enamel preserving kettle (cutting very large berries in halves). Let stand overnight. Top layer should be sugar. Then spread on clean platters and put in sunshine for two or three days—or until it is thick enough to put into sterilized cans or glasses and seal. It should be protected from dust by cheesecloth.

Drinks

HOT CHOCOLATE

One and one-half squares unsweetened chocolate, ¼ cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 cup boiling water, 3 cups milk. Scald milk. Melt chocolate in small saucepan placed over hot water, add sugar, salt and gradually boiling water—if water is added too fast chocolate may not completely melt. When smooth, place over low heat and boil 5 minutes. Add to scalded milk, beat with rotary beater and serve in chocolate cups. Plain milk chocolate in bars makes delicious chocolate when made as above omitting most of the sugar.

DANDELION WINE

Gather the flowers on a dry day and remove all stems, and to every quart flowers, allow 1 gallon water and 3 pounds sugar. Boil the sugar and water for 15 minutes, then pour it on the flowers and let it work 3 days, then strain the wine carefully through fine sieve, and put into cask. To every 5 gallons add ½ oz. isinglass, dissolved in cider or a little warm water and whites of 3 eggs beaten. Bung cask, and let stand 6 months before bottling.

PINEAPPLE JUICE

Pineapple juice, has an almost specific action on throats, it eases and heals sore throats. Fresh pineapple, when you can get them, are of course, better than canned for throat infections.

CHOKE CHERRY WINE

Wash and stem 24 pounds choke cherries. Bruise them with wire potato masher but leave the stones whole. Let stand 24 hours. Strain through jelly bag and to each quart juice add 2 cups sugar and let stand another 24 hours. Pour into clean wine cask and let stand until fermentation ceases, which will take 2 or 3 weeks, then bung it closely and let stand 6 months, at end of which time bottle it.

RAISIN WINE

Good cider, 8 gallons, best quality raisins, 15 pounds, 1 pint French brandy, 3 ounces barley stick candy, the rind of 3 lemons. Halves the raisins (if raisins with seeds are used do not remove seeds), put in 9-gallon cask, and pour the cider over them, and other ingredients. Bung lightly for 5 or 6 days, then tighten the bung and let cask stand for 6 months. Strain, filter bottle.

RHUBARB WINE

Rhubarb, 25 pounds; cold water, 5 gallons. Wipe the rhubarb with a damp cloth and cut it into short lengths leaving on the peeling. Put in earthenware or wooden vessel, crush it thoroughly with a wooden mallet or old-fashioned potato masher, and pour the water over it. Let it remain covered for 10 days, stirring it daily. Then strain the resultant liquid into another vessel, add 3 pounds sugar for each gallon of liquid, and the juice and finely grated rind of 1 lemon for each gallon of liquid, stirring occasionally until the liquid is dissolved. Now put it into your clean wine cask, and add 1 ounce isinglass, which has been dissolved in ½ cup warm water. Cover the bunghole with a folded cloth for 10 days, then bung securely, and allow it to remain undisturbed for 12 months. At the end of this time rack off into bottles and use. (Any bottles with clean corks or screw tops will do.)

Wife Preservers.

When pressing or ironing, keep a sponge in a saucer of water close by. It can be used for giving extra dampness to articles, for opening seams or sponging collars and cuffs.

MILD HOT CHOCOLATE FOR CHILDREN AND INVALIDS

One tablespoon good quality cocoa mixed with 4 teaspoons sugar, and then mixed with ½ cup cold water. In top of double boiler heat 4 cups milk. Bring cocoa mix to boiling point over low heat, and when it appears slightly thickened, stir into the scalded milk, rinsing out cocoa dish with some of the milk. Ad shake of salt and let heat through again covered in top if double boiler. To make this richer and more nourishing, beat 1 egg very well, and pour 1 cup of the cocoa over it stirring, then pour this mixture back into cocoa pot and serve at once.

FRUIT PUNCH

Three Gallons: One quart medium sugar syrup, 2 cups strong brewed tea, 4 cups strawberry syrup, 2 cups lemon juice, 5 cups orange juice, 2 cans grated pineapple and juice, 8 quarts ice cold water (or water and ice.) Mix all ingredients except ice water and let stand 20 minutes. Strain, chill, add ice water. (For the quart of medium surgar syrup boil together 4 cups water and 4 cups sugar 5 minutes.)

Four tablespoons chocolate cocoa, 2 cupfuls sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter.

Mix cocoa and sugar, dry. Add milk and butter, then boil. Continue boiling until soft ball is formed when a small amount from spoon is dropped into cold water. Remove from heat, add vanilla, allow to stand until fairly cool, then beat until creamy and pour into buttered pan.

Meats, Fish, Oysters, etc.

SUKI YAKI (BEEF WITH VEGETABLES)

This is all ready known to many of you and is excellent. This is usually cooked on the dining room table over a spirit lamp. Of course if you have one, a chafing dish would be better, but can be concocted in the kitchen just as well. Beef must be cut in extremely thin slices, 1 pound; half cup each of chopped green onions, sliced leeks, bamboo shoots (to be brought here in tins), watercress (tofu is also used but is too unappetizing for me to recommend making). These are all browned in little fat, then moistened in stock, sprinkled with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon Shoyu. It is simmered for 15 or 20 minutes and each person helps himself from the saucepan, and more meat and vegetables are added for a second helping. We suggest buying wide noodles from an Italian shop to use in place of bean curd. Rice of course could also be used but would change the usual appearance of the dish.

ROAST BEEF

Order a standing prime rib roast. Wipe it with a damp cloth and to 2-3 cup flour add 1 tablespoon each paprika and salt, and without wasting any rub this into the fat surface and cut sides of the meat. Put in oven of 550 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350, add ½ cup water to pan, cover, and roast in all 20 minutes to the pound.

Remove from pan to chill, straining pan gravy so that it will chill may be skimmed and used for other purposes. When slicing the beef, be sure each slice is thick and each edge has some of the attractive crust. Serve with fresh horseradish.

BUBBLE AND SQUEAK

Slice cold boiled salted beef—providing at least 2 slices for each person to be served, sprinkle with salt and pepper and simmer very slowly in frying pan with a little butter—if it is fried too hard or too long it will be crisp—it should be soft and palatable.

Boil a medium sized cabbage and when done drain it well and chop it small. Remove the beef from the pan and put the cabbage in the pan, sprinkle it with pepper and

TORI ROHAN

Boil one pound of rice after it has been washed through at least 6 waters, rubbing the grains between the hands to remove as much starch as possible—in 1 pint of water—reducing heat to simmering point as soon as it boils. When water is evaporated and soaked up rice is done—about 15 or 20 minutes. The heat is turned so low it cannot burn. To this add 8 ounces chicken cut fine, chopped mushrooms previously sauteed in butter, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ pint of fish or meat stock. Simmer gently for ½ hour or till stock is absorbed and before serving add ½ tablespoon Shoyu sauce and mix well. Shoyu sauce may be bought at all large groceries.

LANCASHIRE HOT POT

Two pounds choice neck of mutton, 3 sheep's kidneys, 2 pounds potatoes, 18 or 20 oysters, a few mushrooms, 1 Spanish onion, ¾ pint stock, 2 tablespoons butter or drippins, salt, pepper and a little sugar.

Divide the meat into cutlets and neatly trim off the skin and fat. Brown in a little butter or dripping and place in a deep baking dish, seasoning with salt and pepper and a pinch of sugar. Over the cutlets placed the sliced kidneys, the mushrooms, and oysters in layers, and finally the thickly sliced potatoes arranged to completely cover the ingredients. Pour the stock over this, cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours. About 15 minutes before you are ready to serve remove the lid so the potatoes can brown.

Three pounds mushrooms, 8 hard-cooked eggs, 6 tablespoons chicken fat or butter, 7 tablespoons flour, 2 cups hot chicken stock (clear chicken broth may be bought in cans), 2 cups scalded milk, 1 cup scalded cream, 2½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ cup butter, ¼ cup canned pimientoes cut fine, ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper, yolks 4 eggs.

Saute the scrubbed and thinly sliced mushrooms in the butter for at least 5 minutes, stirring them constantly, then add the flour and mix well, then add, stock, milk and cream and stir until thick. Slice hard-cooked eggs into about 4 slices each—these large pieces break up less rapidly than thin slices. Add all remaining ingredients.

CREAMY EGGS (FOR 20 PEOPLE

Beat 30 eggs in large bowl, and add 1 quart rich milk, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, ½ cup butter. Melt butter in large pot or pan slowly, and pour in egg mixture and over low heat stir constantly until it begins to thicken. (Hot milk may be used to speed cooking). This will probably be enough to be served on two large platters—which could be garnished with points of toast and parsley.

FANCY JELLIED TONGUE LOAF

Boil for 2½ hours 1 beef tongue —or 3 calves' tongues 2 hours. Cool and skin. In same water boil until tender with 6 whole pepper berries, 4 cloves, 1 bay leaf, 2 lbs. veal from the shank and shank bone from veal — this requires about 1½ to 2 hours more. Strain then lift out bones, whole spices, measure broth. To 1 pint add 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. (If more broth is desired add water and for each pint water add 1 tablespoon gelatin soaked in ¼ cup of it, and dissolved in the hot broth.)

Boil 5 eggs hard. In a bread pan place the slices of hard cooked eggs, strips of the tongue which has been cut in quarters lengthwise, and whole pieces of the veal, little strips of pimiento, a few cooked green peas or a few gratings of carrot or green pepper. Pour broth over, and if meat floats press down with plate, or do not add all the broth. Chill. Slice with very sharp knife—this loaf is unusually attractive and will serve at least 10. We served it with spiced pears and corn relish.

(This may be used for jellying fish, meat, vegetables or eggs.)

Three tablespoons gelatine, 1 quart water, 4 bouillon cubes, 1½ tablespoons minced carrot, 1½ tablespoons minced onion, 1½ tablespoons minced celery, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 bay leaves, 3 cloves, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne. Soak gelatine 3 minutes in ½ cup of the cold water. Dissolve bouillon cubes in rest of water, add seasonings, cover and let simmer 30 minutes. Taste to see if more is needed. Dissolve gelatine in this. Strain through sieve, then through cheese cloth. Let cool.

FISH ASPIC

Two cups cooked flaked fish (tuna, boiled gaspe, salmon, crab, shrimp or lobster), 2 hard cooked egg yolks, 4 tablespoons cream, 4 small anchovies boned, 2-3 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon of mixed pepper, paprika, nutmeg, 2 cups melted aspic. Pound the fish to a paste with all the ingredients except the aspic, then add 1 cup melted aspic. Mix well, put through coarse sieve, set over hot water and keep warm. Dip mould in cold water. Cover evenly with a coating of aspic and put about ¼-inch in bottom of mold, then let set. Add ¼-inch layer of fish. When this is set add ¼-inch layer aspic and continue in this way until mould is full, allowing each layer to set before putting in the next. When cold turn onto plate and garnish. Serve with mayonnaise. A suggestion for garnishing is to stand a ring of shrimps on their edges on the set aspic when the bowl is about half full, then put in ¼-inch of aspic and let set to hold shrimps in place—then continue filling mould as described.

LAMB PATTIES

To serve four people order 1½ pounds lamb from the shoulder, minced. Make these into flat cakes about ¾ to 1 inch thick and wrap a strip of rindless side bacon around edge and fasten with a toothpick. These may be broiled, fried or baked, but I prefer broiling. Lamb must be cooked right through, never left underdone. If done under broiler you must allow about 20 minutes—turning them 3 times. If baked give them ½ hour at 375 deg. Fahr. without turning. If fried do them over medium heat—no fat is necessary—turning 3 times until no red shows when split in the centre with a knife. We served these with canned mushroom gravy, or gravy made from fat in pan with plenty of chopped mint added. Delicious with green beans, and vegetable marrow in cheese sauce.

HAM MOUSSE

Soften 3 level tablespoons gelatine in ¾ cup cold water. Add 1½ cups boiling water and dissolve it by stirring. Chop finely or mince enough cold cooked ham to make 6 well-packed cups and mix this with 3 teaspoons prepared mustard; stir the dissolved gelatine and water into this when it is cool and whip until stiff 1½ cups heavy cream. Season with very little salt, quite a bit of pepper and a few specks of cayenne. Mix well and pour into 2 small or 1 large mould rinsed with cold water. Chill. When ready to unmould quickly dip outside of mould in hot water and immediately turn out on platter—garnish with wedges of lemon, sprigs of parsley or watercress—or serve with rings of fried apple and use these for a garnish.

GLAZED HAM LOAF

Have the butcher grind together ½ lb. each beef, pork and smoked ham. To these add ¼ cup catsup, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, ¾ teaspoon dry mustard, ¾ cup soft bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt (less if ham is salty), ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup evaporated milk. Mix well and shape with hands in oval loaf and place on buttered pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. At about 10 minute intervals baste loaf with following mixture: ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water boiled together, 3 minutes. These amounts serve 8.

LENOX CHICKEN

One tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¾ cup hot chicken stock, ¾ cup cream, 1½ cups cold cooked chicken cut in dice, ½ tablespoon granulated gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, yolks 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ cup hot cream, 1½ tablespoons butter, whites 2 eggs, ½ cup cream, 2 cups finely chopped celery. Dissolve 1 tablespoon gelatin soaked in 2 tablespoons cold water in the hot chicken stock. When mixture begins to thicken beat until frothy, and add ¾ cup cream, beaten until still and diced chicken. Season with salt and pepper and turn into individual moulds, and chill. Soak remaining gelatin in cold water, dissolve by standing over hot water, then strain. Beat yolks of eggs slightly and add salt, vinegar and hot cream. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, add butter and strained gelatin. Add mixture gradually, to whites of eggs beaten stiff, and when cold, fold in cream beaten until stiff, and celery. Remove chicken from moulds when stiff, surround base of each with some of the sauce, chill, and when serving garnish with celery tips. This is a most attractive way to serve jellied chicken and the delicacy of the sauce makes the chicken go a long way.

BEEFSTEAK AND KIDNEY POT PIE

Cut one and one-half pounds of round or flank steak in one-inch cubes. Cut beef or pork kidney (1 lb.) as nearly into one-inch cubes as possible. Dip all in flour. Saute in butter or cooking oil or lard (about ¼ cup) until golden (about 5 or 6 minutes), then cover with 1 quart of water and simmer gently, coverod, until beef is nearly tender——about 2 hours. Pour into large casserole—sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover with baking powder biscuits and bake at 450 degrees Fahr. until biscuits are done.

OYSTER DISH

For dinner or hot supper, a dish for guests or to share with the children of the family—here is an oyster dish of unusual attractiveness.

One pint oysters, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, salt, 1 onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 3 dashes tobasco sauce, 1 cupful strained tomatoes, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 8 medium potatoes, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Melt one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan and add the flour, one teaspoon salt, the paprika, onion finely chopped, parsely and tobasco sauce. Blend together well and add gradually the strained tomatoes. Cook five minutes stirring constantly. Drain the oysters.

Put oysters into buttered baking dish and pour tomato sauce over them.

The potatoes should be ready at this point—boiled and mashed. Add two tablespoons butter, salt and pepper and the grated cheese. Beat very light. Pile on top of dish in fluffy peaks, brush with melted butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in hot oven, 425 deg. Fahr. about half an hour.

DICED CHICKEN

If you have just a small quantity of cold chicken left over, you will find that these substantial and satisfying pancakes offer a good way to "stretch" it. The pancakes are hearty in themselves, and the chicken adds the touch of meat flavor that brings its own kind of satisfaction.

Make first a rather substantial pancake batter, with salt, pepper in it instead of the more usual sugar. You will find the following quantities good for the purpose: 2 cups flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¾ cups milk, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons melted butter, few grains pepper.

Sift the dry ingredients together, mix the beaten egg and milk, and stir into the flour mixture to blend smoothly, being sure there are no lumps. Add the melted shortening.

Have ready your diced cold chicken—about 1½ cups would be a good proportion: if there does not seem to be enough fowl to give sufficient character to the mixture, add a little crisp fried bacon, cut small—I really think it's rather an improvement anyway, makes the griddle cakes just that much more savoury. Stir the meat into the batter then drop it in large spoonfuls in a heavy frying pan which has been lightly greased, if you like rather a dry-surfaced cake, or in rather deep hot fat if you like a cake that is well crisped around the edges; cook until the bottom is nicely browned and air bubbles are appearing and breaking on the upper surface, then use your egg turner to turn the cakes neatly, and brown the second side. Keep hot in a very hot dish.

Another perfectly delicious way to make these cakes is to use about an equal quantity of chopped chicken (or you might substitute almost any other cold white meat) and drained canned corn—or a little later, you can use boiled corn, cut from the cob.

Muffins, Biscuits

CRANBERRY MUFFINS

One-quarter cup shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg beaten, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 cup chopped raw cranberries, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Cream shortening, sugar and egg together very well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and sift them into the shortening alternately with the milk, using no excess

FRUIT NUT BREAD

One-half cup each chopped dates and figs, 1 cup pecans or walnuts or almonds or brazils, 1½ cups white flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, 1½ cups very fine Graham flour (100 per cent. whole wheat), 1 egg beaten, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ cup honey, 1½ cups milk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Mix fruits and nuts with 2 tablespoons of the flour. Sift remaining flour with the baking powder, soda, salt and graham flour. Beat well together the sugar and egg, then add the honey, milk, shortening and rind. Make a well in dry ingredients and pour in the liquids all at once. Mix well, but do not overmix. Let stand 20 minutes then bake in large buttered loaf pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for one hour or 1½ hours. Test with broom straw before removing from oven—insert clean end of straw in centre of loaf—if it comes out clean and dry loaf is done.

ORANGE PINWHEEL BISCUITS

(These comes from my friend Garny so you may be sure they are good.)

Making baking powder biscuits as usual: Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt; with fingers mix in 4 tablespoons butter or shortening, then moisten with about 2-3 cup cold milk and immediately roll out on floured board. Now here's the "different" part: Melt 2 teaspoons butter, add 2 teaspoons flour, grated rind 1 orange and 4 teaspoons orange juice and stir until thick. Remove from heat, add ½ cup sugar and beat well. Spread on rolled dough (yeast dough may be used if preferred) evenly, roll up as you would a jelly roll, and with sharp knife cut into slices about 1 inch thick. Bake on well buttered pan at 475 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes. Do not leave in oven after they are baked or they will burn. The tops may be sprinkled with sugar before baking, but none may be spilled on pan.

Since my "chef" uncle was in town I have tried my hand at baking yeast mixtures more frequently and intend to insert many of these to tempt you into trying them this summer. They are so cheap and so delicious they are worth the trouble of mastering.

OLD-FASHIONED RAISIN ROLLS

Two cups milk, 4 cakes yeast, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup shortening, 3 eggs beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, ½ cup seedless raisins, 7 to 7½ cups flour. Scald milk, then cool it until it is lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in ½ cup of this lukewarm milk. To the remaining milk add the sugar, shortening, beaten eggs, salt and flavoring, and about half the flour. Add the softened yeast and beat well. Add the raisins and enough flour to make the dough stiff enough to handle. Too much flour causes the finished product to be to dry. Knead on floured board until light and "springy". Place in buttered bowl, cover and let rise until double its size. Cut down the dough into three parts. Roll each out to about ½-inch thickness. Cut out with sharp round cutter. Brush tops with either melted butter, or evaporated milk to make shiny and smooth. Allow to double in bulk on greased baking sheet, then bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes. Frost while still warm with icing made by blending 2 tablespoons hot water, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup confectioner's sugar. This icing is thin, but as the rolls cool it becomes a transparent glaze. This recipe makes 4 dozen rolls, so if your family is not large you might like to cut it in half.

If there are other hot bread mixtures you would like please write letting us know.

UPSIDE-DOWN ORANGE BISCUITS

One-quarter cup butter, ¼ cup orange juice, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ¾ cup milk and 2 cups prepared biscuit mix (or your favorite biscuit recipe omitting the milk in your recipe.) Prepare a thin syrup of the butter, orange juice, sugar and rind. Divide the syrup into eight muffin tins. Make the biscuit dough and instead of rolling it put a spoonful of the dough in each pan on top of the syrup. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for from 12 to 15 minutes until the syrup has bubbled up around the edges, and the biscuits are golden. Turn out upside down and glaze with any of the syrup left in the pans. Serve hot of course.

PINEAPPLE BRAN MUFFINS

One cup of cake flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup 100 per cent whole wheat flour, 1 cup wheat bran, ½ cup molasses, 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice, 2 tablespoons melted shortening or salad oil, ¼ cup milk. Sift the flour, soda and whole wheat flour together, add the bran and mix well. Mix molasses with pineapple juice until well mixed. Add milk and shortening to molasses and pineapple juice. Make a well in the centre of the dry ingredients, and add the liquid all at one time, then mix until blended. Do not over mix or muffins will be holey. Fill buttered muffins tins two-third full and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. They spring back from touch in centre when done. This amount makes 12 muffins. Perfect for Sunday morning's breakfast.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

Two cups flour, ¼ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg beaten, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup cleaned and drained fresh blueberries. Dredge the berries with 2 tablespoons of the flour. Sift the dry ingredients. Mix milk with beaten egg and add to dry ingredients. Stir well and add melted fat, then berries. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. This amount makes 11 muffins.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

Two cups sifted cake flour (pastry flour will do), 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter, about 1 cup milk or milk and water. Sift dry ingredients. Work butter into them with the finger tips. Add just enough milk to the dough to make it moist enough to roll out. Handle it quickly. Roll out lightly on floured board, or pat it—and cut into rounds with floured small cutter. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for about 8 minutes. Serve immediately. Very large biscuits take 10 minutes. Make exactly the same for Beefsteak Pie—cutting the biscuits small and placing on top of the hot meat mixture as soon as ready and put into oven immediately.

CRUMPETS (ENGLISH MUFFINS)

One cake yeast, 1 cup of scalded and cooled milk, 1 cup lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons melted shortening (if all butter is not used a mixture of half butter and lard is all right), 6 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Dissolve the yeast and sugar in the lukewarm liquids, add the shortening and 3 cups sifted flour. Beat this until perfectly smooth, add the remaining flour (or enough to make a soft dough), and the salt. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in well greased bowl, cover and set to rise in warm place. When double in bulk, which should be in about 2 hours, shape into large round biscuits with the hands, on lightly floured board. Cover and stand aside for about a half hour. Then roll to quarter-inch thickness, keeping them perfectly round. Have a good ungreased griddle hot and bake 10 minutes—browning on both sides, and as they brown moving the griddle to cooler part of stove where inside can bake more slowly. As crumpets are finished keep in warm oven until all are baked. Cut in the manner which is traditional to you, but do not stint on butter when serving—unsalted butter is delicious on them.

Leftover egg whites will keep for a week if stored, covered, in the refrigerator.

CAPITOL APPLE PIE

This is a "repeat" from three years ago—but I have been forgetting to use it myself—and it is too good to be forgotten.

One cup granulated sugar, 1 cup canned unsweetened pineapple juice, 6 medium sized sour apples, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter. Heat the sugar and pineapple juice together until they boil, then add the apples, which have been pared, cored and quartered, reduce heat and cook slowly (so that apples do not break) uncovered, until apples are nearly tender, shaking them carefully to keep fruit covered with juice, occasionally. Skim the apples out with a slotted spoon and lay them in a pastry lined pie plate. Stir the cornstarch into 1 tablespoon water, then stir it into the hot syrup, until it thickens, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and butter and pour over the apples in the pastry lined pie plate. Cut strips of pastry ½-inch wide, brush with evaporated milk or beaten egg mixed with water and place criss-cross over the pie. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to finish baking at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes.

PEACH CUSTARD PIE

Peel and slice three peaches. Make a syrup of 2 tablespoons sugar and ½ cup water. Cook the peaches in this for 2 minutes. Drain and add peaches to a custard made of two slightly beaten eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, pinch of salt, 1½ cups milk. Pour into an unbaked pie shell and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes until rim of pie is set, then reduce the heat to 325 deg. Fahr. and bake for 30 minutes.

To prevent custard "soaking" bottom crust of the above pie brush the pastry with the white of egg, place in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 5 minutes, then remove from oven, add filling and bake as directed above.

BLUEBERRY PIE

Make enough rich plain paste for two crusts. Clean and drain 3 cups blueberries, and over them sprinkle 1-3 to ½ cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons minute tapioca and let stand 15 minutes. Fill into lower crust, cover with dots of butter (about 2 tablespoons) and put on upper crust, pressing edges firmly together and making large gashes for escape of steam. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes—reducing heat to 350 to finish it.

EMEM'S PLUM PIE

I used slightly underripe Lombards. Wash plums, halve them and remove stones, and sprinkle with 1 cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons minute tapioca and let stand at least 15 minutes.

Line deep pie plate with the best pastry you can make and chill it, and the upper crust folded on a plate. When cold fill crust with plum and sugar mixture, sprinkle plums with 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, dot with 1 tablespoon butter, sprinkle with an additional ¼ cup sugar (this may be left out if you like a rather tart flavor), cover with top crust chilled, and bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes, reducing heat to 350 to finish baking—giving the pie about 35 minutes in all in oven. Serve within 2 hours, sprinkling top with powdered sugar. Served with old Canadian or Roquefort cheese this is a dish for an epicure.

Note: Can you make a cherry pie little Maid? If not read this and weep for joy. It is the best effort of one of the best cooks I know. One quart sour cherries (before pitting) 1½ cups sugar, 32 tablespoons minute tapioca. Cook together the sugar and cherries for five minutes then pour off about ¾ cup of the excess syrup. Add the tapioca and cook 5 minutes. Pastry: Two cups pastry flour, 1 cup shortening (1 1-3 cup butter, 2-3 cup lard), 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, blend together as usual, adding very little cold water to make pastry cling together. Roll out bottom crust thicker than usual for a pie, put in filling and use leftover crust for latticework for a pie, put in filling and use leftover crust for latticework top—A covered cherry pie leaks too much. Make 4½ inch bars across top. Now turn pie and put on 7 twisted bars — making them longer than pie is wide to give you length enough to twist. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 12 or 15 minutes. Do not omit gravy with the veal—It needs this extra moisture.

EMEM'S BANANA CREAM PIE

One baked pie crust made from rich plain paste, 2 bananas—quite ripe, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, beaten, 1½ cups scalded milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix together the dry ingredients and add to the milk, stirring constantly and cook in top of double boiler until smooth and thick. Cook for 10 minutes longer stirring occasionally. Pour gradually over slightly beaten eggs. Return to double boiler and cook for 3 minutes.

Wife Preservers

When linoleum gets badly soiled, a tablespoon of kerosene in the pail of scrub water will loosen the dirt and clean it in short order.

Slice the bananas into baked crust and pour the filling over them while cocoanut or note: Whites may be reserved and made into meringue. To whites add 6 tablespoons sugar and beat until they will hold up in soft peaks. Flavor with a dash of salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla, and put on top of hot filling in pie in border and peaks. Bake meringue on pie in slow oven of 276 deg. Fahr. for about 30 to 40 minutes—until it is baked through and golden. Serve pie within about three hours for it to be at its peak of perfection.

Pickles, Preserves, etc.

CANNED PEACHES

Select only choice, ripe peaches. To scald them place in boiling water for 1 minute, then remove and peel, working on only about 1 doz. peaches at a time. Cut in halves and remove stones and place immediately in sterile jars, fill jars to overflowing with boiling hot syrup made of 1 cup sugar to every 3 cups water, and boil for 5 minutes. (For 8 quarts peaches you will need 1 quart sugar and 3 quarts water). Put on sterile rubbers, tops and metal clasp—if screw tops are used screw down to within ¼ turn of tight, and place in hot water bath—count time after water begins to boil and sterilize 30 minutes at boiling point. Cool as quickly as possible tighten seal—never open jar.

CANNED CRABAPPLES

Wash apples very well and use only fruit that you know is sound. Pack into sterile jars and fill jars to overflowing with boiling hot syrup made in proportion of 2 cups sugar to every 3 cups water, and boiled for 5 minutes. Put on sterile rubbers, glass tops and metal tops, and if these screw on tighten to within ¼ turn of tight. Place in hot water bath and count time from when water begins to boil—15 minutes sterilizing time. Cool as quickly as possible, tighten, seal—never open jar.

APPLE OR CRABAPPLE JELLY

Firm, ripe crabapples, or firm underripe tart apples make excellent jelly without adding extra pectin. To avoid woody flavor cut off stems (however this is not essential), but leave in cores and skins. Cut apples in halves or quarters, barely cover with water (or use about 1 quart water with each 3 lbs. apples). Simmer till they begin to soften, then mash well and simmer 5 minutes longer (about 15 minutes altogether). Strain through jelly bag preferably overnight—for clear jelly do not press bag. Measure juice, add ¾ as much sugar as juice after juice comes to boiling point—use a large kettle, filling it less than half full so that jelly may boil hard without overflowing. Skim jelly and test on cold plate for jelling—or lift on spoon and allow to drop—when two drops form separately jelly is ready to bottle. Fill to with ¼ inch top into sterile jelly glasses, add cover with a thin layer of paraffin—adding a second coating when cold.

SWEET MIXED PICKLES

Four medium head cauliflower, 50 3-inch cucumbers, 1 quart small pickling onions, ½ dozen sweet red peppers, 1 bunch celery hearts, 4 cups vinegar, 2 cups water, 4 cups sugar, mixed spices in cotton bag. Cut vegetables into desired shapes —leaving cucumbers and onions whole—washing all of them very well. Soak overnight in brine of 1-3 cup salt to each quart of water. Drain well in morning. Boil vinegar, sugar and water 10 minutes, add vegetables and boil until cucumbers just change color. Pack into jars, add 1 teaspoon mixed spices to each quart (if crock is used put all spices in bag and leave in crock), then fill jar to overflowing with the boiling vinegar. Seal.

APPLE BUTTER

One-half peck tart apples, 1 quart apple cider. Wash the apples and cut without peeling into quarters or eighths. Place in a large saucepan, add the cider, and boil until tender. Press the apples through a sieve, then measure the pulp. To every quart of sour apple pulp, add 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves. Stir until well mixed, and then boil for 30 minutes (stirring all the time). Fill into sterile pint or ½-pint jars. Use less sugar if apples are not sour. (Apple butter must be stirred all the time after sugar is added.)

CANNED TOMATO JUICE

Select ripe tomatoes without any blemishes. Peel by dipping about 1 dozen in boiling water, and slipping off the skin—this is not an essential step in making juice but many cooks prefer it. If you do not all you have to do is cut tomatoes in halves after washing well, put over low heat until they make their own juice, cook until tender, strain overnight, measure and to each quart add 1 teaspoon salt, bring to boiling point, pour into stirile jars, put on stirile rubbers, tops and rings — screwing rings down to within ¼ turn of tight and process in hot water bath 20 minutes—counting time after water begins to boil. Cool as quickly as possible and tighten seal—never open jar.

MRS. MANSFIELD'S SWEET-SOUR PICKLES

First have your cucumbers picked with a small portion of the stem left on. The size of the pickles is not very important: They may be 3-inch gherkins or five inches long. The gherkins would be left as they are, of course; but if 5 inches long they are sliced once lengthwise and once crosswise.

One and one-half gallon crocks are a fairly common size so let us make one of these full. Wash cucumbers scrubbing them clean with a brush. Put them in the crock which has been scalded clean sprinkling salt between each layer, using 1 cup salt to the crock —fill with cold water and let stand overnight; in the morning drain, and cover with boiling water and let stand 2 days. Drain and cover with boiling water, let stand 2 days and repeat again.

After three scaldings in boiling water — taking 6 days — you are ready for the vinegar. Measure the water you pour off the cucumbers. Heat this amount of cider vinegar and with it heat 3 cups white sugar. Now here comes the secret: She says to keep your pickles crisp —and hers certainly were after one year—add strips of green or ripe sweet pepper or some clean horseradish or grape leaves. A little bag full of whole spices—the assortment they make up in the spice factories will do—is put in the bottom of the crock—that is, as far down as you can put it without taking out the cucumbers—and the boiling hot sweetened vinegar is poured over. Cover this with four thicknesses of cheese cloth, put on crock cover, and put your pickles in a cool basement. They will be ready to eat in a month.

WATERMELON PICKLE

Five lbs. of white rind of watermelon, well trimmed and cut into ¾-inch cubes, or oblongs ½-inch square by 2 inches long, 3 lbs. granulated sugar, 1 pint white wine vinegar (spirit vinegar), 1 oz. whole cloves, 1 oz. stick cinnamon. Soak rind in brine overnight (1-3 cup salt to each quart water required to cover it). In morning drain and cook in clear water until just barely tender. Tie the cloves and cinnamon in a muslin bag, add them to the sugar and vinegar, and when this boils, add the drained rind. Cook slowly until the rind looks clear, then lift out the spices, pour into sterile jars and seal. If spices are left in rind becomes dark.

MARASCHINO CHERRIES

Three lbs. pitted Royal Anne cherries (weigh after pitting), 3 lbs. granulated sugar, 1 oz. liquid red coloring, 1 oz. almond flavoring, 1 cup water. Method: Soak cherries in cold water for 2 hours, then pit keeping them as whole as possible. Put sugar and water in kettle and boil until sugar is dissolved (being very careful not to let it scorch), add coloring, flavoring and cherries. Cook slowly until cherries are rich red color and the syrup is quite thick. These are nice for ice cream, fruit salad and fruit cake.

PINEAPPLE MINCE CONSERVE

One No. 2 can fancy quality crushed pineapple with juice, 3 cups granulated sugar, ½ cup commercial pectin, ½ to ¾ teaspoon mint flavoring, and enough green vegetable coloring to produce the desired tint. (Be very sparing with the coloring—it is easy to add more—but if you get it too green it is impossible to remedy it). Mix fruit and sugar and boil, stirring often, while it is coming to the boiling point, for one-half minute, then add the coloring, remove from heat and add pectin. Stir well, skim and let cool for five minutes. Add the flavoring, and pour into clear-glass jelly jars, cover with paraffin, adding a second coat when cool.

SPICY TOMATO PRESERVES

Peel and chop ripe tomatoes until you have approximately five quarts. Measure and add three-quarters this amount of sugar. Add 2 lemons (to 3 quarts tomato pulp) —using the juice and finely grated rind. Tie 1 tablespoon whole cloves and 2 large stick cinnamon in a bag. Cook all together, stirring often, over low heat until thick. Remove spice bag and seal.

VIRGINIA GINGERED PEARS

Peel, core and slice 4 lbs. pears very thin. Dissolve 3 lbs. sugar, in 1 cup water and the juice and grated rind of 2 large lemons, then add pear slices and ¼ lb. fresh ginger root, scraped and sliced (or use preserved ginger or ¼ teaspoon ground ginger). Cook slowly 1 hour after it comes to boiling point and seal in sterile jars.

GRAPE CATSUP

2 quarts ripe grapes, vinegar to cover, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 1 tablespoon ground allspice.

Cook grapes in vinegar until soft. Run through sieve. Add sugar and spices. Cook slowly until thick, stirring as needed. Bottle as for tomato catsup.

GRAPE CATSUP

Pick over, wash, drain and remove stems from grapes. Put in large kettle, add just enough cold water to cover, bring to boiling point, and let simmer until fruit is very soft; then press through sieve, discarding skins and seeds. To each 10 lbs. of the fruit pulp add 55 lbs. sugar, 2 quarts cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon powdered cinnamon, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 tablespoon clove and 1 tablespoon grated nutmeg. Bring to boiling point and let simmer until reduced to consistency of catsup. Fill in to bottles which have been sterilized, cork with sterile corks and dip into wax or melted paraffin. Repeat sealing dipping when cold. (Grape Catsup may be bottled in fruit jars if preferred.

MUSTARD PICKLES

Sliced cucumbers, green tomatoes cut in quarters, cauliflower cut in smal sections, small button onions, 1 cup brown sugar, ⅛ pound ground mustard, 1-3 cup flour, 4 cups vinegar.

Use approximately equal quantities of the vegetables. There should be 3 quarts in al. Cover with boiling brine (9½ cups salt to 1 quart water). Let stand 24 hours. Drain. Cover with fresh boiling water. Let stand 30 minutes. Drain again.

Cover with sauce made from remaining ingredients. Heat to boiling point in the thickened sauce. Can and seal.

GRAPE CONSERVE

Five pounds grapes, 3 pounds sugar, ½ pound figs chopped fine, 3 oranges grated, peel of one, 1 cup raisins. Cook until thick.

Just before removing from fire add ½ pound nut meats which have been broken into small pieces.

EMEM'S SWEET PICKLED PEACHES

Four quarts peaches, 2 lbs. brown sugar (very light), 1 pint white wine vinegar, 1 oz. stock cinnamon, cloves. Boil the sugar, vinegar and cinnamon 20 minutes. Dip the peaches if they are not quite fully ripened (they keep their shape well) in boiling water, then with a towel rub the fur off the skin but do not peel peaches. Stick each peach with 4 cloves. Drop two quarts of the peaches into the syrup at a time, cook until soft, then do remainder. When first half of peaches are done drop into sterile jars and keep hot by standing jars in large pan of boiling water. When second batch is done, fill jars to overflowing with boiling syrup and seal, adding boiling water to it if there is not enough to fill jars.

SWEET PICKLED PEARS

Seckel pears are best for pickling for they are small and firm and keep their shape well. Wash and peel pears, but do not remove stem nor core. Boil in syrup as for sweet pickled peaches (see directly above.)

SPICED GRAPE BUTTER

Weigh out 4 lbs. washed and stemmed grapes and 4 lbs. washed and quartered apples. Heat these through slowly mashing or stirring constantly to prevent burning before they make their own juice. As soon as fruit is tender force through course sieve or fine colander. Measure and add half as much sugar as their is fruit pulp. Then add 1 cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1½ teaspoons cloves (powdered). Heat through and stir over low heat until thick. To avoid this long stirring the butter may be heated through in the oven where it does not scorch so readily—but must be stirred frequently, when done in the oven. Pour into sterile jars and cover with paraffin immediately, adding a second coat when cold.

Wife Preservers

Any pieces of bric-a-brac that are inclined to scratch the furniture on which they stand may be made harmless by gluing pieces of felt to the underside.

SWEET CHILE SAUCE

Fifteen choice red tomatoes, 3 large onions, 1½ hot red peppers, 1 pint white wine vinegar, 3 peaches, 3 pears, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 oz. whole mixed spices, 2 cups brown sugar. Cut up tomatoes; chop onions, peaches and pears fairly finely, cut peppers very, very finely. Mix vinegar, salt and brown sugar, then stir the mixture into the fruits and vegetables, add the whole spices (which must be tied loosely in a cheese cloth bag or piece of string on bag for easy removal). Remove spice bag when spiced to taste—if left in the spices will darken the mix. Cook mixture for about 2½ hours in large pot pour into sterilized jars and cover at once with hot paraffin, cover again when cool. Store in a cool, dry place. This quantity makes 4 one-lb. jars.

APPLE OR CRABAPPLE JELLY

Firm ripe crab apples or firm tart apples are necessary to make jelly without use of pectin. Wash apples well, remove blemishes, and cut into quarters—do not peel or core them. To each 3 pounds apples add 1 quart water. Simmer until they begin to soften, then mash well and simmer 5 minutes longer (about 15 minutes altogether). Now let drip through jelly bag—preferably overnight. In morning measure. Use three-quarters as much sugar as juice. Heat juice to boiling point Slowly add measurer sugar so that jelly does not stop boiling.

TOMATO RELISH (UNCOOKED)

One peck ripe tomatoes. Chop and dram of the juice or it will make the relish too thin. Tomatoes should be washed, dropped into boiling water to loosen skins and peeled before chopping) Three onions, 3 cups celery, 3 green and 3 red peppers (all chopped finely), 1 cup sugar, ½ cup salt, 1 oz. mustar seed, 1½ pints boiling hot vinegar. When all ingredients are mixed except vinegar, pour boiling vinegar over. Pour into sterile jars and seal, without cooking.

Puddings

RHUBARB CRUMB PUDDING.

Wash rhubarb well and chop into ½-inch pieces or smaller. Place on buttered baking dish. Mix together 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup flour, and then work into them ⅓ cup butter. Spread this over the rhubarb —between 3 and 4 cups rhubarb made a medium sized pudding. Bake at 30 deg. Fahr. for about 75 minutes. The slower it is baked the richer it is. If needed in a hurry no harm is done if temperature is raised. Serve with chilled plain cream.

ROLY-POLY PUDDING.

One-half pound flour (2 cups), ¼ lb. suet, jam, 2 saltspoons baking powder, a pinch of salt. (A saltspoonful of baking powder is about ½ teaspoonful).

Chop the suet finely and mix in a bowl with the flour salt, baking powder and a little cold water. Put on an floured board and roll out to a sheet of about ¼-inch thick. Spread with a thin layer of jam, moiste the edges, roll lightly in the shape of a long sausage, press down the edges so as to seal thoroughly, wrap in a pudding cloth, tying the ends with a string and boil for about 1½ hours. The pudding is sometimes baked for about ¾ hour or a little longer in a fairly brisk oven. (I think this would be about 425 deg. Fahr.—Ed. note.)

STEAMED BLUEBERRY PUDDING

Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup milk, 1 cup blueberries. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Work in butter with tips of fingers, add milk gradually, mixing with a knife; then add blueberries which have been dredged with flour. Turn into buttered pudding mould and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with creamy sauce.

Creamy Sauce (for steamed puddings): One-quarter cup butter; ½ cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons warm milk, 2 tablespoons wine or 1 teaspoon vanilla Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and milk and wine drop by drop. If liquids are added too fast sauce will have curdled appearance.

PEANUT BUTTER SOUP

(A main course soup).

Mix 1 cup peanut butter with 3 cups skim milk. Have ready 1½ cups chopped cleaned outer celery stalks, which has been cooked until tender in 4 cups water. Mix this with the peanut butter and add 3 tablespoons corn starch into ½ cup cold water. Cook and stir, add salt, until it thickens slightly. Serving for 6.

Egg Dishes

CURRIED EGGS

Line muffin tins with a thick sheet of crumbly pastry. Fill with dry beans to hold the shells in shape. Bake, discard the beans and fill with curried eggs. Slice hard-cooked eggs and heat in a medium-thick cream sauce well flavored with curry powder. Garnish with pastry sprigs.

SWEDISH EGGS

Hard cook a dozen eggs. Remember that the best way to cook them is to put the eggs in boiling water, reduce the heat so that the eggs cook but the water no longer bubbles. After 15 or 20 minutes plunge the eggs in cold water. When cool, shell, split and remove yolks. Mash the latter and blend with 2-3 cup of mayonnaise, ½ cup finely minced cooked beets, 2 tablespoons capers, salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the mixture in the egg whites and sprinkle the top with finely minced parsley. Top the center of each half with 3 spears of beet and a bit of pickle.

FLUFFY OMELET

Six eggs, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 4 tablespoons water, 2-3 teaspoon salt, dash pepper.

Separate eggs. Beat whites until frothy. Add lemon juice and water. Beat until stiff enough to stay in an inverted bowl. Fold in beaten yolk. Start cooking at once in a pan hot enough to start coagulation, but not hot enough to form a crust. Cook over a medium flame for about ½ minute before placing in the oven. Bake for about 25 minutes in a 160 degree oven.

EASTER EGG ON TOAST

Separate yellow and white of egg. Add vegetable coloring to white and beat very stiff. Place the stiff colored white on toast like a nest, put the whole yolk in the center. Salt and bake in a quick oven.

BAKED EGGS

Butter gem pans. Break eggs and drop into pans. Put 1 tablespoon rich milk, a few bread crumbs and a sprinkling of ground ham over each egg. Season and place in the oven to bake.

CASSEROLE OF MUSHROOMS AND EGGS

Melt 2 tablespoons of shortening and add ¼ pound fresh or 1 can mushrooms (sliced). Cook for 10 minutes. Blend in 2 tablespoons of flour, add 1 cup bouilion or canned mushroom liquid. Salt and pepper to taste. Cook until mixture thickens. Fill the greased casserole with layers of creamed mushrooms. Top with 6 hard cooked eggs, sliced, ¼ cup grated cheese and 2 tablespoons bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven.

SCALLOPED EGGS AND HAM

Four hard cooked eggs, 2 cups white sauce, 1 cup boiled chopped ham, 1½ cups buttered crumbs.

Chop eggs and ham and add to the white sauce. Place crumbs and mixture alternately in a baking dish. Bake 20 minutes.

SHIRRED EGGS ON SPINACH

One pound spinach chopped fine, 1¼ cups dry bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, pepper, 5 eggs, ¼ cup grated sharp cheese.

Heat the spinach, stir and cook for about 2 minutes. Add the salt, 1 cup of the bread crumbs and pepper if desired. Spread the spinach in a 2-inch layer in a greased shallow baking dish or pan. Break the eggs on top of the spinach and cover with the remaining crumbs which have been mixed with the cheese. Bake for about 15 minutes in a moderate oven or until the eggs are well set and the crumbs brown. Serve at once.

SCRAMBLED EGGS

One egg slightly beaten, 1 to 2 tablespoons milk or cream, ½ tablespoon fat, salt to taste, pepper to taste.

Add the milk and seasoning to the egg. Heat the frying pan and add the fat. When warm add the egg mixture. Cook slowly until a creamy consistency stirring constantly from the bottom of the pan. A creamier product is secured by cooking over hot water. Increase the quantity depending upon the number to be served.

BREAD OMELET

One egg, 2 tablespoons milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, speck of pepper, 2 tablespoons soft bread crumbs.

Soak the crumbs in the milk until it is absorbed. Add the beaten egg yolk and seasonings. Fold into the stiffly beaten egg white and cook in buttered pan. The mixture should be spread evenly in the pan and cooked slowly. When well cooked and delicately brown underneath put in a moderate oven and cook until the top is dry and firm but not brown. Loosen the omelet with a spatula fold and turn onto a hot platetr.

CODFISH BALLS

Shred 1 cup salt codfish, removing any bones. Boil until tender. Boil and rice 2 cups raw potatoes cut into small pieces. Add the codfish, ½ tablespoon fat and 1 well-beaten egg. Beat until very light. Form into balls 1½ inches in diameter. Fry.

EGGS IN SPINACH NESTS

Measure cooked spinach; add half the amount of bread crumbs. Form into nests; break egg into each one. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

SPANISH EGGS

Use individual servings for these eggs. Place a circular piece of toast on a hot individual dish that will stand being placed in the oven. Place a well-drained poached egg in the center of each piece of toast and pour over it the following sauce:

Brown ¼ cup butter, add ¾ cup thick tomato puree, 1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, few grains cayenne pepper mixed with ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Heat to boiling point and put the desired amount over each egg. Put in the oven for 2 minutes and serve sizzling hot.

PLAIN OMELET AND BACON

Use 2 tablespoons hot milk and ½ teaspoon salt to each egg. Beat together lightly with Dover egg beater. For 5 eggs use 2 tablespoons salad oil or bacon drippings in an iron frying pan which should be hot enough to smoke a little. Put in eggs and turn light very low. Lift eggs with spatula as they cook—allow to set a little. Fold over and turn out before quite dry. Serve with crisp bacon curls and garnish with parsley.

CREAMED EGGS AND ASPARAGUS IN BISCUIT RING

To 3½ cups well seasoned medium white sauce add 6 hard-cooked, peeled and quartered eggs and 2 cups of cooked or canned asparagus that has been cut in small pieces. For the ring use once-and-a-half the recipe for dropped biscuits as the dough for rolled biscuits is too stiff to arrange evenly in the ring mold, which should be greased before putting in the dough. One of the prepared biscuit mixes is ideal for use. Bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. When the ring is baked place it on a hot chop plate and fill with the creamed mixture.

Rolls

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS (No. 1)

One cup compressed yeast, ½ cup lukewarm water, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ cup shortening (lard is quite all right), ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 8 cups sifted bread flour. Dissolve the yeast in the lukewarm water, then stir the ½ teaspoon sugar, and let stand for ¾ hour (this long standing develops the yeast and one cakes does instead of two). Cream the shortening with the ½ cup sugar, and add the beaten egg, the scalded milk (which has been cooled to room temperature), the salt and last the dissolved yeast cake. Stir in some of the sifted flour, until the dough is stiff enough to knead. Knead on well-floured board until smooth and elastic—for about 10 minutes. Make the dough into a ball, put in greased bowl, brush top with melted shortening to prevent crust forming; cover and keep in warm place (not hot) until the dough doubles in size (about 3 to 4 hours).

Turn out and knead again. Form into ball, put in greased bowl, brush with melted shortening as before, cover, and put in refrigerator.

When needed for use, cut off the amount you want with a sharp knife. Knead, shape and allow to rise until the dough has doubled its bulk, then bake in a hot oven (425 deg. Fahr.).

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS (No. 2)

(2 cakes yeast, 2 eggs, less shortening are the main difference in this mixture.)

Two cakes compressed yeast, ½ cup sugar, 2½ cups lukewarm water, 8 cups sifted bread flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons shortening. Dissolve yeast and sugar in ½ cup lukewarm water. Sift the flour and measure it, then add salt to it. To the remaining 2 cups water add the beaten eggs and the disolved yeast. Gradually add half the flour, then the melted shortening. Slowly beat in most of the remaining flour and knead the dough on a lightly floured board until smooth. Place dough in greased bowl, brush with melted shortening and finish as in refrigerator rolls (No. 1) above.

CHEESE ROLLS

(These may be made ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator in tightly covered pail.)

One cup hot water, ⅓ cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 yeast cake, 2 tablespoons lukewarm water, 1 egg well beaten, 2 to 2½ cups grated old Canadian cheese, 3½ to 4 cups all-purpose flour. Mix together the hot water, about body temperature. Soften the yeast in the lukewarm water (2 tablespoons) with the 1 teaspoon sugar, then stir this into the first mixture. Then add the well beaten egg, and grated cheese, and as much flour as can be stirred into the dough without kneading it. Knead dough on lightly-floured board until easy to handle. Then form pieces of dough into balls ¾-inch in diameter by folding the sides of each ball until the top is smooth. Place 3 balls in each section of buttered muffin pans, cover and let rise in a warm place until nearly double in bulk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 12 or 15 minutes. Removed from oven and brush with melted butter. This makes 2 dozen rolls or one large loaf of bread. Delicious toasted when cold.

CINNAMON ROLLS

(From Refrigerator Rolls dough).

Roll out refrigerator rolls dough into a sheet 12 x 8 inches, ¼ about ⅛-inch thick. Spread a mixture of: 3 tablespoons softened butter, ½ cup brown sugar, and 1½ teaspoons cinnamon. (Exactly the same as the topping for coffee cake). Roll up as you would a jelly roll and cut into 1 inch slices; place on buttered pan cut side down, allowing rolls to touch. Let rise until double in bulk then bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden.

COFFEE CAKE

When ready to use refrigerator rolls dough for coffee cake, cup off about half the dough and knead it for about 1 minute on light floured board, then press out on buttered pan about 12 x 8 by 1½ inches, sprinkle carefully with at least ½ cup brown sugar, at least 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, and dot well with butter. If you have them on hand, chopped or whole pecans or walnuts may be spirnkled over, or sliced brazils. This topping can vary with your imagination—it needs plenty of sugar and butter, but other additions are optional. When ready set aside in a warm place to rise until double in bulk and bake at 400 deg. Fahr, for 20 minutes.

"STICKY" BUTTERSCOTCH PECAN ROLLS

Make rolls same as for cinnamon rolls, leaving out the cinnamon. When ready to put in pan, spread pan with 3 tablespoon soft butter, and ½ cup brown sugar, and over entire pan place whole pecans (or walnuts), then put in rolls having them touch, let rise until double in bulk and bake at 375 deg, Fahr.

The oven temperature must be lower for sweet breads than for plain bread mixture, because the sugar on or in them burns before they are finished baking.

Sauces

WOW WOW SAUCE

One tablespoon finely chopped parsley, two or three finely chopped pickled cucumbers or walnuts. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and pour over 1 cup broth in which beef was boiled. Add 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon mushroom catsup or red wine and one teaspoon prepared mustard. Let these simmer together until thick, add the parsley and pickles and serve from hot gravy boat. (This sauce sounds so good it might account for the popularity of Bubble and Squeak—certain the cabbage and beef combination does not.)

Sandwiches

PRINCESS SANDWICHES

(These amounts make 10 full-size sandwiches.)

One-half cup chopped cooked chicken, ½ cup chopped cooked ham, ½ cup grated old Canadian cheese, 2 hard cooked eggs chopped, 3 tablespoons cooked salad dressing, 1 teaspoon vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, white bread and butter. Combine all ingredients but the bread and butter, and mix well. Spread between buttered slices of white bread. Cut double slices into three triangles, thus making 30 sandwiches.

SCRAPED BEEF SANDWICHES

Lay round steak on board and with dull knife scrape off all the pulp—when you are finished nothing but the cellulose of the meat will be left. Cut one-day-old white bread not more than ¼-inch thick, remove crusts, and spread 1 slice with just a little butter, spread the beef pulp on the other slice. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, put slices together and press. Toast very lightly under broiler or in toaster. Serve hot cut in inch-wide strips. This is easy to eat and since the beef is cooked very little has relatively high vitamin content for a meat dish. If your patient prefers the meat slightly cooked, lay the slice spread with meat under the broiler until it turns white, before putting sandwich together.

CHOICE PICNIC SANDWICH FILLINGS

Finely chopped or ground blanched almonds with creamy cottage cheese—salt.

Grounds, fried smoked side bacon, with chopped watercress. Bind together with small amount of mild mayonnaise.

Flaked tuna, chopped celery, mayonnaise.

Ground peanuts, new cabbage, salt.

Chicken and chopped head lettuce, salt, and boiled dressing.

Ground boiled ham and chopped dill pickles.

Ground beef with mustard pickles.

Hard cooked eggs, ripe olives, mayonnaise.

Soups

BIG FAMILY SOUP POT

The bones from Sunday's roast, the vegetable liquors, potato, bean, carrot; 1 can oxtail or beef condensed soup, 1 10-oz. can tomato juice or canned tomatoes, varying amounts of chopped carrot, parsley, celery, green beans, 1 tablespoon rice. Boil ½ hour, remove bones, do not strain. Season if necessary.

But as usual that little suggestion is not my theme—what I have on my mind are meats that can be prepared in the cool of the day to be sliced and served and served when we are hot and hungry and tired.

CREAM OF SHRIMP SOUP

One cup canned shrimps, drained (they do not need to be cut up as they will break with stirring), 4 cups whole milk, ½ cup top milk or canned milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and paprika, ½ cup grated cheese optional. Heat the milk. Melt the butter, add the flour, salt and paprika, Worcestershire sauce, then stir in the hot milk and stir until thick. Beat with rotary beater. Then add the shrimps and cream or canned milk, and still just enough to break up some of the shrimps, and serve. Sprinkle top with cheese if desired.

EMEM'S TOMATO CREAM SOUP

Three cups, peeled, cored and chopped, raw ripe tomatoes, ½ pint water (or if any mild meat stock is on hand use it), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 whole cloves, a shake of pepper, 1 tablespoon each finely chopped onion and parsley. (OR if you do not like onion add 1 teaspoon celery salt in place of it). Stew all these ingredients together slowly for 15 minutes, then strain through very coarse sieve so that some of the bits of tomato float about in the soup. To this strained mixture add one-sixteenth teaspoon soda and reheat it. Heat in separate pan 1 cup evaporated milk until simmering, when both liquids are simmering pour the tomatoes into the milk slowly, stirring, add 1 tablespoon butter and serve at once.

Wife Preservers

When house plants are infested with insects, try spraying them lightly with suds made from mild washing soap.

Salads

SWEET SALAD DRESSING No. 2

One-quarter cup each lemon juice, orange juice, pineapple, 2 eggs beaten, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup cream whipped. Heat fruit juices in double boiler. Beat sugar into eggs and add to hot liquid and cook until mixture coats a metal spoon—about 3 minutes. Set upperhalf of double boiler in dish of cold water, beat mixture until cold—about 5 minutes. Just before serving fold in whipped cream—any other acid fruit juices may be used. This is delicious if mixed sparingly with a combination of orange sections, pineapple cubes, dates and bananas.

HOW TO MAKE SALAD DESSERT

One tablespoon granulated gelatine, two tablespoons cold water, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one-fourth cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, two-thirds cup milk, one-third cup lemon juice, two tablespoons orange juice, one cup diced orange pulp, one-fourth cup Maraschino cherries, one cup cream.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Melt butter, add well-beaten egg, sugar, salt and paprika. Remove from fire and add gradually milk, lemon and orange juice. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until slightly thickened; then add soaked gelatine. Remove from stove and beat two minutes. Cool, stirring occasionally, and when beginning to set add minced Maraschino cherries and orange pulp and fold in cream beaten until stiff. Pack in cold mold and let stand in ice for several hours. Serve on platter covered with head lettuce, with or without mayonnaise.

GOLDEN GLOBE SALAD
(For 4 People)

Soften 6 oz. white cream cheese with 2 tablespoons milk. Add ¼ cup chopped preserved ginger. Fill the cavities of four canned peach halves with this mixture (make the cheese balls about 1¼ inches in diameter). Top with four matching halves. Place on individual salad plates. Encircle each peach with border of sliced maraschino cherries (or in summer with halved fresh strawberries). Cut 4 slices of canned pineapple in half (crescents). Place these on either side of each peach. Garnish outer rims of the pineapple with clusters of watercress.

SWEET SALAD DRESSING
No. 1

Three tablespoons lemon juice, ¾ cup powdered sugar, 1 egg white beaten, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cream whipped. Boil together for 5 minutes the lemon juice, sugar, then pour into the beaten white beating constantly with rotary beater. Beat 3 minutes. Add salt and cool. Just before serving fold in the whipped cream and beat 1 minute.

EPICUREAN TOMATO SALAD

Peel large tomatoes (they needn't be heated if you scrape the back of your knife over the skin before attempting to peel them) remove most of the centre, put 1 teaspoon French dressing in each, stand in ice box until ready to serve, then fill with equal parts of finely chopped celery and pineapple, mixed with some sliced Brazil nuts or almonds. Serve on a cupped leaf of lettuce with mayonnaise. Or if preferred the tomatoes may be stuffed with small amount finely shredded cabbage, green pepper and chopped pickles or olives.

Supper Dishes and Stews

CREAMED MACARONI WITH SHRIMPS OR LOBSTER

2 cups cooked macaroni or 1 cup uncooked; 2 tablespoons butter; 3 tablespoons flour; 1½ cup of milk; ½ tin shrimps or lobster. Salt and pepper.

Make a sauce of butter, flour and milk, add the shrimps or lobster (broken in pieces), and the cooked macaroni, and season.

Serves five people. Takes twenty minutes.

A NEW DISH FOR LUNCH OR SUPPER—SALMON AU GRATIN

1 package eggwheat noodles (fine size); 1 small tin canned salmon; 4 ounces grated cheese or half package pimento cheese; 1½ cups of milk; ½ small onion (sliced).

Throw the eggwheat noodles into rapidly boiling water to which salt has been added, and let boil for ten minutes. Then drain. Mix salmon, cheese, onion and milk together. After that, add the boiled noodles and bake for ten minutes before serving.

For evening entertaining substitute a tin of crab meat for the tin of salmon.

TOMATO AND MUSHROOM STEW

When mushrooms are cooked in a liquid they can be extended much further than when fried or broiled, for there is no loss of weight by evaporation.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in medium hot frying pan, add the sliced mushrooms and 1 tablespoon grated onion and stir over medium heat for 2 minutes, then add 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes (to each ½ lb. mushrooms) and reduce heat and let simmer uncovered for about 10 minutes after boiling point is reached—then add at least 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper. This could be baked and covered with crumbs. If not serve it in individual vegetable dishes or on toast or in small patty shells.

SHREDDED CABBAGE IN CREAM SAUCE

Make about 1 cup very thin cream sauce in top of double boiler—about 15 minutes before serving time add 3 cups very finely shredded cabbage to this, cover and let cook, stirring occasionally, for 15 minutes—when cabbage will be wilted and a little tender—but will retain some of its delicious crispness, though hot. A little more white pepper than usual is good with cabbage prepared this way.

RICE AND PEANUT LOAF

To make the Rice and Peanut Loaf mix together 1 cup hot boiled rice, 1 cup shelled peanuts, 1 cup cracker or bread crumbs, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Turn into a buttered small bread pan, pour over the butter (which is reserved from the mixture), and cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about ¾ hour. Turn out on a hot platter and pour over the following sauce: Melt 3 tablespoons butter and add 2 slices onions and cook for 3 minutes. Add 3 tablespoons flour, stir till blended then slowly add 1½ cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt and a few shakes of pepper and paprika. Strain.

HOT CASSEROLE OF TUNA ON NOODLES

One 7½-ounce tuna flaked, one 16-ounce can mushroom soup, 2 cups uncooked noodles or spaghetti. Cook noodles in top of double boiler in plenty of water until tender. Drain. Arrange in glass baking dish which has been well buttered, over them spread the tuna, and over this pour the can of mushroom soup. Either sprinkle top with buttered crumbs, or omit these and sprinkle top with paprika. Bake until heated through and golden. To carry this to the picnic bake just before leaving, then wrap in about 20 sheets of newspaper — first wrapping the whole casserole in a large tea towel. This method will keep the heat in for at least one hour.

CRUMBED BAKED OR FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

Cut core from washed tomatoes and slice in half. Dip in fine crumbs and egg beaten and crumbs again, saute in buter or bacon drippings (which many prefer) turning as so on as one side is done. Since the tomatoes cook quickly do not leave in pan too long, or slices tend to break when handled.

UPSIDE DOWN HAM LOAF

Three tablespoons butter, 5 tablespoons brown sugar, 3 slices canned pineapple halved, 1 pound lean smoked ham, ground, ½ lb. fresh lean pork ground, ½ cup bread crumbs, ¾ teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs, beaten, ¼ cup milk. Melt butter in loaf pan and add brown sugar, stirring until dissolved; add pineapple and saute 5 minutes, or until slightly browned. Mix meats with remaining ingredients; spread in pan over pineapple sections and press down. Bake in moderately hot oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for about 50 minutes To serve turn out with pineapple on top. Very pretty served hot on platter with hot boiled asparagus. For serving cool, turn out on bed of lettuce or watercress.

CORN ENTREE

One green pepper chopped, 1 small onion, chopped, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 2-3 cup canned corn, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, dash of cayenne, 1 1-3 cups grated cheese. Fry onions and pepper in butter until brown. Heat tomatoes and corn in double boiler. Add first mixture, minute tapioca and seasonings. Cook 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until melted. Now this may now be poured into casserole and baked or may be served on toast or in patty shells.

GENUINE HEAD CHEESE

The head should be shaved clean, the snout skined, and nostrils cut off in front of the eyes. Cut out eyes and eardrums. The fattest part should be used for lard. When thoroughly cooked strain off the liquid for future use. Chop or shred the meat finely. Season with the following for every five pounds meat 32 ounces liquid (4 level measuring cups), 2½ ounces salt (5 tablespoons), 2 teaspoons black pepper, 1 teaspoon red pepper, 1 teaspoon ground cloves. All should be well mixed to incorporate seasonings evenly. Pour into shallow tin or earthen or granite pans and keep cold but not frozen. Kept just above freezing this will keep three weeks.

MOTHER'S CELERY DISH

Butter a large baking dish. On bottom sprinkle either very dry breadcrumbs, or broken crackers. Over this spread layer of well cleaned chopped celery, repeat until you have used 3 cups crumbs or broken crackers and 4 cups chopped celery, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper. Cover with skimmed milk. Sprinkle top with a half and half mixture of cracker or breadcrumbs mixed with the same quantity of grated old cheese. Sprinkle with paprika and bake at 300 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour, turning up heat during last 5 minutes if it is not brown enough. Sometimes it is necessary to have the oven hotter because you are baking something else—if so additional milk or water and a lile buer are necessary.

Wife Preservers.

Iodine is as good for a scratch on furniture as it is for one on the finger. Rub the glass stick that comes with the bottle of iodine lightly over the scratch, then follow up with a rubbing of soft cheesecloth.

MUSHROOMS SUPREME ON TOAST

When I see mushrooms that are freshly cut if I want them I buy them—if they have a dry appearance where the stem is cut I do not get them for their firmness has all been lost by standing, and they are more or less wilty and leathery. Scrub lightly (but do not peel), and slice into about sixths, one pound of fresh mushrooms. Into frying pan put 4 tablespoons butter, melt it, add the mushrooms, and stir over medium heat until mushrooms absorb the butter—about 5 minutes; then add 2 tablespoons flour by sprinkling it over, and stir until the butter soaks it up. Fill a measuring cup half full of cream, now add enough evaporated milk to fill cup three-quarters full, and then enough water to fill cup. Pour this over the mushrooms, stir until thickened, and cover and cook over very low heat for about 10 minutes. If gas is used asbestos mat should be under pan to prevent burning. Stir frequently during this 10 minutes' cooking. Serve on buttered white toast. This quantity serves four.

RICE AND HORSERADISH CROQUETTES

One-quarter cup uncooked rice, ½ cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 to 1¼ cups scalded milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 3½ teaspoons freshly grated horseradish or well drained made horseradish will do. Soak rice in the water until it is absorbed, then bring milk to scalding point and add the rice and cook in double boiler until rice is tender and all milk is absorbed. Add butter and horseradish and salt and cool. When cold form into cylinders or cones or balls. Dip in flour, then in beaten egg diluted with a little water, then in fine crumbs. Fry in deep fat until brown, then drain on brown paper. Chopped walnuts, pepper, grated cheese, pimiento, all or some of these in combination are nice additions to these rice croquettes.

PEA ROAST

Three-quarters cup bread crumbs, ½ cup canned pea pulp, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ cup broken walnuts (or finely chopped if desired), 1 egg, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup butter, ¾ cup milk. Break stale bread in pieces, dry in oven and put through strainer—there should be ¾ cup. Drain canned peas, bring to boiling point, drain and force through coarse sieve—there should be ½ cup. Mix crumbs, pea pulp, sugar, nuts, egg slightly beaten, salt, pepper butter and milk. Turn into small bread pan lined with waxed paper, and let stand 15 minutes. Cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Remove to hot platter, garnish with cream sauce to which add about ¼ cup grated raw carrots for color.

EMEM'S PILAF

To be strictly correct this is rightly named—but the original was Turkish Pilaf with Emem's characteristic urge for change.

To hot frying pan add 3 tablespoons butter and when melted add 2-3 cup raw rice and stir constantly over medium heat until rice is golden. Then add 4 onions medium size, sliced thinly, and one more tablespoon butter and stir until onions begin to wilt, then add 3 cups tomatoes either stewed, canned or raw, stir well, add 1 teaspoon salt, reduce heat, cover and let cook until rice is tender. You may need to add more liquid—meat stock is nice, but water makes a good dish. More salt, a little pepper, if on hand a little chopped green pepper makes a nice addition. As this approaches time for serving you need to watch it for it must be rather thick to serve, and hence needs attention and stirring.

Genuine Pilaf contains meat, cubed chicken, pork, lamb or veal—if you have these on hand 1 cup full is plenty to add to a batch this size.

PARCHED RICE

Melt 3 tablespoons good dripping or cooking oil in hot frying pan, and when quite hot add ½ cup rice. Stir over medium heat until all the rice has taken up the fat, then stir until it is golden, then add 4 cups water, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, cover, reduce heat, stirring occasionally. Cook 20 minutes—if it takes up all the water before it is tender add more. A nice variation of this is to use tomato juice in place of water.

TOMATO AU GRATIN

(A delicious vegetable plate item)

Three cups peeled and cubed ripe tomatoes, ¼ pound yellow spreading cheese, 1 small onion sliced very thinly, 1 cup coarse cracker crumbs. In buttered casserole sprinkle one-third of the crumbs, cover with half the tomatoes, half of the onion slices, and half of the cheese. Add a dash of pepper and salt. Repeat, topping with crumbs, dots of butter, sprinkling of salt and paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes uncovered.

CORN AND TOMATO CHOWDER

One-quarter or one-half pound of salt pork, 1 large onion chopped finely, 2 cups fresh or canned tomatoes, 2 cups green corn cut from the cob, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup potato cubes, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cut pork in small pieces, and try out, remove fat scraps, add onion and cook until soft. Add tomatoes, corn, water and parsley. Cover and simmer slowly one hour. Add potatoes diced and seasonings and simmer again until potatoes are tender. Serve with crackers—or thicken a little by adding about ⅓ cup sifted cracker crumbs. This may be made with milk—using 1½ cups of milk in place of some of the water—OR use ¾ cup evaporated milk in place of some of the water—in which case add ⅛ teaspoon soda to the hot mix before adding the milk. This makes a good main course soup.

PECAN NUT LOAF

One cup hot boiled rice, 1 cup pecans, chopped fine; 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 egg, 1 cup milk 1¼ teaspoons salt ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix rice, nuts, cracker crumbs, then add egg well beaten, milk, salt, pepper and pour around the following sauce:

Cook three tablespoons butter with 2 slices onion 3 minutes, stirring. Add 3 tablespoons flour and stir until mixed; then pour on gradually, while stirring, 1½ cups milk. Bring to boiling point and add ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, strain and serve.

VEGETABLE LOAF

One-half cup cooked green peas, ½ cup cooked green string beans, ½ cup chopped boiled carrots, ½ cup cooked beets, 1½ cups milk or vegetable stock, 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 egg. Press peas through a sieve, cut beans in small pieces, then combine all vegetables. Add to them the milk, slightly beaten egg, crumbs, and seasonings. Turn into baking dish and bake in an oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until firm. This requires a sauce. Parsley cream sauce, onion sauce, mushroom sauce or tomato sauce will do.

Wife Preservers

Keep a supply of paper toweling at hand in your kitchen, near the sink, if possible. Use them to wipe grease off cooking utensils before washing; for draining fried foods on, and for many other chores.

TOMATO AND RICE CHOWDER

(A One-Piece Meal)

One-quarter pound salt pork, 1 large onion chopped very finely, 2 cups fresh tomatoes, peeled and chopped, 3 tablespoons raw rice (raw brown rice is preferable), 3 cups boiling water, 1 cup finely chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cut the pork very finely, and saute it for 5 minutes with the onion—or until both are slightly browned—fat must not be white looking or it is not attractive in the soup. Add all remaining ingredients bringing it to boiling point as quickly as possible to prevent rice sticking—then cook for ½ hour, stirring frequently to keep rice in motion. A pinch of curry added to this is delicious to those who like curry.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(To serve 20 to 25).

One-half cup flour, 2 cups hot chicken stock, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 cup scalded cream, 2 teaspoons salt, another ½ cup butter, 4 cups cold boiled fowl cut in strips (about 2 inches long by ½-inch wide and thick) 2 cups slightly sauted sliced mushrooms, ½ cup canned pimiento cut in strips, ¼ cup finely chopped fresh sweet green pepper, yolks of 4 eggs. Melt fat, add flour, and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, stock, milk and cream. Bring to the boiling point and add salt, butter bit by bit, fowl, mushroom caps, and pimientoes. Again bring to boiling point and add yolks slightly beaten, and serve as soon as possible, on patty shells.

MACARONI, VIRGINIA STYLE

One and one-half cups macaroni (we think the shell shape a nice change), 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon made mustard, ½ cup grated cheese, 1¼ cups white sauce, 3 tablespoons dried bread crumbs. Break macaroni if long into 1-inch pieces and cook in boiling water and drain off through sieve. Put half of it in buttered baking dish, dot over with one-fourth of the butter and sprinkle over half of the cheese and put half the mustard on in dots. Repeat. Pour over the white sauce (see below), cover with dried crumbs mixed with remaining butter and bake in hot oven until crumbs are brown.

White Sauce: Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 tablespoon flour, and stir until blended; pour on gradually 1½ cups milk and stir till thick, then add ½ teaspoon salt.

FRIED CORN SUPREME

Melt 3 tablespoons butter and to it add 1 tablespoon grated onion, ¼ cup chopped raw tomato, 1 tablespoon finely chopped green or red sweet pepper and stir over low heat for about 5 minutes, then add either raw or cooked corn cut from the cob—these amounts of seasoning vegetables are enough for 8 or 10 cobs corn,—season well with salt and white pepper and stirring constantly over medium heat, cook until corn is heated through—which is long enough even if the corn is raw. I think this is a fine ingredient for a vegetable plate and the nicest way of warming over leftover boiled corn on the cob.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

6 ozs. macaroni or ready cuts; 1 tablespoonful butter; 1 tablespoonful flour; 1 half cup hot milk, salt and pepper to taste, bread crumbs, grated cheese.

To boil macaroni products properly, have a large pot or saucepan two-thirds ful of water, on the fire, put a level tablespoonful of salt into it for every quart of water, to which if desired, may be added half teaspoonful of butter, which gives a better flavor, and when it is boiling fast throw into it the macaroni products. Let it boil until it yields easily to pressure between the fingers; then drain it in a colander and rinse it thoroughly in cold water in which it should remain until you are ready to finish it according to any given recipe. Make a sauce of one tablespoonful each of butter and flour and one-half cup of hot milk, salt. Put a layer of strong grated cheese in the bottom of a baking dish, spread over it a layer of macaroni and sauce, covering the top with fine bread crumbs and bits of butter dotted over and a little grated cheese. Place in the oven and bake until golden brown. (If individual dishes used place them in a pan of hot water.

TOMATO AND CHEESE RAREBIT

I happened to have a little left-over canned tomato soup in the ice-box, and I had planned to make a plain cheese rarebit, but when I went to the icebox for a little cream for it I saw this left-over tomato soup and thought I would not be taking too much chance to use it instead.

In top of double boiler melt two tablespoons butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and stir until blended, then add ¾ cup ready to serve tomato soup and stir until thick, then add 1 cup grated mild Canadian cheese and stir over boiling water until cheese melts,—add ¼ teaspoon pepper, and salt to taste —cheese is very salty so add salt sparingly. Stir until mixture is smooth and heated through. Serve on triangles of toast garnished with wee springs of parsley.

10 ozs. macaroni or ready cuts, 1½ cups left-over meat; 3 cups gravy ½ onion, chopped; 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup grated cheese, buttered bread crumbs.

Parboil the macaroni for 7 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. Mix together the meat, chopped; the gravy, onion, butter, salt, pepper and cheese. Combine well with the macaroni and pour into a well-greased baking dish. Cover with the crumbs and bake for 20 minutes. Spaghetti may be substituted for the macaroni.

HUNGARIAN POTATO CAKES

These are called "fangks" I think by native Hungarians and we printed the recipe over six years ago—I was reminded of their godoness when going through some old files.

Wash, peel and grate raw potatoes, until you have 3 cups—immediately moisten with cold milk —about 2-3 cup to prevent them browning—it is wise to grate them directly into this amount of milk. Beat 1 egg, add to potatoes, add 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon paprika. Form into thin cakes and dip in flour and place about ½-inch apart on buttered pan. Bake about ½ hour at the same temperature as the sausage loaw—375 deg. Fahr.—until golden and potatoes are cooked.

TOMATO CASSEROLE

One No. 2½ can tomatoes, 2-3 cup cracker crumbs, ½ Spanish onion coarsely grated, 2 teaspoons salt ½ teaspoon pepper. Mix tomatoes, half the crumbs, the onion and salt and pepper, and put in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top and dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at same temperature as other dishes for oven—about 375 deg. Fahr. until heated through and golden.

As for the salad—the best thing I can tell you is to shred the cabbage extremely thin and use plenty of parsley 1 cup quite well packed with 2 cups cabbage and 1 cup finely sliced celery makes a nice combination. If you do not like mayonnaise, French dressing is very good with it.

ITALIAN MINESTRONE

To make the most of this dish serve it in a soup tureen so that your diners may come back for second or even third helpings as it is our idea to serve it as your main course.

One cup dried beans, 7 cups water, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 clove garlic, 1 sprig parsley, 1 stalk celery, ¼ cup cooking oil, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, 1 cup cooked macaroni (Parnesan would be used in Italy).

Soak beans overnight. Drain. Add water and simmer until nearly tender. Chop onions, garlic, parsley and celery. Cook together in olive or cooking oil until golden. Add seasonings and tomato pulp and coarsely chopped cabbage. Bring to boiling point. Combine with cooked beans. Add cooked macaroni. Simmer ½ hour longer. Serve sprinkled with grated cheese. Another method is to make a paste of additional oil mixed with the required cheese, finely chopped garlic and parsley and to add these in teaspoon lumps to each bowl of soup as it is served.

SOUTHERN CORNSQUASH

(I'll wager you have not tried this one unless you are from or familiar with the South).

Panfry for 2 minutes ¼ cup chopped onion in 1 slice of chopped side bacon, then add ¼ cup minced green pepper, and 2 cups thinly sliced squash (raw), cook 2 minutes stirring constantly, then add 1½ cups milk, cover and cook slowly for 20 minutes stirring constantly, then add 1½ cups milk, cover and cook slowly 20 minutes. Then add 2 cups corn kernels and a teaspoon salt and cook until it boils through. If green corn is used, give it 7 minutes longer. Black pepper is best with this.

BAKED CHEESE OMLETTE

One and one-third cup soft bread crumbs, 2 cups grated cheddar cheese (mild is preferable), 4 eggs, 1 cup hot water, ½ teaspoon salt (1 to 2 tablespoons catsup are optional). Pour water over bread crumbs, and add salt, cheese and well beaten yolks. Mix well and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into buttered baking dish large enough that it only half fills it, and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until fairly firm. Serve immediately in dish in which it is baked. For perfection such a souffle type of dish or indeed any omelette requires some type of sauce.

SAUSAGE LOAF

One cup sausage meat — buy farmers' sausage; they are easily taken from the casing or tell your butcher to save some out of cas-

MRS. BIGGERS' SPRING STEW IN WINTER

One 2½-lb. shank veal, 1½ lbs. beef from the shank, and if there are six people to be served 1 purchase of green onions containing at least 5 little onion per serving; 1 pound imported carrots cut with scalloped vegetable cutter; old potatoes cut into balls with French vegetable cutter (the trimmings can be used for mashed potatoes the next day); and if you want to make the stew stretch to seven people add half a new cabbage cut in 7 pieces, leaving a piece of the heart attached to each wedge to keep it intact.

Wash the meat, cover with cold water, using at least 2 quarts to start, bring to boil, covered, then reduce heat and simmer 2½ hours, adding a little more water if and when necessary. Have vegetables all prepared ½ hour before serving slip the carrots in at one side of the pot, 10 minutes later add all the potatoes at one place, the onions the same, and the cabbage where you can get it in, remove cover, turn up heat, and boil uncovered for 20 minutes, using a long spoon to loosen any vegetables that might have flattened to the bottom. One tablespoon salt and ½ teaspoon black pepper may be added with the bulk of the vegetables. When done, CAREFULLY lift out the meat onto a hot platter, and discarding the bones for the pup, lift all the onions out, placing them on the latter at one end, same with the carrots; place the potatoes at one side, the cabbage at the other; place in warming oven while you prepare the gravy. Strain the gravy to remove bits off bone, fat and cartilage. If you have one quart, mix together in a bowl ½ cup flour and ¾ cup cold water until it is smooth, then stir into the hot gravy until it thickens. If it lumps please strain it. When everyone is on the mark waiting for you to shout "Come and get it," pour the gravy over the meat only, and proudly bear it to the table. This is stew par excellence —all you have done is vary the shape of the vegetable, and manner of serving.

HORSERADISH

Be smart—don't overlook this.

Four teaspoons grated horseradish, 2 teaspoons vinegar, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons sifted cracker crumbs, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon mustard. Mix ingredients and heat in double boiler about 5 minutes. Serve hot.

MUSHROOM SAUCE

Three-quarters cup sliced mushrooms ¼ cup butter, 1 tablespoon grated onion, ¼ cup flour, 1 cup boiling water or if mushrooms are canned use mushroom stock or any mild vegetable stock, 1 cup rich milk, salt and pepper. Wash and slice mushrooms. Melt butter, add onion and sliced mushrooms, and cook 3 minutes until limp, stirring. Sprinkle with flour and blend well, add mushroom stock or water and milk. Stir over medium heat until smooth and thick. Boil 2 minutes and serve.

Note. — A delicious creamed mushroom mix to serve on toast or patties may be made by increasing the mushrooms in above recipe to two cups and decreasing the liquid to 1 cup.

Vegetables

SHREDDED CARROTS IN DRAWN BUTTER

Shred raw new carrots through the coarsest knife of your shredder set. Cook in boiling salted water about 5 minutes, or just barely long enough to make them tender. Make Drawn Butter Sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter, add 1 tablespoon flour, stirring, adding ¾ cup of the water in which carrots were cooked, and stirring until thick. Add the drained carrots and 2 tablespoons very finely chopped parsley, and reheat in top of double boiler.

BOILED CELERY WITH PARSLEY BUTTER

A ten or fifteen-cent bundle of celery will serve a very pretty vegetable to six people. Clean each bundle well then cut in halves lengthwise, and place on flat pan and cover with boiling water and boil until tender—about 15 minutes. Sprinkle each with parsley and pass melted butter at table. These are particularly nice on a vegetable plate because of their shape.

ATTRACTIVE VEGETABLE COMBINATIONS

Canned limas, green onions and sliced boiled celery in drawn butter sauce.

Canned Kentucky wonder beans, kernel corn, chopped pimiento (for garnish), moistened with a little hot cream, and seasoned with plenty of black pepper.

New green peas may be extended almost double, by cooking them separately. Also cook 1 head of shredded iceberg lettuce for 5 minutes uncovered, immediately drain and add to the cooked peas. Cover with sauce made from water in which peas were cooked thus: Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 1½ tablespoons flour, add 1 cup vegetable liquid, and ¼ cup cream or top milk, and 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper. (You will note how I have stressed the use of vegetable liquids with cream and butter, in place of milk and butter. This is done to conserve vegetable minerals which is doubtless obvious.)

Drawn Butter Sauce

The French call sauces made with this sauce as a foundation Velvoute. It is merely white sauce made with vegetable water instead of milk—and it has the distinct advantage of taking on lemon juice or vinegar with no danger of curdling, and, secondly, of conserving the vegetable minerals, instead of pouring them down the drain. General rules are 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons or less of flour, 1 cup hot liquid, 1 or ¾ teaspoons salt, and paprika, pepper to taste.

NEW GREEN PEAS

Don't murder them, let the cooking of them be more of a caress, than a boil.

Shell them when you are ready to cook them, not before.

Add just enough boiling water to cover and boil them quickly until tender, about 6 or 8 minutes for young ones just picked. These need a little salt in the water, but no soda. For those that are imported and are definitely large and at least a day old and usually two, add about one-sixteenth teaspoon soda, they'll need about 12 minutes boiling. If you boil the young, freshly gathered ones after they are tender they will get hard again. Pour off the water, save it for future reference.

Serve the peas with butter and maybe a little white pepper; there will have been enough salt in the water and butter.

FRENCH METHOD WITH GREEN PEAS

The French method with middle-aged green peas is to add two or three young onions and a quarter of a head of lettuce chopped finely, a tablespoon butter and a teaspoon sugar to the peas and cook them gently in enough water to cover. When tender drain off the liquid and keep the peas warm. To one cup of the liquid add a tablespoon cream and salt and pepper and pour over the peas; OR instead of adding the butter to the liquid, melt it and add a tablespoon flour, stir, then add the liquid and cream and stir until slightly thickened, and pour this over the peas.

MEDLEY OF GREEN PEAS, GREEN ONIONS, LETTUCE

The above recipe is composed of these same vegetables, but for flavor to the peas only. In this dish you use them all in the same dish.

Four cups shelled new peas, ¼ cup butter, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 small head iceberg lettuce, 24 one-inch green onions, cut off the bulb. Place all in rather large flat pan keeping the lettuce and onions to one side, cover and cook about 15 minutes shaking the pan occasionally without mixing the vegetables. Bring to boiling point 1 cup heavy cream and simmer to reduce to one-half. Lift the onions and lettuce from the pan and place them as a border around the hot vegetables dish. Pour the cream over the peas (to which a little salt and pepper may be added) and pour them into the centre of the vegetable dish. If you do this once you'll do it often just to look at its loveliness.

ASPARAGUS WITH CHEESE CRUMBS

(If this is served with a poached egg on every serving (each serving comprised of about 12 medium sized stalks) it makes an excellent main course for luncheon or supper.)

Peel stalks below portion where they are too hard to snap; this conserves about 1 or 2 inches of the stalk. If you tie your asparagus back into bunches it cooks without breaking. Boil or steam. If boiled cover with boiling salted water and boil just until tender. Immediately remove from water and keep on hot platter or vegetable dish. Into 2 tablespoons butter drop 3 tablespoons bread crumbs and stir for about 1 minute. Remove from heat and sprinkle over the asparagus tips which should be arranged lying side by side with the cut ends meeting in the centre—sprinkle ¼ cup grated old cheese over crumbs and serve immediately.

HARVARD BEETS

Cook young beets in boiling water till tender, chill, slip the skins from them and cut them in halves, or dice or slice according to choice. Prepare Harvard Sauce by cooking together a quarter cup each of vinegar and water, and sugar, and 1½ tablespoons butter. Moisten 2 teaspoons cornstarch with 2 tablespoons cold water and stir this into the sauce until thick. When thick add the cut beets and simmer until all are heated through in top of double boiler preferably. (A delicious accompaniment for ham or pork chops.)

Two Messerschmitts And Dornier Bomber Lose Scraps

LONDON, March 30.— (CP). — Two German Messerschmitt fighting planes were shot down in flames and a Dornier bomber was disabled by British warplanes in action over the western front yesterday, the Air Ministry announced to-day.

General headquarters of the Royal Air Force in France said the British planes which accounted for the Messerschmitts engaged "strong formations" of German aircraft which crossed the lines near Metz.

The announcement said the Messerschmitts destroyed were types 109 and 110 and that the Dornier, which was caught on reconnaissance, was last seen "diving steeply into low clouds with one engine disabled."

A Bit Too Young.

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP).—Too young to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force but not too young to try even if it meant a good many miles of hitch-hiking, 14-year-old Easton MacPherson was ready today to return to his family in Montreal.

The boy left his Montreal home March 28, determined to become an R.C.A.F. flier. His worried parents notified police and last night Detective Frank Grimes found him.

Easton told police of hitch-hiking from Montreal to Hamilton and then to Ottawa. He was disappointed at being found before he had a chance to apply for enlistment. When told 14-year-olds were not being recruited, he smilingly said he was ready to go home and went off to spend the night with an uncle here, who planned on returning Easton to his parents.

Little Western Trooper Treks 580 Miles Before Making Grade Into Regiment; Route Marches Now Like Sunday Stroll

ALDERSHOT, England, March 30—(CP).—Private D. Eaddie may be the smallest member of the Edmonton Regiment, but it is doubtful if any man in the Canadian First Division today won over larger obstacles in getting into khaki.

Eaddie stands five feet 2½ inches. That is 1½ inch under the minimum for the Canadian Active Service Force.

But there was little chance of a Jack-of-all-trades far up in Alberta's Peace River country knowing that, so this little man with the big convictions started for the recruiting station when war came. The recruiting station was a mere 230 miles away, in Grand Prairie. He hitch-hiked rides in canoes, then truck and plodded on foot the rest of the way.

If Eaddie's heart were built on the same lines as the rest of him he would have headed for home when the recruiting officer said he was undersize, underweight and "out." But not Eaddie; instead he started hitch-hiking and walking again—this time to the Edmonton headquarters of the regiment, about 350 miles away.

When he finally reached there his physique was so stout after the marathon that he passed his medical test with room to spare and was accepted. As a result the route marches here of the Ed-

Chinese Battery Sinks Jap Warship, 300 Men

HONG KONG, March 30—(AP).—The Central Chinese News Agency reported today that a Japanese warship, steaming down the Yangtse River, had been sunk by Chinese shore batteries in Southern Anhwei Province March 20, with a loss of 300 men. The egency did not mention the type of the vessel nor its size.

Meanwhile rumors were current here that Japanese military leaders had demanded that authorities at Macao, Portuguese colony on the South China coast, remove all troops from the nearby islands of Wantsai and Lappa. The Japanese also were reported to have demanded permission to conduct a house-to-house search for anti-Japanese elements in certain Portuguese areas if deemed necessary.

U.S. Reciprocal Trade Plan Survives Test

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP).—The United States reciprocal trade program, a fundamental government policy and potential presidential campaign issue, survived a crucial test late yesterday when a three-vote majority killed an amendment to require senate ratification of trade agreements.

Administration lieutenants, who considered the amendment a death warrant for the program, were jubilant over the 44 to 41 vote. Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.-Mississippi), floor manager for the legislation extending the program three years, told reporters:

"The fight is over now. I think we'll pass the bill Tuesday."

Foes of the trade policy made it clear, however, that they would keep on fighting for other restrictive amendments.

Yesterday's vote found Republicans solidly for the ratification amendment. They made it plain that they would carry their fight to the electorate.

The amendment sought to make trade agreements ineffective until approved by a two-thirds senate majority.

The vote was regarded as a major victory for Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has preached reciprocal trade ever since he took office.

The struggle was of particular interest to Canada as the Dominion is one of the countries which has concluded a trade agreement under ht existing presidential power.

Just Propaganda Says F.D.R. Of Nazi Documents "Proving" U.S. Behind War

Berlin Press States Present Revelations Mild To What Will Be Sprung; Waiting Someone In U.S. To Supply Occasion

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP).—The authenticity of alleged documents produced by German officials as evidence that "American policy" helped loose war on Europe was challenged emphatically in government quarters today.

President Roosevelt was the first to comment after the documents—purportedly found in captured Polish archives—were published in Berlin. He declared that propaganda from abroad should be taken with "three grains of salt."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said the State Department placed not "the slightest credence" in the conversations related in the German White Book, and denied that the war-like attitude they set forth represented "in any way" the country's foreign policy.

William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador to France, and Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish Ambassador to the United States—two diplomats whose names figured prominently in the Berlin collection—both denied the statements imputed to them in the documents.

BERLIN, March 30 (AP) — Sixteen alleged documents which the German foreign office published yesterday as "finds" from the archives of the Polish foreign office are only "cheap wine" compared with costly vintages to follow, a German spokesman asserted today.

This spokesman intimated that the German government is in possession of supposedly direct communication by the United States ambassador to France, William Bullitt, and others.

Foreign office officials invited foreign correspondents to inspect the purported originals of the documents of which copies were released yesterday.

Officials were non-commital about the date of publication of the next batch of documents. The impression was given, however, that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and his lieutenants are waiting for someone in the United States to furnish the occasion.

The German press is displaying the Polish documents accused United States diplomats of playing "an ominous role" in European affairs.

The Essener National Zeitung, which is close to Field Marshal Goering, said "There can be no doubt that these American representatives used all their influence to aggravate the atmosphere in Europe."

Similarly, the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger said: "It is not surprising to find among the war instigators of French and English tongue also American diplomats."

Comment on the alleged documents, which the German foreign office said last night had been uncovered in the secret archives of conquered Poland, pushed other news into the background as the morning papers blamed United States diplomacy in great measure for the outbreak of the European conflict.

Lady Whose Daughter May Attend College Finds Backing In Supreme Court On Order To Bar Russell's Professorship

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—A supreme court justice today upheld the application of a Brooklyn housewife for an order to revoke the appointment of Bertrand Russell as a professor of Mathematics at the City College of New York.

Justice John McGeehan termed the appointment of the English philosopher "a chair of indecency."

Appointment of Russell, which was to have taken effect next February, brought protest from church figures and others. Educationists, on the other hand, came to his defence, terming the controversy a challenge to "academic freedom."

The court case was brought by Mrs. Jean Kay, whose high school daughter, she said, might some day attend the college.

After reviewing various criminal statutes pertaining to crimes of sex and perversion, some of which crimes Mrs. Kay in her petition charged were advocated by Russell, Justice McGeehan said it was "repugnant to the common welfare" to encourage violation of the provisions of the penal law.

Machine Guns Stop Advance Guard Following Barrage

PARIS, March 30 — (AP). — French machine-gunners in ambush south of Saarbruecken cut down the advance guard of a German infantry attack, killing the German Commanding Officer and several others, the French command reported today.

It said the Germans were sent out yesterday, under cover of a violent barrage, to attack the French flanks, but that the ambush frustrated the manoeuvre. One German was captured in another patrol fight, the French said.

Greatly increasing German artillery fire west of the Vosges Mountains and the Saar River was intended to wipe out several small villages occupied by the French, but French gunners replied shell for shell, military dispatches said.

In this central area, German reconnaissance planes also were active, one being brought down in Eastern France by anti-aircraft fire. The French said their aerial photographic flights over Germany continued unhindered.

Today's French communique said:

"Heavy artillery fire on both sides to the west of the Vosges and west of the Saar.

"In the Saar region, enemy reconnoitring units were repulsed by our fire, and we successfully laid an ambush.

"The enemy left several dead on the ground."

TNO Head Quits; Ontario Coal Will Be Pushed

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP)—Premier Mitchel Hepburn announced today that Lt.-Col. Malcolm Lang has resigned as chairman of the commission administering the government-owned Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad. Arthur H. Cavanaugh will assume the chairmanship in addition to his duties as general manager of the railway.

The shift, approved at a meeting of the Ontario cabinet yesterday, will become effective next Monday.

Mr. Hepburn also announced that he was anxious to speed lignite development in Northern Ontario in order to reduce, as far as possible, the purchase of coal from the United States with a high premium on exchange.

Lieut.-Col. Lang was appointed chairman of the railway in 1934 with head offices in North Bay. Native of Eagle, Elgin county, he enlisted as a private in the first great war and returned with the rank of major. He retired from service a few years later with the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Lieut.-Col. Lang has been offered the post of industrial commissioner for the railway so that he may continue promoting business for the commission.

Pigeons To Play Big Part In Air Rescues

LONDON, March 30—(CP)—Every week 500,000 messages flash back and forth over the Royal Air Force's internal communications system. Most of them deal with administration and routine. Many are vital, such as those from observer posts, which are relayed simultaneously to all whom they may concern.

Within a short time after the outbreak of war the R.A.F. had created its own private telephone, telegraph and teleprinter services and systems of wireless communication. In wireless transmissions the R.A.F. uses 600 or 700 frequencies. It is the work of one department to fit them all in.

Equally important is study of the enemy's signals. Both sides use codes, but small clues—like the coincidence of a certain type of message with a certain type of operation—may yield significant formation.

The unknown pigeon-fancier with a backyard loft plays his part. Many are enrolled by the R.A.F., given special telephones and have bells

White Is Given Lead Of 219

Poll No. 65, North Methuen School House, the last poll to be heard from in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough reported in today and the count there was 5 for Ferguson and 13 for White.

This return gives George S. White of Madoc, National candidate a majority in the civilian vote of 219 over his opponent, Rork Ferguson, Liberal, who was the member in the last election.

This figure may be changed considerably when the soldier vote comes in as there are many men in the active service forces from the Hastings district. It is estimated that in the Bancroft area alone at least 75 joined up and almost 40 more from the Coe Hill village and immediate district.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA — (AP).—A protest by German Minister Victor Von Heeren brought the release of seven large German barges seized by Yugoslav Danube police on the grounds they lacked special transit permits, it was disclosed to-day. Five Hungarian barges still were held while 16 German tankers waited for permits on the edge of Yugoslav waters. The possibility of future serious complications was seen in Yugoslav application of any army decree requiring special permits for all oil barges passing through the country.

LONDON, Mar. 30 — (AP). — British observers to-day brushed aside Russian Premier - Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff's harsh words about the Allies and emphasized his neutrality declaration as ending any Nazi hope of a Rome-Berlin-Moscow axis.

Some sources interpreted Molotoff's foreign policy review yesterday before a joint session of the supreme Soviet Russia's Legislature, as throwing out broad hints that the Soviet wanted to resume trade negotiations with Britain.

Although Molotoff assailed Great Britain and France for "hostility toward the U.S.S.R." and declared

RAF Skyhawks Learn Mistakes From Films Shot During Actual Aerial Dog Fights

LONDON, March 30— (CP)— British fliers are learning fighting tactics from action films taken during dog fights in the air against enemy aircraft.

One such film, taken from the attacking British machine, shows the interception and shooting down of a German raider.

The device consists of a motion-picture camera lined up with the fighter pilot's eight guns. It operates automatically when the trigger button sets the eight guns in action. When the pilot takes his finger off the trigger, the guns cease firing — and the camera stops taking pictures. It operates with every burst of fire.

The show only lasts about a minute. But it shows the pilot errors he would otherwise never realize and sometimes reveals mistakes which enabled an enemy to get away.

Monday To Mark Epic Year For TCA Planes

OTTAWA, March 30 (CP) — Planes of Trans-Canada Air Lines drone past a record safety mark Monday when the air service plans to celebrate its first year operating Montreal - Toronto - Vancouver scheduled flights without a fatality or serious accident.

A year ago April 1 daily passenger flights were inaugurated over the national airline and in the twelve months since T.C.A. has given a new lead to civil aviation in the Dominion and shown that the country can be spanned by regular flights despite weather vagaries.

The record parallels that of United States Airlines which concluded a year last Tuesday without a fatality, but T.C.A. also completed about 98 per cent of its scheduled flights—the highest percentage on the continent.

To open the second year on the Montreal - Toronto - Vancouver route, the service will be doubled with two planes a day flying each way, starting Monday. Previously only one plane a day each way made the flights.

Nearly 3,500,000 miles were flown by about 30,000 revenue passengers in the Lockheed "14" planes which were in the air for 18,000 hours during the year.

Shows Extreme Care

But it is the safety and completed flight records which most interest the transport department and airline officials. Transport minister Howe, who was responsible largely for starting the service, had this to

The program will include considerable field work and this will be done over week-ends. All recruits for this militia unit should apply at the Armouries any evening after and including April 1st.

Death Ends Party For Girl On Training Ship

DETROIT, March 30.—(AP)—Naval reserve officials joined police today in an investigation of the death of Miss Charlotte Cranson, 18, who was taken to the office of a physician by two young men and another girl after an unauthorized party aboard the U.S.S. Dubuque, a training ship.

The physician pronounced the girl dead. Her companions said they found her unconscious on the deck of the gunboat, which is anchored in the Detroit River at the Naval Reserve Armory, and is unmanned except during the summer months.

There were no marks on the body examiners said. The girl's companions were detained for further questioning.

Merchants Want Rates Eased Till Raids Start

LONDON, March 30 — (CP).— British merchants, burdened by war taxes and worried about wartime business, want the government to suspend compulsory war risk insurance until air raids really materialize.

The insurance plan had its origin in complaints by businessmen and industrialists that regular insurance companies would not protect them against air raid damages. So the government took over.

Every tradesman with a stock valued above £1,000 ($4,450) is required to participate. If his stock is worth £1,000 or less, participation is optional.

In expectation of heavy claims, the government assessed a rate of ½ of one per cent a month. For a £10,000 stock the monthly rate was $50.

As the government's insurance fund grew without being nicked for substantial benefit payments, the rate was reduced twice. It now is ¼ of one per cent a month, a rate that is to remain until June 2 at least.

Claim U.S. Rings Backing Gambling Dens

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP)—Gambling dens which he said were "ringing" Toronto are largely operated by United States crime syndicates, Rev. John Coburn said here yesterday.

Dr. Coburn, field secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, told a board meeting yesterday that gambling, violation of the Lord's Day Act, bootlegging and other illegal and anti-social activities were rampant in Ontario.

He said the Ontario government had refused to assume its responsibility for law enforcement and had treated certain representatives of the churches and other organizations with contempt.

"My information from the highest authorities is that the ring of gambling places surrounding Toronto is involved in an organization second to none in power and strength on this continent," he said. He added that several of the establishments are independently operated.

At the same time Rev. Gordon Domm of Bathurst Street United Church said he would release "an

LatestRed-NaziDeal Runs Into Snag Molotoff Skips Berlin Session

By DON. GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

While the momentous events in Germany's favor so assiduously forecast by the Berlin propaganda office failed to materialize, Allied diplomacy took the initiative in the 30th week of the war and promised vigorous measures to prevent the Balkan states falling within the enemy's orbit.

A "future line of action" was decided upon at a meeting in London of the Allies supreme war council and the British and French envoys in the Balkan capitals and Italy were summoned home for conferences on the Allied position in southeastern Europe. The day before, Premier Paul Reynaud of France had warned that "at this moment" Germany is ready for "an attack on the economic independence of the Balkans" and declared that France's answer will be to "wage war in all domains."

That some snag had hit Germany's plan to promote an agreement between Italy and Russia, which is believed to have been the purpose of Adolf Hitler's visit to the Brenner Pass to confer with Premier Mussolini the previous week, seemed apparent when the Soviet foreign commissar, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, failed to show up in Berlin. The Germans early in the week had all but announced his imminent arrival, handing out information to foreign correspondents about the elaborate preparations under way at the Wilhelmstrasse and at the Soviet embassy in connection with the visit.

While it was conceded the Nazis may succeed in straightening out the situation to a degree enabling Molotoff to visit Berlin without losing face, there was no indication from Italy that the Fascist regime is taking a more kindly view towards

Plenty Of Food

London, March 30 (CP)

BRITISH food reserves are greater than before the war as a result of rationing, government monopoly buying and efforts of the merchant fleet, the food ministry announced today.

It said about $3,300,000 was being spent weekly to peg meat, milk and flour prices against undue rises. The general cost of food has risen 16 to 17 per cent since war began last September. The ministry stressed cooperation with France in food buying to prevent competition in foreign markets.

Wang Sets up as New Chinese Ruler With Backing Of Jap Bayonets

NANKING, March 30.—(AP)—Backed by the bayonets of his Japanese sponsors, Wang Ching-Wei formally proclaimed himself head of a new "central government of China" today as the banners of Nanking flapped limply under leaden skies.

Wang once was Nationalist China's premier, and with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was the political heir of the republic's founder, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen. Now his former associates call Wang a "despicable traitor."

Mounting a platform in front of Dr. Sun's picture, he read Dr. Sun's will, and a proclamation ordering immediate cessation of the 23 months of hostilities with Japan and directing Chinese troops to "await further orders."

Ignoring the practical certainty of disobedience, Wang announced his chief aims were realisation of peace and establishment of a new order in East Asia in cooperation with Japan.

Although Wang set himself up as successor to Chiang Kai-Shek's Chungking government, his authority actually will extend only to areas occupied by the Japanese army —the seaports and the principal cities of north and central China.

Wang said his aims included enforcement of constitutional government, international co-operation against "the subersive and peace-disturbing activities" of communists, respect for the legitimate rights and interests of friendly powers, and promotion of foreign friendship.

Japan, however, is the only government recognizing his regime, and even the Japanese took no part in the official ceremonies, except for Japanese officers, plainclothesmen and newspapermen.

Mother 19, Sues For $16,000 In Baby Juggle

LOS ANGELES, March 30—(AP).—Eighteen months after she gave birth to a son in a hospital here, Mrs. Frances Mahoney, 19, declares she still does not know which of three infants she claims were given her to nurse is her own.

She is suing the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California for $15,000 damage as a result of the alleged baby mix-up.

Between outbursts of sobs that finally caused a court recess, Mrs. Mahoney testified:

On September 13, 1938, the day following the birth of her child, a nurse brought her a light complexioned baby with a large mouth "like Joe E. Brown's."

Later that day she was given another baby of dark complexion and a small mouth. The nurse explained that infants at that age change rapidly. She nursed that baby for 10 days.

On the day of her departure from the hospital, she was given "a different baby—a baby that had carrot-colored hair."

"I don't want it," the girl-mother screamed. "Bring my baby back."

She was given sedatives to keep her quiet and later was strapped in bed.

Upon leaving the hospital, Mrs. Mahoney took the red-haired baby but she still does not know if it actually is her own. Resultant mental anguish caused her to institute the suit.

Cabinet Shuffle Predicted In Ottawa

PIERRE CASGRAIN

HON. J. A. McKINNON

COL. C. W. GIBSON

Ottawa observers are predicting a shuffle to take place in the King Cabinet before parliament meets. A Ministry of Supply and a Ministry of Air is likely to be created, with Hon. C. D. Howe being prominently mentioned for the Supply Ministry. Hon. J. A. McKinnon, Minister without portfolio, is likely to secure a portfolio in the new Cabinet and Colonel C. W. Gibson, newly elected member from Hamilton, may get a war post in the Cabinet. Pierre Casgrain, Speaker of the last parliament, is being prominently mentioned as Secretary of State to fill the vacancy left by the death of Hon. Fernand Rinfret.

Federal Ballot Cost Cut To $3,000,000

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP).—Cost to Canada of this week's Dominion election has been estimated by Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, at $3,000,000, or almost $1,000,000 less than in 1935, due to an improved system of preparing voters' lists.

The reduction in cost was made despite the fact wartime made necessary the taking of the active service vote at a cost of something under $100,000.

Explaining the difference in costs between the 1940 and 1935 elections, Mr. Castonguay said Friday night that Parliament in 1934 embarked on a new scheme of preparing voters' lists after many years of preparing them after the election date was announced.

With the hope of shortening an election campaign the new 1934 system planned permanent voters' lists that always would be up to date so a government could appeal speedily to the electors. This practice has been followed in Great Britain.

Parliament provided for two organizations, an enumerating staff to prepare the lists and the usual electoral machinery to conduct the elections. In 1934 a permanent list was prepared, and in 1935, before the election, it was revised. This piled up the expense.

Too, it disclosed that Canadians took little interest in getting their names on the lists until an election was in sight and that they moved about so much that the permanent list required extensive revisions.

After the one experience with the permanent lists parliament reverted to the former system, with the chief electoral officer in charge of preparing the lists and supervising the election. No start was made on the lists until the election was called and then the job was done all at one time.

The comparatively low cost of taking the active service vote was due to most of the supervision of the actual voting being done by unit officers at no cost to the country, Mr. Castonguay said. Costs were confined to four staffs, one in England, and one each in Halifax, Ottawa, and Edmonton. These staffs collected and counted the votes.

"We are very pleased with the record of T.C.A. in view of the fact we have no alternative route we think the record is due to the extreme care with which our personnel was trained and the care maintained since in the airline's operation.

"Also the record in highest percentage of completed flights indicates Canadian weather is satisfactory for transport flying and there is no undue holding back of operation in poor weather."

The British Commonwealth air training plan is not expected to interfere materially with operations at airports used by T.C.A., which now plans extensions. A service from Toronto to Windsor, Ont., with a stop at London, Ont., will start soon, Mr. Howe said, and negotiations still are underway for Montreal to New York and New York to Toronto flights. New planes will be used before long on the subsidiary service, operated by Canadian Airways in association with T.C.A. from the Moncton terminal to Charlottetown, Saint John and Halifax.

Britain and France let it be known that Russia will have to bear the consequences of her quasi-friendship with the Nazi government. The new French Cabinet demanded that Russia call home the Soviet Ambassador from Paris when he made an insulting remark about the Allies in a telegram to Joseph Stalin. Britain, seeking to block passage of supplies to Germany through the Soviet Pacific port of Vladivostok, turned over to French authorities two Soviet freighters suspected of carrying contraband in Far Eastern waters.

A stiffer attitude to the use of Norwegian waters by German shipping also was indicated. Two German freighters weer sunk by British submarines just outside Scandinavian territorial waters and British patrols were reported in strength in the Skagerrak, the strip of water between Denmark and Norway through which German vessels must pass to reach the Baltic.

In the air the Royal Air Force had a notable success on the Western Front when seven R.A.F. planes successfully fought 31 German craft, shooting down five while losing only one plane themselves.

Glancing back 25 years: Intense fighting in the Carpathian Mountains gave Russia command of the Dukla and Lupon Passes and entry to the Hungarian plains. On the Western Front Allied troops made gains in the Campaigne and in the Vosges Mountains.

Some Strong Evidence

"I have evidence against many that I believe will stand up in a court of law," Mr. Domm said.

Both Dr. Coburn and Mr. Domm said the matter was strictly for provincial authorities.

"They have been passing the buck," Dr. Coburn said.

Mr. Domm said many individual crimes have been traced to losses at the gaming tables.

"If these places now reopen there will be made available such an avalanche of startling evidence as may rock not only our whole community but possibly the province as well," he said.

Dr. Coburn said the Attorney-General (Hon. Gordon Conant) had been responsible for one clean-up a couple of years ago.

"He did a fine piece of work then, which showed what can be done," he said.

comment with the assertion that the documents "speak for themselves," but promised publication of additional papers dealing with United States foreign policy.

Principal targets of the Nazi press barrage were William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador to Paris; Joseph P. Kennedy, Ambassador to London, and Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., former Ambassador to Poland.

All three, as well as President Roosevelt, were mentioned in the documents. They consisted primarily of "confidential reports" in which Polish envoys in Washington, Paris and London were purported to have outlined for their government the views of American diplomats in Europe.

Asserting that Kennedy and Bullitt had played an "ominous" part in pre-war policies reflecting "the irrevocable desire of the western democracies to finish Nationa' Socialist Germany by war," the Voelkischer Boebachter asked:

"What in the world induced these gentlemen from far-away America to assume not only the role of vehement advocates of Polish claims, but even to encourage the Poles when they showed signs of weakening?"

Before the war experiments were conducted with pigeons as a means of sending messages from planes in distress. Practically every coastal aircraft now carries two of them. During February, some 2,000 birds were supplied and released from aircraft.

No pigeon has yet been credited with saving life in this war. But one bird released from a plane which had come down in the sea arrived with its message just after news of the plane's plight had reached the Air Ministry from another source.

The first birds to join the R.A.F. came from the King's lofts at Sandringham. Other birds are being trained there for the same purpose.

PICKLE BLEND CUCUMBERS

This special blend is composed of the outstanding pickling varieties in correct proportion to produce maximum yields of uniform, symmetrically shaped, dark colored pickles. Each variety in this mixture is a pure strain grown separately, after which the seed is mixed to secure proper proportions, resulting in full assortment of hybrid pickles. Their vigor, productiveness and uniform quality follows by the same principles used in hybrid seed corn and other hybrids. The value of this blend has been thoroughly proved. It is, in fact, very similar to the blend used for years by several large commercial pickling growers. Order direct from this advertisement. (Pkt. 10c) (oz. 20c) (¼ lb. 40c) (lb. $1.25) postpaid.

Fraser's Majority Set At 132 Votes

A majority of 132 votes for Gordon K. Fraser was indicated in the totals compiled to-day by Vincent Eastwood, returning officer for the riding, with the receipt of the ballot box from Bensfort, the last poll to send back in its result. Each deputy returning officer is required to return his ballot box with its key and also a memorandum of the count at the poll. It was from this information that Mr. Eastwood was able this morning to announce the Fraser majority. However, the details will be revised when the ballot boxes are opened on Tuesday.

17 Are Arrested In Police Raid

Confusion reigned in a house on the Chemong Road shortly before two o'clock this morning when the law interrupted a grand old game of "Mississippi Bridge" as Rochester of radio fame would call it.

Seventeen men were taken into custody and in Police Court this morning six men pleaded guilty to being "found in" and paid fines of ten dollars, and three-fifty costs, apiece. An Elm street resident was charged with keeping a common gaming house, but pleaded not guilty, and was remanded on bail of $500 until April 8. Another man was charged with allowing gambling on his premises, and he was remanded without plea until the same date.

Nine other men who are alleged to have been indulging in the age-old custom of rolling the bones will appear on Monday on charges of being "found in." Several of these had to work to-day and were given permission to appear on Monday.

The raid had all the earmarks of a blitzkreig as the six officers swooped down with speed that gave the alleged crap shooters no chance to beat a retreat. Two officers went to the front door, two more to the back and one was on each of the other two sides of the house to prevent a get-away via the windows.

When the alarm was sounded the men who were in the kitchen are said to have knocked down the stove pipes in their wild dash, and for a few minutes smoke poured into the room while the officers walked in through the front and back doors.

The raid was engineered by Provincial Constable Silvester and he was assisted by two other Provincial officers, Gordon Broughton and Lloyd McClure, and three city police officers, Constables Leo Murphy, Gordon Hardy, and Archie Menzies.

Halifax Tragedy Inquiry Secret

HALIFAX, March 30 (CP)—Official inquiry into the sinking of the Halifax pilot boat Hebridean with the loss of nine lives was slated to open here at 10 a.m. E.S.T. today.

The inquiry will be held behind closed doors in district Admiralty court, before Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll. The Hebridean went down after being in collision with a freighter in the outer harbor.

From the inquiry, it is expected, will come the story of how the disaster actually occurred. From unofficial reports, observers have gathered that the freighter sliced the schooner in two, plunging her to the bottom with the men in her cabin hopelessly trapped.

There were six survivors, and it is expected that all but the two who are in hospital will be called as witnesses. Sitting with Mr. Justice Carroll in an advisory capacity will be Lieut.-Commander D. G. Jeffrey of the Royal Canadian Navy and Captain M. H. Bloomer, master of the Western Union cable ship Syrus Field.

Search for the bodies of the victims or for wreckage from the Hebridean was fruitless yesterday. It is believed that all the bodies are trapped within the sunken hull. It is not known whether an attempt will be made to recover them.

The story of just how the freighter came to collide with the pilot boat may never be told. Three of the survivors were in a dory at the time and, though nearby, could not see a thing when the boats crashed. The three others managed to escape only by desperate scrambling, and had no time for observation. The ship sank under their feet as soon as they reached the deck.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

THE TRUTHFULNESS OF THE STORY

"The Apostles disbelieved for joy."—St. Luke 24:41.

In the Apostolic Church men went up and down the country simply telling the people stories of Our Lord's ministry, His compassion for the poor and the particulars of His death, resurrection and ascension. Fascinating accounts by men who believed that Jesus Christ was risen from the dead because they had experienced the power of the risen Christ to forgive sins and to change their characters. They were men and women transformed with a wonderful joy and fellowship with one another. They are not careful to build up evidence which cannot be overturned by the sceptic. As an early Church Father remarked: "They bared their breats to the attacks of the Lord's enemies." They are not afraid of the so-called "inaccuracies."

In this chapter we have such a story and the astonishing statement that the Apostles themselves "disbelieved for joy." One thing they knew. He had been crucified; He was dead and buried. No doubt of that fact. The Roman centurian testified to it and the Roman spear thrust into His side vividly emphasized it. He is indeed dead. They could not think of nothing else. These plain fishermen, workingmen will not believe the stories of His resurrection.

They are gathered together in that upper room, the doors are barred for fear of the Sanhedrim police. Suddenly they are conscious of a Presence in their midst. A form is standing before them. A Voice utters the oriental greeting: "Peace be unto you." They are horribly terrified. "It is a spirit," they exclaim.

A year earlier on the Lake in a storm He appeared walking on the waves and a similar cry broke from their lips. Then He answered: "It is I, be not afraid." But that is not enough now. The men are sure that He is dead. So the living Christ re-assures them: "Why are ye troubled and why do thoughts arise in your hearts. See My hands and My feet that it is I myself. Handle Me and see for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see Me have. And when He had said this He showed them His hands and His feet." St. John adds: "And His side." They are not yet convinced. "They still disbelieved for joy." It was too good to be true. So He eat some of the fried fish and a honey comb which had been left over from their supper. Now they are convinced.

Thus ends St. Luke's story. But St. John writing sixty years later gives a still more beautiful ending: "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord." He cannot forget the joy in his own heart and in the hearts of the disciples when they were convinced that He is indeed risen from the dead. His vision of th risen, glorified Christ has never ceased to thrill his heart and mind.

Two thoughts for our meditation.

The marks of the nail prints and the wounded side prove the realty of His sufferings. They remain in His glorified Humanity. He bears within the veil the tokens of His redeeming love. A Christ without a Cross is no Saviour. "He suffered and died for us" is the eternal doctrine of the Atonement. "For by one offering He hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified." Heb. 10:14.

Above all it is the fulfillment of His promise: Where two or three are gathered together in My name there am I in the midst of them." Are you conscious of that Real Presence when you worship on Sundays with His people? It is popular to go to Church to hear the preacher—a half truth. It is more scriptural to meet together in His Name and to realize His Real Presence. This should be your own personal experience of the reality of His resurrection and His ascension.

"I WAS DEAD AND, BEHOLD, I AM ALIVE FOR EVERMORE."

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 31 is Matthew 28: 16-20, the Golden Text being Acts 1:8, "Ye shall be my witnesses . . . unto the uttermost part of the earth.")

IT IS conceded that there were ten times in all in which our Lord appeared to hi sdisciples after His resurrection, from the first one, early Easter morning at the tomb where He appeared to the Marys, until the time He was taken up to heaven, forty days later.

John tells us that the same evening of the day He had been seen of Mary Magdelene, He appeared to His eleven apostles, as they closed doors, for fear of the Jews. In an instant Jesus stood in their midst, saying, "Peace be unto you." And He shewed them His hands and side. "Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord," says John.

One of them, however, Thomas, was not present at this time and he refused to believe when told, "We have seen the Lord." "Except I shall see in His hands the prints of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will no believe," he stated. After eight days the disciples were again gathered together and Thomas was with them, and Jesus stood again in their midst and told Thomas to reach thither his finger and "behold my hands, and reach thither thy hand, and thrust it into My side; and be not faithless, but believing.

Thomas Is Reproved

Thomas' answer was, "My Lord and my God!" Jesus said: "Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

In John we also find the story of the apostles' fishing trip, when Jesus appeared on the beach. Simon Peter had said he was going fishing, and four others said they would go with him. Then went in a ship and fished all night but caught nothing. When the morning came, Jesus stood on the beach, but the disciples knew Him not. He called to them, "Children, have ye any meat?" and they answered "No."

Then He told them where to cast their net, and when they did as He said, it was so heavy they could not draw it to land. One said to Peter, "It is the Lord." When Peter heard that, he cast himself into the sea to swim to shore and the others dragged the net in. When they came to land they found a fire going on the sand and bread and fish spread out, and Jesus called them to "come and dine."

The last recorded time Jesus came to His disciples as they were gathered in a room with closed doors. He said to them: "All authority hath been given unto Me in heaven and on earth.

"Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptising them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit;

"Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you, and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

St. Mark says, "So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, He was received up into heaven and sat on the right hand of God."

And of the disciples he says: "And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with him, and confirming the world with signs following."

That is the work millions of followers of these disciples have been engaged in all these years since that time. Missionaries have gone to far countries trying to save those who never before had heard of Christianity. David Livingstone was one of these. His work in Africa is well known, and has been called to the attention of the people of this generation recently by a motion picture which showed him in that once so-called "dark continent." His labors ended when he died of fever contracted in the jungles and swamps of that continent. Such men have found, truly, that Christ has been with them in their labors and has helped them.

Although the large plow came through about 2 a.m. Tuesday morning, it got only as far as Millbrook, and the road west to Pontypool is still awaiting service, both large plows being busy in other sections.

Farmers are anxiously awaiting the opening of this road since they are having difficulty in reaching a source of water for their cattle, and other stock.

Among the many beautiful flowers in the local churches on Easter Sunday, were those in Grace Presbyterian church sent by relatives in memory of former worshippers, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a Silex electric coffee pot to Mrs. William Mowat for her services as organist.

Miss Louis Brooks read the following address and Mrs. A. Maidens made the presentation.

Dear Mrs. Mowat: We, the members of St. John's ladies' Guild, wish to show our appreciation of your faithful services as organist for the past three years. We ask you to accept this gift.

Signed on behalf of the secretary and members.

Candle Lighting Services Popular

Candle lighting services have been organized in the churches throughout Peterborough county in recent months, and have made a profound appeal to the young people that have taken part in them, as well as to the regular congregation. Most of them have been organized and carried through by the executive of the Presbytery Young People's Union of the United Church.

One of these services will be held in St. Andrew's Church next Sunday night. Bob Spence, of Lakefield, will have charge of the program. Miss Loretta McDougall will sing a solo. The senior young people's classes of the Sunday school, led by Mrs. E. W. Young and Mr. D. T. Crawford, will have a part in the service as well as the local Y.P. Union.

Envoy Recalled

Franco-Russian relations have become more strained as Soviet envoy to France Jacob Surits has been recalled to Moscow and "relieved of his duties as Soviet Ambassador to France." Semi-official despatches from Moscow stated that the ambassador was recalled at the request of the French government. French officials refused to deny or confirm the reports.

Just a Drunk

He had seen the form of a white person in his ambulance stretcher that should have been empty. Investigating police found a drunk who said "it looked like a pretty good place to get out of the rain."

Scripture—Matthew 28:16-20

After Jesus' resurrection He appeared to His apostles in Galilee, and most of them believed it really was he and worshipped Him, but some doubted.

Thomas, however, was not with the others when Jesus first appeared, and he was a doubter until Jesus appeared again and told Thomas to touch Him.

Another time Jesus showed Himself to His apostles when they were fishing; He told them where to cast their nets which were brought up full.

Jesus' last command: "Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all nations . . . and lo, I am with you always."

They Will Stand Together

Britain and France have made announcement that they will not separately discuss or conclude peace terms. Any move of that nature will be mutual, in full partnership. It was perhaps considered best to make that announcement. The Allies themselves knew all about it, but Germany never believed it.

Before the war started Hitler did not believe he would have Britain and France ranged against him if he invaded Poland, and since then he has plainly indicated by his conduct of the war that he did not believe France and Britain would stick together.

That is why he has made Britain the butt of his attacks. That is why the full weight and terror of submarines, floating mines and planes with bombs and machine guns have been turned against British shipping and British docks. The tens of thousands of troops in France have been inactive.

There is no mistake about the attitude of Britain and France. These two nations are pooling resources, materials, currency exchanges and gold reserves. After the war the world may look much different, and it is going to be to the advantage of these two nations to have a thorough mutual understanding.

In the previous war Britain and France learned—and paid well for the learning—that it was poor business for them both to have differences regarding high military command, and that it was tactically wrong to operate as two armies against one enemy.

Hitler will probably understand what this means. His plan has been to drive the wedge between Britain and France, but he has neither the wedge nor the mallet with which to drive it. The Allies will stick.

A Hard One To Answer

There were two arrests made in Toronto, and the charge is the major one of armed robbery. The ages of the two arrested are 19 and 16. We will spell that out to make it plain—nineteen and sixteen.

In the ordinary course of events we could find boys of that age in any Collegiate. The one who is 19 would be close to his senior matriculation, and the one of 16 would probably be in the second year.

And that in turn points right straight to a problem about which there has been a good deal said. Just this—what to do with those two young fellows.

Reformers claim, and with reason, that young folk going to penitentiary should be kept separate and apart from those of older years or with long criminal records. They should not be thrown into day-to-day contact with men who have majored in the world of crime. If they can be segregated there is a chance they may be reformed and upon their release they will come out and make some wholesome use of their liberty.

But the problem is right here—these young fellows went off the deep end into major crime the first time out. A man who takes a gun in his pocket when he goes out to commit robbery and who uses it for threatening is regarded as a potential killer. He is a murderer in the making. It is taken for granted he would shoot if he found it necessary in order to complete the robbery or make his escape afterward. That is not a view of his paper, but something advanced and admitted in courts freely and frequently.

The old-time burglar, skilled in his knowledge of locks and barriers, was a gentleman compared to the man with the gun on the same job today. So there you have it. Young fellows of 19 and 16 facing a major criminal charge, and yet on account of their age there is that feeling we should keep them away from major criminals. Admittedly it is a tough one to answer.

Not The Right Method

The Legal Committee of the City Council has recommended that the public liability insurance of the city be carried with the same company which has had the business for several years. The dealings with the company have been found fair and reasonable.

But the method adopted of giving this business to the company is not in line with the generally accepted custom of asking for tenders and then accepting the lowest, although there is nothing in good practice to make it necessary to accept the lowest. The objectionable feature here is that the tender as submitted was not the one accepted.

The firm which had previously carried the risk tendered for $2,750, while two other prices submitted were $2,202.11. It was explained that $500 was included in that for property damage. It was contended by Ald. Gordon that the low tenders would mean that the companies would contest every claim for damages entered, and in this way the tender price was being brought down. As a rule we believe it is the custom of all companies to go rather thoroughly into any claim before making payment, and if there is reason to fight any claim in court they will do so.

What seem to have been the wrong method comes in here: The representative of the firm which submitted the highest tender was given the opportunity to amend his figures and come down to the price mentioned by the competing agencies. Their figures were revealed to him and he was asked if he cared to meet them, and on that basis it was recommended that the policy be continued with the same company.

The others who had tendered were not given the same opportunity and their original figures had to stand. That is all against the regular and recognized system of calling for tenders and opening them and abiding by what is written in the tender. If there had been any uncertainty about that $500 difference, and if the firms were not tendering for exactly the same sort and extent of coverage, then the proper thing would have been to clarify the specifications and call for new tenders. Revealing the price tendered by competitors to one firm and then giving opportunity to that one to revise the figures is something which should never be done.

No Help From Them

One rather searching investigation of the results of the Federal voting appeared in the columns of the St. Thomas Times-Journal where the question is asked—"Why was there no word of encouragement for Dr. Manion from Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Conservative chief, or from Hon. Senator Meighen, Conservative leader in the Upper House?"

The Times-Journal remarks: "It would have been easy for Mr. Bennett to have mailed or cabled a message to Dr. Manion and the party, but he was as silent as the Sphinx. Perhaps he nurses the recollection of their public spat in the House of Commons a few years ago. Senator Meighen, easily the most brilliant platform speaker of any party, was a silent observer of the fight from the comfort of his fireside."

The St. Thomas paper comes to the conclusion that Dr. Manion has a genuine cause for grievance against his former seniors, both of whom in turn had selected him for cabinet rank.

There may be sufficient explanation for all that. Mr. Bennett is not much interested in Canadian politics at the moment, and we are moved to doubt if he would have approved of changing the name of the Conservative party to that of the "National." Nor is there anything to show that Senator Meighen had a chance to approve or disapprove of that change in title. In making mention of this matter the Examiner is not speaking of something which was not mentioned in these columns while the campaign was in progress, because the opinion was several times given that dropping the Conservative name was an error, and that seeking to form a National government in the full and right meaning of the word was something which could not be done.

There are plenty of Conservatives who did not like the changed name, and the word from Ottawa now is that the election-time name is to be dropped, and those elected as National government supporters will be known as National Conservatives. It would simplify matters even more if the term Conservatives were used.

Try And Get It

It seems to be a mistake to believe, hope, anticipate or expect that once taxes are paid there is much prospect of reaching out and getting them back.

Here's a case in point: It has to do with some island land in Minnesota, on which taxes have been paid since 1888, but in 1931 the report of a boundary commission showed that the lands in question were actually located within the boundaries of Canada.

The man who owned the land and who had paid the taxes died a few years ago, and trustees of the estate considered it would be well to recover the taxes with interest, amounting in all to $20,000.

The answer has been given. First part of it is that claims for payments prior to 1933 are outlawed by the statue of limitations. That is, it is not possible to enter claim for a debt after the expiration of seven years. The next negative answer is based on the claim that payments made since 1933 cannot be rebated because the report of the boundary commission was in existence, and it should have been consulted before the taxes were paid. The government could keep on collecting the taxes as long as they were paid, and it would be under no obligation to call attention to any existing error, nor would it be liable in case of attempt to rectify that error. So the $20,000 which the trustees hoped to reclaim will remain just where it has been going since 1888—with the government.

Not Fair To Canada

In all the press comment on the election only one offer of a gratuitous insult to the electors of Canada has come to our attention. We regard the attitude that has been taken by The Toronto Telegram as an extremely serious matter. Nothing quite so misrepresentative of the attitude of the Canadian people as The Telegram's comment has appeared in the editorial columns of a Canadian newspaper in a great many years.

The Telegram entitled its leading editorial "Anti-War Vote Returns Mr. King to Power." Here are some of the paragraphs from it:

The avalanche of votes which swept the King Government back into power is an emphatic declaration that the people of this country are not "war conscious."

There is no use pretending that the electors have given King a mandate for a more vigorous prosecution of the war. The reverse is the case. The King Government was indicted on a charge of holding back and denying Britain loyal co-operation and the charge was backed up with abundant evidence. . . .

The most important single factor in the result was the conscription bogey which was hung around Dr. Manion's neck. . . .

Probably the biggest vote ever recorded by the women of the country was polled Tuesday. That vote was "against conscription."

Manion put up a clean, logical aggressive campaign, but the dice were loaded. The archangel Gabriel could not have carried the National Government cause to victory. . . .

A dozen or more issues that in an ordinary election would have been telling factors against King and his ministry were swept aside. The vote which vindicated the King Government and pardoned all their grievous sins was an "anti-war" vote.

That last sentence takes the matter completely out of the sphere of party politics. It looks to us as though The Telegram owes the nation and all Canadians a prompt apology.

Stratford report tells of snow drifts 12 feet in height. While the kind we have in our district may not be that high we understand they are a heck of a distance through.

Hon. Dr. Manion wired Gordon K. Fraser: "Hearty congratulations on your weathering the storm." Come to think of it, perhaps it did look that way to the Hon. Doctor.

Prison searchlights at Auburn, N.Y., was used to guide a lost airplane to safety. Possibly it looked like a light in the kitchen window welcoming the boys back home.

Man from Prince Albert has produced what he calls a new Canadian dog. Perhaps he got the notion during election time when a good deal is said about the under dog.

THRIFT

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I think I'll save some money now, John Henry loudly made that vow, he thought he'd look ahead; he pictured happy day to come, when he would have his working done, in mornings lie in bed.

¶ And he had worked along for years, slaved hard enough to strip his gears, and yet he hadn't saved; that's why he settled on his scheme, he'd show them what real thrift might mean, he talked until he raved.

¶ John Henry's house is large indeed, and now and then some help they need, he stuck to it like stone; his wife would have to join the scheme, to keep the fund from staying lean, she'd do the work alone.

¶ Each week the children drew their "pay," and careful like laid some away, it made John Henry laugh; they'd have to help along his plan, he was a forceful sort of man, he cut their share in half.

¶ There'd be no laundry wagon call, that fund must grow robust and tall, perhaps the folk would groan; his pension fund must start and grow, he could not let it travel slow, they'd wash now right at home.

¶ John Henry had it figured out, he knew just what 'twas all about, retiring in good health; and yet in all the plans he'd make, he never figured how he'd take—a nickle off himself.

OFFENSIVE DATES

IF THE last war is any guide, April is just as likely to see large scale offensives as is March. The big German drive of 1918 began on March 21, it is true, but that month in previous years saw only small attacks. In 1915 April saw the start of the Austro-German campaign in Galicia, the French advance between the Meuse and the Moselle and the German attack with poison gas at Ypres. The biggest battles of 1916—the German attack on Verdun and the Allied offensive on the Somme—were launched in February and July. April saw the start of operations in 1917, including the Battle of Arras of which the capture of Vimy ridge was a part. —Edmonton Journal.

• American Opinion Backs Cromwell

SHOULD HE HAVE SAID IT?

To the New York Herald Tribune:

Unfavorable criticism has been called forth from official circles in Washingon by the recent address delivered in Toronto by our Minister to Canada, James H. R. Cromwell.

The discussion more or less centers about the personal convictions implied in his statement that he believes the Allies are fighting for the perpetuation of individual liberty and freedom. The questions raised are (1) whether those sentiments fairly reflect preponderant opinion in this country and (2) whether he committed a breach of of diplomatic procedure by speaking out as he did without consultation with and authorization by our State Department.

As to the first count, it is my belief that his words exactly express the feelings of the State Department and of an overwhelming majority of the right-thinking citizens of the country. Certainly if there is any one in our State Department or any member of the Congress who, by this time, cannot fully subscribe to the idea that the Allies are waging war on the side of freedom, decency and justice it is high time that his identity be disclosed.

As to the second count, there is perhaps some ground for a difference of opinion. It is quite true that our representatives in important diplomatic posts should look upon the State Department as the court of last resort in the conduct of our foreign relations if we are to have anything that resembles a co-ordinated foreign policy. But our foreign diplomats are presumably chosen for their posts because of their fitness and ability.

If the moral fiber of the nation as a whole has become so flaccid that we dare not openly recognize the difference between what is wholly right and what is wholly wrong lest we endanger our precious neutrality, then it is only a question of time before we shall stew in our own juice, and deservedly so.

WM. O. MORSE.
Greenwich, Conn., March 21, 1940.

PROUD OF HIM

Ambassador Cromwell's splendid utterance has stirred a wide and deep response in the hearts of all true Americans. I speak for many when I say America is glad he gave voice to our convictions, and we are proud of his sane, clear vision and courage. The very fact that men like Clark suggest his recall shows how far some of us have strayed from the ideals of human freedom, which are the birthbright of all Americans.

The isolationists, whether they realize it or not, are playing into the hands of brute force run amuck in Europe. Unless it be stopped soon, it will not find the Atlantic too wide for its mad career! A "Red axis"-controlled world would not be a very peaceful one to live in. War is a dreadful thing, but there is a worse thing—slavery.

ELNA SHERMAN.
New York, March 21, 1940.

NOT BY ISOLATION

Ambassador Cromwell's speech was all right. He had the courage and good sense to say the thing America needs to hear whether our isolationists in Congress like it or not. We have waited too long for some of them to display similar courage and understanding. It is not in isolation that America will achieve her destiny, but in international co-operation for a world order of law and justice.

CHESTER A. SMITH.

• Waited 40 Years To Be Married

NOW AND THEN a touch of unusual romance reaches the outside world through the medium of a newspaper report. Here is an example and it comes from Goderich, the county town of Huron County:

Romance of 40 years' standing had a happy ending at high noon today when Thomas Sillib, 67, of Taber, Alta., was married to Amanda Maedel, 63, of Goderich, at Alexandra Hospital, Rev. D. J. Lane, Presbyterian minister, officiating.

When the groom came from the west two weeks ago he found his bride-to-be in hospital convalescing from a serious operation. The wedding had for weeks been fixed for today, the bride's birthday, and with the consent of physicians and hospital authorities, it went ahead as scheduled.

Forty years ago the bridegroom worked in the tannery of the bride's father at Benmiller, five miles from here. Thirty-five years ago he went west to seek his fortune. In all that time he has been east but once and that was 27 years ago.

The bride is a highly respected citizen of this community and there were two main reasons why she did not marry at an earlier age. For 10 years she nursed her blind father and for 30 years she nursed her invalid mother. As long as they lived she vowed never to marry. Both are now dead. Her life has been one of sacrifice and devoted service.

But Miss Maedel looked happy and lovely today as she sat propped up in bed with pillows, wearing a corsage of pink roses, sweet peas and fern, the bridegroom standing alongside. Her special nurses, Mrs. Lou Maskell and Miss Mary Greene, were witnesses to the ceremony.

The wedding had all the frills of a smart house affair. The solarium, into which the bride's bed had been wheeled, was aglow with daffodils and iris. Pink carnations adorned the bride's table, as did a two-tier wedding cake. Dr. Harold Taylor proposed the toast. The wedding couple made a fitting reply. Miss Margaret McCorkindale, superintendent, and Miss Marion Chambers, assistant received the guests.

It was the first hospital wedding ever held in Goderich and the air of spring and what it brings filled the air of Alexandra institution all morning as the nursing staff busied themselves with preparations.

Mr. and Mrs. Sillib will reside in Goderich.

TOOK NO CHANCES

WANG CHING-WEI, the puppet Premier of the new "Chinese Central Government" who dances to the strings that are pulled in Tokyo, has left Shanghai for Nanking. If all goes well he is about to call sessions of the Central Political Council which will draw up the formal details of the new government.

This man is the self-styled saviour of the Chinese people, the leader who will act as custodian of the "new order" in China. But there seems to be a little confusion in the minds of the Chinese people about their Premier-to-be.

Wang, on his trip to Nanking, took no chances. His steamer was escorted by five Japanese gunboats. He was surrounded by an armed bodyguard, and Wang decided that it was best to stay comfortably below decks during the voyage.

Mr. Wang's followers are reported fearful that the United States may not recognize him. Clearly their more immediate worry is that the Chinese may recognize Mr. Wang and, out of admiration, shoot him.—New York Post.

A Bit of Nonsense

Account Squared

For three days, or rather nights, the cinema attendant had gone about her work gloomily. Then suddenly her companions were surprised to see her smiling cheerfully.

"What's happened?" they asked in surprise.

"Well, it's like this," she replied, with a chuckle, "that boy who chucked me has just come in with his new girl—one of those bottle blondes!—and I've put 'em in separate seats!"

Not Lost But—

As the two lads had been with him for quite a while, the captain of a coastal sailing ship thought it was time one at least was promoted.

So he called up the one he thought the smarter and began putting some test questions to him.

"Where's the mizzen mast?" he asked presently.

"Dunno, sir!" was the reply. "How long 'as it been mizzen?"

STALIN APT PUPIL

ANOTHER proof that Stalin and Hitler are Siamese twins in their attitude toward aggression is seen in the fact that when Russia produced the map on which the new Soviet frontier with Finland is shown, the Finnish delegation found that it had been changed considerably from the terms of the recent peace treaty, and the all the transformations were in Russia's favor.

Hitler, it will be remembered, in his campaign to obtain the Sudetenland from Czecho-Slovakia, also revised his demands, always upward, and obtained more territory from the Czechs than had been agreed upon in earlier conferences. In fact, he finally took all of Czecho-Slovakia.

It is apparent that Stalin has been by no means a backward pupil in obtaining his education from the German Fuehrer. But it is interesting to speculate on what would happen in the final map-drawing if Stalin and Hitler ever should become involved in a war with each other. If peace were ever to eventuate it seems there would have to be honor among even these.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

LONGEST HIGHWAY

THE Earl of Haddington, who has been invalided home from France, is one of the richest men in the country. Fred Kiff, Veteran Local Diver, Tells Of Hazards That Lie Under Kawartha Lakes, Rivers

Tragedy, danger and mystery lurks beneath the placid waters of every lake and river, and Fred Kiff, veteran diver with the Trent Canal, has had many queer experiences prowling around in a diver's suit on the bottom of the lakes and rivers of this district.

A reporter visiting Mr. Kiff at his home, 585 Division Street, to view a model 15-inch railway gun which the diver is building in his spare time, asked Mr. Kiff about his life as a diver and was told an interesting story.

For the past 22 years Kiff has been working in the waters of the Trent system from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay.

Seventeen years ago he was called to Marmora to seek the body of a woman who had drowned with her baby in the turbulent Crowe River. He went into the deep hole below Crowe River dam, where the water is about 75 feet in depth, and as it was a bright sunshiny day, visibility at the river bottom was good.

"I found a large wagon lying upside down on the rocky bottom with the skeletons of a team of horses hitched to it. The harness was visible and the horses were lying side by side. I did not see any trace of a man." When Mr. Kiff came to the surface, an old-timer explained that the horses had been drawing sawdust from a mill nearby ten years before, and when the wagon came too close to the edge of the river, the outfit toppled into the water. The driver swam ashore but the horses drowned. The woman's body was not recovered at that spot but came to the surface the next day.

Most Terrifying Time.

"What was the most terrifying experience you ever had?" asked the reporter.

"It was in this same river. I was walking along a level rock bottom when I suddenly plunged into a hole about ten feet deep and almost filled with sawdust. I was so frightened I could do nothing but sit there in the inky blackness. Jack McWilliams, who was holding the rope on shore, had both hands burned by the rope slipping through them. He seemed to know just what to do and when he held the rope tight I managed to climb hand over hand back up to the rock ledge."

"I had another narrow squeak down at the Glen Miller dam, when the rope dislodged a cliff of shale rock, which crashed to the bottom. It fell alongside me, dinging my steel helmet and tossing me twenty feet from the spot. I was not injured.

"One only becomes frightened when the noise of the pump stops. This can be heard plainly by the diver, but a stop is usually only for a second or so," he remarked.

Bass are the most curious and most friendly of all the fish in local waters. They will stay near a diver and often come to look through the glass face plate straight into the diver's eyes. They look much bigger than they are, he said.

"One time I found a large muskie stuck in one of the old wooden dams. There was a leak in the dam, and the muskie had pushed his snout into the hole, and the water pressure jammed him in tight. He was still alive when I freed him. One rarely sees a 'lunge. One time I was working at Gamebridge and the carp were around me in shoals. I could not see more than a foot distant.

Mr. Kiff was working at Coboconk last summer where a new dam is being built, and there he saw large bass and suckers than he had ever seen before. The dam in question is on the Gull River at the foot of Shadow Lake.

"One time I was working at Wallace's Point and attempted to pick a large round stone off the bottom. It wriggled out of my hands and swam away. It was a large snapping turtle."

Thinks Eels Breed Here.

The veteran diver is inclined to disagree with the general belief that eels breed in the depths of the ocean. He says that while inspecting a dam at Glen Miller he saw shoals of small eels, all about ten inches long, trying to swim over the dam. They were clustered on the concrete apron below the dam. There are five dams between this spot and Lake Ontario, and unless the eels were locked through they did not come from the lake. This was in late September. He claims he has never seen small eels in any other place, and explains that they looked exactly like the black eels caught near Peterborough.

"I believe those eels were born between the Glen Miller dam and the one just below it."

He explained that every dam on the Trent Canal is inspected regularly to determine if there is any undermining or landslides. To do this the diver has to go under the concrete apron below a dam. The huge pile of rocks which one sees a few hundred feet below a dam, is scooped out by the spring freshets.

Some divers are injured when they search for leaks above a dam and are sucked in by the pressure, but divers are forbidden to take any chances by canal officials and as a result there has been very few accidents locally, he said.

Asked to describe his sensations in the water, Mr. Kiff said a diver will become very chilly after three or four hours in the water, even in midsummer. If a diver goes down to a greater depth than he has been used to he will get a sharp pain above the eyes but this will soon go if the diver stands still and becomes accustomed to the deeper water. Standing on a river bottom on a dull day is like being out in a pea soup fog, and a diver must feel his way. On a bright day a diver can see fifty feet if he is on a rock bottom. Usually the bottom is muddy and his feet sink in the ooze and great clouds of muddy water spoils visibility.

Rivers Log-Filled.

The Crowe River bottom is a maze of "deadheads," that is, logs which have become waterlogged and sunk while being floated downstream by the river drivers. There are many logs below and above the Auburn dam on the Otonabee River also, he said.

Questioned about the various objects which he had found while diving, Kiff said he often found the old type pop bottles, shaped like a five pin, which were common a quarter of a century ago when excursion boats plied the Otonabee River. Passengers would toss them overboard after drinking the pop. He produced an Indian skinning stone which he picked up on the bottom of the Otonabee and said he had come across an old-style hand spike used by lumberjacks. This spike was the forerunner of the old cant-hook. He has found many wooden plug baits and other types of artificial baits.

"Generally speaking fresh water diving presents few risks as compared to deep water diving as there is little danger of one getting the bends. A diver will become sick if he comes up from a 75-foot depth too quickly, but an experienced diver will stop two or three times coming up the ladder and thus avoid any distress."

While working at the Lake Ontario end of the Murray Canal removing the wreck of a 3-masted coal schooner, Kiff said he saw hundreds of coal black lizards about eight inches long. He sawed through the ship's keel and attached crane hooks so that the wreck could be lifted out in portions to clear the boat channel.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

ROMANY HAILE, who wants to be a radio star.

CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.

BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer.

YESTERDAY: Just out of college, Romany arrives in Chicago to try to get into radio. At the train she finds her old friend Cholly, and meets Brent Nelson.

CHAPTER TWO

"TERRY, OF course, is half of the double date," Cholly informed Romany. "And do you remember Baxter Tree at school? He was a senior in our junior year."

"Oh, yes," Romany nodded. "The bookish, literary guy with the glasses and the serious mein. He was in the dramatic club.

"That's the one. He's a continuity writer for the radio now.

"How marvellous! Maybe he can introduce me to somebody who knows somebody."

"That's the reason I had Terry hunt him up and invite him out," Cholly grinned. "Nothing like grinding an axe now and then. Besides, he's very nice — and good looking."

"I didn't know him except by sight," said Romany. "He wasn't much of a ladies' man, was he?"

"Married to his typewriter. Smart fellow! Even you couldn't take him away from his literary efforts, I fear."

"An affair of the heart is the last thing that would interest me," Romany airily assured her old friend. "So I'm sure the Baxter Mason Tree literary career is perfectly safe."

"You still want to be the Sarah Bernhardt of the air waves, I see." Cholly was amused. "And you'll probably end up reading commercial announcements. You know the kind. 'I bless the day I found Mrs. Snicklefritz's soap'." She said it through her nose.

Romany laughed.

"I will not! I'll starve first."

"Radio is the craziest business in the world," Cholly told her. "I've discovered that in three months, wearing out shoe leather trying to get a job playing the piano on the air. If Terry hadn't helped me find my job playing part time in the music store, I'd have jumped in the lake."

"Well," Romany said placidly, "I'll keep on plugging until I get something to do. I won't let it get me down. There's too much money to be made."

"Money!" Cholly sighed. "If you'd see the flocks of dizzy little high school kids floating around making two or three hundred dollars a week at Interstate, it'd make you sick to think you can't get a break. I know a ten-year-old boy making a hundred and fifty a week on two kid shows."

"Them's not peanuts," Romany whistled softly.

"Myra Noyes paid income tax on fifty thousand dollars last year," Cholly added. "I know a girl who knows the man who makes out her income tax return. She's starring on three daytime radio shows, five days a week."

Romany blinked, then grinned.

"Has she got anything I haven't got?"

"Yeah!" Cholly grinned back. "Peroxide blond hair and the nastiest disposition in Chicago. But she is striking. And she's got that certain something that a mike picks up and plays on the heartstrings."

"Oh, Lord," said Romany, feelingly. "I hope I've got it, too. Whatever it is! I'm so tired of being poor. I've never had anything in my life Aunt Cissie didn't give me. Mother and Dad have been wonderful. But Dad is the poorest farmer in Indiana, bless his heart. If I could just make a lot of money, and help them."

"I know." Cholly's eyes were pensive. "I don't really want anything for myself. If I could just fix everything so Mom would never have to worry."

"We will fix everything." Romany sounded so sure of herself. "I feel lucky! Meeting Brent Nelson is a good start."

"Are you really going up to see him?"

Romany answered thoughtfully: "I—don't think so. But I'll find a way to bump into him very soon. I hope he remembers me."

"As if any man ever forgets those big green eyes of yours." Cholly scoffed. Then she added seriously, "I wish I could be a calculating wench like you are. If Brent Nelson had asked me to run in and see him, I'd have been up there tomorrow morning hanging around before he got in, I want a radio job so badly. You're so clever with men."

"I am not!" Romany denied," secretly pleased. "But I don't think it's a good idea to let anyone know I need a job. Bad psychology. Aunt Cissie wrote me to wear anything of hers I found when I went out looking for work, and said I could get her furs out of storage. So I'll just drift around looking like an heiress, and maybe something will happen."

"Too bad I'm such a pee wee." Cholly made a wry face. "I could certainly use some of Aunt Cissie's old duds.

"I'd give anything I've got for your red hair and freckles." Romany looked down at the adorable face of the little Irish girl. "You could have any man in the world you wanted."

"You're crazy!" Cholly exploded. "This mug of mine!"

"Oh, no, I'm not crazy." Romany reached for her suitcase. "But you'll never find out what you've got until you chase Terry O'Rourke and stop trying to make him over into a good husband."

"You don't like Terry," Cholly said unhappily.

"Oh, yes I do," Romany denied quickly. "The guy has an insidious charm that no gal could resist. But he'll never change, Cholly. And you're too good for him."

They were at Seventy-second street. They got off and walked down the block. When they found the number, they stood looking up at the apartment house excitedly.

"Wow!" Romany blinked. "Not a bad li'l ole homestead. And right on a private beach."

Inside the apartment they rushed around inspecting their new quarters. The suite was on the back, overlooking Lake Michigan. There was a breeze that tossed up white caps and in the twilight the scene was breath taking. A few bathers swam or lolled on the beach; beyond them sailboats and yachts dotted the water.

"There's another month left to swim" Romany exulted happily. "Oh Cholly aren't we lucky?"

"I could cry." Cholly sank into a boudoir chair beside her twin bed. "You should see the little dump I've been living in. No bigger than a beehive. And hot!"

Romany tossed her French chapeau onto the bed.

"This" she grinned "is the beginning of a bigger and better life, Miss O'Neill. I feel it in my old bones. We are now a couple of wealthy coeds from Indiana university who have dropped into Chicago to look around. And we might condescend to elevate broadcasting a bit—provided we get our price."

"I'll settle for thirty-five a week." Cholly got up. "And a shower."

"Go ahead and take a shower while I unpack," Romany suggested. She opened a closet door. "Look, Dresses. Scads of 'em! Shoes to match. Boxes of hats."

Cholly drew a long face.

"And me looking like your country cousin."

"You look adorable in that white sports dress," Romany comforted her. "With your figure you could wear a bath towel and look like an angel."

"Liar!" Cholly pulled her dress over her head, preparing for the shower. "We'd better get ready. The boys'll be here in a few minutes."

"Now I wonder" (Romany ran her eye along the line of Aunt Cissie's gowns and selected a simple pink street-length dotted swiss) "whether Mr. Tree likes 'em sweet and simple. Or should I wear this long red one here with the puffed sleeves?"

"Save the crimson for Brent Nelson," Cholly turned on the water for her shower. "Why waste your precious time trying to charm a mere literary hack?"

Joliette Cyclones Eliminate Strong Sherbrooke Outfit

(By the Canadian Press.)

Sherbrooke Red Raiders, a team that had been expected to give the Montreal Royals a stern battle for the Quebec hockey championship, watched from the sidelines to-day while a scrappy intermediate team, Joliette Cyclones, filled the berth that had been all but reserved for the Eastern Townships team.

Given little chance of coming close to the provincial senior league champions, the Cyclones laced Sherbrooke 10-4 last night to enter the Quebec final with a 16-15 victory in the two games total goals series. Sherbrooke fired in eight goals in the third period to win the first game 11-6.

There was no comparison between the teams last night. The Cyclones were off with the drop of the puck, rattling in four goals in the first period, evening the round score in the second and winning the series in the third after Sherbrooke had taken the lead again.

Meet Montreal Royals.

To-morrow, Joliette will get another chance to prove its giant-killing propensities, meeting Royals at Montreal in the first game of a best-of-three series for the Quebec crown. The winner will meet either Kirkland Lake or Sydney in the Eastern Canada finals of the Allan Cup playdowns.

The Maritime team and Kirkland Lake begin their semi-final round at Toronto to-night. The teams will move to Ottawa on Tuesday for the second game, returning to Toronto on Friday if a third is needed.

Junior playoffs will share the spotlight to-night with the senior game. At Montreal, Verdun Maple Leafs and Perth Blue Wings will begin a best-of-three series for the right to enter the Eastern finals of the Memorial Cup playdowns.

Meantime, at Oshawa, the Dominion champion Generals will clash with Toronto Marlboros in the deciding game of their best-of-five round for the Ontario Junior A title.

Havelock Albion Dance Is Jolly

HAVELOCK, Mar. 30 — (ENS). The Havelock Albion Club were the sponsors of a dance held here on Thursday evening in the Town Hall auditorium. Because of snow-blocked roads and counter attractions, the affair was not patronized as well as the club dances usually are, but despite this an enjoyable time was had by those present.

Music was provided by the Aces Orchestra of town, and a cafeteria lunch served by the members of the local Women's Institute.

Lucky spot prizes were won during the program by Mr. and Mrs. E. Chiles, Miss Muriel Poste, and Jim Covert.

Set New Swim Mark

MONTREAL, March 30—(CP)—Jean Marc Demers, member of Canada's 1937 team in the British Empire Games, lopped almost half a minute off the Canadian record for the 200 yards back stroke swimming event in a meet here last night, when he covered the distance in two minutes, 24 and two fifths second. It was announced that application will be made to the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association for official recognition of the record. The former mark was two minutes and 51 seconds.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Kitchener Greenshirts were torpedoed and sunk in the shallow territorial waters of the Brock St. arena last night by the Petes, 6-4, in the first game of the three-in-five O.H.A. intermediate "A" finals. Dunno whether there will be a government protest or not, but it's one win for the locals and two more to go in the next four games. They'll play in Kitchener on artificial ice Monday—maybe in Oshawa on Wednesday. The ice at the Brock Avenoo last p.m. had a warm look to it—in fact, the darn stuff was perspiring before game time, and it finished up with a young lake along the east boards. The Petes, maybe thinking of the rep of the Peterborough Canoe Co. everywhere, paddled better here and won out.

* * * * * *

Yep, thanks to mild weather—and Sec. Hewitt of the O.H.A.—the ice was as soft as a lover's coo and the crowd below expectations. On good ice—and with no rain pelting down in the afternoon—the place would have been sold out for a playoff match, but there weren't much more than a thousand of the faithful fans on deck last eve. At advanced prices, the club made about as much as a full house ordinarily but didn't pile up enough dough to declare a dividend at the end of the season. Naturally, the slushy ice didn't make it a real hockey game—though 'twas close and always very exciting—as neither team showed its best in the muck and the game wasn't as fast as expected. Wednesday was the right night for the fray, but Friday found it too mild. Still the fans saw a good tussle.

* * * * * *

No Song And Dance

While play resembled shinny at times—it looked like a first cousin to it during the last two periods—it was fairly fast and werry, werry close. The Petes earned the win easily and should have had several more. The fact that they didn't means that it'll be tougher than elderly beefsteak the rest of the serial. Kitchener arrived shortly before game time after a tiresome trip, and they were without their ace defenceman, Gamey Lederman, the former pro, so their loss by two goals was by no means a disgrace for the 'Shirts. They'll be plenty potent at home Monday.

* * * * * *

At that, ya can't take anything away from the Buckland bunch. They've been idle a long spell and were playing on heavy ice—something the light and fast-stepping Petes decidedly do not like. Yet they outplayed Kitchener most of the distance last evening and fans leaving the rink were saying: "They should beat that team anytime and anywhere." But it won't be just that easy, though we feel this is the Petes' year and that they'll romp home with a title. Some time before the baseball season opens, if the O.H.A. doesn't get any more ideas of prolonging the series. It may yet wind up with a couple of tie games and run to nine tussles.

* * * * * *

Well, You Pick 'Em

There were no particular stars on the local lineup last night, not in our opinion. Three of the boys, Starr, Coughlin and Heal, were in on two goals each, Blewett played a fine game, the first line shone and was always as dangerous as a blonde nurse when hubby is sick. And the defence worked hard in the soft going. And the goalie was good. Nope, we wouldn't single any one out to wear the laurel wreath in this tilt. Ditto with the 'Shirts. The first line was plenty threatening, but the second stringers scored the goals. Except that Goalie Bindernagel rates a hunk of glory for some fine goal-guarding for the Greenshirts.

* * * * * *

And that should wind up hockey in this fair valley for this year. Maybe along about next December the middle, we may see another puck tilt at the Rue Brock, but there is less chance of seeing any more hockey there this spring than of viewing Greta Garbo peddling gum along George St.! That ice was actually sweating last e'en and don't think the heavily-padded boys, playing hard, weren't warmish. Efforts will be made to get Wednesday's scrap at Oshawa (with maybe a train excursion), but more on it again.

* * * * * *

One-Sided Andrew

It's nice to see Toronto Leafs in Stanley Cup finals again, and they might make it right interesting for the Rangers — or will it be Bruins? We note Andy Lytle, Leafian praise agent, is back in form again pounding out much wordage on a decided bias. In his Star accoûnt of the Toronto-Wings' final in Detroit the other day, Lytle describes the big free-for-all as a decisive win for his Maples. They apparently took on all of the Wings and soundly trimmed 'em—in fact Horner alone "took on every Wing in sight and finished with three or four of them well and truly licked." He tells also of Syl Apps mixing with Jimmy Orlando and earning "the Golden Gloves." Yet later in his odd tale, Lytle writes with delightful innocence: "Apps had three or four abrasions on his chin, probably from sticks he had to block." Isn't that awful? Even Foster Hewitt on the air that eve admitted after Apps' slugfest with Orlando—who is a cousin to scrapper Nick Orlando here—that the front of Syl's sweater was bloody.

* * * * * *

Cage fans will trek in force tonight down Simcoe St. to the big Y.W.C.A. gymnasium to see a girls' playoff tilt. A Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association contest at seven o'clock betwixt St. Catharines and the local Orfuns, a two-game series of about the provincial semi-final stage. This isn't one of those run-of-the-mine hoop tussles by nice young girls who are trying to get along at the game—one of those "silver collections or box tops will get ya in" to spend a little spell; nossuh, this is a sizzling basketball playoff by two of the best clubs in Ontario. It rates a big crowd.

Circus Hits Trail

SARASOTA, Fla., March 30. — (AP).—The Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus starts northward to-day on its annual tour of the sawdust trail. The 48-car first unit formed a train heading for New York where the season's first performance will be given April 5 in Madison Square Garden.

Beaches Gridders Hold Get-Together

TORONTO, March 30.—Players and officials of the Balmy Beach Football Club were guests of sponsor Floyd Muirhead at a buffet luncheon and get-together last night at the Royal York Hotel. It was an informal party where the team members got together and talked over events of the last season and prospects for the coming year. Tribute was paid to Bill Croxford, flying wing of the 1930 Beach team, who is overseas with the Canadian Active Service Corps and the players decided to honor him in some suitable way with a gift.

Mr. Muirhead, President Ab Box and Coach Alex Ponton had brief words of welcome for the players and guests and on behalf of Mr. Muirhead, Box presented the players with neckties.

George Walker Scouts For Maple Leafs

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP)—Western hockey players dig in to produce a little extra something when the word goes around that George (Squib) Walker is in the rink.

The road to a place in the National League can be paved by Walker, who for 10 years has been chief scout for Toronto Maple Leafs. He operates out of Fort William, where he drops his insurance business at periods during the winter to steal into western communities where promising youngsters are reported to be playing.

"For years I could go into almost any rink in the west and not be recognised as a scout," Walker says. "But gradually they caught on. Now it gets whispered around that I've hit town and I don't always see a boy under the right conditions."

Squib is in the east to watch his prize find of recent years, Wally Stanowski, in playoff action with the Maple Leafs.

Greatest Deal

"I watched Stanowski with St. Boniface Seals three years ago and decided he would do," Walker recalled today. "I wired manager Conny Smythe and his okay came back. But when our notification to the league that Stanowski was being placed on our negotiation list reached President Frank Calder, he already was on New York Americans' list. The Americans had beaten us by two hours."

Walker visited the Americans' training camp the following autumn and was even more impressed by the flying Pole. He notified headquarters and the Maple Leafs pulled what Smythe calls "the greatest deal we ever made."

They traded Happy Day, Toronto's fading defenceman, for the right to transfer Stanowski to their negotiation list. The young defenceman played with St. Boniface again that year, led the Seals to a Dominion Junior championship and signed a professional contract with Toronto in the fall of 1938.

"We're not always that fortunate," Walker said. "I scouted Sid Abel one night and advised the Leafs to get him. The late Goldie Smith beat me to Abel by about two hours. Now Abel is starring with Detroit."

Other Walker Finds

Among Walker's discoveries have been Andy Blair, Buzz Boll and Charlie Sands. Of them all he rates Sands, now with Montreal Canadiens, "the best consistently good player over a period of years." Boll was a defenceman when spotted by Walker, who thought correctly that Buzz could be made into a forward.

Walker thinks he has another great coming up in Jug Stewart, a 16-year-old forward with Port Arthur Juniors who finished the Thunder Bay season in second place in the scoring lists this year. Stewart is a free-skating left wing or centre.

Patrick Confers On Playoff Dates

NEW YORK, March 30.—(CP)—Lester Patrick said Friday night a conference Saturday will determine whether his New York Rangers—if they get past Boston Bruins—will play games on consecutive nights against Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup finals next week.

One game up on the injury-riddled Bruins in the semi-final series, the Rangers can end the series here and open the final in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

But a circus is coming to town next Friday for a three-week visit and needs 24 hours to set up quarters in the Garden, which would clash with Thursday night's scheduled second game. Patrick said tonight he would like to play the second game Wednesday night, moving to Toronto for the rest of the series.

At a conference here Saturday with Conny Smythe, Maple Leaf manager, Patrick will seek to obtain his consent to games on consecutive nights.

Favorite Players Advance In Tennis

HAMILTON, March 30—Favorites moved into the semi-finals of the Ontario tennis tournament here yesterday and in most cases seeded players advanced. Without a great deal of trouble Carl Fischer, Detroit, one of the tourney favorites, turned back Gordon Sullivan, Hamilton, in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-3, and although the local youngster won only five games in the two sets, the rallies were lengthy.

Same Old Chuck

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 30.—Chuck Klein took up where he left off upon his return to the Phillies. Virtually his last act before going to the Pittsburg Pirates last year was to hit a pinch triple. He returned to a Philly uniform the other day and in the sixth inning of the exhibition game against Syracuse he was sent in as a pinch-hitter and promptly delivered a double.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — Morrie Arnovich, who played left field for the Phillies all last season, may be shifted to right this season. Manager Doc Prothro has had him over there in recent games.

The British Army supply of shoes for one week is now equal to 18 months' output.

Fistic Melee Climaxes Ousting Of Red Wings

Nine Toronto players and eight Detroit players received $25 fines as a result of wild fistic battle which climaxed the Stanley Cup playoff game in Detroit, which saw the Leafs oust the Red Wings by a 3-1 victory. Fights were numerous all through the game and the penalty box was kept filled, but in the last dying seconds of the game a general battle involving all players on both teams took the spotlight. Flaring tempers were brought to a fever heat when Orlando of the Wings slashed and cut Horner across the neck with his stick in the third period. Horner is shown down on his knee, as Goalie Broda tries to reach Orlando.

Several doubleheaders have been reported this week and it has been the cellar gang who has been doing the trick.

The Scabs put it over the C.N.R. Freighters by 17-4 and 15-6.

Two more teams were eliminated from the President Cup series. The Southend Wanderers and the Wool Gatherers leaving in the running the Fighting Parsons who this week meet the Fire Hall Orphans and the Scabs who will meet the Babies on Monday next at the SOE Hall, April 8.

Should both Fire Hall teams win we will have to clear the snow at the back of the hall to lay mats.

Then the South End Wanderers outscored Curtis Brick Yard gang in close tilts, 13-11 and 11-10.

The lowly Army Transport squad called at the Bonnerworth and took away a couple of loads of pay dirt, while the Spinners were picking the wool from their optics.

The Quaker Porridge Pancakers could not stand up to the cellar gang of Fighting Parsons and lost four points in the struggle.

The only top notchers to win out being the mighty C.N.R. Freighters who paid a visit to the De Laval Separator works and went out of control. The heavy wheys lost out by 30 to 14.

Will those who have trophies please leave same at the Elsie Bennett shop or leave at some suitable place where the secretary can pick up.

At a meeting of skips and executives it was planned to hold banquet outside of the organization for this year and a committee comprising of G. Gimblett, D. Leether and the secretary-treasurer to make all inquiries, etc.

The prize purchasing committee are as follows: D. Leether, G. Gimblett, L. R. Groombridge, A. Stanley and R. Mitchell. The entertainment committee: J. Ridyard, W. Osborne and H. Gray with president and secretary-treasurer.

It is hoped that these committees will get working and make their reports as soon as possible.

We note an error in last week's schedule. The game No. 16 vs No. 2 was inadvertently omitted.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

LAKELAND, Fla., Mar. 30—(AP).—The critical hour for Detroit Tigers' hopefuls approaches. Owner Walter O. Briggs, who takes a personal hand in such matters, will arrive at camp to-morow for a conference with Manager Del Baker out of which will come the distribution of rookies to the minors.

NEW ORLEANS. — If Tommy Henrich is going to play rightfield for New York Yankees this year he's going to have to look mighty good. George (Twinkle Toes) Selkirk, who has been suffering a cold, was back in shape yesterday, and Manager Joe McCarthy put him right back in the starting lineup. The Huntsville-born player gave a polished performance in the outfield and scored four runs against Tallahassee, Fla.

TAMPA, Fla. — Ready to start their northward trek in the company of Cincinnati Reds, Boston Red Sox bosses are overjoyed by the strength shown by their pitchers. Dennis Galehouse and Herb Hash were especially impressive in a six-hit sting yesterday and Dom DiMaggio also looked good in his first action since hurting a leg.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg is good and sore at having his name linked with this and that romance, and the press agents can take that or leave it... When his ball playing days are over Pepper Martin will run for sheriff in his home county down in Oklahoma.. Old Jack Johnson, the ex-heavyweight champ, who'll be 62 tomorrow, has had to cancel his personal appearance tour of Australia and New Zealand because of the war...The golf pros gave three cheers when they learned the big Canadian tournaments would not be called off on account of the war. Some of them mean real dough.

The big gamblers at Agua Caliente took such a man-sized licking on the Santa Anita Handicap they have voted against operating a Kentucky Derby book. . . The Fenway Park facelifting job is now finished in Boston and the right field wall in Williamsburg," patrolled by Ted Williams, is 20 feet nearer the plate ...Jack Dempsey and Jimmy Bronson, two of the top guys in the fight business, haven't spoken for 20 years.

Dempsey blames Bronson for starting the slacker charges that harried him during his early championship days. Naturally Bronson denies it and, good sport that he is, adds: "Jack must be a great fellow or everyone wouldn't say that he is."...Joe Cronin has assigned to Prof. Moe Berg, the brain truster, the task of rooming with and chaperoning young Dominic DiMaggio.

Today's Guest Star:

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Bill Terry says the Giants can't honestly be picked to win the National League pennant this year .. and for once the New York baseball writers agree with him."

PETES COP FIRST GAME OF O.H.A. FINALS FROM KITCHENER, 6 TO 4

Local Puck Squad Earns Victory Over Speedy Greenshirts In Lively Match On Soft Ice

Slogging their way through the slush at the Brock St. rink last night before a fair-sized crowd, the Petes captured the first game of the three-in-five O.H.A. intermediate "A" final series from Kitchener Greenshirts by a 6-4 score. The second game is Monday in Kitchener, and the Petes in all likelihood will have to take their next home game away.

Mild weather kept the crowd down to little better than half the turnout expected and turned the ice into a wet, sticky mess all the way. This cut passing plays down considerably caused rolling pucks and slowed the game up. It kept up at a fairly lively rate most of the route and was always close and exciting—but neither team could show its best hockey under the circumstances.

The Petes earned the win handily and looked several goals better than the Greenshirts—minus Lederman, ace defenceman—on the night's play. The Buckland bunch had a big margin in the first frame, held their own through the second and looked a bit better in the third. The score was 3-1 in the first for the Petes and 5-4 for them heading into the third chukker. It was clean all the way with each side drawing but two penalties.

Petes' Strategy

It appeared in the initial inning as if the local squad's strategy was to cash in on heavy ice by ganging up and peppering the visiting goalie—banking on their speed and a sticky puck to catch any breakaways. It worked fine and they had a good edge through the first. But in the second heat, the Greenshirts adopted these tactics and for half the frame carried the play. Later it evened up and was a close-checking affair from then on, the speedy Petes having a slight margin.

Picking individual stars in a glorified shinny match is almost an impossibility—all the players working hard and none going his best in the slush. Heal, Coughlin and Starr were each in on two goals to lead the home scorers, but the whole gang kept battling in a winning cause. The first line of the locals built up some nice scoring opportunities but did not cash in on them, while both defence pairs worked hard and Goalie Harding had to be good various times to keep the scrappy 'Shirts out. The visiting first line carried the load for Kitchener with Fehrenbach a consistent star on the second setup, and his line buddies close behind. Goalie Bindernagel turned in a swell performance and kept down the score with repeated grand saves.

Petes Have Edge

Early in the first, a Heal-Gardner rush came close and the Petes' first line tore in for a couple of tries as the Petes took the initiative and began ganging up. Smith made a good try for the visitors and then Kitchener scored with Grau rapping it home on passes from Bauer and Vrooman in close on a semi-breakaway before the locals could get turned around to back-check properly. Tompkins and Coughlin in turn pulled dangerous dashes and, when Fehrenbach went off for tripping Starr, the locals swarmed in and notched a tally, Heal scoring on Ellis' passout after a nice rush by Jim. Coughlin, with all back, checked at centre ice and recovered to stickhandle his way in smartly and give the goalie no chance on the shot. Kingdon and Tompkins almost got another as the Petes kept pressing and just before the finish, Starr's shot from the side glanced in off the goalie to make it 3-1.

It was sticky going and mostly shinny in the close-checking second chukker with the Petes having a slight edge but both side in turn ganging up. Tompkins nearly got one and then Fehrenbach took Smith's pass in a close-in scramble to counter. Kitchener had four and five up and got another when Lang scored from Fehrenbach and Smith in close. A Tompkins-Kingdon drive almost netted the disc and then Starr rapped a nice one into the hemp, with Coughlin and Crowe aiding inside defence. Ellis was gated for tripping and, with five 'Shirts up the ice, Kingdon broke away fast to score a smart goal with a little backhand shot. They kept pressing till Ellis returned and a Coughlin-Blewett thrust threatened Bingernagel. A little later, Fehrenbach checked and recovered at the Petes' blue line to sail in unmolested and bang the rubber into the twine. J. Jopling went off with a cut on the face, and then Lang and Tompkins were chased for roughing it up gently.

Shinny in Third.

It was strictly shinny in the third period with both sides checking closely and both goalies kicking out some dangerous shots. Heal and Kingdom teamed up to threaten early and later a Coughlin-J. Jopling try nearly fooled Bindernagel. The Greenshirts soon began sending four and five up and dominated play for a time, but the Petes kept tearing back up the ice on rushes. Blewett was dazed when he banged into the post after a swell rush and Starr came close on a clean breakaway. The Petes were firing more shots on the net and looked the better team, but the visitors kept battling and were always dangerous. A Heal-Gardner try was close and Bingernagel kept booting them aside. Harding came out to save one and play shifted up and down, with a lot of off-side whistles in the mucky going. Five of the 'Shirts ganged up the last five minutes and made it plenty warm for the Petes, but the locals scored the only goal—and it was not on a breakaway—of the period when Heal took Tompkins' pass in close and smashed the black cook into the cord just two minutes before the lively finish.

The teams:

Kichener: Goal, Bindernagel; defence, Simon and Hause; centre, Bauer; wings, Grau and Vrooman; alternates, Fehrenbach, Smith, Lang, Clair and Lorentz.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Ellis and Gardner; centre, Kingdon; wings, Heal and Tompkins; alternates, F. Jopling, Crowe, J. Jopling, Coughlin, Blewett and Starr.

Five Real Blows Are Enough To K.O. Paychek

By OROLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Mr. Editor—you might as well keep in type that headline, "Joe Louis Wins." It looks as if there'll be plenty more opportunities to use it.

The brown bomber still is champion of the world with no indication he'll have the crown knocked from his brow by the present crop of heavyweights. He disposed of the Johnny Paycheck threat, if it might be signified by that name, 44 seconds after the start of the second round in Madison Square Garden last night.

That pile-driving right that lifted the 25-year-old Iowan off his feet and sent him to the canvas left promoter Michael Strauss Jacobs and 11,620 fans asking themselves—"who's next?"

Louis has had shorter fights, but even he refused to admit his first round knockouts of Max Schmeling, John Henry Lewis and Jack Roper were any easier. The bomber swung just five real blows. Four of them he used in flooring Paycheck three times, each for the count of nine, in the first round. The fifth finished the fight.

Only Hit One Real Blow

The only blow Paycheck struck was a looping right which grazed the champion's chin after Johnny was down for the second time.

The Des Moines fiddler was pale at the start, he was white as a sheet after feeling the power of the right that sent him down for the first count of nine. He told referee Arthur Donovan he was okay after going down the second and third times. In the dressing rooms later, he said he didn't know a thing after Joe connected with his first right—much less the instructions that Benny Leonard gave him between rounds.

"No, I wasn't afraid," said Johnny, "but I was a little nervous. That final blow! Let me tell you, that was about the damndest feeling I ever had."

As for champion Joe, he was so unruffled that he even considered not taking a shower. His chief thought was to catch the 11.45 p.m. train for the west. He did, with plenty of time to spare.

Rangers Hopeful Of Beating Boston Bruins

By SYDNEY GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 30—(CP)—Amidst a mounting wave of optimism, Lester Patrick warned today that the very things pointing to the immediate overthrow of Boston Bruins, the National Hockey League and Stanley Cup champions, are what might carry the Bruins through against great odds.

Patrick was the most cautious of all the Rangers who, generally, predicted openly they would beat the Bruins here tonight and qualify to meet Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup final. Leading three games to two, the Rangers need only one more victory to beat a badly-battered Bruin club.

"Don't forget those fellows will be desperate tonight," said Patrick, a great believer in a team having the right "psychological attitude" for a game. "They'll be short three or four regulars, so they'll fight that much harder. They'll be inspired too, because they know they can't afford to lose this one.

"Remember what the Americans did to Detroit with only 12 men, and these Bruins aren't as old or slow as the Americans."

2 to 1 Favorites

Surveying the long list of Bruin casualties, the Ranger fans and the betting men refused to be even slightly disturbed by Patrick's reasoning. They made the Blueshirts 2-to-1 favorites to win tonight, and backed their odds by pointing out the Bruins have been shutout in their last three starts here and haven't won a game against the Rangers in New York all season.

Art Ross, Boston manager tempered his defiance of the Ranger claims with the unhappy realization that Dit Clapper, his captain and ace defenceman, Dess Smith, Art Jackson and Mel Hill, all regulars, probably will be unable to play tonight. They are suffering a variety of leg injuries received in the first five games of the best-of-seven cup semi-final.

It seemed probable that Ross could not dress more than 12 players, with Terry Reardon of the International-American League Hershey Bears replacing Jackson as centre between Herbie Cain and Eddie Wiseman. Twelve players against a "hot" Ranger club, which has 16 fit and ready, didn't augur well for Boston's chances.

Tommies Give French Farmers a Hand To Alleviate Shortage of Labor

With so many of the men of the French peasantry at the front, there is a severe shortage of labor on the French farms. With a view toward alleviating the plight of their Allies, these British soldiers are lending a hand. The women of the farms know what is to be done and it is under their direction that these Tommies, armed with pitchforks, are sallying forth to attack a farm job.

Medical Unit Gets Special Course To Care For Battle Plane Crews

OTTAWA, March 30 — (CP). — Men in white from quiet hospital wards are being trained here to look after the health of the Empire's boys in blue who fly the roaring battle planes.

They are doctors of the first medical unit to be attached to the Royal Canadian Air Force and the British Commonwealth air training plan. Their instructions will equip them to meet health problems created by high altitudes and the terrific speed of new fighting aircraft.

Twenty young medicos from many parts of Canada will study a special syllabus of aviation medicine to help maintain physical well-being of the airmen of Canada and the other dominions who will train in this country.

The Air Force medical unit remains connected with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps but its doctors will be assigned to depots, air training stations, schools and recruiting centres and also will serve with R.C.A.F. squadrons when they go into action in Europe.

Previously all medical work in Canada for the Air Force was handled by army doctors, who had no special knowledge of aviation problems. The new unit was necessitated by expansion of the R.C.A.F. and the air training plan.

The first group is receiving elementary military training at Lansdown Park military camp and later will take instruction in air force organization as well as medical studies. They have been posted as second lieutenants and later will be appointed captains.

Twenty more doctors will start training here soon and new groups will be brought into the scheme as the air training scheme gains momentum.

Officials at National Defence headquarters believe this new development marks the first time in the history of military flying in the Empire that an air force has had a specially-trained medical unit assigned to it.

Most of the doctors are young and unmarried, some have just completed their internship while others are experienced specialists in various branches of medical science.

Hunt Sex Maniac In Girl's Death

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 30 —(AP).—Plodding through rain and fog, state motor police today searched for a blood-stained automobile they believe will lead them to the sex-maniac who brutally beat to death 17-year-old Rachael Taylor.

Staying up until almost dawn and renewing their quest after a few hours sleep, the troopers headed by the state police commissioner, Col. Lynn Adams, minutely examined more than 900 cars without finding the one they sought.

Two other clues—a blood-stained man's handkerchief and casts of footprints found near the handkerchief—were turned over to laboratory experts.

Police were working on the theory that she had been forced into the killer's car early yesterday soon after she returned by bus from an Easter vacation in her Wildwood, N.J. home.

Boy Burglar Trapped By Hidden Camera

When a burglar alarm sounded in the office of Paul Cunze, theatre manager, of Plymouth, Mass., the janitor rushed upstairs only to find the intruder gone. There was a graphic record of intruder's presence, however, in the form of his self-made portrait. Film from cunningly devised camera trap, which set off a flash bulb and rang a buzzer when disturbed, was developed and above photo resulted. Paul J. Dupuis, 18, allegedly confessed when confronted with the picture.

The devotional convener, Mrs. Carmen Payne, opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Chas. Hunter. An interesting talk taken from the study book on Freedom and entitled "Ghandi and His Spinning Wheel" was given by Mrs. Erskine.

During the business period the president, Mrs. S. Trylls, presided. Twenty-two members answered the roll call.

Plans were made to have a quilting at the home of the president Tuesday, April 2. This is the quilt which the members have been working on and which is being donated to the local Red Cross Society.

The members were asked to answer the roll call at the next meeting with a verse from the Book of Proverbs.

Following the meeting lunch was served and a pleasant social hour spent.

180 Aircrafters Finish Course

GALT, Ont., March 30—(CP). — Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting officers from Toronto and Hamilton today were completing the enrollment of the first graduates of the Galt Aircraft School. The graduating class numbered 180.

These students came here in September last. In addition, more than a hundred youths were registered in trade courses at the school, welding and sheet-metal work. Those in the latter class are also graduating but the welders will not go out for another week. Graduation exercises were expected to be held later this afternoon.

The new class for the school is slated to report here on April 7. The Galt class is the first under the Dominion Provincial youth training project to complete its course and be sent to the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. James Doupe observed their eleventh wedding anniversary Thursday, March 28, at their home. Supper guests with Mr. and Mrs. Doupe and family were Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks, son Fred, and their niece, Joan Scott, of Hastings. The occasion marked a double event as Mrs. Brooks' birthday was the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thain and son, Lynn of Warkworth, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gummer and Lloyd of Norham were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Thain. Bobbie Thain returned home with them after spending the Easter holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thain.

School re-opens Monday after the Easter recess.

Snow banks are fast vanishing, patches of grass can be seen in some places and road conditions on concession lines are bad for traffic. The main Trent channel is flowing free of ice.

The flags that adorn the uniform of William Cawthra are there to inform foreigners that this interpreter of the London transport service speaks the languages of the countries represented by the flags. Among his flags is the German Swastika emblem, and sometimes Interpreter Cawthra is embarrassed no end when the London street Arabs call him 'Itler. An old lady recently told Cawthra that he ought to be ashamed of himself for wearing such a flag.

Once In Charge Yukon Force Of The Mounties

VANCOUVER, March 30.—(CP). —Major A. E. Snyder, 79, elderly member of the old Northwest Mounted Police, who once commanded the entire force in the Yukon Territory, died at his home here Thursday.

Born in Peterborough son of William Snyder, a pioneer lumberman of that area, Major Snyder joined the force in 1885 and saw duty in several prairie districts. In 1899 he accompanied the Treaty Commission which visited the Peace River district, to arrange a treaty with Indians of that region.

He was a senior major with Lord Strathcona Horse in the South African war and following his return to Canada was made superintendent of the Whitehorse, Y.T., division of the Mounted Police, becoming officer commanding the Yukon division in 1910.

After his retirement in 1912 Major Snyder served some years with the Attorney General's Department of Saskatchewan, then came here to retire.

Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. T. M. Spiers, of Mexico City, and a brother, James Snyder of Saskatoon.

A son was killed in the First Great War.

Second Offender Is Fined $50

The aftermath of a wine party Friday was staged in police court this morning when three local men faced liquor charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C.

One of them, Ross Curtain, pleaded guilty as a second offender to illegal consumption of liquor and was fined $50 and $4.50 costs or a month in jail.

Two others, one of whom pleaded guilty to being drunk and the other to a charge of illegally consuming were fined $15 and $4.50 costs or 15 days in jail.

All three entered not guilty pleas first but when they found they were going to be remanded, instead of getting an adjournment they changed their plea to guilty.

A fourth youth who pleaded not guilty to a drunk charge was remanded until Monday.

Fathers' Night Is Big Success

Seventy members of the Friday Night Club and thirty-one fathers sat down together last night to enjoy the annual Fathers' Night program. W. E. Gordon of Toronto, vice-president and general manager of Purity Bakeries, was the speaker for the occasion, and made a powerful address based on his Canada-wide experience in work with young men over the last eleven years' period. Mr. Gordon said that the problems of Canada could be solved by courageous thinking on the part of individual citizens, including young men and older men—individual self-discipline and a high ideal. The speaker's message was a challenge to all those who heard him and was one of the finest the Club has been privileged to hear. A. K. Bunnell introduced the speaker. The thanks of those present was expressed by W. L. Ferguson. G. D. Carlisle led the singing. Chairman H. L. Garner presided.

Allies Purchase Billion U.S. Goods, 4 Months

NEW YORK, Mar. 30 —(AP). — Purchases by the Allies in the United States have been far greater than export figures indicate, Standard Statistics Company stated today in a special survey.

A study of Allied bank balances, security sales and gold shipments here indicates, the survey said, that the Allies used about $1,000,000,000 for purchases here during the first four months of the war. In that period, export figures showed that only $476,000,000 worth of United States goods passed into Allied hands.

The remaining balance, the survey claimed, must have represented deposits against unfilled orders and advances to manufacturers to finance plant expansion. It said in part:

"The failure of exports to the Allies to spurt suddenly to a high level since last summer is no indication that they will not move higher in coming months, or even that Allied spending has been small to date. Most of the equipment and supplies purchased requires months to produce. Orders have been much higher than the export figures indicate.

"Large advances have been made to machine tool, aircraft, and other manufacturers against these orders as a guarantee of acceptance and in order to aid in meeting costs of plant expansion and material purchases. These sums are already helping to stimulate business activity in this country."

The survey also stated that the Allies had sufficient resources to finance purchases in this country on a large scale for several years, but that since loans were not available as in the last war there would probably be some tendency to conserve purchasing power here.

SPRING ADVANCING.

The water line up and down past McDonald's Point had expanded broadly this morning, and along the ice edge scores of gulls were standing around looking at the water, and occasionally taking off up stream. Winter's advanced lines were definitely receding in the lake and river.

RUSH FOR LICENSES.

Hundreds of bright new yellow license plates were being passed out to automobile owners today. They had ignored the slogan of come early and avoid the ruch, and the city folks who had put off buying the new markers were joined this morning by some of the neighbors from the country who managed to get it to town.

ATTENDED EXECUTIVE MEETING

Senator J. J. Duffus was in Toronto on Friday attending an executive meeting of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association in preparation for the international ploughing match on the farm of Premier Hepburn, Elgin County, Oct. 15, 16, 17, 18 next. While in Toronto, Mr. Duffus was advised that he had been elected director of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture.

LOSES "TWO BITS" BET.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., lost a twenty-five cent bet with his young niece yesterday. When he made it some time ago it looked like one of those sure things. For the last two years Mr. Huycke had noticed that some of the Snowdrops in his flower garden were in bud on March 20, and on the strength of that inside information he expected as winter seemed to be breaking up early, that the Snowdrops would burgeon on schedule. But, he did not reason with the snow storm on Good Friday, and so his niece collects "two bits."

Dr. L. A. Clarke Recommended As City M.O.H.

The appointment of Dr. L. A. Clarke of Toronto, as acting medical officer of health during the absence on active service of Dr. Murray Fraser will be recommended to the city council by the Board of Health as the result of a resolution moved by Mayor James Hamilton and seconded by Ald. W. G. Ovens and passed at a special meeting of the Board Friday afternoon.

The resolution set forth that Dr. Clarke is to be paid at the rate of $3,000 a year and that the expenses of his moving to Peterborough, not to exceed $125, are also to be assumed by the city.

In addition being named officer of health, Dr. Clarke is also designated as city physician and hospital officer.

Chairman Ald. James Dutton explained that the appointment as hospital officer is made possible by a recent amendment to the public health act, and that it would give the medical officer of health more authority.

Bill North Monaghan.

The Board decided to bill the township of North Monaghan for the hospitalization of a child from that township who had to be taken to the isolation hospital, suffering from spinal meningitis.

Ernest Braund applied for permission to keep two small pigs in the feed warehouse at the rear of his store for six weeks or two months for a feed demonstration, promising the Board that the greatest care would be taken to keep the premises in as sanitary a condition as possible.

Although the members of the Board expressed themselves as anxious to assist Mr. Braund in his demonstration, the unanimous opinion was that the by-law prohibited pigs from being kept near dwelling places in the city limits and that to grant the request would be to create a precedent.

Five hundred thousand additional gardens will be planted in England this year.

Major A. E. Snyder, Peterborough Boy, Dies At Coast

Once In Charge Yukon Force Of The Mounties

VANCOUVER, March 30.—(CP).—Major A. E. Snyder, 79, elderly member of the old Northwest Mounted Police, who once commanded the entire force in the Yukon Territory, died at his home here Thursday.

Born in Peterborough son of William Snyder, a pioneer lumberman of that area, Major Snyder joined the force in 1885 and saw duty in several prairie districts. In 1899 he accompanied the Treaty Commission which visited the Peace River district, to arrange a treaty with Indians of that region.

He was a senior major with Lord Strathcona Horse in the South African war and following his return to Canada was made superintendent of the Whitehorse, Y.T., division of the Mounted Police, becoming officer commanding the Yukon division in 1910.

After his retirement in 1912 Major Snyder served some years with the Attorney General's Department of Saskatchewan, then came here to retire.

Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. T. M. Spiers, of Mexico City, and a brother, James Snyder of Saskatoon.

A son was killed in the First Great War.

Second Offender Is Fined $50

The aftermath of a wine party Friday was staged in police court this morning when three local men faced liquor charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C.

One of them, Ross Curtain, pleaded guilty as a second offender to illegal consumption of liquor and was fined $50 and $4.50 costs or a month in jail.

Two others, one of whom pleaded guilty to being drunk and the other to a charge of illegally consuming were fined $15 and $4.50 costs or 15 days in jail.

All three entered not guilty pleas first but when they found they were going to be remanded, instead of getting an adjournment they changed their plea to guilty.

A fourth youth who pleaded not guilty to a drunk charge was remanded until Monday.

Fathers' Night Is Big Success

Seventy members of the Friday Night Club and thirty-one fathers sat down together last night to enjoy the annual Fathers' Night program. W. E. Gordon of Toronto, vice-president and general manager of Purity Bakeries, was the speaker for the occasion, and made a powerful address based on his Canada-wide experience in work with young men over the last eleven years' period. Mr. Gordon said that the problems of Canada could be solved by courageous thinking on the part of individual citizens, including young men and older men—individual self-discipline and a high ideal. The speaker's message was a challenge to all those who heard him and was one of the finest the Club has been privileged to hear. A. K. Bunnell introduced the speaker. The thanks of those present was expressed by W. L. Ferguson. G. D. Carlisle led the singing. Chairman H. L. Garner presided.

FASHIONS

Here is a new pocket suit chic enough for the best dressed woman ....practical enough for the careerist. The longer length jacket does things for your figure and the large "cash and carry" pockets add the new touch that you want. A flared skirt with an air all its own is grand to wear with sweaters and blouses in town or for country weekends. Herringbone tweed or smooth woollen are both perfect foils for these well designed lines. A hat to match or contrast is a smart touch that shows you are up on fashions.

Style No. 3235 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 54-inch material for suit, with 1½ yards of 39-inch lining for jacket.

Hat No. 3214 is designed for one size, adaptable to any headsize, and must be ordered separately.

We Noticed

...There is a festive gaiety in the Spring and Summer trend that is quite the opposite of grotesque. It is the gaiety and charm of the unsophisticated—an attempt at a return to "hearts and flowers."

...This mood is expressed also in jewelry. Lockets, hearts, chains and crosses are delighting the young. There is also the ecclesiastic note in hats and neck details as well as jewels. Anklets are worn again and huge bracelets with heart-shaped tags to bear the monogram of both the girl and her "heart-throb."

...Lapel gadgets continue to intrigue. There is no end to the invention and details of these clever little "conversation pieces"; nautical, with every part of a ship's equipment—steering gear, pilot house, bells, sails, entire sail boats, lanterns, etc.; airplane propellers, wings and little complete airships.

Grease spots on wall paper may be removed with a paste made of cornstarch and a cleaning fluid such as carbon tetrachloride. Spread the paste over the spots and leave until it dries and falls off. Several applications may be needed.

Apple peel rubbed on verdigris stains on brass or copper will remove them; the article should then be rubbed with a clean duster.

A flannel dipped in olive oil and rubbed well over pewter articles (afterwards cleaning with a soft duster) will give a lustrous polish.

Artists Booked By Peterborough Concert Association

Under the presidency of Dr. J. J. Craig, the Peterborough Canadian Concert Association has become one of the most important music groups in Canada. Following a most successful season, the announcement is made of the selection of four outstanding attractions for next season. These include The Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers under the direction of Serge Jaroff, LOWER RIGHT; Poldi Mildner, LOWER LEFT, world-famous pianist; Roland Gundry, UPPER LEFT, celebrated young violinist, and Margit Boker, UPPER RIGHT, internationally-known dramatic soprano. The Cossack Chorus, which is composed of white Russians who left their native land in 1918, never to return, are scheduled to appear here on October 16th, and the dates for the remaining artists are now being definitely arranged.

Don Cossack Chorus Headlines 1941 Concert Program

The finest program line-up yet achieved by the Peterborough Concert Association has been announced for next season. Members will be thrilled with the opportunity of hearing and seeing the famous Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, which it is possible to include in the Peterborough series because the Association is able to give this company of 36 several engagements en route. Considered the world's greatest singing ensemble, this unique group has given over 4,000 concerts in 16 years around the world. It is composed of White Russians who fled in 1918, never to return.

Poldi Mildner, pianist, needs little introduction because of her recent successes in Eaton Auditorium, Toronto. A world famous virtuoso who plays like a debutante, she has given hundreds of concerts in Austria, Holland, Germany, France, Switzerland and England and appeared with distinction with great symphony orchestras.

The Association is proud of the privilege of presenting Markit Bokor, a dramatic soprano whose appearance here next winter should, alone, attract a capacity membership in this city. A master linguist, she sings in English, French, Italian, Spanish, German and Hungarian—and is equally "at home" in each. Her program will have a strong appeal to Peterborough members.

Presented, also, will be Roland Gundry, one of the most important of the younger violinists now appearing on the concert stage. His brilliant New York debut took the critics by surprise, and in their various newspapers they vied with each other in showering him with eulogies and predicting an extraordinary future for him. Mr. Gundry was born in France of American parentage, and in 1936 made his debut in Paris.

Comedy Players Present Play "Hay Fever"

A group of talented artists whose ambition is to make Canada "theatre conscious" because they believe no country can be truly great without art, are the Comedy Theatre Players who presented Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" before an exceptionally responsive audience Friday night in the Collegiate Auditorium under the auspices of the Nurses' Alumnae Association of St. Joseph's Hospital.

During an interview with Arden Kaye, who played an exceptionally fine character part as Judith Bliss, it was discovered that the Comedy Theatre Players are also the Repertoire Company of Toronto, and are on a return trip from Kingston and Brockville, where their presentation was received with enthusiasm.

All members of the cast are experienced players with the exception of Marie Fowler, who played "Clara" the maid with an ability that shows marked talent for character parts. Arden Kaye has played leads for several seasons at Hart House, Toronto, last season appearing in Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth, The Queen." She has toured the United States, and was one of four Hart House players chosen by a Hollywood talent scout. An exceptionally versatile player, Miss Kaye has appeared in roles as a 101 year old woman and a child of 14. Marjorie Frith, who played "Sorel Bliss" is excellent in ingenue parts; John Hayes, "Simon Bliss," who takes juvenile roles, has played with English companies, and is the son of George Hayes, who was "Hamlet" in the Stratford-on-Avon Company, England, and is now directing pictures at Elstree, London, England.

Dudley Doughty, who gave an excellent performance as David Bliss, is an experienced character player. Very versatile is Mack Inglis, who took the part of "Sandy Tyrell," and plays straight of character parts with equal ease. His pantomime work in last night's performance was outstanding, particularly during the breakfast scene where he is suddenly afflicted with "hiccoughs." Margaret Davies was cool and sophisticated as "Myra Arundel;" Brent Hartwood, who appeared as "Richard Breatham," is an experienced character player, and the acting of Pauline Jones, a junior player, was commendable in the role of Jackie Conyton.

Melville Keay directed the comedy, assisted by Mr. R. Quarrington, long experienced in the theatre both here and in the United States.

There is very little plot to the play, which is an amusing story of the Bliss family, who like to entertain their friends separately and more or less ignore their own household. However, the fun comes in when each member of the family invites a guest, who arrive on the same week-end. General consternation reigns, with everybody falling in and out of love. Becoming weary of the theatrical atmosphere created by the mother, who used to be a glamorous actress and still pines for the stage, and the father, who is a novelist, the guests finally fade quietly out of the picture while a rousing family argument is in progress.

Strangers More Congenial Than Relatives Are In Home. Too Much In-Law Invariably Leads to Trouble—Today's Letter Box.

Dear Dorothy Dix— Mrs. A., left a widow in her late forties with a child to support, got a job and has since been living with an old friend with whom she shares housekeeping expenses. Both women needed help financially. But the arrangement has only been moderately successful, as living together has meant making many adjustments. Now, Mrs. A.'s father is old and he needs the support that she could give him much more than the friend does, but Mrs. A. refuses to go to live with her father because she objected to his second marriage. But, after all, he is her father and her child's grandfather, and why should it be harder for them to adapt themselves to his household than where they are now living? Why should Mrs. A. give financial assistance to a stranger and have her father have complete strangers come in and live with him? Don't our obligations begin at home? Why should people find it easier to live with strangers than with relatives? Why can't the slogan be: "If we can't get along with our family we can't get along with strangers"?

MRS. E. C.

ANSWER:

Because it isn't true that it is as easy to get along with our families as it is with strangers. It requires a thousand times as much tact, patience, self-abnegation and amiability to live in peace with our blood and kin — as the children say — as it does with anybody else in the world. And the reason for this is very plain.

It is because the members of a family do not feel that they are called upon to use any of the amenities of civilization in dealing with each other. Even common politeness is an outmoded virtue in most households. Parents and children trample roughshod over each other's sensibilities. Brothers and sisters hurl insults at each other that they would not at their dearest enemies. There is no privacy, no respect for individual rights, no softening of criticisms, and the most selfish and the most brutal one grabs the best of everything.

This is not because the members of a family do not love each other for a general thing they do, as even those who quarrel most violently stand by each other in time of trouble. The friction is just because they do not take the trouble or think it worth while to use any diplomacy in handling each other. But this is why families break up and why children go to live among strangers, who do not feel free to pry into their affairs, regulate their conduct and tell them of their faults.

In cases where parents need the board money of some one to support the home it is far better for them to take in strangers when

Robert Spence Re-elected Head Of Y.P.U.

Robert Spence was elected president of the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union for the second consecutive term at Knox United Church Friday when the Spring Convention was held. Few changes were made in the slate of officers from last year but some delay was occasioned when opposition was taken to the election methods.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Young objected to the report of the nominating committee when it was introduced by the chairman Rev. G. F. Kelly of Lakefield. Dr. Young pointed out that two names should be submitted for each office by the committee instead of one, the same as is done in other presbyteries. The usual procedure is for the report of the nominating committee to be presented and then more nominations are asked for from the floor. Very rarely though is the nominating committee report changed.

The objection caused considerable dircussion and a compromise was reached when all agreed the report should be posted on the bulletin board until after the banquet in the evening. During the interim any delegate could add the names of any prospective officers. Then again after the banquet when the report was read again the delegates were asked for further nominations. There were no changes from the original report and the complete slate is as follows:

Hon.-Pres., Rev. A. L. Sisco, Millbrook; Past Pres., Bruce Dawson, Millbrook; Pres. Robert Spence, Lakefield; Secretary, Phyllis Webster, Peterborough Trinity; Treasurer, Dorothy Ridyard, Peterborough St. Andrews. Conveners are as follows: Fellowship, Laura Metcalfe, Norwood; Missions, Jean Hammond, George street, Peterborough; Culture, Olive Bell, Fairview; Citizenship, Irvine McIntosh, Springville; Recreation, Loretto McDougall, George street; Dramatics, Ferne Armstrong, Fairview; Leadership Training, Bruce Dawson, Millbrook; Boys' Work, Ted Gall, Keene; Girls' Work, Frances Clark, St. Andrews; Publications, Gladys Gerrard, Knox Peterborough. District conveners are Carman Metcalfe, Hastings; Dorothy Smith, George St., Peterborough; Carman Bell, Fairview; Vance Wilson, Yelverton.

Advisory Committee — Esther Thornton and Vera Squire, George street; Fred Barnard, Bailleboro; Rev. C. H. Ferguson, Bethany and Rev. G. F. Kelly, Lakefield.

In Tie For Attendance

Hastings and Keene groups tied for the attendance banner and each will hold it for six months. Bethany had the honor last year but blocked roads kept attendance down yesterday.

Keene Y.P.U. was responsible for the Worship service during the afternoon session and those taking part were Ted Gall, Don Murray, Agnes Weir, Thelma Hope and Kenneth Murray.

The highlight of the afternoon session was a presbytery semi-final debate on the subject. "Resolved that our present practise of Christmas giving should be abolished." The Bensfort team of Gomer Robinson and Marie Van Allen on the affirmative side won the debate. Laura Metcalfe and Dave McNeill of Norwood opposed them. Judges were Rev. George Murray, Keene; Rev. J. A. Glover, Hastings, and S. S. Brechin, principal of Norwood High School.

Twelve debating units entered the contest last November and all have been eliminated except George street team and Bensfort who now meet on April 23rd in a title joust.

Living Creatively

Rev. A. McLaughlin, Havelock led one discussion group during the afternoon when he spoke on "Living Creatively" and he based his talk on the books of the same name by Kirby Page. The gist of the theme was as follows: "To the extent that a man subordinates his desire for personal comforts and privileges to

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys, filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over a century the favorite remedy. 103 their children marry than it is for John and Mary to bring home their wife and husband and try living with the old people.

Mother and Father would respect the rights of strangers to their individual lives, and they wouldn't dream of telling Mrs. Jones that she gadded too much and played too much bridge and bought too many clothes; nor would they nag Mr. Smith about his smoking or his lodges or the time he came home last night, as they do their in-laws.

So I think that if Mrs. A. goes to live with her father, from whom she is already estranged, and with a stepmother whom she resents there will be nothing but trouble all around. Father will start bossing daughter just where he left off twenty years ago. There will be a row over everything the adolescent granddaughter does and doesn't do, and there will be no happiness for any one. So the remedy for the situation is for the old couple to take in people they don't know to live with them.

The Mexicans have a proverb that says: "Strangers' bread makes polite children." That goes just as well for grownups.

More Than Friendship

Dear Dorothy Dix—Is it possible for a woman to find happiness and contentment married to a man who does not love her? If he is kind and generous, a good provider and fond of his home and children, should this be sufficient? D.E.S.

ANSWER:

I should say that whether a woman could find happiness and contentment in such a marriage would depend altogether upon how much she loved the man. If she had only a lukewarm affection for him, she could be satisfied with the loaves and fishes he provided. But if she loved him deeply and passionately, she could never be content just with physical comforts. She would go hungering and thirsting for the love she did not get.

All the same, it is not to be doubted that a woman can build a very satisfactory house of happiness on friendship and that if she is married to a man whom she respects and who is kind and generous to her, who is what is called a good family man and who can give her comforts and luxuries, she can have a far more peaceful time than do her sisters who marry great lovers who can only give them bread and cheese and kisses. For romance peters out. But the establishment lasts.

In the countries in which the marriage of convenience is the rule divorces are far less common than in this country, where the emotional marriage prevails.

a vigorous endeavor to create the attitude, establish the practises and build the institutions of the new society, he will find himself creatively."

Rev. F. W. Craik, of Peterborough took the subject "Living Adventureously". He described incidents in the lives of four great christians, Kagava of Japan, D. L. Moody, the evangelist, William Booth of the Salvation Army and Wilfred Grenfell of Labrador, to show the spirit of romance in Christ living.

Rev. Clarence Ferguson of Bethany had for his subject, "Good Neighbors". "A good neighbor is one who responds with action to the need of another said Mr. Ferguson and he quoted the parable of the Good Samaritan. "The church is in a better position than any other medium to correct its condition, namely war and hostility between neighbors, because it is the one world wide institution with a common aim, namely the building of a kingdom according to God's will.

Following the banquet in the evening the delegates adjourned to the church auditorium to hear an address by the Rev. C. G. Park, M.A. of Whitby United Church. Mr. Park took as his theme "Christ in Me" and said in part. The significance of Easter and the Resurrection is that Christ who had been embodied in the son of Mary was alive again to become embodied in every human heart which would grant him room.

Campbellford High School Board May Add Commercial Training

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 30 — (ENS).— Commercial training may be added to the curriculum of the Campbellford High School, it was revealed at a meeting of the Board of Education when several members expressed the opinion that omission of bookkeping and typing was inflicting a serious handicap on many of the students. Chairman A. G. Thompson suggested that the Board take up the matter with Principal E. H. Greig with a view to making necessary arrangements to include the course by the beginning of the fall term.

"I don't think any member of the Board would favor adding another teacher," said Mr. Thompson, saying that it might be possible to rearrange the present staff in such a way that a qualified teacher could be included without increasing the present staff.

"Many pupils are facing the world with a very serious handicap since no matter what profession or business they enter they need to know something about bookkeeping," said Dr. Richardson, adding that every pupil should study it for at least one year.

On motion of W. R. Loucks and F. C. Bonnycastle the matter was left with the Internal Committee to bring in a report at the next meeting.

Manual Training.

Continuing his fight for the inclusion of manual training course in the Public School which he has been urging for the past year and a half, Dr. Richardson told members he had again taken the matter up with the inspector and believed it would be possible to include the course without adding another teacher. Grants for equipment would be the same as those paid to the High School and if the equipment was given a Grade I. rating an additional grant of $300 per year would be paid to the Board. He requested that some action be taken pointing out the advantages the course would afford to many pupils who would probably never reach High School. It was pointed out that if home economics was also added to the course an extra teacher would be required. The matter was tabled for further consideration at the next meeting.

Sports Committee.

As a means of fostering greater interest in sporting activities at the schools, Chairman Thompson recommended the formation of a Sports Committee, comprising members of the Board. He felt such a committee could do much valuable work in creating a greater interest in sports and should be chosen within the next month.

"We've put in the very best equipment and I can't understand why these ropes should be continually breaking," was the comment of W. R. Loucks when it was brought to the Board's attention that a High School student had recently been injured as a rope from which he was swinging in the gymnasium had broken.

It was decided to support a resolution adopted by the Wingham Board of Education asking for a change in the schedule of grants paid on teachers' salaries. The resolution pointed out that there was "manifest unfairness in bracketing centres of just over 2,000 population with those up to 50,000." It was asked that the Department revise Section II. of the grants payable upon teachers' salaries according to the equalized assessment and its relation to the total salaries paid to teachers. The Campbellford Board recommended that the section be changed to read "To villages and towns under 4,000" instead of as at present, "to villages and towns under 2,000."

Don't Let Nervousness Undermine Your Charm

Meet Little Upsets Radiantly

Nervous, high-strung, she can't stand the little upsets of normal life. Her husband brings a friend home for pot luck, a cleaner is late with a dress—and she could scream!

Such extreme edginess is a warning signal. Nerves allowed to become unstrung, raw, may soon make any sort of existence a form of torture.

What is needed often is a change in activity, perhaps in diet. And when nerves are understood life may become pleasant indeed, for the successful neurotic is more colorful, charming than placider types. Upsets, shocks? You take them in your stride once a healthful vitality is gained.

So, if you have strained your nerves by dashing from one thing to another all day, try relaxing and doing nothing. If you work at a desk, play badminton or pingpong in the evening.

And check your diet. Lack of calcium may cause irritability, so drink milk, eat cheese to be sure you get enough of this mineral.

To outwit your "nerves," enjoy life, see our 32-page booklet. A well-known physician explains underlying physical and mental causes of insomnia, fatigue, irritability, other nerve troubles. Gives correct diet, body care.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 31.

Sunday's forecast presages a day of memorable events, with the prospect of the attainment of unusual and outstanding ambitions and desires. These may reach into the fastnesses of spiritual, mystical, romantic and practical life, according to the aspirations and abilities. There may be surprise and unforeseen adventures and experiences.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of unpredictable and unprecedented experiences. There may be sudden change, adventure, romance and thrills, as well as intrigues and strategies. The new and strange in contacts and expression assure some sort of dynamic and far-reaching attainments.

A child born on this day may have such a wide scope of talent and versatility as to attain extraordinary heights of accomplishment, probably in new or radical forms, expression and experience.

For Monday, April 1.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and enterprising day, with affairs moving with drastic force toward the attainment of sound objectives. It is a time for working forcefully and bravely for major projects, despite certain opposition from elders or other forms of determined frustration.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and exciting year, with things moving at quite accelerated tempo, and possibly with some tempest and hostility. The latter may be from elders or a group action of sinister force. But constructive and practical programs win out.

A child born on this day may be bold, audacious, determined and aggressive, with practical creative ability as well as keen insight.

Snowfences Are Of Little Use In Big Storm

ENNISMORE, March 30—(ENS)—A real struggle of man power, snow plows and snow shovels versus snow storms and sweeping gales proved a decided victory in favor of the latter. Since last Wednesday traffic has been almost an impossibility, and day after day endeavors were made to keep roads open, but continued winds undone whatever was accomplished, until finally the work was given up in despair. Not only side roads, which had been kept open all along for car traffic, but also the main highways were filled across from fence to fence. Snow fences were covered from view, as also were many rural mail boxes.

On Tuesday morning fences were thrown down and traffic opened through the fields for horses and sleighs. This is the first time in years that such conditions prevailed along the main thoroughfares and even the older residents cannot recall a storm of such force to continue so long.

Mount Julian

Mr. Donald McIlmoyle from Western Canada, who is now training at Camp Borden, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bronson and other relatives in the Apsley district, during the holiday week-end.

Mrs. Wilfred Farrant of Brampton spent the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Church.

Miss Margaret Smith of Peterborough, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Bronson.

Mr. George Booth from Peterborough spent the holidays at his home here.

Tests Deadly Bomb

While U.S. naval and military experts remained cosily out of the picture, Inventor Lester Barlow is shown setting the charge in his liquid oxygen-carbon bomb preparatory to the demonstration on the proving grounds of the Glenn L. Martin airplane plant in Baltimore. Barlow claims that his bomb is the deadliest yet invented and that it is safer to handle than T.N.T. Pointing out that the bomb spreads death and destruction over a radius of 1,000 feet, Barlow says that enemy warships could be kept 1,000 miles from American shores by proper use of his invention.

Sure Of 33 Seats

EDMONTON, March 30.—(CP)—As results of the March 21 Alberta election continued to trickle in today, Premier Aberhart's Social Credit government was sure of at least 33 seats in the 57-member legislature.

With results in doubt in four ridings and Social Credit candidates leading in all four, the opposition membership included 19 Independents and one Labor man. At dissolution of the last Legislature Feb. 16, Social Credit had a house majority of 32. One of the 63 seats, since reduced by redistribution, was vacant then.

Ladies' Club Of Keene Enjoys Program

KEENE, March 30—(ENS).—Mrs. George Murray was hostess to the Ladies' Club when it met on Wednesday evening with most members present. Two guests, Mrs. Kearney and Mrs. Patcline were welcomed.

Mrs. James McFarlane answered to the roll call by reading a sketch of the life of a noted author, Mrs. Jamieson. Mrs. Earl Doris gave an account of current events. The main program, "Noted Authors," was prepared by Mrs. G. Houle and Mrs. E. Doris.

The authors discussed briefly were Longfellow, Drummond, R. L. Stevenson, Eugene Field, Sir Walter Scott, and Aesop. Brief selections from each of these writers were given. Those assisting the program were Mrs. Wright, Mrs. R. Nelson, Mrs. A. Doris with readings; Miss Bryce and Mrs. F. Eason sang Tennyson's famou, lullaby 'Sweet and Low."

A few contests were conducted after which dainty refreshments were served.

Bancroft

R. Summers and J. Watson of the Lindsay and Cobourg Regiments respectively, were home this week on several days' leave.

The Anglican Church, Bancroft, held its Easter dance Monday evening in the Community Hall immediately following the Liberal rally. Although a small attendance was reported those attending had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Deyell motored to Toronto Tuesday morning accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Maxwell.

Miss Doreen Davidson has been employed in Ellis Mather's restaurant.

Mr. Rork Ferguson of Norwood was in Bancroft Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Palmateer spent the Easter holiday in Trenton, Belleville and Tweed.

● "Long merchandising experience has proved, that of the various mediums used, daily newspaper advertising in our local daily newspaper is certainly the most effective . . . measured by the only thing which counts, the response and sales it produces.

This is because the local daily is devoted to the interest of the community it serves. IN MEMORIAM

DAWSON. — In loving memory of Mother, Father and Brother, who passed away about three years ago now.

Our family circle has been broken,
Three links gone from our chain;
But though we're parted for awhile,
We hope we'll meet again.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day, we know not when,
We shall meet in a Better Land
And never part again.
We shall meet with many a loved one,
That was torn from our embrace,
We shall listen to their voices
And behold them face to face.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Jean and Ruth.

ELLIS.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John Ellis, who passed away March 31, 1939

"Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand,
Your dear kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
—Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

FENNER. — In loving memory of Charles William Fenner, who died March 31, 1935.

We miss you at a thousand turns
Along life's weary way;
Life has not been the same to us
Since you were called away.
Deep in our hearts is a picture
Worth more than silver or gold;
I have a picture of you, dear Daddy,
Whose memories will never grow old.
We mourn for you in the silence unseen,
And dwell in the memories
Of days that have been.
—Sadly missed by his daughter, Jean.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

BY-PRODUCTS VITAL

FINESSES are appealing little devices to manufacture tricks by shutting out hostile honors, but the tricks they produce directly are sometimes of minor importance compared to other considerations. In some situations, a finesse can a build a vital additional entry for you in your own hand or dummy. On other occasions it may result in the complete destruction of communication between the two hands. Many a time the effects of taking the finesse, even if it works, are more important by far than the finesse itself

South proves himself a consummate "hand-hog" with his insistent bidding, but would have made his contract nevertheless by proper play against a lead of the club K. He ruffed it, led to the heart A, negotiated a finesse of the spade Q, played the spade A, then lost to the spade K. East fired back a heart to the K. On the Q one diamond was discarded, but East ruffed the next heart, forcing declarer to over-ruff. Locked in his own hand, he had to lose three diamonds at the end, so was down three.

Had South analyzed a bit, after ruffing the first trick, he would have seen a sure way to make his contract. Let him lead the spade A, then offer spades until East used his K. No matter what East returned, South could win it and run dummy's hearts, making his contract beyond peradventure of a doubt.

Of course, if West originally had led a heart, then East, when in, had led another one, the contract could not have been made; but West did not lead one.

French Poilus Make It Tough For Nazi Tanks

French engineers are shown at work on one of the gigantic ditches they have constructed along the Western front as a barricade against German tanks. The ditches are dug with steep walls that give a tank a drop of about 15 feet and make them easy prey for the anti-tank guns.

Hose, Uniforms Recommended For Purchase

Purchase of hose and uniforms for the fire department was recommended by the fire, water and light committee of the council last night with Alderman McIntyre presiding.

The equipment order was divided as follows: 350 feet of 2½ inch 'Congo" brand hose made by the Bi-Lateral Fire Hose Company of Kitchener, from Campbell and Best at $1.50 a foot; and 350 feet of 2½ inch "Keystone" brand hose, made by the Dominion Rubber Company of Toronto, from the Pratten Hardware, at $1.50 a foot; and 300 feet of 1½ inch hose, "Ajax" brand, made by the Gutta Percha and Rubber Company of Toronto, for the Rogers Oilateria, Simcoe street, at 90 cents a foot.

These orders were recommended in a motion by Alderman Dutton and Alderman Wilson. The committee desired to distribute the business among several firms that had been more or less overlooked in other years.

Charles Schooley's tender for twenty-two uniforms for the men of the fire department was accepted as the lowest at $32.50 a suit, amounting to $175, on Alderman McCannan's motion, seconded by Alderman Wilson.

Only one tender was received for shirts for the firemen. It was from Grafton & Company. Purchase was left to Alderman McIntyre and Chief Gimblett. Each member of the department is supplied with four shirts.

Schools Advised To Go Cannily

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP). — Due to uncertainty regarding financial demands likely to be made on the province and municipalities, Dr. Duncan McArthur, Ontario Deputy Minister of Education, has warned the Ontario Educational Association to exercise care before deciding on capital expenditures during the war.

In an address to the Association yesterday he suggested that schools would be wise to get along with existing buildings and equipment, rather than burden municipalities with additional debts.

"No one can yet foresee the extent to which property in this province will become liable for the cost of participating in the war and that will be the first charge upon all of us," he said.

Discussing commitments already made by the Department of Education for schools and equipment, Dr. McArthur said: "The department may have to defer, or to make over a two-year period, the payment which ordinarily would be made in this fiscal year." He said that a service could be rendered students of languages if the study of foreign languages was made optional rather than compulsory. He suggested admission to university be granted for passing in one language, rather than two. He was doubtful of the preservation of the cultural views of the humanities by compelling students to study them.

Britain's Flying Big-Game Hunters

Typical of the men who man the guns in Britain's big bombing planes, the kind that raided Germany's Sylt naval and air base last week, are these youths. They are carefully selected and receive special training in aerial gunnery. Their job is to protect the bombers from attack by fighting planes.

Adam Is Now Blamed For The First Sin Of The World

KANSAS CITY, March 30—(AP). —All blame for the first sin of the world is shifted to Adam, and Eve is exonerated in the revised catechism soon to be released for use in parochial schools.

This precept is in accordance with orthodox Catholic teaching, said Rev. Francis J. Connell of New York in explaining the revisions today to the National Catholic Education Association convention. Heretofore, Adam and Eve were blamed jointly for disobedience of God's command when they partook of the fruit of the tree of life, of knowledge of good and evil in the Garden of Eden.

The revised catechism, drafted by a committee headed by Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of the Kansas City diocese, simplifies much of the language and some theological points in the Baltimore catechism which has been in use 55 years.

Simpler phrases are offered as substitutes for "duly authorized priest," "prompted by grace," and "enliven our devotion."

The new catechism also contains information about St. Joseph as well as the Virgin Mary, and warns against sinfulness of suicide and drunkenness. Obligations of citizens and civil officials to their country also are emphasized.

The theory of "progressive education' was described as an heresy by Rev. George Johnson of Washington, Secretary-General of the association. That theory, he declared, although it contains a kernel of truth, denies the supernatural and is based on false naturalism.

tional Steamships, Limited. Later it was purchased by the Clarke Company.

The Prince Robert and Prince David, with which the Prince Henry was operated on the west coast by C.N. Steamships, are being converted into armed merchant cruisers, the War Supply Board has announced. The three vessels for several years were in the triangle service between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle.

The Prince Robert, on the Alaskan route recently, is being converted at Vancouver at a cost of $600,000, and the Prince David, which has been laid up at Halifax after a West Indies accident, is being converted at Halifax for $535,000.

After the Prince Henry was bought by the Clarke Company it was put on the St. Lawrence-Labrador run and latterly was a cruise ship out of Atlantic ports to the West Indies.

Each vessel has a gross tonnage of 6,892 tons, length of 366 feet, beam of about 57 feet, with a 27-foot draught and speed around 23 knot. They are steel ships, built by Cammell, Laird & Company, Limited, of Birkenhead, England.

MORE ABOUT—

Merchants

Now merchants are saying they should not be required to pay until raids start causing damage, since premiums are accumulating in the national treasury at a great rate.

Lord Dudley Gordon, president-elect of the Federation of British Industries, asked that premium accumulation be limited; he said it was a disguised taxation and caused price increases.

Risks Greater Now

However, the President of the Board of Trade, Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, told the House of Commons, March 6, that the rates would remain unchanged because of "the increased risk of serious air raids" during the Spring.

About 100 regular insurance companies are agents for the Government program.

February estimates said there was about £16,000,000 in the insurance fund, and that only £5,000 had been paid out in benefits.

Only exemptions from the plan are raw iron and steel, stone and quarry products, agricultural products, radium because it can be guarded in bomb-proof vaults, jewellery and a few similar items. Jewellery is exempted either because it is indestructible or because it currently has little sale value, and insurance would work hardship on dealers.

The insurance covers not only city stores but cargoes in coastwise ships and coastal businesses that might be damaged by mines.

Other shipping is covered by a separate insurance plan arranged by shippers on a co-operative basis.

Householders are not included in the air raid insurance and usually obtain such protection from mutual organizations operating under government supervision.

Dealers figure insurance premiums on the average weekly or monthly sine of their stock.

The rate is unvarying—the same for a rural shopkeeper 50 miles from any military objective as it is for the man doing business next door to a munitions factory.

Starks Honored By Cavan Friends

CAVAN, March 30—(ENS). — On Thursday evening a number of friends and neighbors of Miss Helen and Mr. William Stark gathered at their farm home on the Eighth Line of Cavan to do honor to them prior to their moving to their new home in Bethany. The Starks are retiring from the farm on which they have lived for many years since moving from their home in Clarke township.

The evening was pleasantly passed in the playing of progressive euchre and chinese checkers. Toward the midnight hour, the guests of honor were invited to take a central seat while Emery Smith read an address appreciative of their neighborliness and hospitality, as well as of their sterling qualities as citizens.

Carl Porteous made the presentation of a tri-light reading lamp. The recipients made suitable reply, and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" was heartily sung.

A bountiful lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served by the ladies.

Madoc Motorist Fined for Zig-Zag

TWEED, March 30.— (ENS).— L. Hart, Madoc, appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in police court, charged on March 24 with driving a car in a reckless manner. Constable J. Clare Hayes met the accused driving a damaged car on Highway 37 with both doors open. The accused claimed that his zig-zag driving was due to the icy and drifted road conditions, and also due to the fact tha he was handicapped by only having one arm. The magistrate did not see Hart's viewpoint, and the constable believed there was evidence of alcohol. The magistrate dismissed the alcohol evidence, but fined the accused $14.00 with the alternative of fourteen days in county gaol. The fine was paid.

L. Weymark, of the village of Havelock, appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in local court, charged with obtaining service to his car at Breen's service station, to the extent of $7.10 and leaving the scene in his car without intention to pay for the repairs. The accused had several previous convictions including gross indecency, and attempted burglary. The accused was given two months in the county gaol, while his father made restitution of the outstanding account to Mr. Breen.

The frame dwelling owned and occupied by Walter Sheffield, situated about a mile east of Corbyville, was entirely destroyed by fire on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Sheffield was the only member of the family at home at the time and he was at the barn when by chance he discovered that the fire had started. A car was passing at the time, and help was summoned. Neighbors rapidly responded, but their efforts were useless as the fire in the frame building had gained rapid headway, and the building was destroyed. Some of the household effects were saved.

Death Steps In

GRIMSBY, Ont., March 30 — (CP) Hovering between life and death for almost nine months, Raymond Allen, 16-year-old Grimsby boy, died last night as the result of what police say was a self-inflicted bullet wound from his own small calibre rifle.

The bullet entered his left breast and lodged in the spine in such a position that doctors were unable to remove it. He was partially paralyzed as a result of the spine injury.

Y.P.U. Of Millbrook Has Mission Meet

MILLBROOK, March 30—(ENS) —The missionary committee, under Phyllis Kidd, convener, had charge of the Young People's Union on Tuesday at 8 p.m., the worship period having an Easter character under the caption, "Jesus, my Saviour." Assisting the leader, who read the poem, "Lo, I am with you alway," were Bea McDowell, who gave "The Old Rugged Cross," Mary Burnham who read, "This I have done for you, says Christ,' 'and Leitha Edworthy, who sang "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."

The talk on "What have you done for me?" was taken by the president, B. B. Dawson, after which the business was conducted, and the meeting closed with appropriate Easter hymns and the Benediction. April 12 has been set as the date for the one-act comedy "Rooting for Ruth,' 'and a number of the young people will attend the Spring Presbytery convention in Knox Church, Peterborough, on Friday, March 29, for which there are to be three sessions, with ten cents as the registration fee per delegate for the day.

Russian sources in the United Kingdom, meanwhile, stressed that Russia was not bound to Germany as a nally, either by political or military obligations, and wanted to improve her trade and friendly relations with Britain.

The transfer yesterday of two detained Russian freighters from British to French custody, however, put increasing strain on relations between London anw Moscow, and informed British sources reflected scepticism of any assurance might give that supplie from Britain would n many.

U.K. Taking Firm Stand.

Although Soviet sources said Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky had assured Lord Halifax, British Foreign Secretary, that the two vessels' cargoes were intended for Russia, and not for export to Germany, some diplomatic circles said Britain apparently was determined to be "firm" with Russia.

Of Molotoff's complaint that the Allies' attitude is "hostile," the Daily Telegraph commented:

"Refusal of a special licence to the Soviet to break the Allied blockade and to meddle in the domestic affairs of France is not hostility, and Molotoff soon slid away from such awkwardly definite words to injured innocence at suspicion that Russia had been sending Germany supplies.

The Daily Herald declared the Allies were "not trying to pick a quarrel" with Russia but said, "Their relations with Moscow can hardly become completely friendly again until the Soviet Government makes it quite plain, beyond any possibility of doubt or misunderstanding, that Russia is no longer to be regarded as an ally of Germany."

No Cutting Of Education Grants In War Time Urged

TORONTO, March 30 — (CP). — Delegates attending the Ontario Educational Associatio nhere Friday weighed the possible effects of the war on education in the province.

J. Ferris David of Ingersoll, Ont., president of the organization, placed the matter squarely before the delegates in his presidential address Thursday by demanding that war expenditures must not be permitted to curtail government expenditures for education in the Dominion.

Funds were appropriated for military needs when war was declared although previously it had been said that there was no money for schools, he said. "Now with steadily mounting war disbursements, the cry has arisen 'cut educational costs'." This must not be permitted to happen, he added.

Ontario education depart... estimates were reduced ... this year ... to ...

...ation should be prepared to tighten their belts and watch every expenditure most carefully."

Age Limit To Stand

Dr. Simpson also told the convention that the provincial government has no intention of reducing the age at which pupils must attend school, from 16 to 14.

Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University, told the college and secondary department of the O.E.A. that universities have a right to expect secondary schools to apply a technique that did not put a premium on mere assimilation when intelligence was supposed to be under test.

The course of studies for the upper schools in the province will be revised shortly and the changes will be presented to teachers for the criticisms, Dr. Duncan McArthur, Deputy Minister of Education, announced to the Ontario second School Headmasters' Association. His department felt that previously too great emphasis had been placed on final examinations and teachers will be asked to use their judgment more on the record of students during the year.

Sterilization of feeble-minded was condemned by Rev. Henri Saint-Denis, professor of general biology and philosophy at the University of Ottawa, who said that the same results could be obtained from segregation.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anaemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature, together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system, strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

PowerGuards To Stay At Key Plants

Small Centre Must Pay Own Expense If Watch Maintained

OTTAWA, April 1 (CP)—The decision of the Ontario cabinet to remove anti-sabotage guards on minor hydro-electric transformers is purely a provincial matter and does not mean guard duties of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and guards under their control are to be relaxed in any way, Commissioner S. T. Wood said Sunday.

The commissioner said he had no information on Ontario's decision, but he pointed out the provincial guards had been assigned to protect hydro property owned by the provincial government.

R.C.M.P. guard duty is being maintained as usual, Col. Wood declared. Only changes were confined to minor adjustment of guard duties among the various agencies responsible.

On Saturday, following a decision reached at a meeting of the Ontario cabinet, provincial police guards were withdrawn from "minor transformer" stations throughout the province. The meeting Friday decided to maintain guards during wartime only on major generating plants and transformer stations. Municipalities, however, are free to guard whatever plants they desire at their own expense.

An official said that the change was "minds" and that guards remain about main stations such as Queenston, Niagara Falls and Leaside, suburban Toronto town.

Ontario's Usual Floodways Remain Quiet

TORONTO, April 1—(CP)—Spring freshets flowed over many secondary roads throughout Ontario today but no threat of any serious flood damage was seen. Most ice-bound waterways have shown no signs of a breakup despite a week-end of mild weather and sunny skies.

Flood threats of Western Ontario, the Thames and Grand Rivers remained frozen and lower temperatures overnight eased the thaw and a too-fast runoff of water.

Throughout the Grand River district indications were that the 1940 runoff will be mild. Much of the remaining snow of winter melted yesterday.

Some districts reported that rivers were open but said that the ice had not started to move. In other areas, many country side roads remained snowbound.

Near-freezing temperatures overnight halted Beaver Creek flood waters in the Thoroid district and today the creek almost was normal. More than 100 residents, isolated by the rising water for several hours last night, were fearful, however, that the warm temperature will send

Post-War World

Toronto, April 1 (CP)

FREDERICK T. BIRCHALL, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, advocated in an address to the Canadian Club of Toronto today that the post-war world be "initially an Anglo-Saxon dominated world" and then a free or democratic world.

"I thoroughly agree that the immediate business in hand is to defeat dictatorship, to eliminate from the world the demands of brute force," he said. "We have first to beat Hitler and destroy his war machine."

Canuck Ace Hero Of Drama High Over Berlin

LONDON, April 1 (CP Cable)—A drama of the clouds above Berlin featuring a six-foot Canadian and his amazing stamina was revealed by his wing commander today.

"I never thought anyone could do what that great big tough Canadian did," declared the Wing Commander, a veteran of the last war with two rows of ribbons on his tunic.

This is his story: The first night of the Royal Air Force pamphlet raid over Berlin last October the Canadian was navigating a leading plane at 22,000 feet. Despite the high alttitude, oxygen tubes were not used. At that height the slightest physical movement involves supreme exertion.

The navigator went back to the centre gun turret where he found the gunner unconscious from lack of oxygen. He crawled into the turret, picked up the gunner and lifted him to the floor of the fuselage.

Meanwhile the wing commander, who was the pilot, saw something was wrong. He found the Canadian in the turret bailing out bricks of pamphets, the gunner lying on the fuselage floor and the rear gunner sealed in his turret by ice.

For 25 minutes the navigator tossed out pamphlets while the plane was brought down to 9,000 feet to free the rear gunner and enable the crew to breathe.

When the last pamphlet was thrown overboard the navigator collapsed and was viloently ill, but even so he set course for the plane's home base in Britain.

Subsequently the Canadian poked his head against a revolving propellor. He is now in hospital injured, but with a good chance of recovery.

U.S. Floods Take Lives Of Ten

NEW YORK, April 1 — (AP). — Widely-separated sections of the United States were inundated today by spring floods which took ten lives, but clearing skies and cooler temperatures for the most part gave promise of early relief.

Central and Eastern Pennsylvania cities along the Susquehana, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers were hardest hit and crests well above flood stage were expected during the day.

South Central New York state rivers—principally the Susquehanna and Chenango—spilled from their banks melting snow and rains, forcing hundreds of families from their homes and blocking roads. Colder weather, however, promises to halt the rises.

Allies' Ore Blockade To Be Kept In Law, Says Expert

LONDON, April 1.—(CP).— Reports that Britain might "enter into or police neutral territorial waters" are wrong according to the diplomatic correspondent of Reuters News Agency.

"In regard to reports in various newspapers to-day, that the allies are about to amplify their blockade of Germany," he wrote, "Reuters diplomatic correspondent is informed that, insofar as these reports suggest that Great Britain might enter into or police neutral territorial waters or undertake any extreme or illegal action of such a kind, the reports can be flatly denied.

"It may well be that a great intensification of the blockade is about to begin, but specific plans are the province of the allied cabinets or the Supreme War Council, which have not yet divulged them. In advance of Mr. Chamberlain's speech in the House of Commons to-morrow, sensational predictions may be discounted."

The reports referred to chiefly concerned expected efforts to stop sea shipments of Swedish iron ore to Germany through Norwegian waters. In this connection the Press Association received from authoritative Norwegian sources a statement intended to show that Britain obtains Swedish ore in the same way as Germany, and that Norway has not exceeded its rights or duties as a non-belligerent power. The statement follows: :

Tallying Starts On Vote Cast By Troops

OTTAWA, April 1.—(CP).— Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, marshalled his staff of tabulators and checkers to-day for final tallying of the active service vote cast in the Dominion election.

Results of these votes, cast in 968 ballot boxes in the week preceding last Tuesday's civilian voting that returned the King Government to power, will be made known to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

If all active service men exercised their franchise the tabulators will have to handle totals aggregating some 90,000 votes, a figure which can have but little bearing on the huge government majority in the civilian polling.

Here and there, however, candidates who gained slim civilian majorities may find themselves unseated by the active service vote totals to be sent returning officers of all ridings but Three Rivers, Que. Re-

Broadcast World Will End At 3 p.m. Proves Stunt, But Scares Thousands

PHILADELPHIA, April 1 (AP)—An announcement that "the world will end at 3 p.m. EST., Monday, April 1," released by the Franklin Institute's director of publicity and broadcast over a local radio station sent thousands of frightened Philadelphians hurrying to their telephones for additional details last night.

Newspapers, police stations and the city's information bureau were deluged with calls. The information bureau estimated it handled 4,000 calls itself.

The announcement, read after a radio program which featured the name of Orson Welles, of Martian invasion fame, and a discussion of the possible end of the world, said:—

"Your worst fears that the world will end are confirmed by astronomers of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

"Scientists predict that the world will end at 3 p.m. EST. ,tomorrow.

"This is no April Fool joke. Confirmation can be obtained from Wagner Schlesinger, director of the Fels Planetarium of this city."

Then the radio station checked the story and broadcast an explanation.

It said the announcement was a publicity stunt conceived by William A. A. Castellini, public director of the institute, to arouse interest in the opening of a show at the Planetarium. Castellini said later he had told "some of the people" at the radio station about the announcement and "thought they would know it was a stunt."

Castellini explained Welles and Benny had no knowledge of the stunt. He said he heard the Benny program and thought it a good chance to get some publicity for the Planetarium.

Christian Social Council Chief Quits "6 Years Work With Churches In Vain"

TORONTO, April 1—(CP).—Expressing the belief his work of the past six years has been "in vain," Rev. C. E. Silcox has resigned as executive secretary of the Christian Social Council of Canada. This was announced today prior to a meeting of the representatives of the various religious bodies associated with the Council to discuss future policies of the organization.

Dr. Silcox leaves his post April 15. He is to be paid $1,000 in three instalments—May 15, June 15 and July 15, or earlier if possible.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Silcox says he feels his efforts have been in vain. "Since I have failed to convince the churches of the outstanding importance of a common front on the social questions of the day."

Dr. Silcox said: "In view of the inherent difficulty of securing financial support for the Christian Social Council of Canada during wartime, I herewith tender my resignation as general secretary, to take effect June 30. Inasmuch as during the nearly six years I have been general secretary I have been unable to take any vacation, due to the continual difficulty of securing the necessary funds, I should be glad to be relieved of all further responsibility for the Council at the earliest possible date, and not later than April 15, in order that I may devote my time to the somewhat difficult task of finding other remunerative work.

"I tender this resignation in the realization that the churches cannot, under existing circumstances, see their way clear to continue the work on the present basis. But I do so with a great sense of personal disappointment, since I am convinced that such co-operative work, pushed vigorously and intelligently, was never more necessary. It is, however, impossible to carry on such work if it is done half-heartedly or without adequate support."

France Rations Food Offers Prizes For More Babies

PARIS, April 1—(AP)—Premier Paul Reynaud outlined in a two-hour cabinet meeting today new Allied war decisions generally interpreted as signifying a bolder policy toward the Scandinavian and Balkan countries, in an effort to strengthen the anti-German blockade.

Reynaud, who is waging a personal fight to retain the office he won recently by slim parliamentary approval, also disclosed new measures for combatting "Communist and Hitlerian intrigue" within the nation.

The cabinet met as the government moved to put into effect a three-point program to reinforce France's domestic security by issuing food and fuel ration cards, stimulating the birth rate with subsidies, and trying to double the 500,000 women at work in war industries.

A statement issued after the cabinet session said in part:

All In A Day's Work

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—(AP). — Revocation of Bertrand Russell's appointment to the college of the City of New York on the moral grounds was described by the white-haired British philosopher to-day as "all in a day's work"

The pipe-smoking University of California professor ventured a gentle reproof against Episcopal Bishop William T Manning of New York.

"I am not interested in sex as is Bishop Manning, who is greatly concerned with it," said the philosopher.

"Sex is only a small part of what I have written. Bishop Manning and his supporters have noticed only this part. They don't notice that almost all my writing has been on other subjects."

Orgy Of Murders Stirs Judge 'Gangs Must Go'

NEW YORK, April 1—(AP). — Judge Franklin Taylor, addressing a special grand jury which will hear evidence amassed in the investigation of Brooklyn's grisly "Murder, Inc.," today assailed what he described as "this orgy of assassination," and declared:

"The skull-and-crossbones ensign of the underworld must come down."

Voicing his belief that wholesale murder was not peculiar to Brooklyn but existed in many cities, Judge Taylor said:

"For many years organized gangsterism has made murder a business. Pistols and machine guns have done their work and defied the law and its penalties. Murder has been so expertly arranged as to baffle successful prosecution.

"Citizens have been taken for a ride and their lifeless bodies, riddled with lead, have been dumped in the streets. Others have been shot from speeding automobiles.

"This orgy of assassination has been carried to summer resorts, where mute evidences of tragedy have been concealed in lake and forest.

U.S. Pacific Fleet At War Games

SAN PEDRO, Calif., April 1. — (AP).—All of the realism of war that can be invoked in time of peace marks the movements and operations of the United States fleet today and for the next seven weeks. The grand manoeuvres of 1940 are under way.

Utmost vigilance against spies, sabotage, mines in harbor channels, submarines lurking offshore and safeguards against air attacks prevail at the San Pedro, San Diego and Hawaiian bases of the fleet. From some of these bases fighting ships are moving to sea. Identity of the ships is one of the tasks of the fleet officers to keep secret.

Midnight was the zero hour for the start of formation at sea of two opposing fleets, the White and the Black, which are to fight out during the next eight or ten days the first of three major phases of the manoeuvres.

Raid On Scotland Is Beaten Off, Dornier Disabled

LONDON, April 1—(CP). — Crucial developments in the Allies' economic war against Germany are expected this week by diplomatic circles as British envoys in the Balkans hurry home for consultations and Parliament prepares to reconvene after the Easter recess.

Informed quarters, assuming that the diplomats had been recalled to discuss means of strengthening the Allies' position in the southeast and tightening their blockade of the Reich, attached significance to the fact that a Rumanian trade delegation was expected to arrive in London at about the same time.

To Address Commons

Some indication of how far Britain and France intend to go in strengthening the blockade is expected tomorrow, when Parliament meets to hear Prime Minister Chamberlain's report on the meeting of the Allied War Council here last Thursday.

Many observers accepted as a hint of stronger measures the speech delivered Saturday by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, who warned Germany's neighbors that the Allies are unwilling to accept "interpretations of neutrality which give all the advantages to the aggressor."

United Church Mourns Dr. T. A. Moore

TORONTO, April 1.—(CP)— The United Church of Canada today mourned the death of Rt. Rev. T. Albert Moore, outstanding social reformer and one of the fathers of the United Church.

Dr. Moore died yesterday at his home near Toronto in his 80th year, ending a career which carried him to the highest office in the United Church—moderator of general council. He had been ill 18 months, dating from a heart attack suffered in the maritime provinces.

As secretary of the Methodist committee on church union, Dr. Moore was one of those who welded the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist Churches in Canada in 1925. He was then appointed secretary of the General Council of the United Church, one of its most important executive offices.

Tributes from many parts of the Dominion were evoked by Dr. Moore's passing. At Ottawa, the present moderator of the United Church, Rt. Rev. J. W. Woodside said: "The United Church honored herself by crowning his career in

NEW YORK, April 1—(AP). — Another idle American ship, a veteran of typhoon, earthquake, fire, plague, piracy, smuggling, strikes and war, is about to begin life anew. She is the 12,594-ton President Lincoln of the American President Lines (formerly the Dollar Line) and she will return to the seas to meet the urgent demand for more tonnage—a demand caused by the destruction of 500 neutral and belligerent ships in the war.

Considered obsolete, she was laid up in San Francisco two years ago after 16 exciting years of carrying passengers and Oriental cargoes to the Pacific Coast.

Recently her owners asked permission of the Maritime Commission to sell her to Berge Y Companis Nacional. As the Commission already has granted permission for the sale of more than 156 United States vessels it appears likely that the ship will [illegible] her American flag for the Spanish ensign.

Built in 1921 at Camden, N.J., and christened the Hoosier State, the 51-foot Lincoln became the "adventure ship" of the Dollar fleet plying between Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Manila and the West Coast.

A year after her launching she was tied up at Hong Kong by a strike of her Chinese crew. A Filipino crew, rushed from Manila, settled the problem then. Years later, United States seamen supplanted the Chinese tars.

The Lincoln steamed right into the big Japanese earthquake in 1923 and her crew aided stricken Japanese at Yokohama.

A group of Orientals in San Francisco's Chinatown got her into into trouble in May, 1925, when they attempted to send arms and muni-

Roaring Flames Outrun 2 Torchmen Firing Benzine-Soaked Columbus

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1 (AP)—Crew members of the scuttled German liner Columbus in a story published today in the San Francisco Chronicle told of flooding the ship with Benzine to the extent that a premature spark "would have killed us all."

The story, told by men now at Angel Island Immigration Station here, explained why two of the Columbus' crew of 580 men died. They were torchmen who "did not make it" to the lifeboats when the order came to fire the benzine.

The crew had been instructed what to do should the scuttling alarm be given. The alarm came December 19, when a British destroyer ordered the Columbus to stop. The paper quoted one crew member:

"All of us ran to our posts and began pouring thousands of gallons of benzine over every inch of the top five decks. Before we had finished we were wading in Benzine.

"One spark would have killed us all, but we prayed there would be no spark. Within 10 minutes the ship was soaking in benzin . We poured the last few gallons over the floor of the main dining salon and then got into lifeboats, which had been swinging in readiness from their davits for two days.

"At a signal, torchmen lit the lower decks. Two of them did not make it back to the lifeboats. The Captain made sure the ship was burning, threw the last torch onto the main deck and then lowered himself to his motor boat.

"In five minutes the ship was afire from end to end."

The newspaper's unnamed informants said crew members lost all possessions they could not carry in

Soviet Makes Karelia New Republic

Huge Defence Budget Sets Record; Build New Railways

MOSCOW, April 1 — (AP). — A record defence budget totalling 57,000,000,000 rubles (about $11,400,000,000) awaited approval to-day by Russia's parliament, the Supreme Soviet, which yesterday incorporated into the U.S.S.R. the territory which the Red army won from Finland in a bitter, 105-day war.

The defence appropriation, announced by Finance Commissar A. G. Zvereff to an applauding Sunday session of the legislative body, exceeds by 16,115,000,000 rubles the amount appropriated for the same purpose last year.

The item was one of the largest single appropriations in the 1940 national budget, which anticipates revenues of 182,600,000,000 rubles for all purposes.

(The nominal value of the ruble is 20 cents, but the currency is not quoted in regular foreign exchange. Therefore there is no basis for an accurate conversion of the ruble in terms of the dollar.)

Approximately 13,900 square miles are included in the territory won from Finland which Parliament incorporated as the 12th Republic in the Soviet Union, under the name of the Karelo-Finnish Soviet Socialist Republic.

tions to revolutionists in strife-torn Shanghai. Federal agents raided the ship and found thousands of dollars' worth of sub-machine guns and other equipment hidden in oil barrels.

The following September saw her running into a cholera epidemic in Japan and when crew members fell victims she was held in port.

A shipment of "11 dead men" in November of 1925 resulted in the discovery of a ring of "wealthy merchants" who smuggled Chinese into San Francisco at $1,100 a man.

Immigration agents at Honolulu had been advised that she carried aliens when she slipped into that port and they searched the ship from boat deck to the bilges.

They were about to give up when an agent stumbled against a coffin and knocked off its lid. A squealing Chinese jumped out and 10 other coffins gave up live occupants.

In 1927 the Lincoln nosed into Shanghai during the Nationalist revolution that was to put Chiang Kai-Shek into power. Piracy was rampant and warring factors peppered her with shots at her anchorage in the Whangpoo River. The line considered arming her but things quieted down before action was taken.

A severe typhoon almost sank the Lincoln in 1928 and in April, 1929, meningitis ravaged the ship, killing three crew member and afflicting 16 others.

A mysterious fire that caused suspicion of sabotage raged through her holds, June 7, 1934, while she was at sea but her crew extinguished it.

In 1937, risking Japanese air raids that razed Shanghai and plunked tons of bombs into the Whangpoo, the Lincoln ferried hundreds of frightened Americans and Europeans from Shanghai to Hong Kong and Manila, steaming back and forth as fast as her aging engines would take her.

Her presence at Shanghai on August 28, 1937, saved 160 Americans who fled the city in a tender when Chinese land forces waged a furious battle with Japanese planes.

Her potential owners haven't said what trade they plan to sail her in, but ot probably will be exciting because her battered prow seems to hunt adventure.

Campbellford Buys Power From Hydro

CAMPBELLFORD, April 1 (ENS) — Campbellford is finally using power supplied by the H.E.P.C. The corporation owned power plant has been shut down while repairs are made to Lock 14 and as debris is at present being removed from the lock it was necessary to divert the water from the sluiceway leading into the Campbellford plant. In the meantime with no water to turn the generators the local commission is being supplied with power through the courtesy of the Hydro.

Moira Still Icebound.

In the Belleville district of Eastern Ontario, the Moira River remained icebound with no immediate danger of a flood. A considerable quantity of snow remains in northern sections, however, and residents fear that a warm rain would bring flood conditions.

Melting ice and snow caused some flooding of cellars in Brockville during the week-end and breakup of ice in the St. Lawrence River, opposite the town, began at noon Sunday. The river ice is the heaviest seen in many years at this date.

Peterborough district reported melting snow and ice but no danger of floods.

Throughout Georgian Bay, residents who battled 10-foot snowdrifts a week ago, saw fields and roads flooded during the week-end. Dirt roads were impassable in some sections.

Two teen-aged youths were credited with shortening duration of flood conditions when the Etobicoke Creek in suburban Toronto broke up Sunday.

George Durance and Corky Ferguson clambered over an ice barrier and loosened the pack with poles. They ran to safety when the ice pack began moving. Previously, the blocked ice caused overflows to a depth of from one to two feet. The water receded when the channel was cleared.

Judge Taylor praised the driving energies of District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Kings County, by whose efforts, he said, "we seem at last to be getting somewhere."

O'Dwyer will ask the grand jury to indict members of a murder-for-hire syndicate which he holds responsible for more than 30 killings.

Coincidently, O'Dwyer disclosed that one of the alleged Leaders of Murder, Inc., threatened at the outset of the investigation to strew corpses "all over Brooklyn" as the gang's answer.

O'Dwyer quoted Harry (Happy) Maione, the asserted co-leader of the Maione-Abe (Kid Twist) Reles mob, as boasting:

permission to send warships through the Dardenelles in an effort to halt Russian deliveries of oil to Germany across the Black Sea and through Rumania.

It was noted, however, that no one said Turkey would not give this permission later, and it was felt that Turkey, friendly to the Allies, might let Allied vessels through the narrow deathtrap, merely by doing nothing to prevent it.

At any rate it seemed the Allies' main concern now was to tighten the blockade. Its weakest points are along the Norwegian coast and in the Black Sea. It appears already to have been strengthened in the Pacific where Russian ships have been attempting to carry Mexican goods to Vladivostok for transshipment overland to Germany.

One of Europe's doubtful situations appeared clearer when Russian Premier Molotoff asserted before the Supreme Soviet Friday that Russia did not want to take part in the war and that she had no intention of regaining her lost province of Bessarabia by fighting Rumania.

That assurance was probably of some comfort to Berlin because, if Russia fought Rumania, the Allies could go to Rumania's help and flank the Reich in the southeast where there is no westwall to protect it.

FAMILY TYPES AT FAIR

NEW YORK—(CP). — About 50 "typical American families" will live in the World's Fair as guests of the fair this summer. The families will be selected through newspaper contests and will live in the "Town of Tomorrow."

Peterboro Area Has Squadron Of Frontiersmen

A new organization sprang into being here Saturday night—a civil organization wearing a glittering military uniform and pledged to the cause of assisting military and police authorities in time of emergency. It was Squadron E of the Canadian Order of Frontiersmen, and it members will be Peterborough men. It was intimated that Lt.-Col. Claire Stuart will be commanding officer.

The Peterborough branch was inaugurated at a banquet in the Moose Hall on Saturday night, presided over by Major G. R. N. Collins of Toronto, commanding officer of Ontario Division. He presented membership certificates to some of the 15 members already accepted. Only 16 members have been accepted so far and full complement is more than 100.

Squadrons A and B of Toronto, every man in uniform, were present at the function and attended church service at All Saints' on Sunday morning along with the Peterborough unit and headed by the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers. Returning to the Armouries after the service, they passed in review before Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C., commanding officer of the Prince of Waes Rangers, who afterwards inspected them. Later, Captain H. Geary, V.C., placed a wreath on the cenotaph when the Frontiersmen marched to Confederation Square.

Formed In 1904

An outline of the aims of the Legion of Frontiersmen was given new members at Saturday night's banquet by Major Collins. They are a civil organization, trained along military lines, whose formation was in England in 1904. They have been in unbroken existence in Canada since 1906, and have held a Dominion charter since 1934.

Completely military in outlook, they even have a syllabus of training, must study civil law and police procedure in order to be able to swing in behind the forces of order. Each man must know what to do in the event of any kind of emergency from train wrecks to rioting and disorder.

"Some of you have been out on the big round-up of aliens with the Mounted Police," Major Collins reminded the Toronto squadrons. "You had a lot of fun there, I know, and there's going to be a lot more fun to come." The immediate future may hold many things in store for Frontiersmen, he said. It war comes with Russia, if activity against Germany is intensified, "don't you think for one moment that the aliens in this country are going to remain idle with the liberty they are enjoying here," he declared. He claimed that at the present moment aliens have complete plans for sabotage of Canadian industry, are ready to put into operation when the word is given by their superiors. They will be found in factories, in cities, in towns, and in the country, he said.

Watch Out For Sabotage

He told Frontiersmen to be on the alert for sabotage, and to train themselves to be keen and accurate observers. As instance of the work that is going on, he told of an observation made only a few days ago by a Toronto member of the organization. This member had seen a shadow going back and forth behind a drawn blind one night last week and had watched it until he became convinced that a man behind the window was operating a hand press. "Shortly after nine o'clock this morning (Saturday) we were in the place and we found it very interesting indeed," he said, intimating that Communist literature was being printed there.

Major Collins proposed a toast to the newly formed squadron, wished it success, and adjured them to keep the record of the Frontiersmen's association at its present high mark.

The job of old soldiers now is to show the younger generation the way that lies ahead, Lieut-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne told Frontiersmen in replying to a toast to Canada's Forces. "It is quite possible that every one of you, every one of us all, before this show is over will have our job to do," he said. "The old soldier who knows the game is going to play a very great part in achieving victory." The old soldier must impress on the new the tradition of the British army, for it is that great and honorable tradition that has been largely responsible for British supremacy in war, he said.

Training For Emergency

He saw in organizations such as the Frontiersmen an example to the younger generation because Frontiersmen are training now for an emergency that may arise in the future. Preparatory training is an absolute essential to service, he maintained, and in that outlook the younger generation need an example. "I don't want to criticize the boys of today, but they don't know there's a war on," he said.

Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman, responding to a toast to Canada, scored what he described as the "smug satisfaction" of Canadians, who are living in the finest country in the world but who are not interested enough to protect it. He said there is nothing like the same degree of patriotism evident in this country that there was in 1914. "yet I maintain that the responsibility of the British Empire today is greater than it was in 1914." He said that "unless chaps of our age who went through the last war and who know what a great honor it is to belong to the good old British Empire, show this generation its duty, then I say God help Canada."

"It is our job more than the job of anyone else, to see to it that the traditions of the British Empire are seared into the minds of the oncoming generation." Col. Ackerman asked for more sentiment in Canada "not of the sloppy, but of the practical, kind than has been evident for some time past."

Lt. E. Preston, who organized the Peterborough group, expressed his gratitude to the Toronto squadrons for their presence and to the Peterborough men who had made possible the formation of E squadron.

He Talked——

Lazarus Black, who is shown here, joined the chorus of "singers" to tell police details of activities of the infamous Brooklyn murder syndicate. He is being held in $100,000 bail as a material witness and is alleged to be the "armorer" who controlled the arsenal from which gang killers drew their tools as needed.

from Narvik to Germany since the outbreak of the war has—a salready stated in the British press—been only a fraction of what it was in peace time.

Merely Change Ports.

"The closing of the port of Narvik for the transit of Swedish iron ore would not necessarily entail any essential decrease in the total export of this raw material to Germany, as the greater part of it could be shipped from Lulea and other Swedish ports without necessitating any extension of the capacity of those ports.

"It is estimated that probably more than nine-tenths of the total export of iron ore from Sweden to Germany could be shipped from these ports.

"It should be kept in mind that the transit of Swedish iron ore over Narvik is not only of benefit to Germany. Ore shipped over Narvik goes to Great Britain, and it is interesting to note that shipments of Swedish ore to Great Britain have shown a distinct tendency to increase considerably since December last, when compared with the same period of the years 1939 and 1940.

"Exact figures, according to official Norwegian statistics, are as follows: 1939—Germany, January, 487,890 tons, Great Britain, 67,730; February, Germany, 475,482 tons, Great Britain, 70,234; 1940 — Germany, January, 281,740 tons, Great Britain 148,291; February, Germany, 99,391 tons, Great Britain 131,855.

"When it is contended that the iron ore transport of Germany takes place in Norwegian territorial waters, it is only fair to remember that this equally applies to the shipping of Swedish iron ore via Narvik to Great Britain.

"In allowing this transit traffic irrespective of the destination of individual cargoes of iron ore, Norway adheres strictly to her rights and duties as a non-belligerent Power."

Prices Well Up, Wheat Crop Prospects Poor

CHICAGO, April 1—(AP). — The best spring prices for wheat since 1930, except in 1937, today overshadowed as dismal a set of winter acreage and crop condition figures as experts ever have assembled in estimating the size of the new harvest.

In only two other spring seasons since 1900 has the outlook been poorer. As a result of last fall's drought, the principal trouble zone is in the southwest—Western Kansas and parts of Oklahoma and Texas as well as Nebraska—where the big surplus of hard winter wheat is grown. The soft winter wheat area stretching from Missouri and Iowa to Pennsylvania along the Ohio valley is in much better shape.

Despite this pessimism reflected in reports from thousands of farmers, grain dealers and crop experts, which will form the basis of estimates to be released by statisticians planes returned without a hitch and with valuable results."

(A British report said that a German Dornier bomber was disabled by a British pursuit plane on a North Sea foray and flew away with black smoke streaming from one engine.)

CHUNGKING, April 1 — (CP-Havas). — Continued Chinese reliance on Soviet aid was stressed to-day by General Chiang Kai-Shek at the opening of the People's Political Council session here.

General Chiang said China was stronger than ever, that its policy remained unchanged, and that foreign aid to the Chungking Government was on the increase.

China hopes, he said, that the end of the Soviet-Finnish War will enable the U.S.S.R. to resume collaboration with the Great Powers to re-establish peace in East Asia and throughout the world.

While China's military and financial situation has been improving, he said, Japan's has been going from bad to worse. He claimed the enemy tried first to enlist British and United States sympathy by adopting an anti-Soviet policy and then sought to come to terms with the Soviet Union as a threat to other countries. This manoeuvre, he added, was repudiated by the Soviets.

"Nomads" Slacken Off.

PARIS, April 1 — (AP).—French forces on the Western Front reported to-day that a heavy artillery duel which lasted several days, and was marked by the shifting fire of German "nomad batteries" along a 30-mile front, had subsided.

This morning's High Command communique said, "A quiet night on the whole front."

The let-up in the fire and counter-fire on the Siegfried and Maginot Lines came yesterday to the accompaniment of aerial activity which last night's French communique called "fairly intense."

(The German high command said 25 German and 36 French fighter planes were engaged yesterday in three separate fights, with seven of the Frnch shot down and the German squadrons returning intact to their bases.)

French advices were that there were noe encounters between the rival air forces.

German planes were reported to have attacked an unidentified French warship at sea but, according to the French report, failed to damage it and were driven off by a French coastal patrol squadron.

More Photographing.

Air activity was resumed under clearing skies as intensive artillery bombardments of the last two days came to a close along the Western Front, French military officials reported.

Planes of both sides were in the air over the front lines engaged in photographing defences. Fighting planes protected them. Both French and German observation planes made long distance flights.

The artillery duels, the most violent yet reported on the Western Front, were punctuated by frequent infantry raids, which resulted badly for the French in one instance, military sources admitted to-day.

German shells blasted a small group of French soldiers in an advanced position on Saturday, causing a number of casualties. Several wounded were captured by a German raiding party which had advanced under cover of the artillery fire.

Robin's Carol Ushers In 1st April Day

For the first time this spring, the joyous sound of the robin's carolling accompanied me to work this morning, ushering in the gladsome days of April with its stirring, musical command to 'cheer up! cheer up!"

Sunday was the most "real" spring day we've had yet—a day when one felt like cutting across fields (had they not been so completely filled with snow), or hanging over bridges and watching turbulent rivers rushing beneath.

There is not greater joy, to my mind, than getting out into the country when the buds are swelling in tree and shrub and the grass is greening in sheltered places. Motoring in the country will never bring the respite from dull care that comes when the feet tread the good earth and the wind blows soft and sweet across the land. Spring must be savord—it gives little of its loveliness to those who rush at it furiously and leave in their wake nothing but bewilderment and the stench of gasoline. Earth has virtues which she yields only to those who actually touch her. The wind and the branches make music together only for those who pause in quiet places and listen for the strains.

Another spring is with us, another summer, we hope, before us. Let us use them to the full. The days may come when peace and beauty may be blasted from our world, just as it has been blasted from the world of people as innocent as ourselves. Let us cherish them while we still possess them.

DOROTHY DIX

Egotism in Children Needs to be Controlled Carefully. Guidance Rather Than Scolding Is Best Way to Cure a Little Braggart.

One of the most delicate and difficult problems that confront parents is how to save their children from having inferiority complexes and at the same time prevent them from becoming blatant little egotists who make all with whom they come in contact think that Herod was a much misjudged man and that there is great need for his services in this modern world.

The mother of one of these hot-air bags writes me of her perplexities and asks how she can deflate it to normal size without entirely collapsing it. She says:

"My husband and I are modest people who do not think unduly well of ourselves, so we cannot account for the fact that we have a son who, at the tender age of 9, is so filled with self-conceit that we live in continual apprehension of his exploding. He is one of those pestiferous children who are described as being "fresh." He is one of the fools who walk in where angels fear to tread. He breaks into the conversations of his elders and monopolizes it by telling about what a wonderful baseball player he is.

"He sneers openly at his Grandfather's views as being old-fashioned and only condescends to him when he wants a tip out of him. He wouldn't hesitate to tell Lindberg how to fly a plane, or to advise Mr. Ford about making cars. In a word, he is a self-complacent little braggart and bore.

"We can't bear to think of him growing up into being the stuffed-shirt sort of man, filled with his own importance, whom everybody laughs at and flees from. Yet neither do we want him to be one of the humble chaps who goes out into the garden and eats worms for breakfast. So what we want to know is how to get our little pink balloon out of the stratosphere to somewhere near the earth."

This is a hard question to answer because a certain amount of self-confidence is necessary to the happiness and success of every one, and in trying to curb their children's vanity parents only too often paralyze their energies and kill their ambitions and foredoom them to failure. For it is certain that we can only do as much as we think we can do, and if we have no belief in ourselves we can accomplish nothing.

Undoubtedly, parents put out the fire on many an altar by continually dousing their children's egotism with cold water. Many a man who might have been a figure in the world has lived and died in obscurity because Father and Mother belittled his talents and his efforts when he was a child and told him over and over again how absurd it was for him to think that he could ever be or do the things to which he aspired.

Many a girl has grown up into being an awkward, self-conscious woman instead of a beauty because her mother was always telling her she was too tall or too short, that her feet were too big, her hair too straight, until she got the idea so fixed in her mind that she was homely that she looked the part.

Now, the self-conceited are hard to stand. No one will deny that. No other sound on earth grates on our ears like hearing some one blow his own horn. But somehow those who ballyhoo their own virtues always seem to get somebody to listen to them and believe them and they have the one perfect joy on earth, which is being absolutely satisfied with oneself.

Bliss can go no further than this because if you believe that you are perfectly beautiful, irresistibly attractive, a brilliant wit and universally popular, it is just as good to you as if you really were.

So, all things considered, parents should deal warily with their children's self-esteem and go slow about killing it. If, however, they feel that something should be done to modify Johnny's and Susie's good opinions of themselves, the best method is to send them off to school where youths of their own age will deal with them according to their folly.

Second Woman Has No Place In Home

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think it possible for a man to be passionately in love with one woman and still have a different sort of love for his wife? Here is my situation: I am a married woman with two children and my husband has fallen desperately in love with a young girl who boards with us. She is a nice girl and I am fond of her. We talked the matter over and decided that the thing for her to do was to leave, but my husband was frantic when he heard that. And so she stayed on.

He is happy when the three of us are together. I still love him in spite of all that has happened and at times I feel sorry for him. I care so much for him that I could be satisfied with even a small part of his life. Have been a good wife and mother and he has nothing to complain of about me.

Sometimes I wonder if I am not a coward because I don't take my children and leave, but I haven't any way to support them and he is a good father to them. Besides, as
